Pleasure boats; passenger automobile tires; automobiles, trucks and busses. (Provision is to be made later for quotas on motor vehicles.)

Moving picture projectors, sound equipment, spotlights and similar theatrical equipment, cameras, other than for professional use.

Planks, boards, flooring and veneers. The prohibition covers all kinds of sawn lumber but does not affect logs, unmanufactured timber or bolts for the manufacture of handles, staves, etc. Furniture of all kinds; pianos and organs; dressed furs, fur coats and manufactures of fur (raw furs are not affected).

Jewelry of all kinds, including precious stones (other than diamonds), semi-precious stones, art objects and custom jewelry; paintings, other than paintings to be used for printing or reproduction purposes or for public institutions.

Specified metal products, including vending machines, air conditioning units, door chimes, amusement devices, etc., and a long list of non-essential sundries.

Goods enumerated elsewhere as prohibited or subject to quota, when included in the baggage accompanying a resident of Canada returning from abroad. (An exception is made for goods entitled to entry under tariff item 703 (B) which are included in the baggage of a returning resident who departed from Canada prior to November 18, 1947.) The ban does not affect goods classified in this list which are already in transit on Nov. 17.

Quota List

The second classification of goods in Order in Council includes merchandise available for import under the "quota" system.

1. Fruits and vegetables. This covers potatoes, onions, apples, grapefruit, oranges, lemons, limes, fruit juice and fruit syrups.

2. Textiles, this includes almost all textile products advanced beyond the yarn stage. It does not include raw fibres, yarns and warps, cordage, or certain tariff items covering flax, hemp, or jute products and a number of specialty products for use in agriculture or industry. It does include fabrics (whether in the grey, bleached or colored) of cotton, wool, silk, or synthetic fibre. It also includes all kinds of knitted goods lace and embroideries, clothing, and textile manufactures, N.O.P.

3. Leather and rubber goods. This category includes leather of all kinds, gloves and mitts of all kinds, leather garments, boots and shoes of any material including rubber, trunks, valises, baskets, musical instrument cases, fancy cases or boxes, purses and pocket books, etc.

4. Miscellaneous. Tariff items included in this quota group cover glass articles to be cut or mounted, watches, watch actions and movements, watch cases, clocks, clock movements and cases, cutlery, of iron or steel, firearms, ammunition, fishing tackle, and other sporting goods, game tables, balls, dolls, toys, tobacco, pipes and smokes' supplies.

Bussey Sentenced To Hang Feb. 4 For Girl's Murder

Owen Sound, Nov. 18 — (CP) — Convicted of the hammer-murder of 11-year-old Betty Playford of Owen Sound, Fred Bussey, 23, of Toronto and Regina, was sentenced to be hanged Feb. 4.

Impassive throughout the six-day trial, the itinerant carnival worker showed no emotion as the foreman of a jury of Grey county farmers which deliberated 35 minutes announced the verdict late yesterday. Spectators in the courtroom received the verdict in silence and made no demonstration as Mr. Justice D. P. J. Kelly immediately pronounced the death sentence.

The accused's father, Fred Bussey of Regina, kept his face expressionless as his slim dark son rose for the judge's pronouncement. Bussey's white-haired mother, only one of the 32 trial witnesses who testified for the defence, was not in the courtroom.

The Crown based its case largely on a purported confession Bussey made to a Montreal Herald reporter, Harold Gardner, and which was admitted as evidence. The statement quoted Bussey as saying he picked up the child in a car the night of Sept. 21 and struck her repeatedly with a hammer when she started to scream. Searchers the next day found the girl's body in a ditch.

Defence counsel Louis Isaacs of Toronto, balked in his efforts to introduce service records he said would show Bussey had been declared a psychopathic case by the navy, in his address to the jury urged acquittal on grounds of insanity.

C. P. Hope of Toronto, special Crown prosecutor who called three expert witnesses to testify they considered Bussey sane at the time of the slaying, declared in his address to the jury the motive in the killing was "a sex attack and nothing else." Bussey denied attacking the child sexually but doctors had testified the girl was raped.

DOLLAR-SAVING

1. Canada's reserve of U. S. dollars had dropped from $1,245,000,000 last Jan. 1 to $500,000,000 as of last Thursday.

"An outright prohibition has been imposed on imports of a long list of goods already produced in Canada to a substantial degree or in some cases of a semi-luxury or non-essential type. These include jewelry, candy, novelties, typewriters, radios, refrigerators, washing machines and furniture.

REPLACED BY QUOTA SYSTEM

3. Immediate prohibition is being placed on the importation of motor vehicles but this will be replaced shortly by a restrictive quota system.

4. A quota system is being applied immediately to classes of goods which include oranges, grapefruits, lemons, fruit juices, potatoes, apples, onions, all textiles except raw materials and yarns, all leather including footwear, gloves, leather garments and luggage, and clocks, watches, cutlery, games, toys, sporting goods and smokers' supplies.

5. Travel restrictions are being imposed immediately on the basis of an annual ration for pleasure travel of not more than $150 a person for those who want to travel in U. S. dollar areas.

6. An excise tax, to be approved by parliament is being applied immediately on durable consumer goods, whether domestic or foreign made, such as sporting goods, outboard motors, pleasure launches, firearms, oil burners, motor cycles, musical instruments, cameras, radios, phonographs and most types of electrical home appliances. The present 10-per-cent tax on motor cars will be boosted to 25, 50 or 75 per cent, depending upon the value.

SHORT-TERM BASIS

7. Canada's $300,000,000 American loan has been obtained from the import-export bank in Washington on a short-term basis and the Dominion now will consider borrowing money from banks and other private investors in the U. S.

8. To stimulate production, the government plans to pay an additional $7 an ounce for gold production above amounts mined in the year ended June 30, 1947. This will bring the price of gold for surplus production to $42 an ounce.

9. Parliament will be asked to authorize, retroactive to this date, removal of the eight-per cent sales tax on electricity and gas used in dwellings, the one-cent a pound tax on sugar and reductions in the duties of tea and coffee.

Mr. Abbott said the United States had been informed of the Canadian action and had expressed approval.

Women's Club Sponsors Showing Local Paintings

The University Women's Club of this city are this week sponsoring an exhibition of paintings by artists from Belleville and the surrounding district, which was shown last night in the Collegiate cafeteria, and will be on exhibition again today and Wednesday.

The pictures include portraits, still life, landscapes and seascapes in oils, watercolors and charcoal sketches. In the several groups exhibited are interesting local scenes including stretches of the Moira River, shores of the Bay of Quinte, Belleville bridges and buildings, country roads and well known Northern lakes.

Catalogues are supplied to visitors, giving the titles of the paintings and the names of the artists. Several of the paintings are for sale.

The response to a request for exhibits from Public Schools was not as spontaneous as the Club had hoped it might be; but that from Queen Alexandra School is most gratifying, the murals by Grade 8 pupils being particularly noticeable.

Thirty-two paintings are exhibited by students of the B.C.I.V.S., for which three cash prizes are awarded; First prize is $7.00; Second, $5.00, and Third, $3.00. For Publ. School Students the prizes are valued as follows: First, $5.00; Second, $3.00; Third, $2.00.

Judging the merits of the paintings exhibited are, Messrs. Manly MacDonald, Ivan Scott, Arnold Myers, (of Trenton); Mrs. George Faulkner and Miss Keeler, of the O.S.D. teaching staff.

The purpose of the exhibit is to encourage local artists to continue with their studies, and with that in view, the proceeds from the small admission fee will be used for a scholarship at the Toronto School of Art.

Public School prizes were awarded to:

First, Charles Grant; Second, Nancy David; Third, Donna Cameron.

Collegiate prizes were awarded to—First, for portrait, Beatrice Gaudion; First, for landscape, Bruce Hefkey; Second, Carry Joyce; Third, Ralph Neal.

Stirling

Mrs. Kenneth Ray Hostess for Pantry Shower

Stirling—On Friday evening, October 31st., Mrs. Kenneth Ray entertained a number of friends at a pantry-shelf shower in honor of Miss Florence Galloway, bride-elect.

The evening was spent in making a bride's recipe book, and a short program of readings and contests which was much enjoyed. The gifts were presented in a decorated wagon by Mrs. Hugh McMullen on behalf of those present.

Miss Galloway expressed thanks and appreciation. Refreshments were served by the hostess and a pleasant hour spent.

West Huntingdon

Post-Nuptial Party Presentation to Mr., Mrs. B. Haggerty

West Huntingdon. — A large number of this town's residents and friends of Mr. Barton Haggerty assembled at his home, Tuesday evening, to offer congratulations on his recent marriage, and to extend a cordial welcome to Mrs. Haggerty.

Rev. W. H. V. Walker was chairman for this happy occasion, and for the short program, which opened with community singing.

Solos were contributed by Mr. Vincent Furrell, Mr. Reg. Haggerty and Miss Marilyn Fitchett. Misses Joan McCurdy and Margaret Haggerty sang a very pleasing duet, and a reading was given by Miss Barbara Fargey, all of which were much enjoyed.

An address of appreciation and congratulation was read by Mr. Russell Sills, while Mr. and Mrs. Haggerty were presented with a studio couch. Both recipients made suitable replies, thanking the assembled friends for their gifts.

Christ Church AYPA

A film portraying the life of the late Tom Thompson, famous Canadian artist, was shown at the regular meeting of Christ Church A.Y.P.A. last Wednesday evening.

Rev. Grant Sparling conducted a short worship service in keeping with Remembrance Day. Later in the evening a discussion was held on "The Parish Question Box", an Anglican Advance Appeal publication and a very interesting quiz on the New Testament was enjoyed by the members.

Supper Dance Held at Palace

By MICHAEL O'MARA
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Nov. 18. (CP)—Lights burned late in Buckingham Palace last night where about 150 distinguished guests attended a supper dance in honor of Princess Elizabeth and Lieut. Philip Mountbatten, but Thursday's royal bride was up at the usual hour today overseeing last minute arrangements for her wedding.

The highlight of the palace party came when five kings and six queens raised champagne glasses in the cream-and-gold banquet hall to toast "Elizabeth and Philip". Both responded.

At the meal preceding the dance, the service was all gold—cutlery, cruets, plates and candlesticks.

While the guests danced until three a.m., workmen at Westminster Abbey were completing preparations for the royal ceremony. The ancient building reechoed to hammer-strokes and foremen's orders while late watchers at one point saw stained-glass windows lit up from within by the brightest light ever seen in the abbey.

Technicians were testing electric lamps under which the royal couple will be filmed as they leave the altar following the wedding.

King Haakon of Norway and Prime Minister Smuts of South Africa were among the world figures arriving yesterday while Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf and Crown Princess Louise of Sweden, arrived last night.

In St. James's Palace today a tea party—second in two days—is scheduled and more than 3,000 guests will see a sumptuous display of wedding presents.

It is estimated the wedding ceremony will last 50 to 60 minutes. Afterwards there will be two main processions to Buckingham Palace for the wedding breakfast:

1. The bride, bridegroom and attendants.
2. The King, the Queen, Queen Mary, members of the royal family, sovereigns and foreign royal guests.

Women's Activities

MERRY MILK MAIDS CLUB

The first meeting of a new project "The Milky Way", was held at the home of the leader, Mrs. Elmer Young, on Tuesday night, November 11th with seven present.

The election of officers was as follows:

President—Elda McFaul
Treasurer—Joan Redner
Press Reporters—Anita Redner and Florence McFaul
Pianist—Barbara Redner
Recreation —Barbara Redner and Sybil Redner..

The group decided on a new name for the club for this project, "The Merry Milk Maids", the next meeting is to be held, at the home of Anita Barbara and Sybil Redner. A collection will be taken up at each meeting, and if the roll call, is not answered, a five cent fine is to be paid.

The home assignment for the next meeting is:

1. Start record books.
2. Write a list of the foods eaten for one day (breakfast, dinner and supper), between the first and second meeting. Underline the foods that contain an average amount of milk.
3. Each family is to make a milk shake sauce using the flavor they were given. The roll call for next week being, "One reason why milk is a good food".

The meeting was closed and delicious refreshments served by Mrs. Young.

CUBS' AND SCOUTS' L.A.

Five members attended the November meeting of the 4th Belleville Cubs' and Scouts' Ladies' Auxiliary in Kiwanis Centre, November 14.

During the business period, Mrs. Cooley reported proceeds of the home-cooking sale held in October, as having been very gratifying, and a vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Cooley for convening the sale; and thanks were also tendered Mrs. Johnston for the Christmas pudding which she donated.

An invitation was received from the 8th Belleville Ladies' Auxiliary to attend an open meeting in Queen Mary School, November 24.

The remainder of the evening was spent in preparation for future sewing.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Johnston, social convener.

BURR'S W.A.

Burr's — Mrs. Kenneth Vancott and Mrs. Eric Edwards hospitably entertained the November meeting of the W.A. at their home on Thursday afternoon. Guests attending included Mrs. Percy Chase, Mrs. Arnold Chase, Mrs. Ronald Burr, Mrs. Harold Caldwell, Mrs. Omar Diggins and Mrs. Clayton Carter. Following the opening exercises business for the day included contributing $15 toward Christmas cheer for the British Relief Fund; $5 to the M. and M. Fund. The yearly penny bags were handed in, their receipts amounting to $20.60. Mrs. Clifford Hough had Christmas cards on order commission on same going to W.A. funds. It was decided to make a contribution by each member at meeting during the month in which one's birthday comes. Mrs. Merritt Adams and Mrs. Gerald Brooks gave very fine readings. Mrs. Merritt Adams invited the December meeting to her home.

MARSH HILL W.M.S.

The meeting opened with the singing of "Holy Bible, Book Divine," followed by prayer by Rev. A. L. Shorten.

During the business period it was decided to have a pie social on Nov. 21st., at the school house.

Mrs. B. Mitts, group leader, took charge of the program. She read a Remembrance Day poem. Mrs. Bleecker read "Carry the Torch." Mrs. A. Finkle gave a paper on 'Christian Stewardship.'

Miss Currie took charge of the study book, which is one of the most interesting of our study books, as it tells of the sacrifices and sufferings endured by the men who translated and revised the Bible.

The Pres. Mrs. Finkle closed the meeting with the Mizpah benediction.

Belleville Women Teachers' Association

A number of important business matters were brought to the attention of the members of the Belleville Women Teachers' Association at their regular meeting held in the Y.M.C.A., Nov. 12th., following supper at Lattimer's Drug Store.

Miss Olive Elson gave a report on legislation. Votes were taken on matters regarding the Board of Reference Act and students in Teacher Training Schools.

The report on research left teachers with the task of studying the present General Register for suggestion for changes.

It was decided to await the report of the Commission on Education before voting on the suggestions put forth by the policy convener, Miss Hazel Thompson.

Nominations were called for the office of publicity convener and Miss Mabel Chapman was the unanimous choice.

It was decided to leave the collection of voluntary contributions in aid of English teachers on exchange in Ontario, to the school representatives.

AIKENS' W.A.

3rd. Sidney (Special) — Mrs. Neelands, of the Sidney Parsonage was "at home" to the officers and members of the Aikens' Woman's Association for their November meeting held on Thursday afternoon, Nov. 13th.

The program which had been prepared by Mrs. Charlie Keary, Mrs. Perry Hamilton and Mrs. Wm. Hamilton, was in charge of the president, Mrs. Murney Jeffrey, and opened with the W.A. theme song and the hymn "Onward Christian Soldiers." The 107th Psalm was read and the Roll Call was answered by verses of scripture containing praise and thanksgiving.

Appropriate and seasonal readings were given: "November" by Mrs. E. K. Hubble; "The Attic" by Mrs. Sam Marshall; "Father I Thank Thee" by Mrs. Fred Moon; "Thanksgiving" by Mrs. D. McPherson and "Remembrance Day" by Mrs. Ken Jones.

After a hymn of Thanksgiving the meeting was closed with prayer by Rev. W. Neelands. During the business session the report of the nominating committee was read by Mrs. Ken Jones, and the following officers were installed by Rev. W. Neelands. Very delicious refreshments were served by the hostess and were much appreciated by the ladies present.

Past president, Mrs. Murney Jeffrey; president, Mrs. S. W. Spafford; 1st. vice president, Mrs. Bernard Hollinger; 2nd vice president, Mrs. Chas. Smith; treasurer, Mrs. Sam Marshall; secretary, Mrs. Orliff Pearson; pianist, Mrs. Harleigh Hamilton; flower convener, Mrs. Cyril McMullen; press secretary, Mrs. Everett Hubble; buying committee, Mrs. Jeffrey, Mrs. Marshall, Mrs. Moon; Red Cross, Mrs. Moon, Mrs. McMullen, Mrs. Westover, Mrs. Hubble; Red Cross treasurer, Mrs. Douglas McPherson; committee for homes, Mrs. Lee Grills, Mrs. W. Dusters and Mops Kept Busy At Honeymoon Home of Princess

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Romesy Hampshire (CP)—Autumn "spring-cleaning" is in progress at Broadlands, spacious tree-girt home of Earl and Countess Mountbatten as butler and two women make busty preparations for the Royal honeymooners due to arrive on the evening of Nov. 20.

"We are naturally doing all we can to make the house as comfortable and attractive as possible," said grave, white-haired Frank Randell, butler to the Mountbatten household since 1940.

"But it has been kept in good order all the time Lord and Lady Mountbatten have been away."

The butler moved softly around the lush-carpeted drawing room, hung with life-like portraits by master painters, flicking the dust from the fine old Chippendale furniture.

A deep silence brooded over the west wing of the house, though the entire east wing now is a hospital — an annex of the Royal South Hants Hospital at Southampton.

In the hospital wing, separted only by slender walls and white double doors, elderly men in dressing gowns sat in a long white ward looking out over a sloping green terrace to where the gleaming River Test meandered through a forest of elms and cedars.

"Will they visit us?"

A general topic among the hospital's 75 patients seems to be "Who will still be here when they come?"

In the women's ward overlooking a goldfish pond bordered by clipped yew hedges, Mrs. Margeret Green said she was torn between her desire to get well and hope of seeing the bridal couple.

"Do you think they will?" asked motherly Mrs. Ann Fulton. "Not that I want to stay in the hospital longer than I can help but ... well, if I do happen to be here..."

The hospital's youthful, energetic matron, Elizabeth Shaw-Kelly, said many patients pretended not to be the least excited over the honeymoon "next door" but added smiling: "English people are notorious for not showing their true feelings."

The day-by-day routine of the hospital would not be affected she said. "But if the Royal couple cared to tour the wards they would be "more than welcome."

Princess Elizabeth is no stranger to Broadlands. She came here last year as a bridesmaid to Earl Mountbatten's daughter Patricia when she was married to Lord Brabourne.

Lieut. Mountbatten spent many weekends here when his uncle and aunt were in residence and is known to be "very fond" of Broadlands.

Princess' Make-Up Simple Not Severe

London (CP) — In court circles it is said that Princess Elizabeth will wear her usual light make-up on her wedding day — with a little extra emphasis on cheek coloring and eyes to withstand artificial lighting in the Abbey.

Because her make-up must remain intact for long periods in over-heated atmospheres, the Princess applies the peach-tint powder that she uses over a liquid foundation, also peach-tinted, and of a non-drying texture.

It is allowed to settle on the skin and the surplus is wiped off before powdering. The result is a satin-smooth finish.

Normally, the Princess uses little or no rouge. When she does it is certainly in a delicate rose shade. Her lipstick is one of the new English rose tints. To use with her going-away outfit of smoky blue duventeen, she has chosen a lipstick with a faintly blue sub-tint.

She neither plucks her eyebrows nor uses eye make-up, but for the wedding day, her lashes may be slightly brushed with mascara.

Cleaners Preparing Parliament Buildings for Early Opening

By GEORGE KITCHEN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Nov. 18 (CP) —Things are a-stir in the big stone building up on the Hill and you can see they are expecting important company.

The cop on the door is trying out his big cheery smile and the place is beginning to look and feel homey again, despite the smell of paint and polish in the air. Groups of busy people are going around vacuuming out the rooms and making them right comfortable and liveable for the guests.'

The guests, 240-odd, are the members of parliament who will more or less take over the big stone building when parliament meets Dec. 5 after a short, four-month recess to knuckle down again to the dreary business of legislating.

Trouble is that the members have rather caught people who look after the place for them by surprise. Usually there's a six-months recess. But this time they are coming back two months early and the drapes in the big Commons chamber haven't even been taken down and cleaned yet.

"They sure don't give us much time," complained one workman who for obvious reasons desired to remain anonymous. "We need another six months to finish up. 'Course, the members aren't to blame. The government calls the House together. But the government'll say they did it because Bracken and Caldwell wanted it."

Still some progress has been made. More than 100 rooms have been painted and refurnished and they've installed a new $20,000 cooling system for the Commons chamber in the hope of ending annual complaints of members that it is the worst ventilated and cooled place in the Dominion.

Upstairs, where parliamentarians grab a snack between debates, the cafeteria has been remodelled and a mammoth new refrigeration unit installed. Other changes have been made to bring the cafeteria and the dining room up to date.

FOUR MAIDS AND A PRINCESS

Royal bride-to-be, Princess Elizabeth, chats with four little flower sellers at a benefit ball for St. Loyes College for the training of the disabled in London. At the same time, the Princess set a new style with the gloves she is wearing. They are of white glace kid and cover the elbow and a few inches above on her upper arms. Princess Elizabeth will be married Nov. 20 in Westminster Abbey to Lieut. Philip Mountbatten.

ELIZABETH AND PHILIP DISPLAY WEDDING GIFTS

Princess Elizabeth and Lieut. Philip Mountbatten, who take their marriage vows in Westminster Abbey Thursday, Nov. 20, started off the week of their wedding with an afternoon party at St. James' Palace to display their wedding gifts. Gifts from all over the world proved the couple will start married life as one of Britain's richest twosomes. Photo shows Quebec's famous "Van Doos" gift to Princess Elizabeth — a handsome linen tablecloth decorated with maple leaves and the crest of the Royal 22nd Regiment. A photo like this, showing Jacqueline Champoud and Lucille Denis working on it, accompanies gift.

A royal bedspread for Princess Elizabeth provided "open sesame" to St. James' Palace, Eng., for Mrs. Robert Bracey, Galt, Ont. Mrs. Bracey, who took eight years to make the spread, has left to attend the royal party. The trip was made possible by the generosity of neighbors.

Hearty Respect for Royal Family Shown by People of Great Britain

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Nov. 18- (CP) —The united kingdom looks up this week from the hard grind of the export drive to call "Good Luck" to a young lady getting married.

The marriage of Princess Elizabeth and Lieut. Philip Mountbatten is as popular as any royal match has ever been in the stormy history of monarchy in the British Isles. In fact it is more popular than most, for Mountbatten has erased his foreign background—always suspected here—by taking the citizenship of the country for which he fought during the war.

To all intents and purposes he is a strapping, young man who seems destined to share a place in public respect and popularity with his young bride.

Loyalty to the crown in Britain on the whole is not a gushing thing— in fact you will hear more cynical wisecracks about the Royal wedding in one day than you are likely to hear in a week in Canada.

But underneath there is a hearty respect for the royal family, in the tradition established George V, self-styled "ordinary fellow" who showed that a King could walk at ease among humble subjects without losing his dignity.

That is the tradition carried on by present king who during second world war and the peace time austerity has tried to share as far as his position permits the difficulties and hardships of his subjects here.

Elizabeth appears to have the same lack of pretention—but she also has the same dignity that can chill ill-timed familiarity. which is the way the subjects want it. After all what is the use of having a king if he doesn't act like one?

Most people in Britain say "I wouldn't be king for anything," an admission which reflects their respect of the way the royal family carries out a difficult job. There must be lots of days they would rather stay at home instead of attending boring functions. But they are there with a ready smile and a warm handshake.

At Glasgow, where Princess Elizabeth recently launched the liner Caronia, someone profferred an umbrella against the driving rain but Elizabeth waved it away.

"I dont mind rain," she said with a smile, "and besides it would not be fair to the people—they couldn,t see me properly."

There was no conceit involved. The British people do want to see their King and Queen, the Princesses and Philip.

Betty Joyce White, 16-year-old Winnipeg high school girl, who sent Princess Elizabeth a pair of nylons when they were scarce, and who received an invitation to a royal wedding reception party in London. She was scheduled to arrive in London by plane on Monday. Her trip is being financed by the Winnipeg Free Press.

Dashing Best Man Could Steal Show at Royal Wedding

London (P) — It's dead certain that nobody will steal the show from Princess Elizabeth and Lieut. Mountbatten at the Royal wedding Nov. 20, but the best man will flutter many romantic hearts.

For as best men go, even on this lofty level, the 28-year-old Marquess of Milford Haven is star quality.

Young, handsome and fine-figured, with an aura of valor and aloofness about him, David Michael Mountbatten is among the most eligible bachelors in the land, a suitable match for royalty or distinguished commoner.

Paradoxically, his name rarely has been linked with that of any girl, though not a few of the beauties of the United Kingdom would have been honored in the association. He, only somewhat less than his cousin Philip, might have been considered fitly born and tutored to be Elizabeth's consort, yet in the bursts of speculation about her future husband, his chances, when mentioned at all, never figured seriously.

Current gossip, feeding upon nothing substantial, suggests that he might one day marry 17-year-old Princess Margaret Rose. More authoritatively, however, this is dismissed as a slender possibility made thinner by the 11 years difference in their ages. At court it is thought much too early to discuss marriage plans for the younger fun-loving Princess.

The marquess is a great-grandson of Queen Victoria. His father was a brother of Philip's mother Princess Andrew of Greece, and of Lord Louis Mountbatten, and his grandfather was Prince Louis of Battenberg, created Marquess of Milford Haven in the First World War.

Resembles Duke of Kent

Fair-haired, tall but somewhat smaller in physique than Philip, the marquess is an interesting study in contrasting characteristics. On the face of it, no man could be more traditionally British. Closer investigation, however, reveals traits acquired from his Russian mother, daughter of Grand Duke Michael. His humors, his smile and certain of his moods are likened to hers. In feature, the most striking similarity lies in the slanting, ironic eyes.

Many persons have noted a resemblance to the late Duke of Kent. The marquess and Philip have been warm friends since boyhood. They attended prep school and Dartmouth Naval Academy together with mutuel interests in sports and their naval careers. The marquess went into the Royal Navy in 1933, thus perpetuating a family tradition, and served with distinction in the war. He won the Distinguished Service Cross for gallantry while serving in a Malta convoy, and the Order of the British Empire for leadership and devotion to duty when the British destroyer Kandahar was sunk in a minefield in 1942. He now is stationed at a naval air post in Cornwall.

The more reserved, even ocasionally autocratic Milford Haven never has achieved the wide popularity of his cousin, whose democratic comradely ways put any company at ease.

"He takes himself a bit too seriously," said one who served with the marquess in the Mediterranean.

Which doesn't mean that the best man is a stick-in-the-mud, but merely less likely than Philip to give the impression of bounding vitality and readiness to have a good time.

Empire's Outposts Send Gifts

By JAMES McCOOK

London (CP) — A travelling bag made of elephant hide is the wedding gift to Princess Elizabeth from the women of Kenya.

The Falkland Islands, remembering she is a keen philatelist, will add to her collection with a set of the colony's centenary stamp issue, plus other stamps of interest to collectors.

Elsewhere throughout the colonial empire, these gifts have been arranged:

North Borneo: A carded wooden chest, with a miniature model which can be used as a cigar box by Lieut. Mountbatten.

British Honduras: Fruit and nut bowls.

Mauritius: A toilet set of hair brush mirror, clothes brush and combs made of tortoise-shell with gold mountings, encased in a casket of ebony.

Jamaica: A wooden cabinet containing old Jamaica rum and liqueurs.

Singapore: A gold jewel casket and scroll containing printed prayers and blessings offered by all religious communities on the wedding day.

British Guiana: A compact made of Guina gold.

Many colonies have raised large sums of money through voluntary subscription in honor of the wedding. These funds already have been set aside for community establishments such as homes for needy children and they often will bear the Princess' name. In other cases, the money will be spent as she suggests.

Dashing Greys Eager to Draw Wedding Coach

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London (CP) — Dressed in all the finery of a state occasion, F. McIlveen, the King's head coachman, will drive the three-ton Irish State Coach in which the King and Princess Elizabeth travel to Westminster Abbey on Nov. 20.

Drawn by four royal greys, the coach will sweep through Buckingham Palace gates sharp 11:16 on the morning of the wedding and proceed at the regular pace of six miles an hour down the crowded tree-lined Mall.

McIlveen, tall, slim and grey-haired, is an old hand at state processions and he does not anticipate any "snags."

"The horses usually settle down to their work within two minutes of leaving the palace," he said, "and I have little difficulty keeping them to their regular trot. In fact, they seem to have a way of scenting an important occasion. They are more likely to play up at the rehearsals than on the big day."

The seven coachmen and four outriders who will drive the entire Royal family to the Abbey held a conference recently at which they were instructed by Maj. George Hopkins, superintendent of the Royal Mews, who is responsible for the procession.

Veteran coachman Ralph Land will drive the Queen to the Abbey in a 30-hundredweight coach. After the ceremony he will drive the Princess and her husband back to the Palace in the famous glass coach.

Land, who has been in service at the Royal Mews for 46 years expressed every confidence in "Cunningham" and "Tedder" 2 of the royal greys who will draw the glass coach.

Princess Margaret will travel ahead to the Abbey as one of the bridesmaids. Queen Mary will travel by car from Marlborough House.

Salem

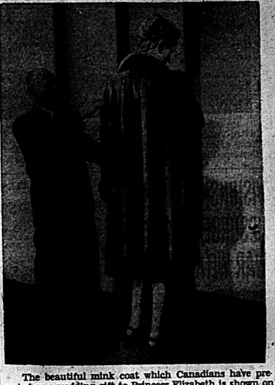
Salem — A large number from this community attended the funeral of the late Walter Snider at Melrose on Saturday. Deepest sympathy is extended the bereaved family.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hagerman and boys spent a weekend recently with Mr. and Mrs. Herb Patterson at Vinemount.

On Wednesday evening of last week, a large number of friends, neighbors, and relatives gathered at Melrose town hall and presented Mr. and Mrs. Roy McLaren (nee Helen Sills) with a pair of beautiful chesterfield chairs. A few evenings previously they were given a rousing charivari.

Mink Coat for Princess Elizabeth

Canadian Gift to Royal Bride



The beautiful mink coat which Canadians have presented as a wedding gift to Princess Elizabeth is shown on a mannequin as designer John Kastner makes final inspection. Ninety-one pelts were used. Because the collar design is still secret, only the back is permitted to be shown.

The best of Canadian fur craftsmanship and design are epitomized in the Canadian mink coat which Canadians have presented to Princess Elizabeth on the occasion of her marriage to Lieutenant Philip Mountbatten.

It is a coat of surpassing beauty.

Instead of the usual 75 skins which would have been used in ordinary circumstances, there are 91 in the princess' coat, selected from 199 pelts.

Dark brown in color, and weighing only five-and-a-half pounds, the coat falls in classic lines from the shoulder to the calf. A small roll collar, the design of which is still secret, rises slightly at the nape, and the front closes with invisible hooks. Slash pockets are hidden skilfully in the silky pile at the sides, and straight sleeves, finished with turn-back cuffs point up a motif of simple elegance which is carried to its peak in four shimmering folds in the back lending life and movement to the fabulous fur.

It was designed by John Kastner of a well - known Montreal firm who began his creative career in Vienna, working in London and Paris before coming to Canada where he has been associated with the same firm for 38 years.

Using the princess' measurements which were sent to Canada for the purpose. Mr. Kastner made ten canvas models of ten separate designs, incorporating most of the features of modern fur fashion trends, each model marked with the stripe of the fur as it would appear on the finished coat. He flew to England with these and sample pelts for selection by the princess. When her choice was made, the model selected was altered for exact fit and brought back to Canada where ten craftsmen and women began work immediately. Two weeks later, the coat was completed.

Although pleased with the commission, Mr. Kastner, who has designed coats for the Princesses Alice and Patricia in the past, admits to no particular thrill at having been chosen for the work. But as an artist he does thrill to artistic achievement and "this", he says humbly, "is the perfect coat".

VISHINSKY SAYS UPSURGE FAVORS WAR WITH RUSSIA

New York, Nov. 17. —(AP)— Andrei Y. Vishinsky says he has observed a "frenzied" upsurg of opinion favoring war with Russia and that United States policies in Germany apparently are aimed at "preserving the remnants of Fascism" so that Germany "can be directed against Russia."

The Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister and chief Russian delegate to the United Nations, addressing a dinner given by the National Council of Soviet-Amercian Friendship last night, renewed his 'war-mongering" charges, and declared:

"I have been here for 2½ months and I saw with my own eyes and heard with my own ears that there is a frenzied upsurge of public opinion in favor of war with the Soviet Union.

Discussing his charge that American policy seems to be directed toward pitting Germany against Russia, Vishinsky said John Foster Dulles, United States delegate to the U. N. Assembly, was referring to this when he told the Assembly recently that the United States would not "retreat to Potsdam."

Two Are Named

Dulles and Britain's Winston Churchill were named by Vishinsky among those he said attempted to destroy the new-born Soviet State after the First World War. Vishinsky also included France's Gen. De Gaulle in his criticism, declaring:

"We remember this very well, the more so that now De Gaulle urges an alliance or crusade of the United States, Great Britain and France against the Soviet Union."

The Soviet leader told the dinner audience, commemorating the 30th anniversary of the founding of the U.S.S.R. and the 14th anniversary of the establishment of United States-Soviet diplomatic relations, that "reactionary elements would love to disrupt" the U. S. - Soviet relations.

"Look, for instance, at the statement by Dulles in the Assembly, made on behalf of the government of the United States," Vishinsky declared. "He said there would be 'no retreat' to the systems of Tehran, Yalta and Potsdam.

"I was amazed, because Tehran, Yalta and Potsdam are great, historic examples of co-operation against Fascism and for the defence of democracy."

Police Admit Defeat After Hour's Experience

College Park, Ga., Nov. 15 — (AP)— This city has decided to call it quits with Mrs. Susie Hayes.

She was arrested for passing a stop sign and protested it was newly-installed and behind a tree. When the law tried to fine her $7 she demanded seven days imprisonment instead. When police declined to take her to jail, she seized a patrolman and marched him toward the hoosegow.

In jail, she declaimed on the accommodations in uncensored terms. After an hour the law admitted defeat. Police unlocked the door and permitted — nay, urged — their guest to take her freedom.

GRIGGS CLEARS UP A MYSTERY

A-BOMB TEST
ESS IN RUSSIA
its Aid Plan

The mystery of "John Griggs," supposedly the author of a Paris newspaper report that the Russians had exploded a small atom bomb in Siberia, was more or less solved by none other than the author himself. John Griggs (above), who was the official "Voice of America" for the office of war information for five years and who five times daily broadcast to Europe by short wave transmitters and by transmitters of the British government's B.B.C., said that since the people of Europe knew his name as an American author, it would be easy for the Russians to use his name to attract readers to a story that they would like the world to believe. Hence, they attached his name to the "A" bomb report.

SIAMESE GOVT. WARNS KING MAY BE ASSASSINATED

Claims Would-be Assassin on Way to Switzerland Where King Studying

Bangkok, Siam, Nov. 17. (AP) —A spokesman for the military regime which seized control of the Siamese government in a bloodless coup last week warned today that a would-be assassin is en route to Lausanne, Switzerland, where King Phumiphon Aduldet now is studying.

The spokesman said an attempt to assassinate the 19-year-old king had been planned as part of a conspiracy to overthrow the monarchy and set up a republic —a conspiracy which he declared the Nov. 9 coup forestalled.

The conspiracy was to have been carried out Nov. 30, he said.

A message has been sent to King Phumiphon advising him that the man assigned to the mission of killing him already has reached Europe, the spokesman added. He said the government has asked European authorities to try to intercept the would-be killer.

Yesterday the new regime announced it was holding seven persons as suspects in connection with the death in 1946 of King Ananda Mahidol, Phumiphon's brother and predecessor. The announcement said the seven confessed they had acted as lookouts while the young ruler was slain in his room in the palace by a former naval lieutenant.

Thirty Persons Held in Bohemia, Plotting Alleged

Prague, Nov. 18 (Reuters) — Thirty-six persons have been arrested in an alleged plot in Bohemia against the Czechoslovak government it was announced Monday.

A joint communique from the interior and defence ministeries said that "a group of civilian and military persons" who with "officials of a certain foreign country were plotting against the republic" have been arrested.

"These people were acquiring and selling to a foreign power reports on an undertaking of great importance for the defence of the state. They also communicated details of the Czecholslovak military forces, made preparations for illegally arming themselves for violent action ... and organized illegal crossings of the frontier of anti-state elements being abroad."

The communique said most of the 36 arrested "have made full admissions and have been handed over to the courts."

Last Friday the arrest of 60 Czechs in Bohemia on suspicion of espionage for Britain was reported here. The Czech press was forbidden to mention the arrests.

LARGE BUCK SHOT

Peterborough, Nov. 17 — (CP) — A new Ontario record was believed set today with the arrival here of Albert Cowan of Niagara Falls, N. Y. with a 14-point buck that dressed 286½ pounds. It was a magnificent specimen and the antlers were so large they were webbed much more than in the normal red deer. Cowan with his party of four had been hunting at Lake St. Peter, 100 miles north of here.

Snails Menace Pacific Isles

By J. C. Graham

Auckland, N.Z. Nov. (CP) — Giant snails, introducted into the Pacific Islands byJapanese during the war are becoming a serious menace to native food supplies. They were used by Japanese as food but they have now multiplied to such an extent that they are overwhelming native plantations of pawpaw and other fruits.

New Zealanders returning from New Britain and New Ireland, north of Austrilia, report that the giant snails, with shells six to eight inches long, are present in millions on both islands.

"After an overnight shower there are three snails to every square foot of roadway in New Britain and the larger shells don't even crack under the weight of a jeep," declared Flt. Sgt. J.R. Begg, a member of an Air Force search team. "The smaller snails pulp easily, though, and once the hot sun beats down on them you want a gas mask to get through."

These giants snails are natives of Zanzibar but in the last century have spread through India, Burma, Malaya and Borneo. They had reached Hong Kong when the war broke out and the Japanese, realizing their food value, took them to their newly-conquered territories in the South Pacific. Unchecked since the war they are now increasing in the even more rapidly than in other lands where they have been introduced.

MEN OF VISION

From a sketch by W. E. Logan—1843

Over a century ago William Edmond Logan discovered much of our Dominion's mineral resources. Pioneering as Chief of the Geological Survey of Canada, Logan's explorations hastened the development of today's great mining industry. Sir William Logan's eminence as geologist, miner and metallurgist won him international fame as the father of Canadian science.

In 1845 LOGAN said:
"It Will Become a Great Country"

In 1622 CALVERT said:
"The Land Will Yield Many Things"

Far back in the 17th Century, Calvert foresaw the development of the New World. "My resolution is to build," he wrote: "The commencement of industry is near."

Famed English statesman and Secretary of State to King James I, Calvert founded historic colonies in the early 1600's. "Encourage the building of this country," he urged his settlers: "Be partners : : : preserve unity and good government."

Man of Vision 300 years ago, Calvert's ideals of unity have been shared by all men of vision through the generations since Calvert's time.

CENTREMAN APPS LEADING SCORER IN N.H.L. RACE

Montreal, Nov. 18. (CP)—As Syl Apps goes, so go the Toronto Maple Leafs, and it's no surprise to find the Leafs on top of the National Hockey League standing while their veteran playmaking centre tops the scoring parade by a comfortable margin.

Apps had a big week in a scoring way collecting five goals and two assists in three games, and official league statistics released today show Syl with 19 points, made up of 10 goals and nine assists. This gives him a five-point margin over Maurice Richard of Montreal, who holds down second spot with five goals and nine assists for 14 points.

Then come Buddy O'Connor of New York, George Gee, Chicago, Harry Watson, Toronto, and Toe Blake, Montreal, all with 13 points.

Apps' 10 markers give him the leadership in that department, while three players are tied with nine assists each, Apps, Richard and Blake.

Boston's Frankie Brimsek has the best goals-against average among the cage custodians. In 11 games Brimsek has allowed 20 goals for an average of 1.82 per game. Harry Lumley of Detroit is next with a 2.42 average, while Bill Durnan of Montreal has the most shutouts, two.

Toronto is the most-penalized team with 156 minutes while Chicago players have spent the least time off the ice with only 104 minutes.

N.Y. Grand Jury To Investigate Boxing Situation

By JOE REICHLER

New York, Nov. 18. (AP)—The New York County Grand jury, under the direction of the district attorney's office, for the second time within a year has stepped in to investigate the city's boxing situation.

The probe came as a result of unfavorable echoes over last Friday night's Madison Square Garden fight in which Billy Fox of Philadelphia was awarded a T.K.O. over Jake Lamotta of New York in the fourth round of a scheduled 10-rounder.

Coincident with the announcement by District Attorney Frank S. Hogan yesterday, Col. Eddie Eagan, chairman of the State Athletic (Boxing) Commission proclaimed that he had ordered Sol Strauss, promoter of the 20th Century Sporting Club, to withhold the purses of Fox and Lamotta pending an independent investigation by the commission. They were to have been paid $23,910.22 each from the gross receipts of the $102,528 paid by 18,340 fans.

Specifically the two separate investigations are the result of adverse newspaper criticism and rumors of a "fix" of the Fox-Lamotta fight.

Hogan said that the rackets bureau of his office will do the investigating and that any evidence will be turned over to the third February grand jury, whose term has been extended to Dec. 12. This is the same jury which listened to the facts in the alleged $100,000 bribe offered middleweight champion Rocky Graziano early this year. Graziano was suspended in New York before he won the title from Tony Zale in Chicago.

Pro Teams Will Not Have Trouble Getting US Money

(By The Canadian Press)

National Hockey League and other professional sports teams likely will have no difficulty in obtaining funds for trips to and from scheduled games to the United States.

The foreign exchange control restrictions, similar to those effective during the war and effective from last midnight make provision for U. S. funds for business travel.

"Applications for any reasonable amounts of U. S. funds for necessary business travel are normally approved," said the Board. "The applicant's employer is required to certify that the proposed trip is to be taken solely in his business interests."

For professionals, their games are usually considered as their employment.

Joe DiMaggio had a small bone chip removed from his right elbow in an operation at a Baltimore hospital yesterday. The chip, although small, had worked itself on top of a nerve, Dr. George Bennett said, adding that the centre fielder "must have suffered a great deal every time he tried to throw."

One of the biggest trades engineered by the Boston Red Sox in recent years and one that marks the first major manoeuvre by the new Boston regime of Joe Cronin and Joe McCarthy, was announced yesterday. The deal sent seven little - known players and an undisclosed amount of cash to St. Louis Browns for shortstop Vern Stephens and pitcher Jack Kramer.

Averaging two points a game for 13 contests, George Agar of Houston Huskies today continued to lead the United States Hockey League scoring race with 26 points. Tied in second place were team-mate Paul Mundrick and Walt Atanas of Minneapolis Millers, each with 23 points.

The first 28 thoroughbreds going under the auctioneer's hammer at the fall sales at Lexington, Ky., yesterday brought a total of $102,200, an average of $3,500 each.

Indianapolis' Cliff Simpson shot in four goals and collected an assist during the week to maintain his pace-setting position among the American Hockey League's point-getters with 17 goals and 14 assists.

On hearing that Calgary Stampeders had filed a formal protest in connection with Winnipeg Blue Bombers' 10-3 victory over Stamps in the Western Canada senior football final Saturday at Winnipeg, Art Chipman, Bomber president, last night in Winnipeg replied "It's ridiculous."

Announcement of the protest was made earlier in Calgary by league president John Thompson. The main point of contention was understood to be that Stamps were penalized between "30 and 34 yards" for failing to allow yards on a kick. Mr. Chipman said "The officials only handed out a 15-yard penalty on the play."

"If the protest is on another 15-yard penalty handed out against Stamps, then that too is ridiculous. They were penalized for roughing the passer and the interception disallowed."

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

These rugged enemies of Trent Valley Hockey League fame, Stirling and Madoc clash in a Belleville District Hockey Association game tonight, and pre-game reports point to one of the best tilts of the current season. Both squads are members of the "B" section of the loop and if Madoc turns the trick the win will give her split honors with Cobourg at the top of the heap. In fact the same applies to Stirling by virtue of their win over Tweed the other night. Whichever team wins, means four points in the section standing along with the Cobourg crew.

In the other game Napanee clashes with the fast - travelling Point Anne squad and a win for the Gibbardville crew will give them undisputed possession of the top rung in the "A" section, one point ahead of the undefeated Juniors who are perched up there with four points. Napanee now has three points to their credit from a win and a tie. But don't sell Point Anne short. They are a fighting, hard driving crew which will give any team in the loop a hard run for their money. And they are out to get the duke over the fancied Gerow clan — so don't miss either of these two important games. Curtain rises at 7:30 with Napanee and the Point doing the honors.

Tomorrow night, the Belleville Juniors will get a severe test when they clash with the fast Queen's University youngsters in an exhibition tilt in Memorial Arena. The collegians come here with quite a reputation and the game should be a warm-up for the strenuous junior OHA schedule just ahead. At least it will give the junior mentors some idea of the strength of the opposition as far as the Queen's crew are concerned.

Don't be surprised if you ultimately learn that our Belleville Army, Navy, Air Force veterans intermediate "A" hockey squad, along with other teams of like ilk, are elevated to Senior "B" grouping.

That was intimated to City Editor (Alderman) Claude D. Tice while in Toronto on Saturday (at no expense to the city) to look over the Argos-Ottawa football game and the Leafs-Detroit hockey match, by Secretary Billy Hewitt of that august body, the Ontario Hockey Association.

In conversation with Mr. Hewitt, ye city ed. discussed groupings for teams down this-away and in this district, and suggested during a lengthy conversation that Peterborough Legion, the Peterborough Hockey Club, Queen's Seconds, Kingston Saints and the Belleville Veterans would make a highly interesting group that would ensure good hockey for the fans in all centres.

Regarding the Junior "B" set-up, when the conclave drifted around to that subject, it was suggested that a grouping of Oshawa, Peterborough, Kingston and Belleville would fill the bill while in Intermediate "B" ranks Trenton Flyers, Picton Army, Belleville Hornets, Bloomfield Sky Chiefs, Batawa and another squad from the district to round out a six-team set-up would provide more good hockey.

Secretary Hewitt intimated to the city ed. that a number of the larger centres in Ontario would be elevated to Senior "B" this season from Intermediate "A" adding that there would be as many playoffs in that category as there would be if the teams remained status quo.

While we are not fully conversant with the situation in Oshawa, if Motor City teams are of the same opinion as last year, they won't be too fussy about entering a grouping with Belleville or Kingston. Seems as though the distance is a might too far for the lads in Campbell's village, and the arena "peanuts" are not plentiful on hockey nights when teams other than the Generals are playing.

There is still a week or ten days left for the nimrods to get their quota of deer in the north country, and Jack Welch of Central Press Canadian, donates a few "don't" which might come handy to belated hunters.

Don't throw your rifle into your car, hop into it, drive up a highway into deer country, loaf along the road and expect to bag a bucq or two, he advises. Many deer are taken that way but the procedure bears about as much relationship to real hunting as shooting tame buffalo does to Buffalo Bill methods. And while many are bagged by roadside sniping, the proportion is small as compared with those taken by really getting into the woods and hunting them.

Besides, Welch goes on, you miss the thrill of being out there in the open alone or with your party, far from the maddening crowd. If you adopt the roadside sniping plan you'll probably have plenty of company, and are more likely to stop a stray bullet than you are if you hunt deep in the woods.

Almost every deer hunting district boasts plenty of "bucks" this year especially, as shooting season approaches, but the more they are hunted the less likely they are to remain close to main-travelled roads and nearby farms. As the season advances they take to cedar swamps, to the deep woods far back into wilderness areas seldom penetrated by man.

But you should learn to use a compass, or tell your position by your watch before you venture too far into forest depths, and then consult either frequently, especially when you leave camp and while you are tramping about, as well as on your way back to the cabin. Remember that a compass not consulted until you're ready to quit for the day is about as useless as no compass at all.

If you're doubtful about your ability to get around in the woods without becoming lost, employ a guide. In some places its illegal to hunt without them. After all you can hunt deer once a year and a little extra money expended in the interest of safety, is wil spent.

Target your rifle before you go into the field. A lot of deer have been lost because the gunner didn't know where the bullet was going when he squeezed the trigger. Wear red, don't use white handkerchiefs and don't carry your deer on your back.

MOST VALUED ASSET PRESTIGE IN REFEREEING

Toronto, Nov. 18. (CP)—A hockey referee's most valued asset is "prestige" Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, old referees, coaches and managers at the annual rules discussion meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association.

"A good referee is one who has the ability to handle the game and his correct application of the playing rules," Campbell said.

"The man in the white sweater and blowing the whistle should handle his duties in such a manner as to always remain in the background."

Campbell gave the O.H.A. meeting an inside of the basic directive now in effect for N.H.L. officials. "They must be firm and be quick," he said. "Their personal conduct must be above reproach. They must keep away from gambling and gambling places and avoid abusive language to spectators and especially, in the amateur ranks, adjust their style of refereeing to the age and equipment of competitors."

'In case of trouble," Campbell said, "give the red-hot player, or players a chance to cool out and if they come back then make your decision but fast. A referee who delays in his action at such a time is lost. Keep to minimum personal contact with the players, especially older players and never wisecrack, or try to be funny with any hockey player in the heat of a game."

INDIANS NOW FOURTH

Stratford, Ont., Nov. 18. (CP)—Stratford Indians moved into fourth place after defeating Owen Sound Mercurys 7-3 in an Ontario Hockey Association Senior A fixture here last night.

George Blake led Stratford scorers with four counters. Mickey Roth tallied twice and Joe Fitzpatrick once to complete Indians' scoring. Owen Sound goals came from Doug Gillespie, Bruce Small and McCreave.

New York, Nov. 18. (AP)—Joe McCarthy never has quite succeeded in living down that tag of "push button manager" that Jimmy Dykes hung on him. But who ever thought he could push a button to start the trade machinery working so quickly? . . Vern Stephens and Jack Kramer should be a big help to Red Sox in the 1948 pennant race. . .

Put Up or Shut Up

Who's doing all that talking about offering $100,000 for Maurice Richard? They can put up or shut up, says Coach Dick Irvin of Montreal Canadiens, who told the New York World-Telegram that "frankly, I've never heard of any big offer" for the star right wing who once was murder inside the enemy blue line. . . "Richard used to be tough but he's resting a bit on his laurels," the World-Telegram quoted Irvin as saying: 'He's got to get in the grove again and show some authority. . .All our rival teams used to put two or three men on Maurice' Now they put one on him and stop worrying."

Time Out

Ever hear of a football game that stretched over two months? Well here it is. . . A Negro high school team from Bluefield, W. Va., started Oct. 31 by bus to play a night game at Hinton, 40 miles away. . . Halfway there, they encountered a washout and the bus returned. . .Hinton officials, advised by phone, told the Bluefield coach to bring his boys by a longer route. . .The game finally got under way at 11 p.m., and finished about one a.m., the following day, Nov. 1.

One-Minute Sports Page

After hearing assorted rumors about last week's Billy Fox-Jake Lamotta fight, one guy who knows the ins and outs of the fight racket points out that out-of-town bettors poured in a lot of dough on Fox when he fought Gus Lesnevich. But Gus won, and nothing much was heard about the switch in the odds. .

The Woodland Caribou, neither as wary nor as swift in avoiding danger as the White-Tailed Deer, falls an easy prey to hunters, largely through its own sense of curiosity. Although completely protected by law in Canada, it is in perhaps more imminent danger of extermination than any other of our big-game animals. Only through the strict observance of conservation principles will this animal survive. The success of conservation measures depends on informed public opinion. Timely, authoritative literature on the conservation of our natural resources and full-colour prints of wildlife illustrations without advertising are available free by writing to The Carling Conservation Club, Waterloo, Ontario.

The Bison provides a striking example of how man can reduce an entire species to a mere handful of survivors now preserved in our National Parks.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

You do not need to be told how to become an expert bridge player. What you really need is something that will show you how to become a bridge player.

Know there are only four types of opening bids. Know that each shows a definite minimum set of qualities. They are easy to learn. Knowing them you are never at a loss for the right opening.

Each opening looks for a definite set of answers. They are easy to learn. Knowing them you are never at a loss for the right response.

An opening of three in a major suit shows a re-rebiddable suit of not less than seven cards and and a sure trick outside in a total of eight tricks. So, to help make a game, partner needs two tricks.

The re-rebiddable suit says it needs no trump support. So, any two possible tricks in the hand of partner are enough for a game try. With less than two tricks, partner should pass.

Such an opener shows freak length of strength and short suits. A squeeze or endplay may develop a trick. Or a favorable lead by an opponent may produce an unexpected trick.

So, in an expert pair a skillful partners likely to try for game with only one responding trick. Like an ace or king with a jack. But such attempts by other than experts should be avoided.

Your partner opens with three hearts when you have this hand.

♠ A 5 4 3 2
♣ 10 8 6

You have two tricks. One is the spade ace. The other is a short card in diamonds. So, you do not pass. Your response is four hearts.

Your partner may not make four hearts. Your two tricks may not be exactly what he needs to help make his game. But when a pair is that close, they should try for a game or take the pledge.

Some people live too dangerously safe.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Nov. 18 — (AP) — Talk about Bing Crosby retiring appears to be just so much talk . . . when you pin him down he admits that only the public wish would make him shut off his famous pipes . . . there has been much discussion of the groaner's retirement because of the Petrillo ban on records and transcriptions and because Bing is one of Paramount's hardest workers . . . Bing himself has added fuel to the rumors. But when he was caught in a rare pensive mood on the 'Conn. Yankee' set, he spoke differently . . . "When I'm on vacation," he said, referring to his Canadian trip last summer, "I don't see show people. I spent my time with the public, the men I was hunting with, the guides, etc. They are a real cross-section of the listening audience . . . they seemed to want to hear my show, no matter how it came over, transcribed or live. All except one gal. She said the show was much better alive. 'like the one you did with Burl Ives.' But that one was transcribed, too."

He added that most of the people asked for more singing on the show. "When they start to say 'There's too much singing,' then I'll start worrying. I'll always remember what George M. Cohan told me: 'They've got to be still plauding when you reach your dressing room. If they stop while you're in the wings, then it's time to quit.' "

Hollywood Sights and Sounds

Ray Milland driving a truckload of his belongings from Newport Beach to Beverly Hills and astounding motorists who recognized him . . . June Haver dancing in tights in preparation for her Marilyn Miller role . . . Jack Carson of Carman, Man., in blackface for "April Showers" asking: "What has Larry Parks got that I haven't got?" . . .

OLD AND NEW

The first hand-made food cans were turned out at the rate of 60 containers per day; modern can-making machinery produces up to 400 a minute.

FINALLY COMPLETED

Thirty-six years passed between the start and finish of the Washington Monument, but actual construction required only 14 years.

AT THE CAPITOL — For his long awaited first picture after five years in the Army Air Forces, James Stewart co-stars with Donna Reed in Liberty Films' "It's a Wonderful Life," an emotional comedy-drama of life in a small town, produced by Frank Capra, now at the Capitol Theatre, with the added hit "Easy Come, Easy Go," with Barry Fitzgerald.

AT THE McCARTHY — It's wedding bells for Richard Norris and Joanne Dru. They liked it so much they married each other three times in Bing Crosby's "Abie's Irish Rose," at the McCarthy Theatre today.

AT THE BELLE DUEL IN THE SUN

One of the greatest motion pictures which Hollywood has produced is David O. Selznick's long awaited Technicolor production, "Duel in the Sun" which comes to the Belle Theatre on Wednesday, for three days, matinee daily.

This David O. Selznick International is being released by Selznick Releasing Organization. Told against a background of Post-Civil War Texas, the screen play was written by David O. Selznick as suggested by Niven Busch's novel.

King Vidor, one of the most distinguished motion picture directors, guided "Duel in the Sun." A Texan himself, Vidor was particularly "at home," with the story. Playing the principal parts in "Duel in the Sun" are Jennifer Jones, as a tempestuous half-breed named Pearl Chavez, Peck as Lewt McCanles, a charming but worthless man, and Joseph Cotten as his brother, Jesse McCanles, an idealistic gentleman.

Other important roles in "Duel in the Sun" are portrayed by such gifted players as Lionel Barrymore, Lillian Gish, Herbert Marshall, Walter Huston, Charles Bickford, Otto Kruger, Joan Tetzel, Butterfly McQueen and Tilly Losch, an internationally famous Viennese Concert artist.

Costing a fortune to produce, and over three years in the making, "Duel in the Sun" required the services of 6,000 extras.

CHAPTER 5

Let's not talk about ourselves—not just now, Chuck."

"But darling—it's an important topic—we are important to each other. Oh, I'm mixing everything up—but you realize how I feel about you—what I'm trying to say."

She drew up stiffly. She attempted a hard little laugh, hoped that she was a good actress, hoped that she could blot from her memory all he had just implied.

"You're a good scout, Chuck. Your friendship has been rather —rather thrilling. The way you came down from the clouds—from nowhere—

"To worship at your feet, my darling."

"Chuck!" she cried helplessly. "I've been trying to tell you — make you see—"

She paused in consternation. It was going to be even more difficult than she had anticipated.

He paled, gripped the edge of the table, leaned toward her to catch every nuance of her voice.

"Yes?" came from him hoarsely. "What is it I'm too blind to see? You can't mean—"

The waiter interrupted now by setting the canteloupe before them. She could say nothing for the moment that she wanted to say.

The orchestra began a lifting, soul-stirring waltz, and Chuck remarked longingly, "I'm sorry I can't ask you to dance. But later we shall—it won't be long now before I'm as good as new."

"I—I hope not," she said cryptically.

Her plain black linen suit with its cream lace blouse made her look like a diminutive spirite. The transparent black straw hat holding a bunch of red cherries, tipped back off her brow, showed the perfection of her features. He was grateful to her for not having dressed for dinner. Doubtless she had thought of the difficulty of his getting into formal clothes, crippled as he was. She was the sort of girl who thought of everything. That ring on her finger—he hadn't seen it before—it gave her an air of distinction.

It was then that he mentioned it. "Good-looking stone—that," he remarked, indicating her finger.

She looked away. "Yes—isn't it? I've—I've been trying to explain for the last half-hour—but you refused to be—discerning, Chuck."

His face was dark. "You're telling me—some one gave you that ring? Blare?"

"Yes," she returned stoutly, "Hennington Blare. I'm going to marry him."

He tossed aside all pretense of restraint. He became a caveman who was being robbed of his mate. "That's untrue—a very bad joke! You're marrying—me! Why, Kay —you love me!"

Her voice came through the fog of her emotion with calculating directness. "You're wrong, Chuck. I—I admire you immensely—but I don't love you."

Something crumbled within him. She felt it, watched it go, wanted to shout a protest. It wasn't fair that she should sit before him a cheat, a liar. Oh, what could she do to make amends to him?

A waiter removed the canteloupe shells, brought the main dinner course. Neither Kay nor Chuck cared for food now. They merely nibbled at it, trying to be polite. He seemed to be floundering in a sea of perplexity; she was holding herself in check by main force.

"Hi!" It was the slightly inebriated Webb Taylor, pausing beside Kay. "What luck finding you here, darling! Greetings, Nourse!"

Without further preliminaries, he yanked back a chair and sat down with them.

Even he could sense the tenseness in the air. He glanced inquiringly from Kay to Chuck.

She exclaimed, "Fine, Webb! You're just in time for food—you need it."

Ordinarily, Webb Taylor was the last man she would want to meet anywhere because he was apt to be under the influence of liquor and begin proposing to her. He had sworn to marry her, in spite of her dozens of refusals. That he was the only child of one of Cora's intimate, wealthy friends made no place for him in her plans for Kay. A drinking man might not keep his inheritance long enough to pay to marry him.

"This table is the Sarara!" Webb said. "How about champagne?, seems like you two need a bracer. What's wrong?"

He flung Chuck a jealous, barbed glance and waited.

A flash of lightning dashed across the sky, a few drops of rain fell. Ink-splashed clouds hung threateningly overhead.

"What a damn shame!" went on the unabashed Webb. "Spoilin' our party like this!"

Kay bit her lip. It was so like Webb to appropriate not only her, but all surrounding her. She slammed down her napkin, got to her feet shaking.

"You two may sit here and get drenched, if you wish. Thank you, Chuck, for a nice dinner."

Then to the amazement of the two men, she rushed away, vanishing from sight before they realized that it was her actual exit.

She found her car in the nearby garage, and drove home wildly through a pelting rain. Her heart was torn, bleeding with the pain of what she had done to her knight of the sky.

It was only when she flung herself into her dressing-room that she missed something. Her sapphire ring was gone!

By morning, the loss of her engagement ring became embarrassing for Kay. Her mother inquired specifically why the ring did not adorn her finger, and had to be told that Kay had dined last night with the captivating pilot, instead of with her Aunt Martha, where she was expected. Worse than this, Kay was forced to acknowledge to Hennington Blare that his costly gift had, due to her carelessness, disappeared. He also had to be told of her dinner engagement with Chuck, which did not help matters.

Hennington was at first inclined to be supicious. Then he became silent, and Kay knew it for surliness, a trait she had always despised. To counteract this, she made a special effort to be nice to him, and finally succeeded in somewhat restoring his good humor.

Hennington put detectives to work at once. He was firmly convinced that the ring had been stolen but Kay, realizing how agitated she had been while in the hotel, was certain it must have slipped from her finger there, or on her reckless drive home.

For the next few days, Kay was forced to answer a great many questions asked by men sent up from the detective agency. She told them, a little rebelliously, of her evening with Chuck Nourse at the Hotel Sward, of the arrival of Webb Taylor—everything but how irresponsible her love for a certain man was making her.

Unfortunately, rumors of the affair speedily reached the newspapers and inquisitive friends began calling her up to get her version of the incident. She was interrogated everywhere she went, and forced to admit repeatedly she had been wearing Hennington Blare's engagement ring while dining with another man. Consequently, when her mother within a few days announced the engagement of her daughter to Blare, it was no news to Kay's set; neither was it news to a great many other people who through the society columns assiduously followed the doings of Deweyton's socially elite.

Chuck of course was one of the first persons to be questioned by the detectives. He called Kay up to tell her about it. She thought he seemed disturbed and confused, and hoped he had not been too embarrassed by the experience.

"I'm so sorry, Kay," he said stiffly. "In a way, I feel it's my fault. If you hadn't been dining with me, you would no doubt still have the ring."

"Or I might have lost it—in a place where I wouldn't have caused a friend so much annoyance," she said contritely.

"Don't let that worry you. I didn't mind. The detectives turned this hotel upside down. An engagement ring is mighty precious. Even if I can't be enthusiastic over this particular engagement—I'm sorry you had to lose the ring."

"You're very kind," she responded, trying to keep him from knowing how miserable she was. "It's nice of you to—to call." He hesitated an instant, then blurted out unhappily, "I wish you joy, Kay—all the good luck in the world," and abruptly hung up.

Kay struggled the remainder of that day with the mad impulse to call him back, tell him that her statement at dinner had been an absolute prevarication, tell him she loved him, only him. Yet in the end it was her loyalty and solid common sense that won. It was far removed from love. She had promised her mother that she would marry Henn—she would keep her word.

The ensuing week dragged through and at its close she went with Hennington Blare to the Junior League's garden party given at the Homer Weston's summer place, a few miles out of Deweyton. She forced herself to be sparkling, to give every appearance of being a happy fiancee. No one must suspect that being engaged to Henn was anything but her greatest thrill. Anyway, she had been chairman of arrangements for this party. She had strenuously thrown herself into the spirit of the occasion and miraculously managed to secure Rand Hill's famous orchestra and a pair of tap dancers from New York. All the other girls were keyed to high pitch, expecting this evening to be a huge success; tickets had sold at a premium, and the Junior League Hospital was now out of debt.

Immediately upon arriving on the Weston's brilliantly illuminated lawn, Kay and Hennington were surrounded by a bantering group of old friends. In the midst of it, Webb Taylor, for once strangely sober, clutched Kay's arm possessively and led her away.

"Come, darling," he insisted, half dragging her toward a summer house beyond the edge of the lilypool, "I crave a few words with you."

"But, Webb—why elope with me?" She laughed lightly.

As a matter of fact, she was vastly relieved to get away from that merry group back there. Let Henn tell them whatever he liked about their matrimonial plans. It wouldn't matter.

"Because you think you're engaged to Blare—means nothing to me. I loved you first."

"Think I'm engaged? Why? Webb—you know I'm engaged!"

He shoved her down almost rudely to an iron bench, dropped beside her, laid his arm across the back of the seat, his hand on her shoulder.

He leaned to her intently. "Kay —tell me—what do you actually know about Chuck Nourse?"

CATTLE, POULTRY PRODUCERS WILL DERIVE BENEFIT

T. L. Kennedy Says Cheese "Tied Up Until End of 1948"

(By The Canadian Press)

One Ontario Farmers' Association official saw help for Ontario cattle and poultry producers in the tariff changes announced by Canada last night but some of the province's dairy men were unenthusiastic over changes affecting their industry.

Enlarging of the United States quota on Canadian cattle from 225,000 to 400,000 annually would be "well received" and aid producers, said Hugh Bailey, general manager of the United Farmers' Co-operative Co. Ltd.

Col. T. L. Kennedy, Ontario's Minister of Agriculture, in commenting on United States reductions on Canadian cheese and butter, said that while Ontario has an exportable surplus of cheese, it is "tied up until the end of 1948" by trade agreements with Britain.

Ontario cheese is bought by the Dominion government at 25 cents a pound. If Canadian cheese could be sent to the U. S. market, he felt Ontario farmers would be able to obtain 35 cents a pound. On butter, the reductions brought little benefit to Ontario, said the minister as she does not produce enough for provincial consumption and much of her demand is filled from the prairie provinces.

R. F. Lick of the Ontario Milk Producers' Association, felt the reduction on dairy products would not be of immediate benefit to Ontario farmers as there was a danger of falling down on the agreed supply of cheese to Great Britain because of feed and labor shortages.

Pareferred no Comment

So sweeping were the changes in some other lines, that officials concerned preferred to study them in detail before offering comment.

Maj. Douglas Hallam, Secretary of the Primary textiles Institute at Toronto said the "long-term effect of the tariff changes will only become apparent with time and it may be that serious difficulties will arise...the whole matter requires a great deal of serious study."

Eric Dent, General Manager of a flax products company (Hesky Ltd.) in Toronto, said Canada's reduction of duty on some 125 textile products did not appear to have much affect on the flax and linen industries.

In Hamilton, Claude W. Lockard, President of a farm implements company (International Harvester), said the agreements apparently will have little affect in that field.

Binding of Canadian import duties on automobiles was received with satisfaction by most automobile dealers in Toronto. Howard B. Moore, Manager of the Canadian Federation of Auto Dealers' Associations, said, however, that many members were awaiting some announcement on federal government policy on imports of United States-built cars.

Stewart Brown of Shedden, Ont., President of the Ontario Beef Cattle Producers' Association, said he felt producers would be pleased with the reduction of United States tariffs on Canadian beef and veal. But improvement in the position of the Dominion's beef producers would likely not be apparent until after expiration of current contracts with Britain at a pegged price.

Reductions Welcomed

Canada's reduction of tariffs on imported textiles are welcome to manufacturers but the tariffs have formed a very small part of the price of finished textile products, K. L. Markon said in Toronto. Mr. Markon, an executive of a large knitting company (Monarch), said the reduction of tariffs on raw materials would therefore have little effect on the cost of clothing and textiles to consumers.

Although United States duties on all Canadian woods and wood products have been halved, some lumber men said they foresaw little change until the export quota was removed.

"We are permitted to sell only one car of lumber to the United States for every two we sell in Canada," said Jaffray B. Smith (J. B. Smith Lumber Company).

D. C. MacLachlan, president of a milling company (Maple Leaf), said the halving of United States duty on wheat flour and removal of the 4,000,000 - pounds - a-year import quota would have little immediate effect.

"When we are having trouble exporting enough wheat and flour to meet our contract with the United Kingdom, a change in the U. S. tariff won't make much difference."

CANADIAN TRAVEL TO UNITED STATES TO BE RESTRICTED

Only $150 in U. S. Currency Will be Allowed for Pleasure Travel

Ottawa, Nov. 18 — (CP)—Immediate reimposition of Canadian restrictions on pleasure travel in the United States was announced last night as part of this country's program to conserve American dollars.

Main feature of the restrictions, much the same as those imposed during the war, will be the fixing of an annual ration for pleasure travel of $150 in United States currency.

Finance department officials said the move would possibly result in the saving of between $30,000,000 and $40,000,000 American dollars a year. Canadian pleasure spending in the United States during 1946 amounted to an estimated $131,000,000.

Applications for any "reasonable amounts" of United States funds for necessary business travel normally will be approved in cases where the applicant's employer certifies that the proposed trip is to be taken solely in his business interests. This will apply to professional sportsmen such as hockey players.

The Foreign Exchange Control Board will consider applications for travel for genuine health or educational reasons.

Can Take All at Once

The $150 annual allotment may be applied for at one time. Children of 11 years and under will be allowed $100.

No permit is necessary to take to the United States less than $25, including $10 in U.S. funds.

Canadians who have occasion to cross the border frequently for short visits may obtain up to $10 U. S. in any calendar month. This "border - crossing ration" will not be charged against the annual travel ration.

Officials said steps have been taken in conjunction with customs officials and the R. C. M. P. to ensure observation of the new regulations.

Customs officers will have the right to search a traveller in cases where questioning leads the inspector to believe the resident is taking with him more money than his permit allows.

Penalties include fines of up to double the amount of exchange involved and for up to 12 months imprisonment.

Canadians travelling outside Canada will not be permitted to bring back with them articles in the prohibited list or the quota list of the order-in-council restricting imports.

Some Observers Predict Big Surplus Will be Reduced Through Payments

(By The Ottawa Staff of The Canadian Press)

Ottawa, Nov. 18 (CP) — With a new session of Parliament opening Dec. 5 and with the Federal Treasury showing signs of winding up the fiscal year with a sizeable surplus, heavy tax reductions are being predicted in unofficial parliamentary circles.

The surplus for the first seven months of the current fiscal year is close to $500,000,000. The last fiscal year ended with a surplus of $352,000,000.

However, the more cautious of observers are predicting that this year's surplus will not be as great as last year's. For instance, the government will have to pay out some $95,000,000 in income tax refunds before the end of March.

As well, payments to the provinces under provincial taxation agreements and reductions in taxes granted in the last budget will not really make themselves felt until the latter part of the year. Then they are expected to exert heavy pressure on the existing surplus.

The more optimistic of the observers predict a surplus that will surpass last year's by at least $200,000,000.

In last year's budget, Finance Minister Abbott estimated that income tax reductions would average about 29 per cent. He did not make any reductions in indirect taxes but these reductions may be brought about in the new budget.

The last of the tax cuts forecast in the 1946-47 budget was abolition of the excess profits tax. It will disappear Dec. 31.

Economic Highlights

Ottawa, Nov. 18 (CP)—Highlights of statement by Finance Minister Abbott outlining steps to overcome Canada's dollar shortage.

Sweeping trade and pleasure travel restrictions and the imposition of special taxes as part of U.S. dollar conservation program.

Canada obtains $300,000,000 credit from the United States and considers possibility of private dollar loan on New York market.

Effect of tariff reductions agreed to by Canada at Geneva temporarily nullified as far as Canadian consumer is concerned by actions to meet the dollar crisis.

No devaluation of the Canadian dollar.

Retroactive 25 per cent excise tax on a wide range of durable consumer goods of a less essential character; to be approved by parliament.

Retroactive increase from 10 to 25 per cent in the excise tax on automobiles; to be approved by parliament.

Removal of the eight per cent sales tax on electricity and gas used in dwellings; to be approved by parliament.

Removal of the one cent a pound excise tax on sugar and the import duty on tea from normal sources and reduction of the duty on coffee; to be approved by parliament.

Importation from U.S. of some goods will be banned; others will be placed on a quota basis; importation of still others will be at discretion of Reconstruction Minister Howe.

Emergency measures necessary because Canada's American dollar reserves dropped from $1,250,000,000 to $500,000,000 as of last Thursday.

Pleasure travellers to United States limited to $150 in United States currency annually.

Motor vehicles among items on banned list, but will be put on quota list as soon as a system can be worked out.

Other restricted items include some food and fruits.

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

By IRVING C. WHYNOT
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Halifax, Nov. 18. (CP)— The contestants, say local scribes of the manly art of boxing, aren't the only ones who get black eyes.

"A black eye for boxing" was the way Alex (Halifax Herald) Nickerson described an eight-round feature bout at nearby Dartmouth between Johnny Bouffard of Quebec and Irish Clem Crowley of Dorchester, Mass.

"Never," says Nick "were so many punches thrown on so many gloves by so few people. The fans started giving the Bronx cheer after the first round. The farce went on four rounds . . . After the judges turned their cards face down and pulled back their chairs from the apron of the ring. The best things that could be said about it was that it ended."

The bout ended when Crowley—"in no condition to enter a ring let alone fight"—decided not to come out for the sixth.

Continued Nick:

"The necessity of a town having a commission to control professional boxing was never more apparent. . .It wasn't the boxers who took a beating . . as usual it was John Q Public."

Ace (Halifax Chronicle) Foley was not one to disagree.

Said he:

"Most (of the people who attended) were pretty disgusted with the show. If Dartmouth is to revive boxing more capable fighters must be secured. Better have a few young inexperienced but willing fighters than fellows who don't even make it look good."

Surprised Tiger

The scribes were no more enthusiastic about another fight at Lunenburg which saw Terrance (Tiger) Warrington, 36-year-old one-time ruler of both the Canadian lightheavy and heavyweight division, make a return against Red Ryan of Boston.

The Tiger came from his corner, landed a light left jab and Ryan took to the canvas for the full count—then, according to the Herald "jumped to his feet as fresh as a daisy".

Immediately after the fight the South Shore Boxing Commission interviewed the judges and announced that Ryan had intentionally laid down. Ryan they said, would be reported to the Canadian Boxing Federation and other Canadian Boxing Commissions as well as the New York Boxing Commission.

Silver Lining of Cheaper Living and More Jobs Peeping Over Horizon

By JOHN LE BLANC

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Nov. 18 — (CP) — If the average Canadian develops a glazed look in the eyes over the next few days, it'll just be that he's trying to figure out where he stands.

For the government handed him the better life on a platter last night and then followed it up swiftly with the equivalent of a smart rap on the noggin with a baseball bat.

The impact of two sets of announcements left the composite Canadian — the man in the street — reeling under a series of austerity restrictions and taxes but with a silver lining of cheaper living and more jobs peeping over a horizon of indefinite distance.

Less than four hours came between the announcements.

In the first, Canadians were told they would have import duties reduced on many of the foreign-produced articles entering into their food, drink, housekeeping, clothing and recreation through the new trade treaties.

In the second, the roof fell in.

Its effect will be that, until Canada bolsters up her dollar position, Canadians are going to do without a long list of foreign-made goods that have entered into their daily life; they are going to be restricted on others; they are going to pay higher taxes on some Canadian-made articles and their travel outside the Dominion is going to be restricted. A likely consequence will be higher prices on some of the restricted articles as the law of supply and demand moves into the picture.

By way of easing this blow, the government is dropping the one-cent-a-pound excise tax on sugar, removing the import duty on tea (a drop of between four and six cents a pound), reducing the duty on green coffee by a cent a pound and cutting out the eight-per-cent sales tax on domestic electricity and gas.

As Long as Your Arm

The list of what Canadians won't be able to buy from outside countries is a long as your arm. Some of the main items are radios, refrigerators, washing machines, stoves and most other household electrical appliances; cigars and cigarets; many kinds of fruits and vegetables; most canned and packaged foods; automobiles, candy, household hollow ware, comic magazines and pulp periodicals, malasses all kinds of furniture.

Some others are toilet preparations, paints, bathtubs, electric razors, pleasure boats, jewelry, all fur products, except raw fur, pianos, cameras, and moving picture equipment.

Placed under quota systems, which will cut down their supply in Canada are some fruits and vegetables, almost all processed and semi-processed textiles, leather and rubber goods and a miscelleny including watches, cutlery, firearms, sporting goods, toys and smokers' supplies.

Faced With New Tax

Besides these restrictions, the consumer will find himself faced with a new 25-per-cent excise tax slapped on a big variety of goods made in Canada but containing some imported parts.

This tax, which goes into effect today covers such things as radios, phonographs, most electrical home appliances, cameras, musical instruments, firearms and sporting goods.

The foreign exchange restrictions and taxes would not affect a break the consumer obtained in the trade treaties—removal of the 50-cents-a-ton duty on anthracite coal and a 25-cents-a-ton reduction in the bituminous coal tariff.

After the government is able to lift its foreign exchange measures, the Canadian customer will find himself able to indulge his fancy in scores of foreign-made articles which will be entering the country at lowered rates.

Foods to drop include certain canned meats other than beef or pork, potato starch, potato flour and prepared cereals.

LADY CAROLINE'S FIRST MEET

Lady Caroline Percy, infant daughter of the Duchess of Northumberland, made her first acquaintance with the Percy Foxhounds at The Chesters, near Alnwick, Eng. Before the forty riders mustered for the opening meet of the season moved off, Lady Caroline was carried by her mother among the large pack. She is shown in the arms of her mother making the acquaintance of Mr. Fred Finch, the Duke's huntsman, at the meet.

Say Man Admits He Tossed Actress Into Sea

Southampton, England, Nov. 18 — (AP) — Police said that a ship steward, James Camb, has confessed he tossed a London actress, Eileen Gay Gibson, into the sea after a rendezvous in her cabin.

"I am fairly certain that at the time she was dead," said Camb's statement as quoted by police, "but I was terribly frightened."

Camb, 31, was arraigned on a murder charge in the death of Miss Gibson, 21. The prosecution said she resisted attack and charged he pushed her through a porthole of the Durban Castle, cruising off Africa, Oct. 18. Camb's statement said she had consented to intimacy.

"She suddenly clutched me, foaming at the mouth," the statement said. "She was very still. I felt for her heart beats and could not find any. I tried artificial respiration. After a struggle with the limp body, I managed to lift her to the porthole and pushed her through."

The Durban Castle was returning to Southampton from Capetown.

Concessions Granted Not Felt By Farmers Until Goverment Decides to Remove Embargoes

Ottawa, Nov. 18 — (CP)—The full effect of tariff concessions granted and obtained by Canada at the International Trade Conference at Geneva will not be felt by the Canadian farmer until the government decides to remove the embargoes which prevent the movement of some farm products to the United States.

This was made clear by finance and agriculture department officials in their explanations of the effects of the tariff changes that become effective Jan. 1.

For instance, the United States reduced its tariff against wheat from 42 to 21 cents a bushel, but Canadian farmers cannot take advantage of this cut. All Canadian wheat now must be sold to the Crown-owned Canadian Wheat Board which markets the grain in places other than the United States, particularly the United Kingdom.

The same applies to a 50 per cent cut in the United States duty on such things as beef shipments from Canada. There now is an embargo on such shipments.

The officials said that it would be up to the government to decide when the embargoes, which also apply to such things as feed grains, would be lifted. They indicated that the lifting likely would not come until it was clear that higher prices in the United States would not drain off all supplies needed in Canada.

In the agreement, the officials said, Canada and the United States agreed to fix practically identical duty rates for most agricultural products except wheat.

Imports Unlimited

The United States in reducing the wheat tariff from 42 to 21 cents a bushel also agreed to eliminate the provisions which limited imports to 800,000 bushels a year.

The United States has agreed to reduce the duty on wheat flour from $1.04 to 52 cents per barrel, and to remove the import quota of 4,000,000 pounds annually.

The United States import duty on barley is reduced from 15 cents to 7 1-2 cents a bushel, on oats from eight cents to four cents and on rye from 12 cents to six cents a bushel.

Among other reductions agreed to by the United States were: Hay from $2.50 to $1.25 a ton; bran, shorts and middlings from five per cent to 2 1-2 per cent; malt sprouts and brewers' grains from $2.50 to $1.25 a ton; barley malt from 40 to 30 cents per 100 pounds, straw from 75 to 50 cents per ton, and dried beet pulp from $3.75 to $1.50 per ton.

The U.S. tariff quota on live cattle over 70 pounds in weight is increased from 225,000 head a calendar year to 400,000 head for the 12 months starting April 1. The rate of duty continues at 1 1-2 cents a pound on cattle within the tariff quota. However, in imports of heavy cattlee in excess of the quota the duty is reduced from thre cents to 2 1-2 cents a pound.

Quota Increased

The tariff quota for calves weighing up to 200 pounds each is increased from 100,000 head to 200,000 head. The rates of duty continue unchanged at 1½ cents a pound within the quota and 2½ cents a pound on imports in excess of 200,000 head.

No quota limitation is placed on imports of dairy cows and the rate of duty continues at 1½ cents a pound.

The United States duty on beef and veal fresh, chilled or frozen is reduced from six to three cents a pound.

If the embargo on beef and veal shipments to the United States is lifted it is expected that this concession will provide considerable employment in the Canadian packing industry, the officials said.

In 1927 when the import duty on dressed beef entering the United States was three cents a pound, Canada exported 53,000,000 pounds, or the equivalent of 100,000 head of cattle.

The United States duty on lamb is cut from seven to 3½ cents a pound; mutton from five to 2½ cents a pound and frozen pork from 2½ cents to 1¼ cents. Some reductions are made for meat pastes, entrails and canned meats.

No change is made in the tariff on live hogs, fresh and chilled pork, bacon and hams.

The duty on horses valued at less than $150 an animal is reduced from $15 to $10, and on horses valued at more than $150 from 17½ to 15 per cent.

British Freighter Taking Marooned Sailors Aboard

Halifax, Nov. 19 — (CP)—The British freighter Empire MacCallum reported today she had started taking aboard survivors of the freighter Langleecrag who had been marooned on lonely Sacred Island, off the northern tip of Newfoundland, since their ship ran aground Saturday.

Search and rescue division of the R.C.A.F. reported that a message received from the MacCallum at 10.55 a.m. A.S.T. (9.55 a.m. E.S.T.) said merely: "Have started rescue operations."

The MacCallum swerved from her course to Montreal yesterday to go to the aid of the stranded sailors of the 4,909-ton British freighter which piled aground and broke in tow in an early morning storm Saturday.

The R. C. M. P. cutter French from Halifax was racing to the scene to aid in the rescue and it was believed here that the Langleecrag crew members might be transferred to the French after they were taken aboard the baby flat-top.

The number of men aboard the Langleecrag was not known but last reports from the ill-fated ship's skipper said one man had been lost overboard before the crew abandoned ship.

Marooned Five Days

It was five days since the ill-fated ship had piled aground on Sacred Island, a dot of barren and uninhabited land seven miles west of Cape Bauld, the northernmost tip of Newfoundland. Rain, sleet and wind laid an icy hand on the huddled group of some 30 mariners and its last message, tapped out by a courageous radio operator who went back through the pounding surf to the broken ship, said: "Must have help within 48 hours."

Nearly 48 hours had gone by since that message was received by the R.C.A.F. search and rescue unit here and nothing further had been heard. There was no indication whether help would reach them in time.

Have No Shelter

The crew had some food but no shelter. Planes ready at Argentia and Stephenville in southern and estern Newfoundland to fly them supplies were grounded by bad weather. Raging seas that lashed the rocky coastline of the island prevented mainland villagers from putting liftboats into the water and going to the rescue—though over the gap of sea that cuts Sacred Island from ship Cove-Raleigh and Noody Bay the beached Langleecrag could be seen.

The United States Coast Guard cutter Evergreen was ploughing at full speed up the east coast of Newfoundland. She was expected to reach the island at noon today.

The whaling ship Olaf Olsen put out of St. Anthony at dawn and she had about 25 miles of choppy seas to buck before reaching the scene.

The weather may play a fateful hand in the grim game. Dense fog and slashing rain obscured the island but the weather was moderating today. This might afford the Olaf Olsen a chance to creep in close to shore and take the men off.

LONGDEN RIDES THREE

San Mateo, Calif., Nov. 19 — (AP) — Johnny Longden rode himself out of a slump by bringing in three winners at Bay Meadows race track yesterday. One of the former Alberta riders' victories came in the $2,500 feature when he whipped in Mrs. John Payson Adams' Nantookit ahead of Peribow by a nose.

$10,000 FIRE

Sarnia, Ont., Nov. 19 — (CP)—Fire gutted Earl Williams' new $10,000 home last night at Brigden, 15 miles east of here, despite the efforts of a bucket brigade formed by neighbors. Williams said it was partly covered by insurance.

Royal Wedding Provokes Flood Of Reminiscence

London, Nov. 19 (CP)—Mounting excitement over tomorrow's Royal wedding has provoked a flood of reminiscence in London newspapers and magazines about the occasion of Queen Victoria's marriage.

It was a cold, foggy, wet Monday in February 1840 that Princess Elizabeth's great-great-grandmother exchanged vows with Albert, a German Prince and her first cousin. The ceremony took place, not in Westminster Abbey, but in the chapel at St. James's Palace since bombed by the Germans.

Some historians say that with the exception of the bride no crowned heads of Europe attended the wedding. "The world was at peace then," one writer said, "and England so sure of herself that there wasn't much need for glamorous shows of friendship."

It is also said that few Tories attended the wedding because "at that time Queen Victoria did not like Tories."

"She blamed them for cutting Albert's marriage allowance from £50,000 ($200,000) to £30,000 yearly and would not ask them to the wedding.

When Albert was three his nurse told him that if he was a "good boy" and grew up into a "nice man" he would marry the Queen of England.

She wasn't entirely right for though he married the Queen he wasn't always a good boy. Once he filled the pockets of a Princess' coat with soft cheese and another time he made stink bombs and dropped them in his local theatre.

The people in the theatre didn't get their own back but the Princess did. She put a family of frogs in his bed.

Although it was she who had proposed marriage, at the ceremony Victoria promised to "obey." But in the chapel Albert was obviously the more nervous.

Last Day Before Royal Wedding Dawns Murkily, Rehearsal Last Event

By MICHAEL O'MARA
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Nov. 19 — (CP)—The last day before the eagerly-awaited wedding of Princess Elizabeth and Lieut. Philip Mountbatten dawned murkily today with a chilling rain falling on a grey London.

But the unsettled weather could not dim the enthusiasm of workmen putting the final touches on street decorations and Westminster Abbey decorations or daunt the determination of many hundreds of thousands to see just as much of the great day's happenings as they possibly could.

The key event scheduled for the wedding eve was the 5 p. m. rehearsal — complete in all details down to the wedding ring of beaten Welsh gold — of the ceremony's principals to be held in the Abbey. The King, Princess Elizabeth, Philip and the wedding attendants will take part along with the Archbishops of Canterbury and York and other ecclesiastical dignitaries assisting in the performance of the rites.

Choir to Attend

There had been some reports that the Princess and Philip would not attend today's rehearsal, having gone through a private one earlier, but Press Association early today confirmed they would attend.

The Abbey's choir will attend the practice session and it is understood the Queen will be present.

It is thought the rehearsal behind the venerable building's heavy doors — locked and guarded — is likely to take about two hours. It is also expected that a considerable time will be spent in practising the procession from the altar following the service. Princess Elizabeth and Philip will lead the march to the church door and the timing must be "just right" or the whole ceremonial would be thrown out of kilter.

The Abbey already is closed to the public and after the rehearsal will be "sealed" by Scotland Yard and an all-night guard will be posted.

Carry Out Searches

Similarly guards will search government offices along Whitehall after the staffs leave tonight and carry out snap searches throughout the night and early tomorrow to prevent the possibility of unauthorized persons obtaining admission to the buildings overlooking the royal route.

As the wedding party reaches the Abbey for the rehearsal shortly after dusk, floodlights will flash onto Buckingham Palace which will be illuminated until midnight tonight and tomorrow night. High-pressure oil lamps play on the horse guards in Whitehall where electrical facilities are insufficient for floodlighting.

A crowd estimated at around 200 standing outside the palace had a preview of the floodlighting last night as electricians snapped the light off and on and cheers broke from the rain-swept watchers.

They were waiting — some for several hours — to see more than 1,000 distinguished guests arrive for a party given by the King and Queen.

Greeted by Their Majesties

Among the guests greeted by Their Majesties who stood at the grand staircase leading up to the state apartment, were Canada's Prime Minister Mackenzie King, Norman Robertson, Canadian High Commissioner and Mrs. Norman Robertson, Prime Minister and Mrs. Attlee, opposition leader Winston Churchill and Mrs. Churchill, and Prime Minister Smuts of South Africa.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King was wearing his recently-presented Order of Merit.

The guests commented on the happy bearing of Princess Elizabeth and Philip as they shook hands and accepted hundreds of good wishes. The Princess wore a gown of blue tulle embroidered with gold pailletes and a necklace of 21 diamonds which was South Africa's coming-of-age present to her during the Royal tour. Like her mother she wore the broad blue ribbon of the Order of the Garter.

Temperature to Rise

Today the air ministry forecast rain, local fog and chilling winds for London tomorrow but said the temperature would rise to about 40 degrees around the time of the wedding.

Wedding preparations vied successfully with news of foreign troubles for top spots in the London Morning Press, but today the Daily Express offered editorial comment.

Wondering why the wedding is exciting "such interest abroad" the Express answered that "people everywhere . . . turn instinctively to news of goodwill and human rejoicing."

And, the paper asked, "Do they not, in contemplating the wedding of Elizabeth and Philip, also find much to envy in the British way of life?"

London, Nov. 19. (CP)—Four old women from Brittany, in traditional black dresses with white lace collars, will set off for London today, on the biggest adventure of their lives.

Though they have never ventured out of France before, they are determined not to miss Princess Elizabeth's wedding and have long since booked their tickts for the Channel crossing.

They will not be alone. London travel agencies report that French and Belgian visitors will soon be crossing to England by the boatload— not just the wealthy but hundreds of ordinary, work-a-day folk who have been saving up for months.

One agency (Thomas Cook and Sons Ltd.) is bringing separate organized parties of 700 from Paris, 400 from Brussels and 250 from Antwerp. The crack French steamer Loudres is bringing another load of 350 French passengers, crossing and returning by night and sleeping en route.

Price for the return trip per head including meals is about £19 ($76).

"These fleeting visits are made necessary because there is little hope of securing hotel accommodation," one travel agent said. "Unfortunately we have been unable to make any special arrangments for continental visitors to get near the route. They will have to take their chance with the crowds."

All of London's larger west end hotels are booked out until after the wedding though some cancellations are expected as the date draws nearer. Large parties from Scotland and north of England towns have secured advance accommodation through agents.

International guest lists are found in the more exclusive west end hotels. One (The Savoy) will entertain visitors from all over Europe, parts of Asia, South Africa, New Zealand, Australia, Canada and the United States.

46 Known Dead In Christchurch Fire Disaster

Christchurch, N. Z., Nov. 19 — (CP) — William Parry, Minister of Internal Affairs, today promised a full inquiry into the fire here yesterday at Ballantynes department store, from which 38 bodies had been recovered this morning.

Parry added that a special inquest was necessary, and its scope would be enlarged outside the usual legal limits because of the extensive nature of the fire and the swiftness with which it spread.

Forty-six persons were known dead and other reports under investigation indicated that the casualties would total at least 50.

2 PATRONS SHOT IN MONTREAL CAFE HOLD-UP

One Gunman Under Guard in Hospital

Montreal, Nov. 19 (CP) — A midnight struggle between two gunmen and patrons and waiters in which one bandit blazed away, wounding two customers in a daring holdup of the swank Chez Ernest Cafe on downtown Drummond Street, left these results today:

One gunman under police guard in hospital with a probable fractured skull inflicted with a bottle and one of his own guns.

Two bandits still at large.

Frank McCormick, prominent Montrealer, wounded and reported by hospital officials as improved.

Another customer injured in the struggle who did not require hospital treatment.

McCormick, 42-year-old father of two children, and Rutherford were shot as they tried to resist the two gunmen. The third thug waited outside the cafe in a taxi.

McCormick, earlier reported in a dying state" with a bullet lodging an inch from the heart, was reported in "good" condition today.

The bandit in hospital, tentatively identified as Victor Diamond, 45, was reported in "favorable" condition. He was knocked out with a bottle and one of his two guns by a dozen waiters and patrons who tried to stop the bandits after they had rifled the cash register of more than $30.

Rutherford's condition is not serious and he is expected to leave the hospital today.

Meanwhile police continued the search for the two who who escaped with the $300 and an unknown amount of valuable taken from patrons of the cafe.

"The first thing I noticed was a face with glasses poking through the door and peering inside," barman Robert Bergman told police.

"Then a short chap came rushing in with a gun in his hand and yelling "put them up! Put them up!" He was followed by a heavy-set man with a gun in each hand."

While the latter covered four employees and about eight patrons, including two women, the smaller bandit approached Bergman and demanded: "Where is the money? Come on, hurry up!"

With a revolver in his ribs, Bergman showed the cash register. The bandit rung the "no sales" key and scooped up more than $300 from the till.

"Let's go," the tall bandit said.

"No, these rich people have got lots of dough. I am going to look through their pockets," the small bandit with glasses replied.

As he was going towards the bar to search the men sitting there ,he ordered the barman "get me the best bottle in the place. I want to take it with me."

He then reached for McCormick's wallet in the latter's back pocket.

"This is a bluff, there's blanks in the guns," McCormick said as he suddenly swung around and made a lunge for the bandit's arm, forcing him to drop the revolver.

Seeing that his companion was in trouble, the tall bandit, who was covering the customers and the staff, began firing and McCormick collapsed.

Then the two bandits made for the door with the tall one turning around and firing more bullets, one of which struck Rutherford.

Proved a Mistake

This proved his mistake as several waiters and customers jumped on him and wrested his two guns away fhile a waiter struck him with a bottle.

As he fell near the doorway, he was hit repeatedly on the head with one of his guns.

The small bandit succeeded in running out in the street as the door was blocked by his companion.

Nelson Miles, a taxi driver, told police the fugitive joined a third bandit who had waited outside in Miles' taxi while the robbery was in progress.

Miles said the third man had hired the cab shortly before and ordered him to park outside the cafe and keep quiet.

He said that the fugitive ordered to drive fast to an eastend street.

Swedish Plane Crashes Into Mountain Top

21 Fliers Being Returned After Delivering Planes

Rome, Nov. 19 — (AP) — A Swedish plane reported officially to be carrying 30 persons crashed today in the mountains near Salerno.

Correspondents at Ravello, near the crash scene, reported they had been informed at least 20 were killed and 10 injured.

The Swedish Legation said the air ministry in Stockholm informed it that 30 were aboard. Some 21 were Swedish fliers, being returned from Addis Ababa, where they had delivered B-17 planes sold by Sweden to Ethiopa. However, Col. Ingvar Berg, leader of the squadron, was not aboard.

The flag at the Swedish Legation was dropped to half staff and a representative left for the scene.

Officials at Salerno said a party had been dispatched to the scene of the crash, believed to be on a 3,248-foot Mt. Scala.

King Against Increase for The Princess

London, Nov. 19 — (CP)—The King told parliament Tuesday that Princess Elizabeth can get along during Britain's economic crisis without an increase in her annual allowance of £15,000 ($60,000).

The Princess' income was increased from £6,000 ($24,000) on her 21st birthday last April. The King said in a message that any additional funds the Princess will need as the wife of Lieut. Philip Mountbatten will be furnished from savings made of Royal Family annuities during the war.

Parliament had scheduled for priority consideration the matter of increasing financial prevision for the Princess upon her marriage Thursday.

Meanwhile, Princess Elizabeth and Mountbatten entertained a party of 2,500 nobles and commoners who crowded St. James's Palace today to see an increasing array of wedding gifts sent by admirers from all over the world.

The radiant Princess and her fiance left Buckingham Palace in mid-afternoon for St. James's, a few blocks away, to receive the guests, all of whom had sent presents.

Several thousands braved the bitter weather to cheer the couple as they stepped into the palace courtyard. Cries of "God bless you" and "Good luck" echoed from the throng.

Herbert Morrison, leader of the House, gave notice that the government would present a motion tomorrow for the appointment of an all-party committee to consider the King's message.

ALL COMMENT ON TARIFF CHANGES MOSTLY CAUTIOUS

New Demands Made by C.C.F. for Reimposition of Price Controls

(By The Canadian Press)

Comment on the Federal government's dollar-saving "austerity" program is studded with mild approval from some labor and political leaders and new demands by the C. C. F. for reimposition of price controls.

And all down the line there is speculation on price increases, price decreases and prices that likely won't change a bit.

Almost all comment was cautious. Meanwhile, the man-in-the-street remained frankly bewildered by the sweeping changes announced Monday night—the moves to promote international trade by granting and obtaining tariff concessions and to conserve Canada's supply of United States dollars by restricting certain imports and by applying new excise taxes.

C. Bruce Hill of St. Catharines, Ont., president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, said the new trade treaties are "a step in the right direction toward the objective of multilateral world trade." Chamber officials hoped the import restrictions on United States goods and the taxes on Canadian goods would prove temporary.

Living Beyond Means

John Bracken, national leader of the Progressive Conservative party, said in Brandon, Man., "It is gratifying to know the government has at last made the discovery the nation has been living beyond its means."

Govt. May Ask Wider Powers At Next Session

Toronto, Nov. 19 —(CP)—The Globe and Mail says today in an Ottawa dispatch that parliament will be asked at its forthcoming session to give the government wide powers of control over Canadian industry.

"The legislation has not yet been drafted, but it is known that it will provide the governor-in-council with authority to direct the course of Canadian manufacturers and business coming within the orbit of Reconstruction Minister Howe's part of the dollar program," the dispatch says.

It goes on to say that government circles describe the type of emergency authority to be asked as "licensing of industry." It adds that this might involve a constitutional issue of Dominion-Provincial jurisdiction.

Proud of its record of being one of the best "fighting regiments" in the Canadian Army of the Second Great War, the famous Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment will seek to perpetuate its deeds in the recruiting of a reserve army battalion which can under recent governmental authorization be brought up to wartime strength or approximately 900 all ranks.

Recruiting for the reserve army as a whole has been going on for some time, but in an effort to create interest in this district's own infantry unit, officers of the Hasty Pees are stressing the need for not only a reserve army, but a unit that brought undying fame to its district as well as itself.

Regimental Sergeant Major Angus Duffy said today that a reserve army regiment is but the expression of a free people to fight if their freedom is threatened.

"If our regiment dies, then Canada dies to."

He pointed with justifiable pride to the fact that the Hasty Pees, as the regiment was known here and overseas stemmed from the old non-permanent militia as it was then known. "It came from such people as the late Lt. Col. Bywater, M.C., Lt. Col. "Tiny" Yates. M.C.,; Lt. -Col. Sherman Young, Brigadier Howard Graham D.S.O. and Bar; Lt. Col. Bruce Sutcliff killed in action, Lt. Col. B.C. Donnan, former commanding officer of the regiment, and other gallant men who had the interests of their country and unit at heart.

"It was those Saturday night soldiers of the old militia who marched in shoes, because the army had no boots, in 1939 until the blood came through, and who blazed a shining page in the book of Canada's history in action on the far-flung battle fronts of Europe."

"You will win or lose the next war now by supporting or not supporting the old regiment," he said. "You can keep interest alive and the regiment too, by enlisting in its ranks. If this is impossible, by supporting it. Bringing in recruits and by taking an active interest in it. Shortly there will be a meeting in this area in the interests of recruiting. Assist by attending and bringing somebody else. The regiment needs your support."

The local company of the Hasty Pees under the command of Major Max. Porritt, M.C., trains at its Church Street armory headquarters every Tuesday night. Recruits will be welcomed.

Kiwanis Show Great Success Members Told

The recent Kiwanis "Pack Up Your Troubles" show staged at the Collegiate auditorium was a financial success as well as being a success from the standpoint of entertainment, it was revealed at the weekly Kiwanis luncheon meeting Tuesday noon when a final report on the project was given.

Kiwanian Harry Trepanier in giving the financial report of the show stated that slightly over $2,000 net had been realised from the sale of tickets and also from the program. This had been considerably ahead of the figure realized last year when expenses had been greater.

Tribute to club member Ted Schwab for his efforts in producing the show and for keeping expenses as low as possible, was paid by the club. Kiwanian Albert Jones was tendered an appropriate presentation for his efforts in ticket sales.

Club member J. E. Genet, of Rossmore, former chief signals officer in the Canadian Army, was guest speaker for the occasion, speaking on personalities he had known. He was introduced by Harold Craig with club appreciation being expressed by Albert Jones. President Jack White presided over the meeting with Harold Carruthers acting as song leader; Phil Huddleston as pianist and Bill Riley as sergeant-at-arms.

Marshall Card, 61, Dies of Broken Neck in Runaway

Bancroft — (Special) — Well-known Monk Road farmer, Mr. Marshall Card, age 61, met death late Tuesday afternoon when he suffered a broken neck as his team ran away while he was skidding logs in the bush. The seriously injured man was found minutes later by his son, Hurson, and niece, Flossie Card, and was taken home where he later died.

Dr. O. W. Anderson, coroner, attributed death to a broken neck. There will be no inquest.

The deceased man is survived by his wife and two sons, Hurson and Lloyd, both at home.

Geo. Haddad, Noted Canadian Pianist, Holds Rapt Attention Of Large Audience at B.C.I.

Recognized by music critics as one of Canada's outstanding pianists George Haddad gave to his audience at the Collegiate Auditorium on Tuesday evening a program which was richly satisfying as a basic musical attraction. It is a difficult feat to keep the rapt attention of an audience with a solo instrument for an entire performance, but this Mr. Haddad achieved, and at no time did attention waver while he performed at the keyboard.

This slightly-built, youthful looking Canadian is of Syrian descent and was born in Saskatchewan. His interest in music began at an early age, and at thirteen he had attained his A.T.C.M with first class honors. For being able to repeat a composition after one hearing and arrange it for orchestration he received notice in the famous "Believe it or Not" column Mr. Haddad has the rare gift of perfect pitch, and his technique and skilful fingering are exceptional. He has a remarkable musical memory and one time in New York he borrowed the Prokofieff Sonata number 60, memorized and played the whole sixty pages after six days of studying it. On the completion of his present tour he is going to South America for a series of concerts.

Chooses Bach For Opening

Mr. Haddad chose Bach for an auspicious opening number, "Siciliano," a Fantasy in C Minor, This was an exquisite rendition with delicate phrasing. The mood changed with three selections from Beethoven's Sonata, Opus 27, when Mr. Haddad presented Adagio Sostenuto, Allegre, and Presto. The number which is generally known as the "Moonlight Sonata" is a nickname given to it by a contemporary critic of Beethoven who wrote that the opening movement reminded him of moonlight on the Lake of Lucerne, and the name has stayed.

"Sevilla" by Albeniz was followed by the gay, lilting "Song of a Caballero" by Villa-Lobos. "Malaguena" by Lecuona was a robust number, and to complete the first part of the program, Mr. Haddad played Rachmaninoff's "Prelude" with its haunting overtones and stately chords. As an encore this was followed by Debussy's familiar "Claire du Lune."

Four Syrian songs arranged by George Haddad made a pleasant interlude. These were composed of a desert chant, two folk songs and a wedding dance, and pictured the locale of the natives in music.

Typically French

Debussy's "Estampes Suite" was typically French in feeling, and the three numbers presented formed a colorful and imaginative group; first, "Pagodas" with exotic Oriental effects achieved by the use of the whole tone scale, that is, all in the black keys; next, was "Evening in Granada" a piece with a Spanish influence, with an enchanting bit near the finish when a mandolin can be distinguished strumming; and finally, "Gardens in the Rain" a descriptive piece incorporating two French folk songs into the tone picture.

Three Preludes by Shostakovitch were amusing satires on the march, the waltz, and the polka played in a minor key.

Chopin's brilliant "Nocturne in C Sharp Minor," the "Valse" and the "Scherzo in B Flat Minor" made a fitting number for the close of the program, leaving his auditors with an intense feeling of deep satisfaction.

Three Encores

In response to insistent demands from his listeners Mr. Haddad obliged with three encore numbers. The first was George Gershwin's haunting strains of "Rhapsody in Blue" always popular with an audience. The second was a dramatic little number by an American composer called, "The Cat and the Mouse." This was an amusing musical dialogue between captor and captive, with the mouse represented in the treble keys, and the cat with heavier tread in the bass. As a special request number Mr. Haddad made his final response in his curtain calls, Chopin's "Polonaise."

Mr. Haddad's recital was sponsored by the local Kinsmen Club.

Spirited Debate on Baby Bonus Won by Affirmative at Junior Chamber of Commerce Meeting

Whether or not the action of the Dominion Government in establishing family allowances meets with 100 percent approval across Canada, members of the local Junior Chamber of Commerce are of the opinion that the baby bonus is in the best interest of Canada.

At least that was the consensus of members Tuesday evening at the Hotel Quinte following their hearing of an inter-club debate between Belleville and Peterborough on the respective merits of the baby bonus. Subject of the debate was "Resolved that the Baby Bonus is in the best interest of Canada."

Debators from the Peterborough Junior Chamber who took the affirmative side of the question were John MacMillan and Leslie Reid, while Thos. Hutchison and Willis Jackson took the negative side for Belleville. Decision was by popular vote of the members who voted unanimously in favor of the affirmative.

Raise Standard Claim

In presenting the affirmative side of the debate Mr. MacMillan contended that the baby bonus would do much to further the cause of wage earners in the lower and medium income brackets. He stated that the baby bonus would raise the standard of living for these people and would do much for the furtherance of their children's education. In addition the bonus would assure fuller employment as the $250 millions would be plowed back into Canadian industry making for more jobs. The bonus would recompense the married man for having a family.

Presenting the negative side Thos. Hutchison reminded that Canada as a whole was being dealt with and not the people as individuals. He contended that the baby bonus was but a political bribe and that the $250 millions per year not only increased taxation but as result of increased purchasing power the value of the dollar was lowered.

Refutes Idea

Any benefits derived from the bonus could be better administered through child care, medical treatment and education through established welfare and social channels.

Leslie Reid as second speaker for the affirmative refuted the idea that the increased purchasing power resulting from the bonus. This would occur only among the comparatively poor families, the wealthier banking the money for future needs.

Continuing with the affirmative he said that in many cases the bonus would swing the pendulum from the undernourished to the nourished and would result in better employment conditions and better education.

Willis Jackson declared there were many reasons why the bonus was not to the best interest of Canada but confined himself to but two points. These were the political aspect of the question and the terrific costs of administration.

"If the government had the welfare of the poor man at heart," he argued, "it would abolish the income tax on salaries under $2,000 earned by a married man with one child.

He went on to say that any scheme with such high administration costs and with such poor results could not be in the interest of the country. The bonus was not doing the job intended as there was not enough of it.

Jamieson Bone, acted as chairman for the debate and complimented the debators on their ability in putting forth their views. Digressing from the subject of the debate Mr. Bone stressed the importance of young men taking life seriously and urged them to enter civic life. Referring to Belleville he stated that this year presented a splendid opportunity for young men to be elected to council.

Approximately 15 members of the Peterborough Junior Chamber motored to Belleville for the meeting which was in charge of Malcolm Robb, past president of the local organization.

Montreal Man Given 7 Years

Hamilton, Nov. 19 (CP) —Antonio Furoy of Montreal 46-year-old Montreal father of four children today was sentenced to seven years in Kingston penitentiary after his conviction for taking part in armed robbery of Canadian Bank of Commerce branch at Selkirk, Ont., May 31, 1946.

Furoy's Counsel, S.S. Buck, offered no defence. Crown witnesses identified Furoy as one of the bandits and Mr. Buck contended to Montreal man had been forced to take part in the robbery.

"There is no possible excuse for an offense of this kind," said Magistrate R. J. Gillen. I can find, on his actions throughout the holdup, no trace of force or compulsion put on him. I am quite convinced that he knew what was going to happen in the bank and helped to arrange the plan."

Testimony was given that $8,054 was stolen from the bank but that when the accused took police to the alleged hiding place of the money, it had disappeared. Trial of Rosario St. Denis, also of Montreal, arrested with Furoy is continuing.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. Angus Hannah, Rossmore, Ontario, wish to thank their friends and neighbors for their timely aid recently, when they were threatened with a serious fire.

Mrs. David Kenny and family wish to thank their many friends and neighbors for their expressions of sympathy and acts of kindness, floral tributes, use of cars, and also the kindness of Dr. Branscombe, during our recent sad bereavement.

MRS. ETHEL (GILLUM) THOMPSON
(Formerly of Belleville)

Mrs. Ethel Kate Thompson, wife of Mr. James Gordon Thompson, and formerly of this city, died at her home in Rockland, Maine, on Monday, Nov. 17th, after a brief illness in her 66th year.

To many friends here the announcement of the death of Mrs. Thompson will bring sincere feelings of regret. She was born in this city and was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Fryer Gillum. The early years of her life were passed here and she was educated at the public schools and the Collegiate Institute. At one time she filled in an efficient manner the position of Art Instructor at old Albert College. When residing here Mrs. Thompson was a member of St. Thomas Church and took an active part in the activities of the parish.

Surviving her are her husband, Mr. James G. Thompson; one son, Mr. H. G. Thompson, Niagara Falls, N.Y., and one sister, Mrs. P. W. Geen of this city.

Mr. Thompson is a brother of Mrs. R. B. Cooper and Mrs. Archibald F. Y. Leslie, both of this city.

The funeral will be held at Rockland, Maine on Thursday.

U.S. Air Force To Drop World's Heaviest Bomb

Washington, Nov. 19. (AP)—The United States Air Force will begin test drops of the world's heaviest bomb—a 42,000-pounder—in about two weeks at Muroc air base in the California desert, it was learned today.

Twelve of the huge missiles have been delivered by the Army Ordnance department for the experiments. The modified B-29 Superfortress which will carry the record bomb load aloft is ready and its crew has completed a course of special training.

The mammoth bomb will be suspended from newly-devised shackles half in and half out of the lengthened bomb bay and will clear the ground by bare inches when the airplane makes its takeoff run.

The bombs dropped at Muroc probably will be "duds", weighted to compensate for the lack of explosive charges.

The fact that several are being used suggests that releases will be from varying heights to observe the characteristics of fall and the depths of penetration in to the earth.

It is assumed that Army Ordnance experts then will conduct their own tests of the explosive potential, including the detonating of bombs planted at depths corresponding to those attained in the high-altitude drops.

From their experiments, the Ordnance men will get their information on earth shock, blast area and zones of damage.

The air force said the 42,000 pounds will be the heaviest bomb load ever lifted by a plane.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Nov. 19. (CP)— A sharp reversal of trends in the early session brought golds down for sizeable losses on a relatively broad front as industrials turned irregular with newsprints strong and other groupings mixed or down on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Despite yesterday's initial enthusiasm with the government's bonus on increased gold production, the exchange's index for golds was lower today than before the bonus announcement.

Volume for the first three hours was 732,000 shares, about 2,164,000 below yesterday's similar period.

Bralorne and Hollinger, up 1-2 each at 12 each were the only gainers. In Senior golds were losses posted by Aunor, Dome, Kerr Addison, Lake Shore, La Luz, Lamaque, Wright Hargreaves and Teck Hughes. Nearly all better grade Juniors were down with heavier losses posted by Chesterville, Conwest, Croiner, East Malartic, Eldona, Giant, Kirkland Lake' Kirkland Townsite' Little Long Lac, Louvicourt, Macassa, Madsen, Malartic, Negus, Upper Canada, Starratt, Sladen,, Senator San Antonio, Queenston, Preston, Pamour. Diamond Tiaras Rule Rather Than Exception

London, Nov. 19 —(AP)— The biggest, most diamond-studded party London has seen since the country trooped to war eight years ago thronged the state apartments of Buckingham Palace until the wee hours today to toast Princess Elizabeth and Lieut. Philip Mountbatten in vintage champagne from the royal cellars.

Officially, the big party was an "austerity" affair, for the King ruled against staging a major state occasion in days of British national poverty.

But wealth, royalty, music and champagne, youth, dignity, silk and diamonds made the party barely distinguishable from the big state affairs of happier days. The only thing missing was rich food at the buffet supper.

Diamond tiaras were the rule rather than the exception among the women guests, who included four queens.

Sleek black automobiles, bearing the 1,200 guests queued four abreast from the Palace gates to Admiralty Arch, half a mile away, and it took an hour and a half before the last guest was in.

While the cars waited in a drizzling rain, Winston Churchill snapped on the ceiling light in his car and flipped his two-finger "V" signal to the crowd of Londoners who came to watch the famous arrive.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Nov. 19. (CP)—Cattle trade was slow at easier prices, in the livestock market up to mid-session here today. Calves, hogs, sheep and lambs were steady. Receipts reported by the Dominion Marketing Service were: cattle 400, calves 200; hogs 500, sheep and lambs 1,100.

Plain to medium butcher heifers brought $11-$12.25 a hundredweight with a few good heifers selling for $13. Boners were down to $7-$9. Butcher cows were $7.50-$10 with canners at $5-$6. Bulls brought $7-$10 cwt. and fed yearlings $12-$15. A few stockers moved slowly at $9-$12.

Calves were steady at $16-$17 for choice with plain heavies down to $10. A few grassers went for $9-$9.50.

Hogs remained steady at $23 for Grade A and $22.60 for B1. Sows were $15 dressed.

Lambs were steady at $15 for good ewes and wethers, $14 for bucks and $11 for culls.

Sheep sold steady at $3-$7.50.

PRODUCE MARKET

New Potato King Raises 693 Bus. To the Acre

Toronto, Nov. 19 (CP)—Frank Rick of Trout Creek in the Parry Sound district is Ontario's new potato king. With a yield of 693 bushels to the acre, his exhibit won 464 points out of a possible 500 in a contest sponsored by the Ontario Crop Improvement Association at the Royal Winter Fair. His Chippewa potatoes comprised one of 26 entries and netted him a trophy and $250.

Delbert Olan of Millbrook, Durham County, was second with 463 points. Joseph Gattie of Watford in the Sudbury district placed third with 428. They received cash awards of $125 and $75 respectively.

Nominate Bracken For Brandon

Brandon, Man., Nov. 19 (CP)— John Bracken, national leader of the Progressive Conservative party, today stands as the party candidate for the Brandon riding in the next Federal elections.

Yesterday at a nominating convention, Mr. Bracken, present member for Neepawa, was nominated candidate for the constituency, seat of which now is held by J. E. Matthews, a Liberal, elected in the 1945 election with a clear majority of 1,249 votes over his Progressive Conservative opponent. It is not expected, however, that Mr. Matthews, now 78, would contest the seat in the next election.

In his first public appearance following his nomination, Mr. Bracken told a public meeting last night that the present high cost of living in Canada was due to a great extent, to the Dominion Government's inflationary policies which had expanded the flow of credit at a time when production was held back by controls.

Under this setup, he said, prices could not help but go up.

"The only way to control that sort of thing is by getting more production. Our charge is that they bungled those controls."

Speaking on the Federal government's announcement Monday night of new trade agreements and import restrictions, he said Progressive Conservative members had, for some months, warned the government that Canada had been "going into the red, living beyond its means, on a squandering spree. Only today do we learn they have done something about it."

CHILD FALLS INTO OPEN SEWER MANHOLE

Seattle, Nov. 19 — (AP)—Five-year-old Sharon Rothrock, walking between her father and an aunt across a rain-swept street intersection, plunged into an open sewer manhole and was swept away by the swift waters 12 feet below. No immediate trace of the youngster was found in a block-by-block search of the sewer.

Dalton Explains Budget Leakage To Labor Party

London, Nov. 19 — (Reuters)— Prime Minister Attlee attended a parliamentary Labor party meeting in the House of Commons today to hear Hugh Dalton, former Chancellor of the Exchequer, give his own account of the budget leakage which led to his resignation.

The meeting lasted three hours. It was concluded that the next moves were left in the hands of the cabinet.

After Dalton had addressed the meeting the meeting unanimously passed a resolution placing on record "its full confidence in Hugh Dalton and assuring him of the high regard in which he is held by his party colleagues."

However, after the meeting it was learned that the government intends to introduce a motion in parliament for debate this week, probably tomorrow, calling for appointment of a select committee to inquire into the circumstances of the leak, which Dalton made to the accredited parliamentary correspondent of the London Evening Star a few minutes before he addressed the House a week ago.

The select committee, which is a committee of inquiry drawn from members of all parties was originally demanded by the Conservative opposition.

Sees $7 Premium On Gold Effective 'Short Range' Step

Winnipeg, Nov. 19 (CP)—The federal government's recent premium offer of $7 a fine ounce for three years on additional gold production in Canada is described by J. S. Mcdiarmid, Manitoba's Mines Minister, as an effective "short range" method of boosting production.

the Montreal man had been forc-

"For the past few years, Canadian gold production has fallen off badly, from about $200,000,000 in 1941 to about $100,000,000 at present," he said.

"This at a time when we are in such desperate need of United States dollars."

Eight Violent Deaths Reported

Four traffic fatalities were among the eight violent deaths reported in Ontario during Monday and Tuesday.

A survey by The Canadian Press also showed deaths in a hunting mishap and a railroad accident, a death in hospital from injuries suffered in a beating, and a death in jail of a prisoner hanged with his own belt.

At Barrie, Thomas F. Burrows, retired clerk of Sunnidale township was killed when the auto in which he was riding was in a collision with a truck. Edwin Vesanen, 19, of Copper Cliff, was killed near Hamilton when a truck in which he was riding crashed into a tree.

Martin Cumpanski, 65, of Hamilton, died in hospital after a street accident, and John Martin, 76, died in hospital at Toronto after being struck by a truck and thrown under the wheels of a streetcar.

Gerald Carrothers, 30, arrested at Parkhill near London, in connection with theft was found dead hanging by his belt in jail. Isaac J. Hill, 77-year-old Six Nations Indian trapper died in hospital at Brantford of injuries suffered a week ago when he was beaten in the garage of his home at Ohsweken.

A freak railroad accident at Brantford killed Roland Straussburgher, 40, of Preston, when he struck a switch standard as he jumped from a train in the yards.

McKee Sentenced To Serve Six Months in Jail

Chicago, Nov. 19 (AP) — Mark T. McKee, Michigan steamship and airlines executive who has a residence at Linwood, Ont., yesterday was found guilty of contempt of court and sentenced to serve six months in the county jail for evasion of an order to produce his seven-year-old son in court.

McKee, 60, formerly a prominent figure in Michigan politics had been accused by his former wife, Mrs. Evelyn McKee, 38, of abducting the boy, Terry, and fleeing to Ontario in defiance of a California Supreme Court order granting Mrs. McKee full custody of the boy.

McKee's counsel, George Stansell, announced he would appeal the contempt conviction and Judge John Sbarbaro set bond for the defendant's release pending outcome of the appeal at $25,000. McKee posted the bond.

McKee's former wife testified she saw Terry Sunday through a window of McKee's daughter's home in suburban Park Ridge, Ill. Mrs. McKee said this was shortly after McKee was served with a writ of Habeas Corpus ordering the child's appearance in court Monday.

Terry's father testified the boy is in school in Canada.

McKee said he had been given custody of Terry by a "lower court" in Los Angeles Oct. 1, 1946, and that Terry already was in Canada when a California Supreme Court Order granted Mrs. McKee full custody of the boy the following January.

SIX U.S. ARMY FLIERS KILLED AS BOMBER HITS MAGAZINE

Havan, Ark., Nov. 19—(AP)— Six United States Army fliers were killed Monday night when an army bomber crashed into Mt. Magazine near here, exploded and burned during a rainstorm Monday night.

UNEMPLOYMENT BENEFITS

Ottawa, Nov. 19 — (CP) — More Canadians asked for unemployment insurance in September than in August but not as many as filed for benefits in September, 1946, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today. Some 20,883 filed initial and renewal forms in September against 17,281 the previous month and 28,555 in September, 1946.

On Eve of Princess' Wedding

As the marriage of Britain's beloved Princess Elizabeth and Lieut. Philip Mountbatten of the Royal Navy draws near, all Britain and all the Commonwealth peoples and peoples of other lands prepare to observe a memorable event as they extend felicitations to the young couple who will be wed on Thursday in the ancient Abbey of Westminster. Wedding bells will ring in Britain from the church towers and in the hearts of all. Despite the trying experiences and the problems that the British people are facing at this time of financial stress, they give themselves up to rejoicing with the Royal Family on this happy event.

Princess Elizabeth has been in the minds and hearts of the hundreds of millions of people of the Motherland and the Commonwealth ever since her birth and now on the happiest day of her life the joy and the best wishes of the people will be unconfined. With the age-old ritual of the Church of England the ceremony will take place and with it will be associated that outward show which demonstrates the spirit of all at this joyous occasion.

The young Princess has endeared herself to the people and their joy is the proof of the high opinion they hold of her. They have seen her devotion and they will celebrate the occasion as events are rarely celebrated with the proof of their affection for her and of their loyalty to the Throne and the members of the Royal Family so closely linked with the lives and the thoughts of the people. Therefore the King's Family and the people rejoice.

Prime Minister Honored

Canada's Prime Minister, the Right Honorable W. L. Mackenzie King, has been honored by His Majesty King George with membership in the Order of Merit, which is restricted to 24 members and is the highest award which the King can bestow which does not carry a title. Mr. King is the first Canadian to be so honored by membership in the order which was instituted by King Edward Seventh in 1902, membership being the personal gift of the Sovereign. There is only one other Commonwealth member of the Order, Prime Minister Field Marshal Smuts of South Africa who received the insignia of the order in last January's honors list. The O. M. has military and civil sections and is normally given for "exceptional meritorious service" in the service of the Crown or towards the advancement of art, literature and science and includes among its members a distinguished body of statesmen, authors and artists.

Mr. King has had a very long career of public service as Prime Minister of Canada, the longest of any prime minister of the Empire at this time.

Monday was a memorable day for Mr. King, one of the most memorable in his life for he brought wedding gifts from Canada to Her Royal Highness the Princess Elizabeth and extended congratulations on her forthcoming marriage and at the same time extended on behalf of the Canadian people an invitation for the Princess and her affianced husband to visit the Dominion at their convenience and suggested that the visit be an early one. The Princess graciously thanked the Prime Minister and the Canadian people for their gifts and their greetings to the young couple and expressed her pleasure to be able to visit the Dominion though she could not fix the time of the visit.

Canada is honored in the gift of membershop in the Order of Merit by His Majesty to the Prime Minister and awaits the opportunity to welcome the Princess and her husband-to-be, Lieutenant Mountbatten. Canadians recall with great pleasure the visit of Their Majesties the King and Queen in the spring of 1939 on which occasion the young Princesses did not accompany their parents. They have ever since looked forward to the day when they might welcome to the Dominion the daughters of Their Majesties.

"A Little More"

The first touch of snow has come and those who walk and those who ride or drive know that it means an extra chance of slipping, especially when, as happened this week, pools of water and partly melted snow froze into thin ice on walks and roadways overnight.

The necessary obligation resting therefore on motorists and pedestrians is to be a little more careful. Indeed the Highways Department reminds them that the winter is "a little more season."

A little more following distance between your car and the one ahead.

A little more promptness in beginning to apply brakes when it's slippery.

A little more attention to the condition of brakes, lights, windshield, and your car in general.

These little extras may mean a lot more safety.

Advice to Pedestrians

About three-quarters of all pedestrians killed in traffic accidents last year were violating a traffic law or committing an unsafe act, according to safety surveys.

Therefore pedestrians walking on highways or crossing them should walk watchfully and with reasonable caution. As a consequence they will be able to keep walking longer.

In the winter season pedestrian deaths rise because of the longer period of darkness, is the warning of the Ontario Department of Highways. When driving the motorist must watch out for the walker who may not be watching out for himself. This bit of advice by the Department may be worth more than any wealth. It may mean the saving of the walker's life. Here it is, "When walking, watch out for the driver who may not be watching out for you."

Guide to the House of Lords

Q. Of whom does the House of Lords consist?

A. It consists of some 840 peers. A peer may hold his seat in the House by (1) Hereditary right; (2) Creation by the King; (3) Official position or election. The House is made up of the Lords Spiritual and the Lords Temporal.

Q. Who are the Lords Spiritual?

A. The two Archbishops (Canterbury and York) and 24 senior bishops.

Q. Who are the Lords Temporal?

A. Here is a list of the Lords Temporal in order of degree: Two dukes of royal blood, 20 dukes, 27 marquesses, 132 earls, 97 viscounts, 514 barons, 16 representative peers for Scotland (elected for every new Parliament), and eight representative peers for Ireland (elected for life).

Q. Who presides over the House of Lords?

A. The Speaker of the Upper House is the Lord Chancellor — at present Viscount Jowitt — who sits on the Woolsack, historic symbol dating from the days when wool was Britain's major industry.

—London Daily Mail.

Huge Size of Motor Industry

More than half a million business concerns — or one-sixth of all business concerns in the United States — are based on the manufacture, sale, service or use of motor vehicles, the Automobile Manufacturers Association reports. They employ, in round numbers, 8,200,000 persons, about one out of seven persons employed in the country.

Engineering Research Station

A new research station for mechanical engineering is being set up in Britain on a site to be selected in Scotland by the Department of Scientific and Industrial Research. In addition, sub-stations for fuel, building and road research are also to be established in Scotland. The mechanical engineering station will undertake research of a type which forms the groundwork for development in this branch of industrial engineering.

Adults swallow twice as many objects as babies do, according to three doctors of the University of Illinois College of Medicine. Pins, nuts, coins, nails, chicken bones, hardware items and even entire dental plates are among the objects retrieved. Carelessness seems to be the reason.—

UNAFRAID

No dread of what the years may hold.
No heed to what the frightened tell
Or all the warnings of the old.
They're young, in love, and all is well.

"The future holds no hope!" they hear.
"The world is being destroyed by might!"
But they have neither doubt nor fear
Their little world will be all right.

And what if trouble lies ahead
And burdens difficult to bear?
Together, when their vows are said,
Life's joys and sorrows they will share.

Let sages view with great alarm
And cry that hope for all has gone . . .
Two lovers walking, arm in arm,
Are sure their world will still go on.

Filming of the Great War pictures which are being produced in Trenton was continued all day yesterday. The scenes were shot near the cemetery which comprises part of the battlefield.

Mr. T. P. J. Power will spend Thanksgiving Day in Chicago, Ill.

Mr. C. Saunders, Baldwin Street, well-known poultry fancier, won several prizes with his birds at the Toronto Winter Fair.

Nov. 19th., 1917.

Conservative nominations for the approaching Federal elections were held at Stirling today. There was a large attendance of persons from this city and elsewhere in the riding. Only two names were placed before Sheriff Morrison, the Returning Officer. R. J. Graham enters the field as an Independent Conservative supporting the Union Government, and E. Guss Porter will be the Conservative Party candidate supporting the Union Government.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Of what country is sugar cane native?

Sugar cane (Saccharum offinarum), a giant, perennial, jointed grass that is not known to grow anywhere in the wild state, is believed to have been indigenous to the East Indies.

"Sugar," as well as its cognates in other European languages, is from Arabic "sukker," which is probably from a Sanskrit root signifying "pebble."

Sugar cane is mentioned in Chinese manuscripts written 700 B.C., but the ancient Chinese and Hindus knew no process of extracting sugar crystals from the "sweet bamboo" and ate only pieces of the pith of the stalks much as we do candy. After Alexander the Great invaded India in 727 B.C. this troops took back to Greece a few stalks of the "honey-bearing reed" as souvenirs, but there is no evidence that this resulted in the cultivation of sugar cane in Europe.

Centuries later the cultivation of sugar cane spread to Persia whence it was carried by the Arabs into the Near East. Sugar-making in the modern sense appears to have begun in Egypt. The Crusaders brought sugar cane from the Levant to Europe about the 11th or 12th century and after that its cultivation became common in Sicily and Spain.

For several centuries sugar was costly and was used only as a medicine or as a luxury by the rich. It did not become a household article in England until Shakespeare's time.

Columbus himself introduced sugar cane into the New World while on his second voyage in 1494, when he supervised its planting at Isabella in Hispaniola, where it prospered beyond all expectation. Washington Irving says that the cultivation of sugar cane in the West Indies became a quick and sure means of acquiring wealth and that it was a by-word in Spain that the magnificent palaces of Charles V at Madrid and Toledo were built of sugar from Hispaniola. When Diego Columbus, the Admiral's son, returned to Hispaniola in 1522 interest in sugar cane had completely supplanted that in the gold mines.

During the 16th and 17th centuries the plant spread to nearly all the European colonies in the tropics and sub-tropics. When Capt. James Cook first visited Hawaii in 1778 he found the natives cultivating several varieties of sugar cane, but the Hawaiians, the ancient Chinese and Hindus, used the sweet cane only in the raw state. It is supposed that the original Polynesian settlers in Hawaii brought sugar cane with them from Samoa more than a thousand years earlier.

In 1747 Andreas Marggraf, a German chemist, discovered that beets contain large quantities of sugar identical with cane sugar. His pupil, Franz Karl Achard, was granted an estate in Silesia on which to experiment, and by 1806 his first factory was turning out beet sugar successfully. In 1812 Napoleon boycotted cane sugar, then produced chiefly in the British-controlled West Indies, known as the "Sugar Islands," and sent French scientists to Silesia to learn Achard's beet-sugar methods. Napoleon's "Sugar War" was ineffective, but it firmly established the beet-sugar industry in France.

GREATEST POST-WAR COAL SHORTAGE IN EUROPE

Geneva, Nov. 19 —(AP)— Europe will face its greatest post-war coal shortage in 1948, according to figures released by the United Nations Economic Commission for Europe. In 1948, the production deficit is expected to reach 41,000,000 tons.

NO BEER, NO WORK

I am a rabid teetotaler — although I have taken a glass of beer, a glass of wine, and even a mess of disagreeable stuff called a cocktail of some kind, in an experimental way.

Some three years ago, I conceived the theory that a glass of wine or ale or beer twice a day might make elderly, infirm and perhaps somewhat peevish folk easier to live with, and became so pleased with my reasoning that I printed a recommendation of a glass of wine, ale or beer twice a day for such elderly infirm persons.

Well, sir, some of the letters I received from my former followers or friends deploring my fall from grace were pretty painful to me. They merely asked what my mother would have thought or how she would have felt about it — you see, I had referred here sometimes to the fact that my mother was an active member and officer of the Women's Christian Temperance Union when I was a boy in Canandaigua and how thankful I have always been that mother was so fortunate and how grateful I shall always be to the W.C.T.U. for their spirit and teaching.

But that wasn't what made me reconsider my suggestion of a glass of wine, ale or beer twice a day for elderly infirm persons—I repeat the elderly infirm part of it because I found that the alcohol interests, true to character, misquoted me as advocating moderate use of alcohol for middle aged or young persons. I was more impressed by my failure to find a single instance of any appreciable benefit from the use of wine, beer or ale as I had suggested by an elderly infirm person who had not been in the habit of drinking. So I had to admit my theory had not been substantiated in practice. Accordingly I published here an acknowledgment of the quandary I was in and a plea to readers, medical or lay, who may have had any actual experience with the effects of wine, ale or beer on such elderly infirm persons to tell me about it. theory.

So in an article published Sunday, Sept. 14, '47 under the title Teetotal Abstainer Does a Right About Face and again in the article published Wednesday, Sept. 17, '47 under the title Back on the Water Wagon, I formally withdrew my recommendation of wine, beer or ale for elderly infirm persons, confessed I had been grievously wrong about it, and climbed aboard the wagon again—and I assure you it is going to take more than a theory to get me off the wagon ever again.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

How to Breathe

I feel sure, and my physician agrees, that what I learned about breathing and how it helps the circulation, by studying your remarkable brochure How to Breathe has been of the greatest benefit to me. I have coronary.

(J. F.)

Answer — Anyway, it is well to know that in any circumstance the way you breathe, habitually or as a regular therapeutic exercise, determines to a considerable degrees the efficiency of your circulation, whether your chief complaint be dysmenorrhea, insomnia, heart trouble with broken compensation, hemorrhoids, varicose veins or cold feet.

Leg Cramps

Many nights I suffer severely with leg cramps — they wake me from sound sleep and I have to walk the floor till they let up.

(D. M.)

Answer — Send stamped self addressed envelope for pamphlet Adult Tetany and Growing Pains.

Sleep My Pretty One, Sleep

How many hours of sleep does a young adult doing office work need?

(Dorothy M.)

Answer — Eight in summer, nine in winter. Less than that and you'll look less beautiful, lady.

Gradual Scattering of Matter Through Space Foreseen as End of Universe

By FRANK E. CAREY

Washington, Nov. 19 (AP) — The end of the universe through a gradual scattering of all matter through cold space is seen as a possibility by Harvard's famed astronomer, Dr. Harlow Shapley. But don't get excited.

Our own system of planets has not even started to go into this cosmic spread-formation and Shapley is thinking in terms of millions of years.

His view is that creation may be slowly dying by "negative gravitation" — a cosmic force which already has caused many distant galaxies (star systems) to fly apart.

"At the same time," Shapley said in the annual report of the Smithsonian Institution, "through the operation of the laws of thermo-dynamics, the heat of the stars is going out into the coldness of space.

"The universe is steadily approaching the heat-death — a coldness near absolute zero in an empty world."

But the astronomer offered this comforting thought:

Although the stars — like our own sun — radiate plenty of free heat into space, they have built-in subatomic energy "stoves" which will enable them to replace the lost heat a thousandfold for millions of years to come.

Getting back to the cosmic scattering:

Shapley holds that most of the hundred-billion-odd galaxies — far distant from our own "milky way" galaxy — are flying away from one another with enormous velocities, which eventually may bring about "infinite dissipation" of all the bodies that go to make up the universe.

These galaxies are systems of stars numbering about 60,000,000,000 twinklers apiece. Each is separated from the other by millions of "light years." A "light year" is six million-million miles, so the galaxies are not exactly chummy even now.

Of late years Shapley said, astronomers "have come to the concept of a new force — cosmic repulsion. It might be called negative gravitation. Its effect can be loosely described as the tendency of material bodies to scatter from each other.

HIRED BY MEYERS

Bleriot-H. Lamarre testifies that Maj.-Gen. Bennett Meyers, ex-A.A.F. procurement chief, hired him in 1939 "to protect his financial interests" in the Aviation Electric Co. of Dayton, Ohio, which later secured A.A.F. contracts. Lamarre told the committee that Meyers gave him the impression that he "owned" the company — the firm Lamarre subsequently headed as president.

Street Cars Run In Vancouver As Strike Ends

Vancouver, Nov. 19 — (CP) — The rumble of street cars was heard in Vancouver, Victoria and New Westminster Tuesday for the first time in more than four weeks, marking the end of the transit strike which had snarled transportation in the west coast cities since mid-October.

Decision of the Street Railwaymen's Union (A.F.L.) to end the strike was announced last night following a vote of the membership which was 2,169 ballots cast in favor of a return to work and 360 against.

The vote signified the union's acceptance of a settlement plan drawn up by Labor Minister Wismer of British Columbia. The formula, also agreed to by the British Columbia Electric Railway Company, gave the 3,850 striking workers a 15-cent hourly wage boost. They had asked for a 20-cent increase. It did not change the present 46-hour week which the union had asked be cut down to 40 hours.

MARRIAGE NOTICE

MORRISON—JONES — At St. Michael's Rectory on Saturday, Nov. 8th., by Rev. Father C. Carley, Noreen Alice Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Blake Jones, Mt. View, to Raymond Joseph Morrison, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Morrison, of Belleville.

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. G. Wright-Meyer wish to announce the engagement of their daughter, Roberta Jane, to Stephen Conrad Geneja, the marriage to take place, Friday evening, Dec. 5th., 1947, at Bethel Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Oreer, of Kingston, spent Sunday, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. Cory, Charles Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Fry, Pinnacle Street, arrived in New York, November tenth, aboard the Queen Mary after a two-months' visit in England.

Mrs. H. Freeman of Preston, Ont., spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Middleton, Charles Street.

Miss Jean Lake, of Toronto, was a weekend guest of her sister, Mrs. S. Lathangue and Mr. Lathangue, Foster Ave.

Mrs. Harry Stewart was the weekend guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. Lorimer, John Street.

Tea hostesses at the Belleville Garrison Badminton Club opening meeting this evening will be Mrs. L. G. Fozard, Mrs. E. F. Fairman, Mrs. H. F. Mott and Mrs. V. J. White.

Mr. Jack Workman, Toronto, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. S. Lathangue, Foster Ave.

Friends of Mrs. W. C. McCutcheon, 190 Bridge Street East, will regret to learn of her bereavement occasioned by the death of her mother, Mrs. John Carleton, which occurred in Ottawa, this morning. Mrs. McCutcheon left for Ottawa this afternoon.

Mrs. W. J. Tyers, Foster Ave., returned home on Monday from Woodstock, where she was a guest for the 25th wedding anniversary of her sister, Mrs. Roy Mabee and Mr. Mabee, last Saturday. Four other sisters were also present for the occasion.

WEDDINGS

POULOS—ANDREWS

Many members of the local Greek society were in Toronto on Sunday attending the Poulos-Andrews wedding which took place Sunday evening at the St. George Greek Orthodox Church. Principals in the marriage were George Poulos of Belleville, co-owner of the National Billiards on Front Street, and Miss Betty Andrews of Toronto.

Approximately two hundred guests attended the wedding, many coming from cities in different parts of Canada and from centres in the United States. Following their honeymoon, the couple will reside in Belleville.

DENYES—SIMMONS

Baskets of white 'mums and potted ferns were used to decorate Holloway Street United Church for the candle-lighted marriage ceremony at seven o'clock, p.m., November 15th., when Barbara Helen Simmons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Murney J. Simmons, Belleville, became the bride of Douglas Gene Denyes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otho R. Denyes, Belleville, with Rev. Chas. A. Perkins officiating.

The bride was charmingly attired in a street length dress of brown wool, with beige trim, and a matching hat. Her arm bouquet was of Johanna Hill roses. Her only attendant was Miss Jean Marshall, wearing a gabardine dress in a soft brown shade, with matching hat. She carried a nosegay of yellow and cream roses.

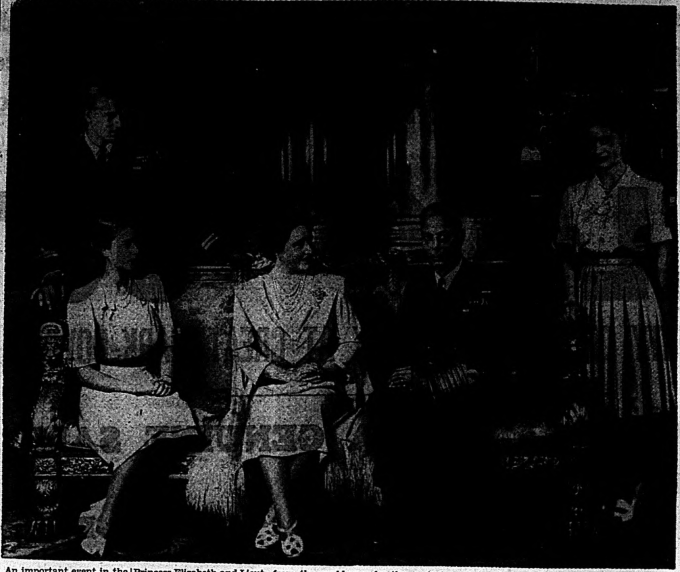
Mr. Harold Maybee, of Frankford, ably supported the groom.

Following the ceremony an informal reception was held for the immediate families at the home of the bride's parents, when Mrs. Simmons received wearing a dress of grey crepe, with a corsage of American Beauty roses. The groom's mother also received, wearing a dress of navy blue crepe.

For a motor trip to Western and Northern Ontario, the bride chose a suit of green, with brown topcoat and accessories. Her corsage was of tea roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Denyes will later take up residence at 74 Catharine Street, Belleville.

Tomorrow's Royal Wedding Marks Historic Event For British Empire



An important event in the long history of the British Empire takes place tomorrow with the wedding of H.R.H. Princess Elizabeth and Lieut. Philip Mountbatten in Westminster Abbey. Thousands of visitors have congregated from the world over for the event, and all London will rise early to watch the procession to the Abbey. This exclusive photo shows, left to right, Lieut. Philip Mountbatten, Princess Elizabeth, Queen Elizabeth, King George and Princess Margaret Rose.

V.O.N. Holds Monthly Meeting

Mr. C. B. Morgan, president of the Belleville Branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses, presided for the monthly meeting held in the Board Room of the Y.M.C.A. Monday evening.

Financial statement and secretarial reports were presented by Mrs. K. L. Reid and Mrs. H. M. Francis.

"History of the Order" recently compiled by John Murray Gibbon, marking 50 years of progress for the Order, appeared for the first time.

This record includes pictures of early and modern nurses, and a stirring account of the difficulties which beset Lady Aberdeen when she first made public her sponsorship of this organization. The book is a valuable historical document in the history of visiting nursing in Canada, and the local branch of the V. O. N. hopes to sell 4,000 copies as a special publicity effort to commemorate the fiftieth anniversary.

Miss Harriet McGeary, nurse-in-charge of the Belleville branch, reported 53 new patients during October, and 45 dismissed. Of the 53 new patients 19 were medical or surgical; 3 pre-natal; 10 mothers home from hospital, and 16 newborn babies, five of whom were of mothers who had received pre-natal care.

Nothing Extra

The attention of the board was pointed to the fact that the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. feels that pre-natal teaching by public health nurses in America is so important to public welfare that they pay for one visit each month to policy holders whose policies include this service, without the holders paying one cent extra for the service.

During October 381 visits were made, bringing the total to 4,450 to date, an increase of 58 over the corresponding period last year. With 607 pupils in the two schools served by the Order, nurses have a full program, making 22 visits, covering 61 hours spent in school buildings.

Due to an epidemic of scarlet fever in Cannifton, the M.O.H., Dr. Empson, immunized the school and pre-school population of the district. Miss G. Connor was his assistant in this work.

Baby conferences are held weekly, October attendance being 113. The M.O.H. conducted a monthly toxoid clinic, with attendance of 55. On the same days Dr. Marshall held pre-school and infant dental clinics with an attendance of 15.

Tokyo, Nov. 19 — (AP)—Japanese cities have no milk for children except a little of the powdered variety imported from the United States — but in the village of Kashio milk baths are available.

Kashio keeps all its milk because of prohibitive transportation costs, and its 90 families have 35 dairy cows.

Miss Ruth Longwell Guest of Honor at Miscellaneous Shower

The home of Miss Dorothy Read, Foxboro, was beautifully decorated in a color scheme of pink and white last Friday evening, when Miss Read was hostess for a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Ruth Longwell, bride-elect.

Approximately fifteen friends were guests who spent the early evening in community singing and the compiling of a bride's book.

Delectable refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants, completing a very enjoyable occasion.

Royal Wedding Holiday for Many Pupils

(By The Canadian Press)

The wedding of Princess Elizabeth tomorrow will be an occasion for special rejoicing by many of Ontario's school children.

At least a dozen of the province's major centres have decided to give the youngsters a holiday, taking advantage of the Provincial Board of Education's notice that they would not lose their school grants by doing so, a Canadian Press survey showed.

Thus the wide-eyed children will be given an opportunity to join their elders in listening to reports of the ceremony in Westminster Abbey.

Centres giving the holiday include Toronto, Hamilton, London, Windsor, Stratford, Oshawa, Belleville, Kitchener, Kingston, Cornwall and Beamsville. Generally the free day will apply to public, separate and secondary schools.

No general holiday is planned by businessmen, although there may be isolated instances of merchants closing shop, either as a celebration or hear broadcast reports of the wedding.

BRONCHITIS COLDS Relieve Misery With VICKS VapoRub

Laymen of Prince Edward Deanery Elects Officers

The great hope that after the war nations would be united in peace and dependent on one another to fight the war disease has not materialized. Instead nations have no ambition towards these ends and are fighting one another for supremacy with the result that one-half of the world's inhabitants are drifting due to lack of spirit, Dr. Philip Ketchum, Head Master, Trinity College School, Port Hope told the annual meeting of the Laymen's Association of the Prince Edward Deanery last night.

The speaker felt the Marshall plan was a good one but had several short comings. It gave aid to European nations in billions of dollars yet one part would receive something and several small parts nothing. It was subject to the "whims of Congress" inasmuch as it could turn down the plan as it did the League of Nations under Wilson. Would the people receiving such aid feel there was no need of their own effort and sit down and enjoy help from others without helping themselves?

He felt the U. N. was more important than this. Nations after discouraging war operations should promote world unity and appreciate each others problems to settle discord without resorting to war.

Refers to Russia

Referring to Russia, Dr. Ketchum said that it was not fair to call all Russians Communists any more than it was to call all Canadians Liberals. The Communists being dictators, depend upon their power to control the country. These dictators can insure hardship by the promise of better things; distrust of other nations, rule with iron discipline and to point out the conditions of Europe as they are. They are using the power of the atomic bomb, and the United States as a threat to the Russian people.

It was not the nature of the atomic bomb that depressed the Russian people but the secret of its manufacture when their country was an ally. Russia rejoiced at the defeat of Japan by the United States but resented American press reports that it could be used to destroy Communism.

Dr. Ketchum deplored the fact that many people are hurling insults at Russia. Many wrong statements are being made by social leaders in other countries. "People," he added, "should keep their heads and be calm about what they read and hear."

Should be Patient

"We should be patient, intelligent and firm for Canada has a big part to play if she is to be the medium of extremists. Such a role can be played and a happy medium reached through the UNO," he concluded.

Dr. Ketchum was introduced by the Rev. Arthur Smith, St. Thomas Church with meeting appreciation expressed by Alfred Evans.

During the business session of the meeting at which 55 representatives from Belleville, Shannonville, Marmora and Deseronto, were present, Dr. J. Clarke, Belleville was elected president; Alfred Evans, vice president; D. A. Young, secretary treasurer, and Arthur Simpson and Frank Creeggan representative to the Diocesan Council.

The meeting held under the auspices of St. Thomas Men's Association was presided over by Mr. Arthur Simpson, with Jack White, association president welcoming the delegates. Maurice Button proposed the toast to the clergy and responded to by Canon W. E. Kidd, Deseronto. The Rev. Grant Sparling, Christ Church, proposed the toast to the laity with the response given by Lt. Col. E. A. Geen. The meeting was held in St. Thomas Parish Hall.

Communist - Led Strikes Form Background for Events in France

Paris, Nov. 19 —(AP) — A spokesman for the Socialist party today announced that former Premier Leon Blum had agreed to try to form a new government.

The announcement was made by Guy Mollet, secretary—treasurer of the Socialist party, at a luncheon of the Anglo-American Correspondents Association.

Mollet, considered a member of the Left Wing of the Socialists said he believed a new cabinet would be formed within a few days to succeed that of Socialist Premier Paul Ramadier.

France had permitted herself to be divided into two groups and that if civil war should result, it would be "as bad as it was in Spain."

Military trucks rushed flour into Paris to assure the French capital of its daily bread.

Stabilize Bread Ration

Government sources said the new shipments of flour, with reserve stocks already in bakers warehouses, would keep the bread ration stable in spite of the walkout of 4,500 Parisian millers.

The Communist-led General Confederation of Labor (C.G.T.) seeking a 3,800-franc (about $31) increase in the minimum monthly wage and 25-per-cent salary advances pending negotiations, already has tied up France's coal mines, most of her automobile industry, and her Mediterranean ports.

Shaken by the developments, Socialist Premier Paul Ramadier worked hard to build a stronger coalition cabinet, but neither he nor former Premier Paul Reynaud, his possible successor, were having any immediate success.

This was the labor situation:

Northern France — 14,000 coal miners on strike and main pits closed.

Marseille—Between 60,000 and 70,000 dockers, sailors, transport and other workers on strike. Troops unloaded perishable food. American seamen on the freighter Henry Gilbert Coston, in the harbor voted a resolution supporting the strikers, but did not strike themselves.

Paris — Majority of workers in six main automobile and truck manufacturing plants struck. The Paris region C.G.T. Federation of Unions issued a statement urging all metallurgical workers in Paris to strike.

(Reuters news agency said the cabinet had failed today to reach agreement on wage proposals causing the strikes.)

ALL COMMENT ON

The government "after a much-too-long delay" had announced a "long and bewildering and disillusioning program."

"With only a brief time to peruse newspaper accounts, it is difficult to base considered judgment."

The Dominion's two top Labor leaders — Percy Bengough, president of the Trades and Labor Congress, and A. R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Congress of Labor — said in Ottawa that the "austerity" program had its merits. But they, too, were cautious.

Said Mr. Bengough: "It will probably take some time for the full effects to become apparent."

Said Mr. Mosher: ". . . on the surface it doesn't seem to be too bad."

Mean Higher Prices

M. J. Coldwell, C. C. F. leader, said that import restrictions without reimposition of price controls will mean higher prices and living costs for Canadians. The restrictions were necessary but should have been taken before "our dollar reserves had fallen to such a great extent."

In Winnipeg, the general sales manager of Hudson Motors of Canada Ltd., expressed the "probability" that the ban on import of United States-built automobiles will mean a spread in black-market operations in used - car sales.

". . . We fear this will prove too great a boon to the unscrupulous operators, who will charge unheard-of prices for automobiles," said C. R. Gall.

Leonard Akerman, managing director of the Tea Bureau said in Toronto that tea prices are expected to remain at about $1 a pound despite lower duties. Coffee distributors said the approximate 50-cents-a-pound price for coffee likely would not be changed.

U. S. ARMY PLANES JOIN IN SEARCH

Goderich, Nov. 18 — (CP) — United States Army planes from Selfridge Field, Mich., today joined the search for James R. Misener, 40-year-old duck hunter of Stratford, who has been missing on Lake Huron after going adrift in a small boat last Saturday.

The planes took off for sweeps up and down the lake to aid the aerial hunt organized by Keith Hopkinson, manager of Sky Harbor airport here.

THINKS RUSSIANS HAVE SUCCEEDED IN BUILDING REPRODUCTION

Washington, Nov. 19 —(AP)— Gen. Carl Spaatz said yesterday the Russians apparently have succeeded in building reproductions of the B-29 bomber. Spaatz, chief of the United States Army Air Force, suggested designs had been obtained from the wreckage of American Flying Super-Fortresses which crash-landed in eastern Siberia during the war.

Lapel-Plucker Philip Poised Now in Public

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London. (CP)—It will be "early to bed and early to rise" for Lieut. Philip Mountbatten, glamor boy of the Royal Navy when he spends his last bachelor night at Kensington Palace on Nov. 19.

With his jovial, high-spirited best man—his cousin the Marquess of Milford Haven—Mountbatten will stay one night at the austere grey-walled palace as the guest of his grandmother, the Dowager Marchioness of Milford Haven.

They will arrive for dinner and retire, according to friends, soon after the BBC's 10 o'clock news broadcast which Mountbatten rarely misses. Bright and early next morning he will be up and about with the Marquess helping him prepare for the Abbey ceremony.

Shortly before 11 the two naval officers, in spick and span uniforms, will drive by car to Westminster Abbey, arriving at the famous Poet's Corner—resting place of Britain's greatest writers—one minute before his bride leaves Buckingham Palace with her father.

They will travel in one of the King's cars from the Royal Mews, but the only escort will be a Palace car occupied by police and detectives, for not until after the marriage does Mountbatten rank as a royal personage.

Though quiet and unassuming by nature, the fair, pleasant-looking lieutenant has already broken into the glare of publicity. Almost from the moment of his engagement on July 9, he has accompanied the princess and her family on their round of official duties.

Loses Nervousness

Observers have been impressed by his good humor and poise, but they also notice that on most public occasions he usually makes a bee-line for other servicemen, especially naval men with whom he can talk shop.

Of late, however it has been remarked that Mountbatten has lost his former nervousness in public. He no longer fusses with his tie or fiddles with his coat lapels.

As if he had been quietly groomed for his forthcoming role as prince consort, he stands easily and confidently, but not too stifly, hands behind his back or with one placed nonchalantly in his pocket. He talks quickly and informally.

Friends say he has not lost his keen sense of the ridiculous and always tries to minimize the importance of the Royal rank which he relinquished to become a British subject.

At the naval school at Kingsmoore, Wiltshire, where he has been an instructor since the war, Philip frequently plays darts at the local pub and exchanges wise-cracks with the "regulars".

"He is one of the best," a naval colleague said of him. "He has never given himself airs and I don't think he ever will."

KING MICHAEL ARRIVES FOR ROYAL NUPTIALS

THIS TENANT ORDERED TO MOVE

Cleveland, Nov. 19 —(AP) — Time was when landlord Joseph Vanek enjoyed tilting a few drinks with his upstairs tenant, Frank Skebe, Vanek told municipal court.

But no more. Vanek said he's joined Alcoholics Anonymous and didn't want any more drinking parties in his home.

Judge Andrew M. Kovachy ordered Skebe to move by Jan. 7.

Johannesburg. (CP)—H. Rider Haggard—of "She" fame—would love this:

South Africa's natives think white people should pull up their socks when it comes to choosing wedding gifts for Princess Elizabeth.

Right now gossips are passing the jungle-drum opinion along the main concessions of Bechuanaland and Basutoland that white men are still living in the days of high-buttoned shoes.

For example, a Zulu rickshaw boy recently spat out some sunflower seeds to say he thought a brand new rickshaw would be just the thing for Elizabeth. Besides, he mused, not only would it be a keen vehicle but it would make an austere contribution to Rotten Row.

A Xosa (pronounced Sosa) leaned one knee and an elbow on an assegai to warn all that "Princess Elizabeth is no ordinary person."

A personal gift, he argued, must not be just ordinary. Matter of fact, "I don't know what form it should take but the best brains in the country should get together and discuss the matter."

But, he said, it was common scuttlebut around the veldt that what Elizabeth really needed was cattle and sheep. After all, guests attending the wedding should have plenty to eat and be happy.

It was interesting to note, he added, that the Zulus, to whom he is distantly related, still cling to the old belief that a well-fed wedding party is a bang-up wedding.

The giving of cattle upon marriage settle several things. First, of course, that's the means of winning the bride (and remember these are days of shortages), and second, folks just flock to the ceremony—and pack several kreals with sensible gifts.

At this point, a Mosutho said all Elizabeth's presents should consist of native pottery, karosses (mantles of animals' skins), beadwork and a radio. The first three would remind her of her visit to South Africa.

The radio would enable her to hear good music. He knew that it helped him no end.

A Nyanga (medicine man) packed away some potent medicine and came up with the idea that the prize present should be a crocodile's hide, a python skin and some elephant fat.

Rawdon

Rawdon. (Special.)—Mr. and Mrs. John B. Hagerman were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Jeffrey of Napanee.

Miss Fay Fleming spent the weekend with Rev. and Mrs. T. F. Townsend, Deseronto.

Mrs. Burton Sharp and Carol, and Mrs. Warren Harlow, spent a day with Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Hardy at Dartford.

At Salem United Church a double baptism was held when Margaret June, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Thomas Clements and Barbara Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Twiddy, were christened by Rev. J. F. Everson.

Wellman's Ladies Entertained

Wellman's W.I. and W.M.S. meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Clancy.

Mrs. Lorne Watson outlined the topic on "The Hymns Written by Fanny Crosby".

Rev. N. Cole spoke briefly. Mrs. Wilfred Sine gave a reading and Miss Ruth Clancy and Master Craig Watson sang a duet.

The hostess served refreshments.

Laurel Rebekah Lodge Observes 27th Anniversary

Following the business part of the meeting a short program was presented, including a reading by Sister I. Good, followed by two minutes silence in memory of the fallen in the First and Second World Wars; a duet by Sister Mildred Morrow and Sister Annie Warren; readings by Sister M. Heath, Sister Isobel McIntosh and Sister Bessie Patterson; short addresses were given by Sister Isabelle Carr, Assembly Warden, Sister Eva Turvey, D.D.P. and Sister Mildred Morrow, Assembly Chaplain.

Presentations

A feature of the evening was presentations from Laurel Lodge to a number of the distinguished members of the Order including Sister Carr, Assembly Warden, Sister Turvey, District President; and Sister M. Morrow, Assembly Chaplain. The accompanying addresses were read by Sister W. Stinson; Sister Nora Wescott, and Sister E. Bailey and the presentations made by Sister C. Eggleton, Sister Marion Carlisle, and Sister E. Finkle.

At the conclusion of the meeting the twenty-seven candles adorning a beautifully decorated three - tier birthday cake, made by Sister E. Bradshaw, Jr., Past Noble Grand, were lighted by Sister M. Megginson, first Noble Grand of Laurel Lodge. The Assembly Warden cut the cake and wished Laurel Rebekah Lodge many more happy birthdays.

A social hour concluded a very pleasant evening.

Junior Farmer Activities

Following the minutes and the roll call, new pins were distributed to those who had recently joined. Mr. Dalrymple announced the Madoc Get-together which will be held in the Madoc Armoouries on November 28th., at 8 p.m., and expressed the hope that the Sidney group would have a better representation at the event than they had at the Public Speaking Contest. It was moved that Maitland Harder be authorized to attend the Executive School in Stirling to bring the total attendance up to four boys and at the same time suggested that Bob Armstrong be appointed as an alternative delegate.

The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

Joint Meeting

The Cannifton Town Hall was filled to capacity on Friday evening, November 14th., when a joint meeting of Junior Farmers and parents was held.

The program for the evening was under the direction of Messrs. Frank Corrigan and Reid Roblin from the Massey-Harris Company. These gentlemen opened the program with three short films of comics and natural life. After the business discussion, Mr. Bob Phillips of the Belleville Collegiate Institute, spoke on the courses offered at the Collegiate every Wednesday night from eight to ten. Mr. Reid Roblin, Blockman, for the district, spoke on the Centennial Film which showed the progress of the Massey-Harris Company from the first mower to the modern self-propelled combine. This film, which was made in many countries, started in Ontario, going down to the United States, across to England and Europe, as well as to Africa, South America and Mexico and finally back to Canada.

Centenary

CENTENARY W.A. and W.M.S.

Centenary — Mrs. D. Thrasher kindly opened her home for the W. A. and W. M. S. meeting on Thursday, Nov. 13th., the president in charge of the opening exercises.

The 23rd Psalm was repeated in unison. Mrs. G. Sills had charge of the devotional period, her theme being "Prayer." Mrs. E. Hart read a poem entitled "Our Obligation" and Mrs. P. Sutherland read one of Edgar Guest's poems on "Remembrance Day." It was decided to give a donation of $15 to M. and M. Fund, $5 of this to be earmarked for Fred Victor Mission. It was also carried that $10 be given to the Temperance Federation. A nominating committee consisting of the executive of the W.A. and W.M.S. was formed to prepare a slate of officers for the year 1948. The meeting closed with a hymn.

The W.M.S. meeting opened with a hymn and prayer by Rev. A. C. McCallum.

Mrs. Kelley gave her report on Temperance, mentioning Tweed's vote results.

Mrs. Roblin and Mrs. R. Thrasher gave a good report of the sectional rally held at Trenton last month.

Rev. Mr. McCallum told the story of Bible translation from a chapter of the Study Book.

The meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her committee.

Stirling, Napanee Winners Over Madoc, Point Anne in Wide-Open Scoring Twin Bill

Doug Bastedo, Meagher Brothers, Give Dazzling Exhibition to Pace Stirling to 9-3 Victory; Poor Goalkeeping Responsible for Points 10-5 Downfall Before Napanee

Twenty-seven goals rattled the twine in two fast exciting games of the Belleville District Hockey League last night, as the Point Anne squad bowed to the Napanee team 10-5 in the curtain raiser and an inspired fast-skating Stirling team downed their ancient foes from Madoc by a 9-3 count.

Their win gives Napanee undisputed possession of the top slot in "A" section of the loop with a one-point lead over the Belleville Rockets, while Stirling's victory, their second straight, gives them a first-place tie with Cobourg in "B" section.

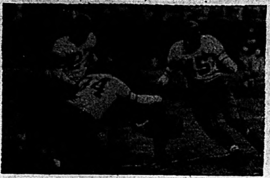
Napanee 10, Point Anne 5

Point Anne came up with a hard skating fighting team but was greatly handicapped by weakness in the net. Smith, their custodian allowed six easy goals to slip by him and had the Ox Pointers been better bolstered in this position the score would have been greatly different.

At least four of the points scored against them were easy "drifters" along the ice which Smith fanned on. But the Point clan never gave up the battle and in the last half of the third period they completely outplayed the winners.

As it was they carried the play to the Gibbardville crew in the opening innings and rammed home the first goal from Murney Green's stick at the four minute mark. Then came two heartbreaking goals, and Smith appeared to go to pieces. Goyer tied the count on Houle's pass but Napanee scored two more to end the chukker 4-2. They added two more in the second, with Herbie Hayes doing an outstanding job in the nets to ward off the Point attackers.

WEATHER CLEAR, FIELD FAST



While Canadian rugby players wallowed in snow and mud over the weekend, in New York the weather was clear, field fast. Here Spec Sanders of the New York Yankees professional football team is stopped by Ray Frankowski of the Los Angeles Dons, but not before making a 14-yard gain in the first quarter of the All-American Conference game at the Yankee Stadium, New York. Closing in are Dick Danehe and Bob Reinhard of the Dons.

Napanee scored three more in the first seven minutes of the third period but Williamson got one back with a beautiful effort. The Point skated miles and hemmed the winners in their own end of the rink ramming home two quick goals after Currie had made it 10-3. They swarmed around Hayes and shoved two counters past him and were battling furiously at the gong.

Markle, McPherson and Gerow were the stars of the winners each getting two goals with Markle credited with three assists and the others two each. Ken Murphy and Bill Jackson also stood out with Herbie Hayes.

Stirling 9, Madoc 3.

Two diminutive wings centred by a whirling dervish on skates paced an inspired Stirling team to an upset lopsided victory over the strong Madoc team by a 9-3 score in the second tilt.

The Meagher brothers, Al and Berny, flashed up and down their respective boards with Doug Bastedo making the plays in the best line exhibition of the schedule thus far. In fact it was the best effort this trio has turned in since this writer can remember.

They accounted for eleven scoring points with Bastedo scoring three goals, and two assists, Berny getting one and one and Al one goal and three helpings. The work of the trio stood out all night, and their sensational display not only disorganized the opposition but inspired their mates to a collectively fine effort.

Both teams played wide-open hockey all night, but the fast pace told on the Madoc team in the third period and they faded as the flying Stirling forwards raced in for five goals with but a single return.

The first period was productive of close checking fast hockey with Doug Bastedo getting the only goal of the heat when he took Al. Meagher's pass to ram home the biscuit at the eight-minute mark. Bastedo scored his second goal of the night two minutes after the second heat opened but McInroy got one back on Williams pass inside the blue line. Berny Meagher and G. Leonard added a couple more with Holway circling the Stirling net for a pretty goal to make the period score 4-2.

The third period saw the red-shirted clan of Stirling flash through for four goals in the first 13 minutes of play. Cousins scored for Madoc with four minutes to go but B. Bastedo chalked up the 9th Stirling marker from Trumble's pass close in.

Madoc was thwarted time after time by the fine work of Bridgeman in the Stirling nets, while Hearns, although nine pucks went past him also made some brilliant saves. G. Leonard also turned in a fine effort for Stirling as did Utman, Lavender and Trumble.

Goyer stood out for the Madoc crew along with Williams and Bill Holway, although this trio have played better hockey. McInroy, Baldwin, and Cousins also went well for the losers.

The teams:—

FULL SCHEDULE MAY SHUFFLE LOOP STANDING

Toronto Leafs Play at Boston, Canadiens at Chicago and Rangers at Detroit

(By The Canadian Press)

A full schedule of three games tonight may shuffle thoroughly the tight National Hockey League standings, starting with the loop-leading Toronto Maple Leafs.

Leafs are in Boston, where they haven't won a game against the Bruins since March, 1945. The Montreal Canadiens, who appear in the throes of a slump, are at Chicago, and the New York Rangers travel to Detroit Red Wings.

The Boston home crowd, accustomed to seeing their Bruins wallop Leafs at the Boston arena, might see something different tonight. Big Syl Apps, Toronto captain and veteran centre, appears in a new role as leading scorer—he's five points ahead of Canadiens' Maurice Richard—and Sylvanus shows every intention of staying in that sport.

Duel Between Goalies

The Boston game also affords a duel between the League's leading goalies, burly Turk Broda of Toronto and agile Frankie Brimsek of Boston. Brimsek with one shut-out and a goal-yield of only an average 1.82 has an edge over Broda so far.

The Canadiens, defeated by Boston and Rangers in their last two starts, won't have any cinch at Chicago either. Since Manager Bill (Trader) Tobin completed his sensational player deals the Hawks have been no push-overs.

Frank Boucher leads his Rangers into Detroit for a crack at the Wings with the whole New York squad pepped up by the showing of their 21-year-old rookie from Winnipeg, Don Raleigh, who set a league record for speedy assists Sunday by getting three in the space of a minute and 21 seconds.

Boucher thinks now that Raleigh will win the Calder trophy this season as the league's outstanding rookie.

CUSTOMERS RUSH TO JOIN TROJAN BANDWAGON

Team Coached by Wally Masters, Who Was First Import to Canada

By H. DENT HODGSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Nov. 19 (CP)—Football fans in the capital, who for the last three years have been plumping all their pennies on Rough Riders of the Big Four and staying away by the stand-full from the games of the war-born Trojans of the O.R.F.U. are still rubbing their eyes at the way things have developed.

For now, with the eastern grid final in the offing, it's the Trojans who are training for the final, and the powerful Riders who have stored their cleats. Faced with one last hope—however meagre most may consider it—for the Grey Cup, a large number of "big-four-only" customers have joined the Trojan bandwagon.

And they are wondering how they slipped up on Coach Wally Masters, still going strong at the agee of 40. Ottawa has soft spot in its heart for Masters ever since, playing with Rough Riders in 1932 as one of the first Americans to come to Canada, he initiated a 120-yard touchdown run.

Masters then coached the Riders for two years, and did some baseball pitching and football playing back in the U.S., quarterbacking the Chicago Cardinals in 1945.

A top-notch athlete, he pitched for Ottawa Nationals of the Border League this season, won 11 games and lost four, and had a batting average of .360.

Here are some of the regulars Wally drew together this year and instilled with enough spirit to take Ottawa's first O.R.F.U. title since back near the turn of the century:

Thumbnail Sketches

Flying Wing—Bill Petrials, 26, of New Haven, chosen all-star in his league this year. Formerly with Wilmington Clippers, Chicago Bears, New York Giants.

Quarter—Annie McWatters, 32, lightest teammate at 150 pounds, who won the Imperial Oil trophy in 1945 as the league's outstanding player. He coached Trojans in 1946.

Inside—Jerry Lefebvre, 22, who has played with Trojans since they set up shop in 1944.

Outside—Joe Farley, 22, of Lake Placid, N.Y., all-star and high scorer in the O.R.F.U. with 38 points this year, formerly with U.S. High School and navy teams.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

Belleville Rockets, junior OHA entry of the city will be at full strength tonight against the highly touted juniors from Queen's University in their exhibition tilt at Memorial Arena. Coach "Smokey" Harris is taking no chances, and his charges will go all out in this their first junior test of the current season.

"Smokey" announced his line-up last night and this is how the boys will appear. In goal will be youthful Art. Wright, while starting behind the blue line will be Milligan and Hurst. In the pivot spot will be Defelice, and flanking him will be Joe Nolan on right wing and Dougie Bone on the port side.

The second string will see Wardaugh at centre, Don Semark, left wing and Johnny Green on the opposite flank. The third attacking division will be Gerry Semark, MacIntosh and Adams. Bolstering the defence will be Schreider, and Russ Soules. Taylor will also see action while Adrian will appear in the role of sub-goalkeeper. "Toots" Holway and "Speedy" St. Louis will do the whistle-tooting.

In further preparation for exhibition games and the strenuous OHA grind ahead, the Belleville ANAF intermediate squad will hold a ninety-minute workout at the Arena on Friday evening. The lads take to the ice at 6.30 and will plug through till eight o'clock. All out, please, gentlemen, and that's not pub talk. Another practice will be held over the weekend, but this will be announced at the Friday night session.

If the hockey public likes to see goals scored, those that attended the jam session at the Arena last night, had their appetites satisfied. No less than twenty-seven pucks nestled in the rigging in the two ice-battles before the official piccolos sounded retreat, and if anyone wants any more than that, then they had better switch to basketball.

Although they were beaten 10-5 the Point Anne crew deserve a columnar pat on the back for a fine sportsmanlike attitude when they knew they were hopelessly beaten through no direct fault of their own. With Napanee slithering pucks along the ice at the rate of a mile a week to lazily nestle against the twine, the Murney Green gang gave everything they had to make a hockey game out of the joust. Smith, in goal, was definitely off. Six soft markers got by him, that never left the ice. He fanned with stick and foot on easy-going rubbers that appeared tired of hitting the net.

Had the Ox Pointers been strong in this department, the score would have been vastly different, and mebbe the laurel wreath of victory would have nestled on the noggins of the losers instead of the Gibbardville gang. And nobody knows that better than Walt Gerow, Jr., and his merry men from the ranks of the Napanee river.

But despite this fact, the Pointers battled gamely, holding their breath when the rubber went in the direction of their nets and fighting back like game-cocks to surge in time after time on the Napanee citadel. And there were a lot less busier men on the ice than Herbie Hayes at times. He kicked out plenty of rubber, believe it or not.

But the feature of the evening was the dazzling exhibition of line-play and team work given by Dougie Bastedo, Al Meagher and brother Bernie, wearing the yellow jerseys of the Stirling Bombers. It was the best exhibition of effective teamwork both going and coming that this corner has witnessed this year, and in fact the best these particular players have turned in since we have watched them.

Flying meteors on the attack, swerving sweeping, backchecking like young fiends they stole the show from other outstanding efforts in the Stirling 9-3 victory over the foe from Madoc, Bastedo was never better in the pivot position, and the half-pint Meaghers backed him superbly along the boards. They accounted for five of the nine markers and were credited with six assists.

The clicking plays of this trio perhaps had something to do with the sometimes disorganized play of the Madocers. Lee Goyer and Timmy Williams were off form while the rest of the clan from Bill West's village strove mightily but in vain. They couldn't cope with the speed of the winners and when they did, the backchecking front lines and the defence of the Stirlingites, slowed up or spoiled their goalward forays.

Napanee now sits pretty on the top of the "A" section ladder with five points, one more than the Belleville juniors. Stirling by virtue of two straight victories and a loss have four points to their credit and now are tied with the Cobourg crew in the top slot of "B" section.

Thursday night's double bill sees the Trenton RCAF Flyers go into action against the Bloomfield Sky Chiefs, and this should be one for the book. The Chiefs have yet to taste victory, and they are not the least bit fussy at whose expense they get it. They are definitely out to crack the "win" column and if determination is any factor, the RCAF may be the victims. In the second game the undefeated Cobourg squad take on the Tweed crew and this, too, should be productive of plenty of action.

Fans saw some of the new 1947-48 OHA rules put in practice at the dual-joust last night. Referees "Toots" Holway, who is now button-equipped, and "Speedy" St. Louis, together with Don Lee, took an arbiters "course" in Toronto on Sunday and they came back with diplomas from the whistle-tooting varsity. Face-offs for offsides are now made in the red circle to one side of the goal. This is not a new rule incidentally, it is merely going back to an old one. There is no whistle-blowing for face-offs, and that's a big ease on the lungs of the white-sweatered clan. No goal awards are made, instead a penalty shot. And while on the subject of referees, there may be some good news, financial, that is, emanate from the OHA annual to be held soon.

President Leo Kelly, of the Belleville District Hockey Association, announced his referee appointments last night for the next four double-headers. Officials are asked to note the appointments and govern themselves accordingly. Here they are:—

Thursday, Nov. 20 — Speedy St. Louis, Don Lee.
Tuesday, Nov. 25 — "Toots" Holway, Don Lee.
Thursday, Nov. 27 — Speedy St. Louis, "Toots" Holway.
Tuesday, Dec. 2 — Don Lee, Speedy St. Louis.

BRAVES, RED SOX CONTINUE TO SWAP PLAYERS

Boston Nationals Secure Jim Russell From the Pittsburgh Pirates

Boston, Nov. 19 — (AP)—Both Boston baseball clubs — the Braves and the Red Sox — continued last night their efforts to strengthen their 1948 teams by trades with Pittsburgh Pirates and St. Louis Browns.

The Braves announced the trading of outfielder Johnny Hopp and infielder Danny Murtaugh for Pirate outfielder Jim Russell, pitcher Al Lyons and catcher Bill Salked. The Tribe also purchased left-handed pitcher Jim Prendergast from Syracuse Chiefs of the International League.

The Red Sox followed up Monday's acquisition of pitcher Jack Kramer and infielder Vern Stephens from the Browns with the gaining of pitcher Ellis Kinder and infielder Billy Hitchcock from the Brownies for infielder Sam Dente, pitcher Clem Dreisewerd, another player to be selected later and cash.

In Russell, the Braves have acquired a switch batter who can play all three outfield positions.

Lyons, 29-year-old righthander, was obtained by the Pirates from the New York Yankees system last season and had a 1-2 record in relief roles.

Prendergast, 29-year-old righthander, won 20 and lost 15 last season with Syracuse.

Last season with the eighth-place Browns, Kinder, a righthander, had a record of eight victories and 15 losses.

LOBSTERS FOR ROYAL WEDDING FLOWN TO LONDON

Moncton, N.B., Nov. 18 (CP)—The 300 pounds of live lobsters flown to London for the Royal wedding, have arrived in good condition, the United Maritime Fishermen who sent the fish were informed yesterday by cable.

Blue Bombers Train for Finals In Hamilton

(By The Canadian Press)

Winnipeg Blue Bombers, Western Canada Football Champions, will train in Hamilton for the Canadian grid final with the winners of next Saturday's Ottawa Trojans-Toronto Argonauts battle, it was announced yesterday.

Officials announced last night Coach Jack West and Bob Sandberg, Bombers starry halfback will leave Winnipeg by plane Friday, for the east to scout the Trojans-Argonauts game. The rest of the Club will leave Saturday.

The Manitoba branch of the Women's Athletic Federation of Canada announced last night they had nominated Betty Mitchell of Winnipeg North American Senior Women's Speed Skating Champion, for the Federation Rose Bowl, emblematic of the outstanding woman athlete of the Dominion.

A correction in the 1947-48 Canadian Amateur Hockey Association rule book was announced in Toronto last night. The correction is: Rule 56-Clause (3) Page 29—should read as follows: "A player shall be permitted to stop or "bat" a puck in the air with his open hand, or push it along the ice with his hand, and the play shall not be stopped unless in the opinion of the referee he has deliberately directed the puck to a teammate, in which case the play shall be stopped and the puck faced at the spot where the offence occurred."

Tony Golab, Ottawa Rough Riders football star hasn't quite made up his mind about retiring but he said in London, Ont., yesterday that it was possible he had played his last game on the gridiron.

Assumption College Purple Raiders, defending Junior O.R.F.U. Champions yesterday announced they have dropped out of this year's playoff race despite the fact they are again Windsor district titleholders. Officials of the club scheduled to meet Petrolia in a semi-final series, felt it would be just a waste of time to carry on.

Ottawa Senators and Shawinigan Falls Cataracts, running one-two in the Quebec Senior Hockey League race, also dominate the loop scoring parade. Four Ottawa marksmen and five Shawinigan sharpshooters are among the League's top 10 point-getters, with Jack Irvine of the Senators leading the way with 22 points.

Topped by the sale of Good Hope, five-year-old mare, for $18,000 80 head of thoroughbreds were sold at the Fall auctions at Lexington, Ky., yesterday for $257,425.

Olympic hopes of New Westminster Adanacs, this year's Dominion Lacrosse champions, were dashed yesterday when Chairman Lyle Barr of the Inter-City Lacrosse Commission said the team would not make the much-publicized trip to England for next year's world games.

Assumption High School Purple Raiders and Sarnia Collegiate will meet in a sudden-death Wossa Senior Football semi-final at Windsor Stadium Saturday.

Eight Are Injured In Hotel Fire At Port Alberni

Port Alberni, B.C., Nov. 19. (CP)—Eight persons were injured and damage estimated at more than $100,000 was caused early today when fire totally destroyed the King Edward Hotel here. There were no known fatalities.

The 39-room, frame structure was fully booked and guests escaped in their night attire, some jumping 20 feet to the ground when the alarm was given at 2.30 a.m.

Port Alberni is on the West Coast of Vancouver Island, 180 miles north of Victoria. Its population is 7,500.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

It is not unwise to take necessary chances. What makes you look foolish is taking unnecessary chances. As in the case of south as the declarer at four hearts in this deal:

NORTH
♠A 5 4 3 2
♥10 9 3
♣10 8 6

WEST
♠K Q 10 6
♦K 8 6
♣A K Q 9

EAST
♠J 9 8
♦J 10 5 4 3 2
♣4 3 2

SOUTH
♥A K Q J 7 6 2
♦A Q
♣J 7 5

The bidding went like this:

South	West	North	East
3 H	Dbl	4 H	Pass
Pass	Dbl	All Pass

When partner has not yet bid, a double of a three bid is for takeout. This is technically known as a takeout double. A takeout double orders partner to bid if there is no intervening bid.

With an intervening bid, partner of the takeout doubler is not obligated to bid. He may pass unless he has strength enough to come in with a voluntary call of some kind.

The double of any four bid is for penalty. This is known as a penalty double. It is an announcement by the doubler that he expects to be able to defeat the opponent contract.

West took three top clubs and led spade king. A finesse in the diamond suit may lose. Such a chance should not be taken until no safer play will work. Establish the spade suit first.

Dummy spade ace wins a trick and a spade is ruffed in south with a high trump. Dummy heart ten wins the south lead of the trump seven. Another dummy spade is ruffed high in south. Spades promise to set up.

Heart nine in dummy wins south six. A fourth spade is ruffed high in south. Dummy heart trey wins south deuce and the fifth spade in dummy is led. On this is sluffed the south diamond queen.

What if the spades had not split? The finesse is diamonds may then be taken as a last resort. Play it safe first.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Nov. 19 (AP)—It took Red Skelton eight years to find out that he doesn't like movie-making. Eventually he intends to give up films for a career in television.

Eventually means four years hence, because that's how long it will take him to run out his MGM contract. He has tried to escape his pact, but the Culver City executives have said no.

Red has tried every field of entertainment, starting in a medicine show at 10 and rising through Showboat stock, minstrel shows, vaudeville, circus, burlesque, night clubs and pictures. He explained his beef with the latter.

"They are not believable enough," he said.

"For instance," in 'Merton of the Movies' I escaped by running under the seats of a movie theatre. Folks ask me how I did it. I couldn't tell them.

Skelton said he wants his work to be understood by all, "like Chaplin's comedy in the silents! everyone could believe his pantomime."

Brief Revue

"The Fugitive" (RKO) ranks as one of the most beautifully photographed pictures but ranks lower as entertainment. It is a moody, sombre story of the persecution of a priest (Henry Fonda) in a Latin country.

With villains less black and a pace less leisurely, the film could have been as great as its photography.

BENNETT ESTATE JUNIPER HALL SOLD TO SIR JOHN LEIGH

London, Nov. 19 — (CP)—Juniper Hill, the 100-acre estate of the late Viscount Bennett at Mickleham, Surrey, has been bought by Sir John Leigh of Whitley Park, Godalming, Surrey, for nearly £40,000 ($160,000), the Viscount's executors disclosed.

New Sign Language For Deaf Children

Dundee, Scotland, Nov. 19 — (CP)— A new sign language for children born deaf has been compiled by Sir Richard Paget, who has spent 13 years studying primitive gestures in many parts of the world.

He demonstrated 150 of the 3,000 signs in his sign "vocabulary" to the Anthropology Section of the British Association for the Advancement of Science.

A deaf child whose vocabulary was only 50 words at the age of five could increase it to 2,000, Sir Richard said, and "will think and express himself in terms of words produced by the gestures."

CHAPTER 6.

She wheeled to him in surprise. "Know about him?" she asked breathlessly. "Whatever are you trying to imply?"

"Just this. He flies out here, drops down unannounced, you fall for him. You've done this, Kay without knowing the fellow's background."

The incensed Kay said acridly, "If you're trying to insinuate Chuck Nourse has a detrimental history, you're wasting your efforts. It's lost on me, Webb—your plan is not working!"

He gently patted her shoulder as if he were a disturbed child, incapable of knowing her own mind. Then unexpectedly he drew her to him, kissed her full on the lips.

She got up immediately, saying with deadly calm, "That was cowardly of you, Webb Taylor. You haven't the excuse of having had too many martini's—the last time you tried that you did have. You've acted like—like a cad."

He was standing before her now, his face working with passion.

"Very well!" he said between clinched teeth. "But you'll never marry your pilot! I'll see to that!"

He added ominously, "You're not in love with Henn—and you won't marry him, either. I'm your future husband, girl—so don't press me too far!"

Furious as Kay was, she thought it best to get Webb into a more agreeable state of mind. She laughed lightly, but he still glowered down at her, his tall thin frame drawn up to its full height.

She looked full at his little blue eyes, flashing so determinedly by the light of the electric lanterns overhead. She shivered as she contemplated his horse-faced countenance. She had always been afraid of Webb when drunk, but now, cold sober, he seemed far more dangerous.

"Listen, Webb—aren't you being very reasonable? Ordering me about—as if I really meant something to you. Which I don't. Your absurd jealousy of Chuck Nourse is ridiculous. I'm honestly engaged to Henn—going to marry him."

"Very well—we'll see what we shall see!" he promised, his jaws set, then strode angrily away from her.

Kay stood where he had left her a full minute, trying to make sense of his actions, trying to understand his dire insinuations. It might make it rather bad for Chuck around Deweyton if Webb began building a fantastic past for him. All this Chuck must suffer for having captured her fancy! Poor Chuck! He might come to hate her for it.

Further denial of her love for Chuck would not register with Webb. Webb had known her since childhood; he could read emotion in her face; he had an uncanny faculty for seeing into her mind. It had always bothered her.

She came slowly into the rim of bright light surrounding the swimming pool, where cocktails were being served. She halted, startled by what she saw. Her trembling lips parted on, "Oh!"

Two husky policemen were shoving through the crowd of merry-makers, walking up to Chuck Nourse, who had brought his "cousin" Adele Sanders. Chuck, a handsome figure of a man without his crutches, was laughing heartily at something the clever Adele had just said.

Kay stood rooted to the spot, her face taut with fear. Were these policemen a part of Webb Taylor's recent threat?

When Kay came up to the little group surrounding Chuck, a policeman was saying, "But we got orders to search him, miss."

"What is this—a trick?" demanded Adele. "If it is—it's a poor one."

She turned to Kay, said caustically, "I'm glad you're here, Kay, to straighten this out. Is this some prank of yours?"

"Certainly not!" Kay flared, standing close to the puzzled Chuck.

"Well—let's get on with the show. I'm perfectly willing to be searched," said Chuck, with a laugh.

"The very idea! It's an insult!" declared Adele. "What are you two officers looking for?"

"The sapphire ring lost by Miss Millstrom," replied one.

She turned quickly to the men. "You're making a grave mistake. I'm Miss Millstrom — I didn't order this man searched. He's a friend of mine."

"Sorry, Miss Millstrom—but orders are orders," broke in the other officer."

"We'll have to see the thing though, Kay," put in Chuck, trying to make light of the awkward situation he found himself in. "Let them do their duty. They won't find anything incriminating on me."

"It's an outrage!" exclaimed Adele. "It's strange, Kay, that you don't know what brought this on."

Kay paid no attention to this cutting insinuation. She only said unsteadily, "Perhaps it would be better, Chuck, to allow it. We know, you haven't my ring. It's preposterous!"

The others in the crowd, breathless with suspense and afraid of missing any part of this drama, were avidly watching developments. They would do their talking later, as Kay well knew. This police visit would be the subject of teas and cocktail parties, luncheons, breakfasts, and formal dinners. The tale would be embellished until Chuck's reputation was precariously balanced.

Kay's facial muscles contracted, she felt peculiarly cold all over. This seemed like a horrid, fantastic dream that somehow she might have prevented.

One of the officers began taking articles from the right pocket of Chuck's white flannel waistcoat. A match folder, a diamond-studded compact. Kay glanced swiftly at Adele, smiled cryptically at the old trick. She forgot to ask for the compact after the party, and must see the man the following day to retrieve it. Subdeb tactics! She had worked herself when she had been just out of boarding school.

In Chuck's left waistcoat was found a snapshot. Both officers squinted at it without recognizing the subject. One of them handed to Kay, asking, "Know this girl?"

"This is a picture of me," she admitted stoutly.

"Is that so? Well—you must be a friend of his, all right."

"He was a guest in my mother's home for several weeks," she informed him.

The man nodded abstractly and began searching the pockets of Chuck's white flannel coat.

He wheeled to Kay. "Ever see this before, Miss Millstrom?"

"Oh!" she gasped, in astonishment. "Why—it's my ring!" she admitted, then could have bitten off her tongue.

She turned to Chuck, her heart in her throat. He couldn't—he couldn't have done this to her!

"Chuck—" she began brokenly, "Chuck—where—what—"

"It's as much a surprise to me as it must be to you, Kay," he said, bewildered.

"What on earth is going on here?" demanded Cora Millstrom, coming up with Hennington Blare in tow. "What are you officers doing here?"

"Hump!" ejaculated Blare. "What are you dillydallying for? Why don't you arrest him and be off with him?"

"Beg pardon, Miss Millstrom," murmured Cards, the Benson's butler. "May I speak to you alone? It's very urgent."

Cards had been with the Bensons for many years, had served the Millstroms at their frequent visits here. Kay knew Cards almost as well as she did her mother's butler.

"Just a moment, Cards."

She squarely faced the officers. "You can't arrest that man! It's my ring—and I don't wish to prefer charges against him!"

"But I do!" emphatically declared Blare. "I bought that ring and—"

"You gave it to me!" declared Kay indignantly. "It happens to be my property."

With this last thrust, she stepped aside with Cards. There ensued a hurried whispered conversation between them, then she returned to the expectant guests, who were keyed now to the sensationally dramatic. Hennington Blare saw his opportunity to browbeat his rival, Cora Millstrom was enraged to think he had desecrated her home, and Adele, impressed by the result of the search, quickly gave her place beside Chuck to one of the officers of the law, and retired to the fringe of the crowd.

Kay's triumphant laughter now rang out.

"We're not making a move to arrest this man until a certain person arrives!" she commanded firmly.

"But my dear—the ring has been found, the thief apprehended, expostulated Blare, impatient to see Chuck Nourse behind bars. "What are we waiting for?"

"You'll discover that soon enough," she said mysteriously, and went to stand as close to Chuck as she could get.

He seemed neither mindful nor regretful of this incident. He merely folded his arms across his muscular chest and waited without comment.

Silence surrounded the little group. Even the orchestra up in the patio had stopped playing. There were no dancers interested in music for the present, so the director had called an intermission.

Special Notice
PROCEEDINGS
NOMINATION MEETING

Following are the new regulations pertaining to procedure at nomination meetings:

Nomination Papers: "Every nomination shall be in writing and state the name, residence and occupation of the candidate and shall be signed by the proposer and seconder, both of whom shall be municipal electors and present and shall be filed with the returning officer within an hour from the opening of the nomination meeting."

When proposed candidate absent: "When a proposed candidate is not present his nomination paper shall not be valid unless there is attached thereto evidence satisfactory to the returning officer that he consents to be so nominated."

Resignation of Candidates: At the nomination meeting or before nine o'clock in the afternoon of the same day, a candidate may resign in respect of one or more offices for which he is nominated by filing his resignation in writing with the returning officer or the clerk and in default he shall be deemed to be nominated for the office for which he was first nominated.

Qualification of a Candidate? When a candidate makes the filings mentioned in subsection 1 of Section 70 by filing the same with the returning officer or the clerk at the nomination meeting on or before nine o'clock in the afternoon of the same day, he shall deemed to have resigned as a candidate for all other offices for which he was nominated.

Centenary

Centenary — Sunday School and church were held on Sunday with a fair attendance. In the absence of Rev. McCallum who was guest speaker at anniversary services at the Bay charge, Napanee, Rev. Helliwell occupied the pulpit and gave a most impressive message.

Several attended the B. C. I. play last week at the Collegiate in Belleville.

The many friends of Mrs. M Kelley, will be sorry to hear that she is confined to her home with a severe cold. All wish for her a speedy recovery.

Plan to Partition Palestine Said to Meet With Pontiff's Approval

By JOHN TALBOT

Vatican City, Nov. 18 — (Reuters) — The international situation generally and the problem of winter relief for millions of hungry people in Europe are believed to have been the main subjects discussed by the Pope and Myron Taylor, President Truman's personal representative during their talks at Castlegandolfo.

These talks, it is considered here, will prove to have been of far reaching importance to the future of mankind and the peace of the world.

Vatican circles stress that President Truman sent his representative at a critical period in world affairs and they regard Taylor's visit at this time as an unspoken recognition of the part played by the Pope not only in Roman Catholic countries, but also in countries where Catholicism is not the state or predominant religion.

In connection with the urgent need for humanitarian help for large numbers of people in Europe, it is generally believed that one of Taylor's main aims was to co-ordinate the initiative of the Vatican relief commissions with those of the United States to bring help to those most threatened by cold and starvation this winter.

It is known that the Pope's recent radio appeal on behalf of needy children in Europe met with a wide response and in many countries, especially in North and South America, workers have promised to devote the proceeds of one day's work to their relief.

Palestine Discussed

On the international plane, the exchange of letters and views which has taken place between the Pope on the one hand and Truman and Taylor on the other is regarded here as likely to have far-reaching repercussions on world affairs in the future.

Although no official statement is forthcoming from Vatican circles on the recommendations for the future of Palestine made by the special commission of investigations, it is understood that the plan for partitioning the country is considered here to be the most workable solution to this thorny problem.

Although repeatedly asked by one side or the other to act as mediator, the Vatican has never officially entered the controversy. It is, however, believed here that if the country were partitioned, Arabs and Jews could live peacefully side by side and that, with mutual and effective collaboration, the country would soon be the better off for the arrangement.

While emphasizing that the solution of the problem is no responsibility of the Vatican, church circles here consider that the setting up of two independent sections with free immigration of Arab and Jew into their particular part of the country would provide an answer suitable to both parties.

GOOD REPUTATION

London — (CP) — An old woman recently walked into the Swedish Air Lines Travel Bureau here and timidly asked whether they could tell her where to buy Swedish merchandise in London. She was very reluctant to reveal what kind of merchandise it was she wanted, but finally she said shyly: "Well, you see, I should like to have a really good pre-war rat-trap, and the Swedish ones are the best."

Science One of Necessary Steps In Evolution of Man's Destiny Says Speaker at Rotary Club

Science is one of the necessary steps in the evolution of man's destiny and the present turmoil and discontent are part of the shaking down process which ultimately should lead men to better and nobler ends, J. T. Thwaites, division engineer in charge of electronics in the Canadian Westinghouse Co. Ltd., and one of Canada's most brilliant scientists told the Rotary Club on Monday.

Reviewing the origin of life, Mr. Thwaites pointed out that science has learned from fossils and prehistoric remains that life in various forms has been present on this planet for 800,000,000 years.

"Mammals", he said, "are believed to have been on earth for 50,000,000 years and that man has been here for approximately one million years. The mathematics of probability gives lie to the thought that man was a haphazard mutation from some other form, such as the ape. It seems the ape is a developmental form which the Creator decided were not the finished form which he wanted to rule the earth. They serve their purpose but further development is at a standstill. It is evident that man has not attained full liberty but he has more liberty than mammals and animals."

Man Disobeys

In spite of the Divine interdiction, man disobeys and commits the original sin from which demand he must always watch himself. This does not signify an arbitrary punishment on the descent of man, it signifies that he has not reached a state of perfection. He will have to face the conflict of his conscience and he will triumph only by suppressing animal instincts and concentrating on the triumphs of the spirit.

Man has the incomparable gift of the brain with its truly amazing powers of reasoning and abstraction. Man, thanks to this gift, has conquered the realm of the air in three short generations. He has brought the moon to within 30 miles. He has enslaved the forces of the universe. He has built great "Electronic Brains" which have 15,000 radio tubes and many miles of wire which can calculate ballistic tables a million times faster than humans.

"Science", Mr. Thwaites said "as very necessary for the evolution of man and science is making inanimate machines to take over the manual labor of man in providing for the needs of his body in order that the spiritual needs may have more time for their evolution, and for their growth.

The arrival of the Atomic Age has given new meaning to the moral and spiritual evolution of man. More than ever man will have to depend on his fellowman's word and contract. A group of men with no moral responsibility and with atomic methods can destroy civilization, without a doubt.

"It is my earnest belief" the speaker declared, "that we cannot maintain absolute control of atomic energy within one or two favored nations".

Must Not be Intolerant.

"Let us not be too intolerant of Russia", Mr. Thwaites suggested. "Within the last thirty years we have seen a large and powerful nation to the extreme of refusing to join a society of nations and come back to be one of the most co-operative and useful members of the United Nations".

Four years ago atomic power was given to man. "We dread the destruction it can produce. But we cannot give it back. We must use this power to enrich the life of man. For its use the peoples of the world must learn to work together. We must fit ourselves with further education. We must select goals which will harmonize the efforts of all. Thus man will become truly great. Let us choose to serve, to live gloriously, to worship and like Jesus to increase "in favor with God and man."

The speaker, who is one of the rare civilians who was given awards for overtime work in radar and robot bombs and who gained singular prominence during the war for his contribution to Canada's aluminum output by means of his knowledge of ignitron rectification was introduced by Rotarion Enos David, with club appreciation expressed by Rotarian Brewer Hunt.

Two Paper Chute Fires Damage Dearborn Plant

Detroit, Nov. 19 (AP)—Two paper chute fires early today damaged the four-storey administration building of the Ford Motor Company's Dearborn plant.

Five persons were overcome by smoke and suburban Dearborn fire chief Stanley Herdzik was injured in a fall as city and plant firemen brought the flames under control.

A company spokesman said the first of the blazes might have been caused by a lighted cigaret. Saturday the company lifted a ban, which had been imposed by the late Henry Ford in the early days of the firm, forbidding employees to smoke while on duty in Ford buildings.

A plant maintenance engineer and three plant firemen, overcome by smoke when the elevator in which they were riding stuck between the third and fourth floors were treated at the company's emergency hospital.

GET BABY GORILLA FROM CONGO

Miami, Fla., Nov. 19 — (AP) — Gargantua and Toto, most highly publicized gorillas in the world, are going to adopt a baby.

John Ringling North, president of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey combined circus, said yesterday the show's two prize anthropoids had had no offspring in the seven years they have been together and would "adopt" a baby gorilla from the Belgian Congo.

CONVICTED OF THEFT

Stratford, Nov. 19 — (CP) — William James Binkley of London pleaded guilty here yesterday to the theft of a press camera valued at more than $25 from the Beacon Herald on Oct. 30. He was remanded one week for sentence.

Binkley was convicted here last week on four charges of theft.

GLAZED CHERRY AND ALMOND RING

2½ cups sifted Swans Down Cake Flour
2½ teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder
1 teaspoon salt
5 tablespoons shortening
1 egg, slightly beaten
6 tablespoons milk

FILLING

Melted butter
4 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup chopped blanched almonds
¼ cup coarsely chopped maraschino cherries

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt; sift again. Cut in shortening. Combine egg and milk; add all at once to flour and stir until all flour is dampened. Then stir vigorously until mixture forms soft dough. Knead 30 seconds on slightly floured board. Roll to oblong, ⅓ inch thick. Brush with melted butter, sprinkle with mixed sugar, cinnamon, nuts, cherries. Roll as for jelly roll. Bring ends together to form ring on ungreased pan. With scissors, make cuts from outside almost to centre of ring, 1½ inches apart. Turn each slice cut-side up, pointing outer edge. Bake in hot oven (400° F.) 20 to 25 minutes. Cover with plain frosting.

TWICE YOUR MONEY BACK

If you are not satisfied that Calumet is the finest baking powder you ever used, send tin containing unused portion, along with your name and address and a note of the price you paid—to General Foods, Limited, Cobourg, Ontario. You will receive back twice what you paid for Calumet.

CHOCOLATE CHIP REFRIGERATOR COOKIES

4 ounces Baker's Dot Chocolate or semi-sweet chocolate
1½ cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon Calumet Baking Powder
⅛ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons butter or other shortening
½ cup granulated sugar
½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1 egg, well beaten
1 tablespoon milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Grate chocolate on coarse grater. Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt; sift again. Cream butter; add sugars gradually, creaming thoroughly. Add egg, milk, vanilla; mix well. Add flour gradually, mixing well. Add grated chocolate. Shape in rolls, 2 inches in diameter. Roll in waxed paper. Chill over night, or until firm enough to slice. Slice ⅛ inch thick. Bake on ungreased pan in mod. oven (375° F.) 10 minutes.

CALUMET
BAKING POWDER

"Lucky in Baking? I owe That to Calumet's Double Action

Light, even-textured cakes . . . fluffy, melting biscuits and shortcakes . . . tender, delicious batter puddings—it's more than good luck that makes such baking results possible! That's why expert cooks—consistently successful cooks—insist on Calumet Baking Powder for all their baking. Calumet protects batters and doughs, from start to finish.

In the mixing bowl, thousands of tiny, even-sized bubbles are formed to make the mixture ready for baking. When the mixture is heated, millions more little bubbles are produced. This second leavening action can not be lost or stirred out in mixing, and is not affected by interruptions—it's your special baking protection. Follow directions on the tin for any recipe.

ELIZABETH AND PHILIP LEAVE ON HONEYMOON

Tens of Thousands Line Royal Route During the Night

Bridegroom Arrives At Abbey Ahead of Time

By MICHAEL O'MARA
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Nov. 20 —(CP)— Another page of Great Britain's storied history was turned today as Britons by the hundreds of thousands turned out on the streets of Old London along the royal route from Buckingham Palace to Westminster Abbey to witness the spectacle accompanying the marriage of Princess Elizabeth to Lieut. Philip Mountbatten, newly-created Duke of Edinburgh.

Tens of thousands of the 21-year-old Princess' future subjects lined the curbs throughout the night — despite intermittent rain — and from the misty dawn onwards the throngs thickened into the hundreds of thousands.

Trains entering London during the early morning poured laughing, flag-flourishing sightseers into Whitehall and the Mall at the rate of hundreds a minute. The crowd jostling for strategic positions along the route was estimated to be the largest since the Coronation in 1937.

Those persons who circled Victoria Monument outside Buckingham Palace, lined the Mall on either side, lined flag-decked Whitehall and jammed 10 deep outside Westminster Abbey's great west door spent the night huddled in raincoats or beneath blankets. More than 80 per cent of the all-night watchers were women.

Early Morning Rain

They sat or stood through a stiff drizzle that came down about 4 a.m. but few quit their places.

Among those who braved the elements was middle-aged Mrs. E. Thomas of Plymouth, who came to London by bus and held a spot in Whitehall from 7 o'clock last night—despite the fact that she is an arthritis sufferer who walks on crutches.

The weather was unusually mild for a November night—the temperature ranging in the 40s—and at 5:30 a.m. the official forecast was "much milder.. cloudy with a little local drizzle in early morning but soon becoming fair. There is a good chance for some breaks in the clouds by 11 a.m. There is little likelihood for fog."

Thus as the chilly, misty dawn broke over London on this Princess Elizabeth's wedding day, the old saying seemed about to come true: "Happy is the bride whom the sun shines on today."

During the early part of the night singing and dancing had been among the crowd's amusements but weariness began taking its toll by dawn and many who had not previously napped, settled down for 40 winks.

The Princess, meanwhile, arose in Buckingham Palace at her usual hour of 7.30 a.m. The bridegroom spent the night at Kensington Palace in southwest London with his mother, Princess Andrew of Greece.

Five Kings Attend

Apart from the King, the bride's father, no fewer than five kings were on hand for the ceremony—Haakon of Norway, Frederik of Denmark, Feisal of Iraq, Michael of Romania and Peter of Yugoslavia.

Busiest among the crowd were street vendors and reporters.

Vendors had a field day selling

10 Gunmen, Said Stern Gang Members, Kill Five Arabs

Jerusalem, Nov. 20 — (AP) — Police said today that 10 gunmen whom they identified as members of the Stern gang, Jewish underground organization, killed five Arabs near the town of Raanana last night apparently in reprisal for assistance which Arabs allegedly gave the police in trapping five of their members last week.

Police said the 10 gunmen went to an Arab estate near where police ambushed five Stern gang members last week, assembled all the men present and interrogated them about co-operating with police. Then, according to the report, five Arabs were lined up in a nearby orange grove and machine-gunned.

Police, fearing Arab retaliation for the shooting of the five men, rushed reinforcements to the Raanana area.

Londoners Proud Of King and Queen

London, Nov. 20 — (CP) — Loyal Londoners beamed with pride on their King and Queen today as they drove to and from Westminster Abbey for the Royal wedding. Said one Cockney woman in the crowd.

"Our King and Queen always sit on the edge of the carriage seat so everybody can see 'em.

"Those wretched foreign royalty — they're always being potted at by some blighter or other in their own countries and they're scared."

Weary Couple Depart Amidst Shower Confetti

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Nov. 20 —(CP) — Princess Elizabeth, whose tremulous "I will" a few hours earlier in Westminster Abbey had united her in marriage to her childhood sweetheart, the new Duke of Edinburgh, left with her husband late today for their honeymoon in the quiet of rural Hampshire, far from the noisy, celebrating city that was London on their wedding day.

The couple, sped on their way by confetti strewn from royal hands, left Waterloo Station at 4:20 p.m. GMT (11.20 a.m. EST) after five hours of pageantry and ceremony that obviously had wearied the girl who some day may rule a quarter of the world's population.

The 21-year-old Princess had only 15 minutes in which to change from her satin, pearl studded wedding gown into the mist blue coat and quilled beret in which she set off.

As the bride and groom drove out of Buckingham Palace in an open coach drawn by four greys, they were greeted by tremendous cheers from massed thousands before the gates. Led by the King and Queen, royal guests came into the courtyard to wave goodbye to the couple. They showered them with confetti and rose petals.

Driving down Whitehall en route to Waterloo Station, the Princess waved a gloved hand, smiled and nodded at the throng. The Duke saluted as they passed the Cenotaph.

Mr. King Travels Alone to Wedding

London, Nov. 20 — (CP) — Prime Minister Mackenzie King drove by himself today from his west end hotel to Westminster Abbey to attend the Royal wedding.

His automobile did not follow the route of the Royal procession but he won cheers when he was recognized by watchers standing outside the Abbey.

FOUR ARE KILLED ONE BADLY HURT AT CROSSING

Car Struck by Train Near Port Arthur

Port Arthur, Nov. 20 —(CP)— Four persons, one a child, were killed instantly and a fifth seriously injured today when an automobile was struck by a Canadian Pacific Railway train at a level crossing at Loon Lake, 28 miles east of Port Arthur.

Provincial Police identified the dead as Francis Guse and Mrs. Harold Guse of Loon Lake, Mrs. Guse's child, and Kay Sully, a school teacher, of Schreiber, Ontario.

They said Harold Guse is being brought to hospital here aboard a train.

Other than the fact the accident happened shortly before 9 a.m. CST, they had no details.

Association Places Sharp Curbs on Freight Shipments

Washington, Nov. 20 — (AP)— The Association of American Railroads today placed sharp curbs on freight shipments to Canada. The action followed import restrictions imposed by the Dominion to conserve its dollar balances.

The partial embargo order was telegraphed to all railroads in the United States. It directed them not to accept general freight for destination in Canada unless the shipper is able to certify that he has assurances that the goods have been or will be authorized for entry by the collector of customs at the border.

Shipments of coal and fuel oil were specifically exempted from the regulation.

Canadian import restrictions apply primarily to consumer goods and luxury items. In some cases, imports are being prohibited, while other classes of imports are subject to quotas.

FLAGS BEDECK TORONTO

Toronto, Nov. 20 —(CP)— Torontonians who arose with the birds to hear the royal wedding broadcast went out to find many buildings and homes bedecked with flags honoring the newly-married couple. The early risers increased power consumption between 6 a.m. and 7 a.m. by 3,000 kilowatts in turning on lights and radios, the Toronto Hydro-Electric Commission estimated.

London Crowds Roar With Delight as Royal Bride Passes to Abbey

By JAMES McCOOK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Nov. 20 (CP) — London crowds stood for hours red-nosed on cold, wet sidewalks to roar with delight today as the royal bride, Princess Elizabeth, went by amid the glitter of cavalry breast plated and gold laced uniforms.

Before stone-fronted Buckingham Palace crowds were ranged 12 deep by 8:30a.m., ready to cheer anything, even Ministry of Works truck men spreading sand on the streets — who raised their caps in response to the applause.

The excitement reached its height when the King and Princess Elizabeth in the Royal Coach hauled by the spanking Windsor greys and with a red-coated driver rigid in his seat, came from beneath the dark stone arch leading out of the inner court and headed for the Abbey.

A small, pale-faced Cockney boy, thrusting his head between two policemen, put the whole scene in focus:

"Coo, mummy, it's a smasher," he shouted to an unseen figure.

It was London's brightest day since the war began, said a constable at the Palace gate.

He looked with pride at the cavalrymen, for the war years dull in khaki but now again bedecked in silvery helmets, some with red plumes and some with white, their swords held at the salute.

Sat on Curbs All Night

Some spectators sat on the curbs all through the night and in the morning light their crumpled ground sheets and weary faces belied their smiles.

As the crowd grew passage became impossible. There were cheers for the unusually dense cloud of black smoke from the Palace chimneys and then another for the brief appearance of a watery sun, followed by groans when it disappeared.

British Seamen, Marooned Five Days On Lonely Isle, Tell Shipwreck Story

St. Anthony, Nfld., Nov. 20 — (CP) — Forty-one British seamen rested today at this International Grenfell Mission outpost after a five-day ordeal, marooned on a barren rock off Newfoundland's northern tip when the freighter Langleecrag went ashore Saturday and broke in two.

Brought here last night by the Norwegian whaler Olaf Olsen, which stood off from the pounding surf yesterday and pulled the stranded men to safety, they talked of two Yorkshire shipmates, William C. Colling of Filey and Francis Anderson of Hull, who died in an attempt to save the others.

The two tried to reach the mile-wide island carrying a line when the ship, bound from Hull for Quebec for a grain cargo, struck an offshore ledge in the fog early Saturday. They were sucked under by the boiling waves and never seen again.

Of the 41 survivors only one, Bornum Stockland of Vancouver, was a Canadian. The ship's radio operator, he made several trips through the surf to reach the wrecked ship and send out messages asking for assistance.

Only eight survivors required hospital attention while the others were sheltered last night in the Grenfell Mission orphanage in this village, only 25 miles south of the point where their ship was lost, until another ship could take them to St. John's, Nfld.

Cared for by Surgeon

The eight were being cared for by the mission surgeon, Dr. C. S. Curtis, who found time early today between his hospital duties to send an 800-word dispatch to

OIL EXECUTIVES TO VISIT OTTAWA

Toronto, Nov. 20 —(CP)— Executives of motor oils companies predicted yesterday that shortages would result from the ban on importation of United States oils and disclosed that a delegation will visit Ottawa to discuss this aspect of Canada's new regulations to conserve U. S. dollars.

ACQUITTED OF CHARGE

Peterborough, Nov. 20 — (CP) — Claude Martin, Toronto drug salesman, was acquitted today on a charge of dangerous driving, in police court here. The charge arose from an accident on highway 7 Sept 30 when Martin was alleged to have swerved while driving and knocked Ronald Brown, 15-year-old Norwood high school boy, off his bicycle.

FRANCE RECALLS PART OF 1947 MILITARY CLASS

140,000 More Troops To Stem Strike Wave

Paris, Nov. 20 (CP)—Leon Blum, veteran French Socialist leader, was believed today to have undertaken the job of forming a government in succession to Paul Ramadier, who resigned last night with his cabinet.

Earlier reports said definitely that Blum would succeed Ramadier.

The search for a new "strong man" came as France recalled to to the colors part of the 1947 military class to bring the army up to normal strength."

The recall order, broadcast over the national radio, brought about 140,000 more troops into the army at a time when the government was trying to stem a spreading strike wave. Half of the 1947 contingent of troops, not due to be demobilized until spring, was freed a few months ago to provide manpower for industry and agriculture.

Auriol was reported to have completed his consultations with party leaders who flocked to the Elysees Palace until late last night after the resignation of Premier Paul Ramadier and again throughout this morning.

Students Walk Out of Classes

Toronto, Nov. 20 — (CP) — Cheering Princess Elizabeth, an estimated 150 of some 400 day students at Upper Canada College walked out of their classes at morning recess time today, protesting that the private school was not given a holiday for the Royal wedding as were public schools here.

A police cruiser was called to the college grounds in North Toronto at 1 p.m. following reports the students were "getting out of hand." But police said the short-lived walkout was over and the boys were returning.

The boys who walked out during the morning claimed that most masters "gave up" because there were "too few boys left to teach". One automobile jammed with youths drove out through the main gates during schools hours.

Abbey Scene of Splendor As Princess Weds

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Nov. 20 —(CP)— Princess Elizabeth was married to the new Duke of Edinburgh, formerly Philip Mountbatten, at Westminster Abbey today in a ceremony of medieval splendor combined with modern magnificence which deeply moved some 3,000 guests from many parts of the world.

In the few seconds of quiet granted to the bride and groom before the return procession to Buckingham Palace, the Princess confided to intimates that she was overwhelmed by the drama of the marriage ceremony rooted in Britain's finest traditions.

Her lips trembled slightly—and Philip obviously was nervous, too—as the couple received first the congratulations of closest kin and then the thunderous ovation of the multitude outside the Abbey.

Except for one slight mishap—which many did not notice because of their obscured positions in the Abbey's architecturally intricate interior — the wedding service, meticulously planned weeks ahead of time and rehearsed last night, ascended to its impressive climax without hitch.

The sole mischance came as the bridal party moved slowly from the altar, up carpeted steps, to the chapel of St. Edward the Confessor, who founded Westminster Abbey.

Little Prince Michael Stumbles

Little Prince Michael of Kent, a page, stumbled twice, tugging at the bride's 15-foot train but not losing his grip. Quickly Princess Margaret, chief bridesmaid, stepped forward and steadied the child.

Momentarily confused, five-year-old Michael shot a glance at his mother, the Duchess of Kent, seated with Princess Elizabeth's family on the north side of the sanctuary, and then passed on.

That was a human touch to the stately, colorful ritual, which seemed to take hold of every heart in the majestic church.

Some of Queen Mary's 80 years seemed to fall away as she witnessed the marriage of the granddaughter she idolizes. She was a regal figure of bygone reigns.

She was supremely poised but from time to time betrayed those feelings she knows how to conceal by rapid turnings of her head, a shift from one foot to the other.

Queen Seems Not Far From Tears

Her entry was one of the triumphs of the day, and women guests, themselves finely clothed, exclaimed their admiration of her apricot and gold lame gown ending in pointed train.

Watchers noted that the King in the uniform of Admiral of the Fleet, fidgeted with the handle of his sword or clenched his hands.

For the Duchess of Kent, a widow for more than five years, the ceremony held poignant memories of her own marriage in the Autumn of 1934, the last royal wedding in Westminster Abbey.

Once the wedding service got under way and the congregation was seated in the Abbey, pomp seemed to fall away before the familiar simplicity of any ordinary wedding.

From the improvised press stand in the north stand, obliquely facing the altar, I watched the progress of the ceremony from the arrival of the first guest at 9 a.m. until 12.30 p.m. when the bride and bridegroom, preceded by church dignitaries, passed slowly along the main aisle and through the great west door. The chimes of the Abbey carillon and the bells of nearby St Margaret's church sounded as the royal couple moved out of the Abbey.

Ancient Gold Plate Glimmers

On the high, tapestried altar the ancient gold plate of the Abbey glimmered in the rays of 100 flickering candles which lit up the plumed helmets of the scarlet-coated household cavalry ranged below the altar steps.

The illumination from bleak electric lights shone up the grey walls and into the faces of hundreds of spectators peering out from the arches of the triforium.

The gold lace of the ministers of state, the admirals and officials of the court filled the lantern area before the altar with a spot of brightness, oddly contrasting with the dull khaki of Boy Scouts moving among the congregation as ushers.

Just after 10 a.m. the tremulous chords of the great organ filled the Abbey through which was heard the clack of sword scabbards on bare stones.

As Big Ben across parliament square from the Abbey struck 11 a.m., the Archbishop of Canterbury in cope and mitre of white and gold brocade; his chaplain, bearing the jewelled Cross of Canterbury; the Dean of the Abbey, Dr. Alan Don, and the Precenter, Rev. Cyril Armitage, moved to the high altar. Their vestments gleamed in the candlelight.

The Dean, wearing a cape of cloth of gold woven with cream silk, then returned to the altar accompanying the Queen, who was wearing a dress of apricot and gold with the Star of the Garter around her neck. Queen Mary also was in this group. The Duchess of Kent was beautiful in a long and shining ivory dress and a white peaked hat set at an angle.

Groom's mother in Royal Purple

Only the bridegroom's mother, Princess Andrew, came to the Abbey in rich Royal purple, once a favorite of all European Royal families.

Queen Elizabeth, Queen Mary and the Duchess of Kent, accompanied by the Duke of Gloucester in military uniform, quietly took their seats on the south side of the altar beneath a large gold tapestry faded with age and surmounted with an ancient oil painting of Edward the Confessor.

On the north side of the altar were Princess Andrew and other relatives of the bridegroom, including his uncle, Earl Mountbatten, in a naval uniform wearing the Star of India, and Countess Mountbatten in a long white dress and headdress.

Historical Tableau At Royal Wedding Seen in Abbey

Princess' Voice Low When Vows Exchanged

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Nov. 20 —(CP)— Beneath the great, shadowed arches of Westminster Abbey, where for centuries the kings and queens of England have passed in pomp and splendor, Princess Elizabeth was married today to her childhood sweetheart as quietly and demurely as any village bride.

Standing before the gleaming gold plate of the altar, flanked by banks of flowers, the 21-year-old heiress presumptive to the Throne and her groom, the 26-year-old Duke of Edinburgh — until Wednesday night Lieut. Philip Mountbatten of the Royal Navy — exchanged vows so quietly that the words were scarcely audible.

The Duke then turned for the ring to his best man, the Marquess of Milford Haven, and at the direction of the officiating Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, placed it nervously on his bride's finger. Both kneeled and the Archbishop, joining their hands, said solemnly: "Those whom God hath joined together, let no man put asunder."

3,000 in Abbey

The Archbishop then pronounced "that they be man and wife together", blessed them and led them to the altar. There the young couple stood while the choir and congregation—nearly 3,000 persons, including six kings and six queens—sang the Psalm, "God be Merciful Unto us and Bless us".

The royal couple was joined in wedlock at precisely 11:44 a.m., G.M.T. (6:44 a.m., E.S.T.) Almost as the Archbishop, Primate of all England, pronounced the union, the great Abbey clock struck the quarter hour.

The royal couple, sped on their way by confetti thrown by the King and Queen and foreign guests, left Buckingham Palace at 3:59 p.m., for Waterloo Station when they departed at 4:20 p.m., for their honeymoon at Broadlands, home of the groom's uncle, Earl Mountbatten, in Romsey, Hampshire.

The wedding day, greatest spectacle for Britons since the King's Coronation in 1937, brought a splash of color to the fabric of a country bent by bombs and economic crisis.

The skies were grey with a drizzle falling most of the morning but the weather failed to dampen the spirits of 1,000,000 persons who watched the ancient ceremonies in the Abbey and the royal processions to and from England's storied church.

The Princess who some day will rule over more than 500,000,000 persons—a quarter of the world's population—was a radiant figure in white. Her face shone above an ivory satin gown embroidered with thousands of pearls. She wore a diamond tiara, her mother's. Her lipstick was suited to television cameras.

Windsors Absent

Queen Mary, 80 years old, saw her granddaughter married. Absent was "uncle David," the Duke of Windsor —whose abdication in 1936 brought his younger brother to the Throne and made Elizabeth heiress presumptive.

The pageantry, its effect heightened by contrast with the prevailing austerity of every-day life in post-war Britain, outshone in splendor every regal spectacle since the Coronation. But with all the splendor, the service in its spirit and form was as simple and direct as that in any country Anglican Church.

The ancient Abbey, burial place of Britain's illustrious dead, with its slender eminence, its fluted pillars and its soft prevailing tones of grey and gold under the shadowed arches, provided a perfect setting for the ceremony. Looking down as if in benediction on the vast concourse of the living were the effigies and memorials of Britain's great—Shakespeare, Gladstone, Disraeli, Wolfe, Wordsworth, Kipling and a thousand more. Before their unseeing eyes many of the world's living personages played their parts in an unique historical tableau.

The Archbishop's pronouncement making the young couple man and wife was the culminating moment of months of preparation for a scene graced by the presence of almost all the surviving crowned heads of Europe and by a glittering assembly representative of the statesmanship, the chivalry and the beauty of almost every country. There, too, were representatives of all the Dominions, Prime Minister Mackenzie King taking his seat on behalf of Canada.

Golden Pen Used

Coming from the chapel after signing the register with a golden pen, the bridal pair passed the King and Queen. The Duke bowed and Her Royal Highness dropped a deep curtsey. Then taking the arm of her husband, who also now is permitted to use the prefix "His Royal Highness," a title granted by the King Wednesday night along with the Dukedom of Edinburgh, the Princess passed below the altar screen and led the procession toward the west door to reappear before the dense throng outside amid a peal of bells from the Abbey tower.

Supply of Food Worries Butler

Romsey, Hampshire, England, Nov. 20 — (CP) — Frank Randall, long-time butler at Broadlands, estate of Earl Mountbatten where Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh start their honeymoon, fretted today over a butler's problem.

Scanning the stock of food laid in for the Royal newlyweds, Randall said:

"I hope they bring their ration books with them — I had to get the groceries on tick."

TWO CARS DERAILED

Welland, Nov. 20 — (CP)—Two cars were derailed and a caboose destroyed by fire when a switching engine making up a T. H. and B. train collided with a road crew train at the Coyle yards west of here last night.

The fire spread to two box cars of binder twine on an adjoining track but was extinguished by Crowland firemen before any extensive damage was done.

CJBQ WILL CARRY RE-BROADCAST OF ROYAL WEDDING

While a large number of city residents arose at the crack of dawn today to listen to the broadcast of the Royal wedding in London, many preferred the comfort of their beds, satisfied that a re-broadcast of the famous event would take place.

For those who missed the colorful air show this morning, CJBQ will re-broadcast the event at 6:30 this evening. The original broadcast lasted for almost an hour.

Tune in on CJBQ this evening at 6:30.

GEORGE A. REID MAY BE CANDIDATE FOR UTILITIES

Mr. George A. Reid, former mayor of the city and ex-public utilities commissioner, stated today that he is "seriously considering" contesting the utilities commissionership in the forthcoming civic elections.

"I have been approached by several people to enter the election lists," Mr. Reid stated, "but I will not definitely decide what to do until the end of the week."

U. I. C. ASSOCIATION MEETS IN PORT HOPE

The Quinte Local of the Unemployment Insurance Commission Association held a dinner meeting in Port Hope on Tuesday evening which was well attended by members of the Local which consists of the following offices: Port Hope, Cobourg, Trenton, Picton, Napanee and Belleville. There were guests from Peterborough and Oshawa locals as well as Mr. W. J. Russell, provincial representative of the Unemployment Insurance Commission Association for Ontario and Mr. M. P. Fitzpatrick, National Secretary, of Ottawa, as guest speaker. Mr. Russell also addressed the meeting.

The chair was occupied by Mr. E. Liddle, president of the Quinte Local and Miss Angela Hayes, the Quinte Local's Secretary, in attendance.

Mr. Brooks, local manager of the U.I.C. office in Port Hope, welcomed the members and guests.

During the course of the dinner, a sing-song was very much enjoyed by all as well as a recitation from Mr. J. Sharpe, of Peterborough local.

The highlight of the evening came when Mr. Fitzpatrick, National Secretary, was presented with a five-pound cheese in appreciation of his fine address, the presentation having been made by Mr. H. H. Reed, manager of the U.I.C. office in Belleville.

STOVE IS TAKEN FROM VERANDAH

Harvey Schryver, 69 Benjamin Street, will have a poor impression of the neighborhood into which he moved only yesterday.

Moving had taken up the greater part of the day and there had not been time to have one of the stoves set up in the house so it was left on the verandah for the night. This morning Mr. Schryver found to his dismay that some time during the night thieves had taken the stove from the verandah while the family were asleep upstairs.

Robin Spending Winter at Foster Avenue Home

Perhaps this fellow heard of of the restrictions on Canadian travel to the sunny south. Perhaps he has heard of the housing shortage down there. Then again perhaps he decided to spend a winter amid Canadian snows with new found friends.

He sings or chirps for his breakfast every morning, but thus far has refused to become a guest of the home of his adopted parents. That may come later when he gets over his natural shyness.

He is a plump red-breasted robin, which turned a deaf ear to the annual call of his winter habitat in the south — or wherever robins go, and remained behind to spend a white Christmas with his human friends.

The red-breasted bird has become attached to the family of Mr. Herbert McMorran, Foster Avenue with whom it is a great favorite. It calls for its meals daily, and is one of the best fed birds in the city.

Mr. McMorran is slightly puzzled as to what to do with his feathered friend if and when the winter blasts set in, for the robin shows no inclination to leave. In any event the bird is not worried and seems perfectly content with things the way they are.

Mayor Follwell Sends Message To Royal Couple

Congratulations to Princess Elizabeth and to Lieut. Philip Mountbatten on their marriage have been forwarded by Mayor Frank S. Follwell on behalf of the citizens of Belleville. The telegram was forwarded yesterday to the Princess and her consort.

Following is the telegram:

H.R.H. Princess Elizabeth—

May I on behalf of the citizens of Belleville and myself convey to Your Royal Highness and Lieut. Philip Mountbatten heartiest congratulations on your marriage.

Frank S. Follwell,
Mayor, Belleville, Ont., Canada.

Mass TB Surveys Made in District Says President

Mass surveys of residents of Shannonville, Read, Marysville, Deseronto, Trenton, Marmora and Frankford were conducted this year by the Hastings County Tuberculosis Association in conjunction with the Ontario Department of Health, Mr. D. L. Storey, president of the Belleville Shrine Club which sponsors the association, said today.

In addition to these county centres, Mr. Storey added, surveys were conducted in all factories in Belleville which operate foundries.

The association plans as its 1948 program, a mass survey of the residents of this city.

These surveys were paid for from monies realized from the sale of Christmas Seals in 1945-1946, the president pointed out, and it is through the generosity of the public in their purchase of these seals that the surveys are made possible with no expense whatever to those taking advantage of them.

The 1947 campaign for the sale of Christmas Seals starts on November 24 and the Hastings Tuberculosis Association feels fully confident that its appeal for funds through the medium of the seals, will meet with the same generous response of previous years.

Woman, 92, Injured When Struck by Car

Struck by a passing car as she was crossing Church Street on her return home from church, Mrs. Margaret Walsh, age 92, of 45 Station Street, suffered a compound fracture of her left leg near the ankle and head injuries. She is in serious condition in Belleville General Hospital, where she is under the care of Dr. J. J. Robertson.

The accident occurred shortly before eight o'clock, Wednesday evening when Mrs. Walsh was crossing Church Street Henry T. Sheridan, Bleecker Ave., was driving north on Church Street, when he failed to see Mrs. Walsh because of glaring headlights of a car being driven in the opposite direction. The Sheridan car struck the woman with the right front headlight and fender, the accident occurring approximately ten feet from the curb.

Mrs. Walsh was attended at the scene of the accident by Dr. F. R. Ross and was later taken to the hospital.

Talk on Diabetes Given to Nurses

Graduate nurses attending the Refresher Course at the Ritchie Memorial Residence of the Belleville General Hospital recently heard Dr. G. V. Faulkner deliver an address.

Dr. Faulkner spoke on Diabetes Mellitus. He outlined the signs and symptoms, treatment and prognosis of this disease. At various points he stressed where the nurse could be of most assistance to the physician by observation, correct charting, and general nursing care.

Miss Nettie Brown, Reg. N., thanked the speaker for a very helpful address.

The course of lectures are being held weekly and are well attended, showing increasing interest of non-active as well as active nurses.

Surgery, by Dr. G. H. Stobie will be the topic for the next lecture.

When the King and Queen Were Wed

We were visiting in England at the time of the marriage of H.R.H. the Duke of York, the present King George, and Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon, now Queen Elizabeth, and so we decided to go and see what we could of the wedding. Bright and early we were in front of Buckingham Palace where we hoped to get a place on the steps of the Queen Victoria Monument but the police would not permit that. Before long the square was crowded with people looking for a place from which they could see the grand procession. A man came along with folding chairs, sixpence each, on which people could sit inside the railings of the park in the Mall. That was a great bargain and so we saw all the big doings. It was fine entertainment to watch the crowds.

When the Royal Family came along we stood on our chairs and saw them all. Then came the bride looking very girlish with her tall stately father. She received a grand reception. On their return we waited patiently until the royal couple appeared on the balcony of the palace. The crowds cheered wildly in spite of the showers. The people were wonderful. They had carried all kinds of gadgets in order to raise themselves above the people so as to get a good view. Some had stools and boxes but the one we thought best was that carried by a young man in a paper parcel under his arm. When he took off the wrapping out came two small plant pots. He placed them on the ground and stood upon them so that he was raised several inches above the others and had a good view. After the welcome by the crowds the young couple went inside the palace to the cheers of the people. We then went through St. James's Palace yard when a heavy rainshower came down and we sheltered in a doorway.

In the afternoon we went to the Abbey where the marriage had been solemnized. There was a charge of one shilling which went to the charities of the city.

Returning to the square, we got other chairs and waited to see the bride and groom start out on their honeymoon. The bride's going away dress was brown with a sweeping brown feather around her hat. Her ensemble was a perfect match with the groom's blonde hair and complexion. They were given a joyous send-off.

We then returned to St. Albans tired but happy with memories we recall today.—L. R. B.

C.R. Buskard Native of Thurlow Given High Post

Montreal, Nov. 20 — C. R. Buskard, machine shop foreman at the Canadian National Railways, Point St. Charles Motive Power Shops, has been appointed superintendent of the Company's Motive Power Shops at Fort Rouge, Manitoba.

Born in Thurlow Township, Hastings County, Ontario, Mr. Buskard joined the Canadian National Railways in 1923 as a call boy at Belleville, Ont. The following year he became a machinist apprentice and moved to Montreal where he became a machinist in 1929. He served as a machinist at Toronto, St. Hyacinthe and Montreal until 1941 when he was loaned to National Railways Munitions Limited for special work. He returned to the Railway as inspector of shop methods at Montreal, in 1944, and became foreman of the Point St. Charles Car Shops, in 1945. He was promoted to foreman, Motive Power Shops, Stratford, the same year, and, in 1946, became machine shop foreman at Point St. Charles, Montreal.

Minister of Highways Confers With County Officials at Shire Hall

The minister accompanied by Messrs. A. Marshall, and McGuire of his department conferred with members of the Roads and Bridges Committee and the Suburban Road Commission.

The meeting and discussion were held in connection with the annual visit of the minister who contacts similar committees in Ontario counties each year.

The policy of the Department of Highways and how it would affect Hastings County was one of the main themes of the meeting while several other problems pertaining to roads and bridges work were discussed.

Reeve Harry Harrison, Thurlow Township, chairman of the Roads and Bridges Commission was chairman, and formally welcomed the departmental visitors to Hastings County.

ARRESTED FOR ASSAULT

Toronto, Nov. 20 —(CP)— Frank Genovese, 37-year-old former welterweight boxer, and Tony Carr, 53, was arrested today on a charge of assault causing bodily harm after police found a semi-conscious man on the sidewalk outside a west-end house. The man was bleeding from the nose and forehead and was removed to hospital for treatment.

Public Meeting For Candidates On Tues. Evening

Members of the Chamber of Commerce, property owners and taxpayers of the city are invited to attend a public meeting at the Collegiate Auditorium on Tuesday evening, November 25th, when city aldermen and members of the public utilities commission will be given an opportunity of expressing their views and give an account of their stewardship. The meeting is being held under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce Open Forum Committee.

In announcing the meeting, Jamieson Bone, as chairman of the above committee, states that the city is on the eve of an industrial expansion and serious problems will be faced during 1948 and succeeding years which will require close and expert attention. The time has now arrived when definite plans must be made to take care of future growth as well as plans to handle the current expansion.

Following time allotted for candidates to speak at the public meeting an opportunity will be given citizens to ask questions and make suggestions as to future policy.

Planes Resume Almost Hopeless Search for Body

Goderich, Nov. 20 (CP) — Planes resumed an almost hopeless search today for trace of James R. Misener, 40-year-old Stratford businessman who last Saturday was blown out on Lake Huron in a small skiff as he was trying to retrieve a duck he had shot.

Sailors said it was improbable that the hunter survived the cold weather of the last several days even if he managed to get ashore. Members of the family have authorized the aerial search to continue through this week.

Hope that Misener's boat had been found faded last night when an abandoned skiff at nearby Poplar Beach was identified as belonging to another party.

A helicopter from Sarnia took part in the search Wednesday and earlier in the week United States army planes from Selfridge Field, Mich., made vain sweeps over large stretches of Lake Huron.

Mayor Presents Cheddar Cheese To CNR Officials

The tasty qualities of Hastings county cheddar cheese will be enjoyed by top officials of the Canadian National Railways following the gift of cheese samples from the city of Belleville.

Presentation of the cheese was made Wednesday afternoon by Mayor Frank S. Follwell to R. C. Vaughan, chairman and president of the C.N.R. as that official's private car stopped briefly in the city en route to Toronto. Accompanying the C.N.R. president were N. B. Walton, executive vice president, and W. H. Hobbs, secretary to the company. J. F. Pringle, vice president of the Central Region, met the party at Belleville and returned with them to Toronto.

"I take this opportunity to express the appreciation of the city of Belleville to the Canadian National Railways for all it has done for us," stated Mayor Follwell, as he greeted the railway president aboard his private car. "The C.N.R. means much to this city."

"We appreciate this very much," returned President Vaughan. "To us Belleville has always been considered an important point."

Showed Keen Interest

The railroad president showed a keen interest in Belleville and also in the city's growth, asking pointed questions as to population, tax rate and assessment. These questions were answered by the Mayor and by City Comptroller Harold Bateman.

Referring to the Northern Electric locating in the city Mayor Follwell stated that Belleville had been very fortunate in acquiring industry of a substantial nature and that prospects were for a rapid growth in population. To this Mr. Vaughan replied that in his opinion diversified industry was more satisfactory.

"Several smaller industries were worth more than one large one," he said.

Included in the Belleville party greeting the railway officials were Mayor Follwell, City Comptroller H. D. Bateman, Harry Rollins, Robert Pringle, chairman of the Industrial Commission, and Alderman Harold Armstrong.

Inexperience Suggested as Reason for Crash

Vancouver, Nov. 20 —(CP)— Inexperience today was suggested by airmen here as the reason for yesterday's air crash on nearby Lulu Island which claimed the lives of Robert Lovell, 23, of Princeton, B.C., and his fiancee, Joan Liddle, 18, of New Westminster, B.C.

Their small Tiger Moth plane, only craft to leave Vancouver airport Wednesday, hurtled down 300 feet to crash on the Westminster highway, instantly killing both occupants. Miss Liddle, in the front cockpit, was buried under four feet of earth while Lovell was thrown on top of her by the terrific impact.

Mrs. E. R. Liddle, mother of Joan, who arrived an hour after the crash was reported, collapsed when she saw the wreckage, though the bodies had been removed.

Control tower officials at Vancouver airport said when the plane took off for Princeton, where Lovell was a trucker, visibility was below the normal 1,000 feet usually demanded for take-offs, but the flight was authorized.

Suggestion that Lovell was inexperienced came from Norm Jarmyn, his former flying instructor, who said: "Bob was a good mechanical pilot but he was short on experience. He had no real instrument flying time at all."

KILLED IN COLLISION

Napanee, Nov. 20 — (CP)—In collision with a motor car near his farm home late yesterday, Reginald Martin 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Martin of Wilton, was critically injured and died later in a Kingston hospital. The car was driven by William Emmons of Odessa.

Brothers Drown, Elder Trying to Save Younger

Timmins, Nov. 20 (CP)—Leo LaForge, eight, went to the aid of his six-year-old brother, Herve, after the latter had fallen through the ice of a lake in Sheraton township, 25 miles from Timmins, yesterday and both were drowned.

Sons of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio LaForge of the Bouchard Timber Company camp settlement, the boys met death as they were playing on the thin ice about 30 feet from shore.

Mrs. Raymond LaForte, a neighbor who was watching the children, said the younger boy went into the water first. As he clung to the edge of the ice, the other ran to help him. A large sheet of ice sank beneath him and he disappeared in the water near his brother.

Mrs. LaForte called to the boy's mother and then raced down to the shore. She plunged into the water smashing through the ice in a desperate effort to reach the boys. By the time the water reached Mrs. LaForte's chest the cold was unbearable and she was forced to turn back.

Then Mrs. LaForge tried to reach her two sons. She waded out into the lake but could not stand the chilling temperature of the water.

Finally Raymond LaForte, a Bouchard employee heard the cries of the women and rushed to the scene. Immediately he ran out into the water and located the two bodies and took them to the shore. Artificial respiration attempts were useless. The bodies were blue from the intense cold of the water.

CANADA'S GIFT

This is the perfectly matched mink coat which was presented by the Canadian people to Princess Elizabeth as a wedding gift on the occasion of her marriage to Lieut. Philip Mountbatten. The coat which contains 91 skins and weighs only 5½ pounds, is dark brown in color. A small roll collar, the design of which is a guarded secret, rises slightly at the nape and the front closes with invisible hooks. Slash pockets are hidden skilfully in the silky sides and straight sleeves, finished with turn-back cuffs point up a motif of simple elegance. It is said to be the most perfect mink coat ever made in Canada.

Reporters prowled the crowd on the lookout for "human interest angles and out-of-the-way happenings — and got what they were looking for when two dangerous mental patients who had escaped from a military hospital were captured in the crowds.

The first thrill of the day came with the Grenadier Guards' march up Buckingham Palace Road. Just before 9 a.m. the bride's bouquet of white orchids was delivered at the palace. The eight bridesmaids arrived shortly after 10 a.m. and went immediately to show their dresses to the Queen before joining the Princess in her private apartments.

The Times said 1,800 reporters, photographers, film commentators and broadcasters were in London for the occasion.

Long before the Princess awoke lights snapped on in the upper window of Buckingham Palace and drew shouts from the ready-to-cheer crowd which at that time was estimated at 12 deep in the neighborhood of Victoria Monument.

Many Londoners whose work prevented them from seeing the pageantry took early trains, trams and buses to work, hoping to avoid the crush, but instead they landed in the thick of it and reported taking up to 45 minutes longer than usual on their journeys.

Trains Jammed

Early trains which normally carry handsful of laborers were jammed to the doors with women and children.

The crowd in the Whitehall area was cosmopolitan, foreign tongues could be heard mingling with Cockney, Yorkshire and Devonshire accents, intermingled with the broad A's of upper-class Londoners who were sharing their street vigil.

By that hour, the crowds had blocked Admiralty Arch under which the procession was due to pass and overflowed into Trafalgar Square at the head of Whitehall where vehicular traffic was already halted.

By 9 a.m., streets leading to the Abbey had been blocked off to all but pass-holders and hundreds of disappointed late-comers hurried along back streets trying to find some means of access to the route.

The Princess, it was announced, breakfasted as usual with her family and dressing preparations began immediately thereafter. The Princess applied her own makeup—peach foundation lotion and powder and a little English rose lipstick—then received two Hartnell dressers with her gown.

As the crowds along the route thickened to a dense mass of humanity, those in the outer fringes began using periscopes and mirrors to catch a glimpse on the road. One woman raised an expensive silver dressing table mirror.

Many Faint

Bands marched to their allotted places and struck up, the music lifting the spirits of the crowd. There were several cases of fainting, particularly around the Abbey where the crowds waited longest. The victims were handed over the heads of watchers and carried off in stretchers.

Trafalgar Square, where the procession makes a hairpin turn out of the Mall into Whitehall, was packed solid with watchers clustered on the foot of Nelson's column and lining the roofs of buildings.

Spectators were not permitted to stand on stools but before they had found out, many had spent five shillings ($1) buying boxes from vendors.

There was a special crowd outside Kensington Palace to cheer the groom when he appeared at the door to wave goodbye to his mother who left in a large, black automobile. Another cheer went up as he left with the best man, the Marquess of Milford-Haven, for the Abbey.

Queen Late Leaving

Thunderous cheers arose as the Queen left Buckingham Palace at 11:05 a.m., two minutes behind schedule. With her in her coach, drawn by Windsor greys, was Princess Margaret. They left at a trotting pace down the Mall. Life Guards in red tunics, burnished breastplates and white plumes cantered beside the carriage.

In a second coach road the King of Norway and the Queen of the Hellenes. The King and Queen of Denmark were in a third carriage.

Queen Mary, the bride's grandmother, arrived at the Abbey at 11:00 a.m. As the 80-year-old Queen mother walked slowly into the Abbey, followed by Princess Juliana and her consort, Prince Bernhard, of the Netherlands, a light drizzle started up again.

Next came the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester.

Princess Elizabeth walked out of the Palace to enter the Irish state coach at 11:16 a.m., while bands played "God Save the King." The King sat at her right.

In a moment of excitement, the crowds broke through police lines but were pushed back quickly.

At the Abbey door was a guard of honor of servicemen and women who have been associated with the bride and groom.

Wears Diamond Tiara

The Princess, dignified and serene, wore a diamond tiara, her mother's. She was a lovely figure in flowing white as she sat with head held high, acknowledging the plaudits of the crowd.

The bridegroom's car had arrived at the Abbey a few moments ahead of the time scheduled.

A moment later he emerged and the Duke, still laughing, said:

"I am glad to see there is a black cat watching the proceedings over there."

(A black cat in Britain is a symbol of good luck. In many parts of North America, it is viewed as an augury of bad luck.)

As the King and the Princess reached the Abbey, another band struck up "God Save the King."

The King, in the uniform of an admiral of the fleet, stepped from the coach first, then helped his daughter to alight. She paused for a moment to look at the Abbey, then entered.

There was silence as they entered the west door, then a fanfare heralded her arrival and the procession moved slowly down the nave.

After the echoes of the fanfare died away, the organ began the processional: "Praise, My Soul, the King of Heaven." The voices of the choir blended with the organ in the hymn.

At the steps of the sanctuary the bride was joined by Philip and they stood quietly, waiting for the end of the hymn.

"Dearly beloved," the Archbishop of Canterbury began in the familiar opening words of the marriage service and the moment for which millions were waiting had arrived. The Archbishop's voice rang firmly through the magnificent old church.

Married at 6.45 EST

The Archbishop pronounced them man and wife at 11:44 a.m. GMT (6:44 a.m. EST).

Philip, repeating the marriage vow after the Archbishop, said "I will" quietly. When Elizabeth echoed the vows her words were scarcely audible.

The King then gave his elder daughter in marriage. Philip joined his right hand with Elizabeth's, and in a strong, resonant voice repeated the words:

"I, Philip, take thee, Elizabeth Alexandra Mary, to my wedded wife, to have and to hold from this day forward, for better, for worse, for richer, for poorer, in sickness and in health, to love and to cherish till death do us part, according to God's Holy Ordinance, and there to I plight thee my troth."

"I, Elizabeth Alexandra Mary, take thee, Philip, to my wedded husband, to have and to hold from this day forward, for better, for worse, for richer, for poorer, in sickness and in health, to love, cherish and to obey till death do us part, according to God's Holy Ordinance; and hereto I give thee my troth."

Elizabeth released Philip's hand Philip then placed the ring on Elizabeth's finger and, repeating after the Archbishop, said:

"With this ring I thee wed, with my body I thee worship, and with all my worldly goods I thee endow, in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost, Amen."

The royal couple knelt before the Archbishop and the congregation remained standing while the prelate intoned the prayer.

Crowd Murmurs

An audible murmur ran through the assemblage as the Archbishop pronounced Philip and Elizabeth man and wife.

The Archbishop of York delivered his address and the Archbishop of Canterbury gave the final prayer and benediction.

After an anthem by the choir, the entire assemblage joined in "God Save the King."

Then the royal bride and bridegroom and the members of their families were led beyond the high altar and into the chapel of Edward the Confessor to sign the register. A golden pen was used.

Dr. Cyril Garbutt, Archbishop of York, advised the couple in his address to be unselfish in their love and to share each other's problems.

As the ceremonies came to a close, trumpeters sounded a fanfare. A moment later, the rich tones of the organ filled the Abbey and, to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, the royal couple moved with their procession toward the waiting thousands outside.

As Elizabeth and Philip passed the King and Queen, the young Duke bowed and his royal bride made a deep curtsy.

Crowds Roar Welcome

Churchbells sounded, only to be drowned in the welcoming roar of a milling, jubilant multitude.

Elizabeth, stepping into the coach, paused a moment to fold her train, taking up its ends from the two little pages, Prince William of Gloucester and Prince Michael of Kent.

On the short journey from the steps of the sanctuary to the altar the bridegroom had repeatedly looked back to see how the pages were managing. To help them he deliberately slowed the pace. Standing at his daughter's left, the King in the midst of the ceremony also stooped once to grasp the train for a moment.

Donning his service cap, the Duke took his place beside his bride in the coach, the footmen mounted and the procession began its return to the Palace.

The Duke reached out a window and waved at the crowds.

They were followed by visiting royalty, including King Haakon of Norway, the Queen of the Hellenes and the King and Queen of Denmark.

As the bridal couple drove under Admiralty Arch, entering the Mall leading to the Palace, the Princess smiled and waved to the crowds and her husband saluted.

The cheers kept pace with the procession, rising in an unbroken roar that echoed over St. James's Park.

As the coach entered the Palace forecourt both Philip and Elizabeth smiled and waved happily. Inside the gates they were welcomed by the Palace staff.

Wedding Breakfast

Shortly afterward the King and Queen, followed by their royal guests, returned to the Palace for the wedding breakfast.

Unmoving, the crowd hung on, awaiting a balcony appearance of the Princess and the Duke.

To tumultous cheers, the bride and bridegroom appeared on the balcony, followed by the King and Queen and other members of the Royal Family.

Their appearance apparently satisfied the jubilant crowd, which had filled up the crescent in front of the Palace as soon as the procession had entered the Palace gates.

Five kings and six queens were among the guests at the royal wedding breakfast who drank the health of the bride and bridegroom in champagne from the royal cellars.

In front of one of the long mirrors in the ball supper room stood the official wedding cake, six feet, three inches high and weighing 600 pounds.

Then pieces of the cake were given to the King, Queen, Queen Mary and the other guests.

Appear on Balcony

Europe's royalty toasted the couple in champagne and the bride and groom made two appearances on a balcony to receive the plaudits of the throngs.

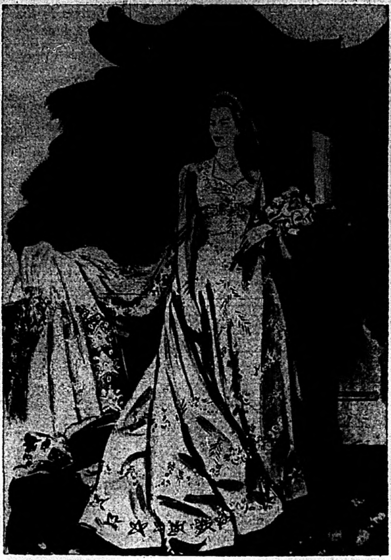
BECOMES GODFATHER

Lieut. Philip Mountbatten took on another tough task in the light of his many duties preceding his marriage to Princess Elizabeth today. He became a godfather to the new-born son of Lord and Lady Brabourne at their home in Marysham-le-Hatch, near Ashford, Eng. The child is the grandson of Earl and Lady Mountbatten, uncle and aunt of the lieutenant. Mountbatten is seen peering over the shoulder of Lady Brabourne at his godson.

PRINCESS ELIZABETH'S WEDDING DRESS



This sketch was copied from designs of Princess Elizabeth's wedding dress, made by designer Norman Hartnell. It is a princess gown of ivory duchesse satin, cut on classic lines, with fitted bodice, long tight sleeves and full falling skirt. The broad heart-shaped neckline of the bodice is delicately embroidered with seed pearls and crystal in floral design. From the pointed waistline, formed by a girdle of pearl embroidered star flowers, the swirling skirt is gloriously hand embroidered in a design inspired by the paintings of Botticelli, representing garlands of white York roses, carried out in raised pearls entwined with ears of corn minutely embroidered in crystals and oat-shaped pearls. Alternating between the garlands of roses and wheat and forming a final border around the entire hem of the skirt, are bands of orange blossom and star flowers applique with transparent tulle bordered with seed pearls and crystal. A full court train, 15 feet long, of transparent ivory silk tulle attached to the shoulders, is edged with graduated satin flowers, finally forming a deep border at the end of the fan-shaped train. A reversed type of embroidery, as used on the wedding gown, is here employed on the train by the use of applique satin star flowers, roses and wheat further encrusted with pearl and crystal embroideries. An ethereal voluminous bridal veil of crisp white tulle is held by a tiara of pearls and diamonds.

Archbishop of Canterbury in Full Robes for Historic Event

The Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Francis Fisher, is shown wearing the robes in which he appeared when he officiated at the wedding of H.R.H. Princess Elizabeth and Lieut. Philip Mountbatten, R.N., in Westminter Abbey. He is wearing the Episcopal Cross and the Star of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem (attached to mitre emblem beneath the fastening of the cape.) The staff in his left hand is the Primatial Cross in silver gilt and was originally presented by all the clergy in the See of Canterbury in 1883 to Dr. Benson, who was then Archbishop of Canterbury. The staff is handed down to each succeeding archbishop.

Greek Queen in London

The Royal Wedding

All is merry as a marriage bell in Britain today, Thursday, November 20th., a day to be remembered in the calendar, as the Princess Elizabeth was united in ancient Westminster Abbey to the man of her choice, Lieut. Philip Mountbatten of the Royal Navy. On the eve of the nuptials the groom had been granted by His Majesty King George the titles of the Duke of Edinburgh, Earl of Merioneth and Baron Greenwich and was authorized to use the prefix "His Royal Highness." A true love match has brought the happy young couple to the high altar of the Abbey where they have plighted their troth as an Empire celebrates. London was jammed with the greatest crowds in her history for a royal wedding is an event of vast importance in that land which, while it clings to the rich past, has been the land of the people who have advanced the cause of liberty across the world more than any other race. In the sheer beauty of heraldry from an honored and historic past, Britons in this mid-twentieth century day rejoice in a royal wedding as no other land rejoices in such an event. Here the past and present are so closely interwoven.

Now the past is seen a factor in the present and the present acknowledges its debt to all the ages which have gone. The richness of the ancient pageantry and the simple service of the church as used at every marriage service for royalty as for the least known person in the land, together with the rejoicing of the millions of Britons at home and abroad set this day apart for celebration.

The royal bride who is heiress presumptive to the Throne is very much of the present twentieth century and has in her short life taken no small part and share in public events. She has been trained in the best traditions of the Royal Family of Britain and her life is a life of devotion to service. She is beloved by the people of the Homeland and of the Commonwealth of Nations.

On the day of her marriage, this romance of a Princess and the man she loves is what the British people admire and love. The homes of Britain have been seen as types of the ideal home and the ideal family life. Therefore throughout the land which has borne the trials and tribulations of two world wars against aggression and tyranny and in a period of great stringency and strain, the people give way to rejoicing with their King and Queen and the happy couple. Joy is unconfined and all is happiness. What a happy augury is here seen for not only Britain but for the world at large to find the love of a young girl and her fiance the reason that the people of her country and his country and of lands beyond the seas rejoice.

Millions upon millions wish the young Princess and her Consort every happiness and joy for long years to come. The young Princess has the prayers and blessings of her wellwishers for her service to the State during the war and in the public duties she has carried out and in the training she has undergone in her exalted position as the daughter of a King.

So the people wish blessings on this happy royal pair.

Self-Government for Malta

Malta was scheduled to hold elections this fall for a Legislative Assembly that will have full control over the island's internal affairs. The new constitution, restoring responsible government to Malta, is based on proposals worked out during 1945 and 1946 by a National Assembly specially convoked to express the wishes of the people, and a United Kingdom Constitutional Commissioner, Sir Harold MacMichael.

The question of self-government for Malta is complicated by the difficulty of reconciling the island's political development with its great strategic position and lack of national wealth. Since it is clearly impossible for Malta to provide alone for the defence of one of the key positions of the world, the whole of this responsibility is assumed by Britain, while the conduct of internal affairs rests with the Maltese Government.

The Legislative Assembly will consist of forty members, elected by universal suffrage on a basis of proportional voting. The legislature will at first have only one Chamber, but a second Chamber may be introduced after ten years if a majority of the Assembly wish for it

Malta is faced with a heavy program of reconstruction and restoration of war damage. In order that the new constitution shall not be handicapped at the outset by financial difficulties resulting from the island's outstanding part in the war, the United Kingdom Government has made a gift to Malta of some £31,000,000 ($124,000,000). Special legislation has also been passed in Britain, enabling Malta to continue to receive assistance under the Colonial.

Coal in the Arctics

Coal is a common thing in the Arctics. There is a great seam of coal on the lower Mackenzie River which apparently has been burning for many years and beds of lignite near Fort Norman that are possibly thousands of years old. There are also coal deposits in Alaska and, on the other side of the world, north of Europe, the Arctic Spitzbergen, which was made objective of a Canadian expedition during the war, has its coal mines which must have come from some warmer age.

The scientists are of the belief that at one time there may have been no polar regions as they are now known and that the whole earth was comparatively the same temperature, due to a form of insulation provided by the atmosphere, possibly a layer of carbon dioxide. There are evidences that the Amazon River territory, on the equator, was once glacier covered. Port Arthur at one stage of the world's history may have been part of a large tropical area.

There is evidence that the Antarctic, now comparable in temperature to the north polar area, was once tropical.

How many millions of years have been used by the earth in going through these changes, which are so slow that man can scarcely measure them, cannot even be guessed but there are evidences that such things have been part of the world history and a lot has yet to be learned about it. In such matters man is only at the beginning of his knowledge.—Port Arthur News-Chronicle.

Bent Swords

Old Palace Yard, which lies between the Chapter House of Westminster Abbey and the House of Lords, is just now the site of rural activity much more refreshing to watch than the bustle of traffic flowing from Parliament Square along Abingdon Street. Groundsmen are laying the grass round the statue of George V, says The Manchester Guardian.

Just across the road, in the angle formed by St. Stephen's Hall and the front of the House of Lords, another gentle pursuit may be watched. The statue of Richard Coeur de Lion on horseback is now being mended.

His bent sword has been snatched from his mailed fist to be straightened, and if one listens carefully one can hear a man tapping on the hind quarters of the charger. It sounds through the scaffolding as if a metal patch were being tacked on.

To a Man's Heart

Los Angeles youth, accused of attempting to kidnap an 18-year-old girl, claims she bewitched him with a potato, bean and macaroni sandwich. Granting that the way to a man's heart is via the stomach, this lad must have had a particularly strong, but susceptible digestive system, remarks Windsor Star.

Save Animals on the Road

When an automobile driver sees an animal on the road, the only safe thing to do is to slow down practically to a stop. The blowing of the horn merely serves to further confuse the animal, and it is just as apt to walk in front of the car as to get off to the side. This is even more true at night, when the vehicle's lights add to the uncertainty of a horse or cow, says Windsor Star.

If a man takes no thought about what is distant, he will find sorrow near at hand. —Confucius.

THE NEXT LEADER

When will a leader true appear,
And by what signs will he be known?
When one who sees with vision clear
A greater purpose than his own
And, though alone, steps forth to fight
For what he knows to be the right.

When one for cheers will never lie,
Play false a word of praise to gain,
Or promise what he must deny,
Merely in office to remain,
There will be found that leader great
For whom all anxious people wait.

When one who serves, by every test,
What he believes to be the right
And for the public welfare best,
Fears neither ridicule nor spite,
There will have risen one to lead
These troubled times so sorely need.

There was a large market this morning. Eggs sold at 17 cents to 18 cents per dozen and butter was plentiful at 12 cents to 15 cents per pound.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Lake have received a letter announcing the arrival in England from Africa of their daughter Mrs. Cyril Bird, who has been engaged in missionary work in Africa for some time.

This has been a big week at the G.T.R. station here, owing to the shipment of 16,000 boxes of cheese to Montreal. The rush has been occasioned by the desire of shipper to catch the last boats out of Montreal for England. Hereafter the boats will sail from Portland, Maine. There are only three factories in this section which have not sold out their entire stock of cheese. They are holding for higher prices.

The market train was discontinued last week and many persons who formerly came to the local market by train were compelled to drive to the city today.

Dr. J. U. Simmons of Frankford was in town today.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Just why strict Sunday-observance laws and customs came to be called "blue laws" is not known for certain. The earliest use of the term is dated about 1775.

It has been suggested that such laws were so called because they were printed on blue paper or the book in which they were bound had blue covers, but that is probably no more than a guess.

The Coventers adopted blue as their color in contradiction to the royal red, and for that reason the Scotch Presbyterians, as well as the Whigs generally, were called "true blues" during the 17th century. It was at this time that "blue" acquired its meaning of strict or puritanical and that is probably the significance of the word in "blue laws."

In the last analysis, compulsory Sunday observance goes back to the compulsory Sabbath observance among the Israelities.

The code of imperial laws issued in A.D. 438 by the Eastern Roman Emperor Theodosius II, and adopted shortly thereafter by the Western Roman Emperor Valentinian III, contained the first statute forbidding games and other public amusements on Sunday.

The New England Puritans brought their ideas of government with them from the mother country. Even the more tolerant Pilgrims at Plymouth had their blue laws. Dancing, show and other public amusements were forbidden on Sunday in Scotland and England until the Second World War.

The first blue laws in America were enacted in Virginia, not New England. In 1616 Sir Thomas Dale, acting governor of the Jamestown colony, proclaimed that every person must go to church on Sundays and holy days or "lye neck and heels in the guard house all night and be a slave to the colony for a week." Under the Dale code the penalty was a thrust of a bodkin through the tongue for blasphemy and death for uttering doubts about the Trinity.

The next year Sir Samuel Argall, deputy governor of Virginia, issued an order that every person must go to church on Sundays under penalty of slavery for a week for the first offense, a month for the second and a year for the third.

The first legislative body assembled on American soil, the Virginia House of Burgesses, at its first session in 1619 enacted that "all persons whatsoever upon the Sabbath days shall frequent divine service and sermons, both forenoon and afternoon." The Anglican church was established bylaw and its creed was made the rule of the colony.

Blue laws are not associated with Virginia in the public mind because that colony became much more lenient in respects to Sunday observers in later years.

TAKEN OUT OF PARADE

London, Nov. 20 —(CP)— The boy King Feisal of Iraq was taken temporarily out of the procession of royalty emerging from Westminster Abbey after the royal wedding today when a policeman mistook him for an ambitious child who had slipped into the regal group.

King Feisal obediently followed the bobby's instructions and stepped aside before the mistake was corrected.

Letters to the Editor

Milk Producer's View

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer,

In your columns of Nov. 14th. I read a report of the meeting of the Milk distributors' Association of Belleville. I, being a producer of milk that is consumed in your city, would desire an expression of thought.

As I see it there were several points given you for publication by the chairman that might be disputed:

1. The increase in the cost of milk.
2. The price paid producers by vendor.
3. Local cost of hauling.
4. Cost of production.

In regard the local price of milk the farmers locally have little to say about it, but it is decided by the Milk Control Board, Toronto, determined by the cost of production. In the last increase of 3 cents per quart the Milk Control Board allowed the milk distributors one cent per quart for increased cost of supplies and wages, etc., and under those circumstances the distributors had no objection, to increase, but as the prospective increase would only enhance the purses of the producers the distributors became opposed as it might affect their quartage.

I note the chairman stated that the price paid the producers was $3.35 per hundred for 3.4 milk. It is true that the Milk Control Board instructed the distributors to pay the producers that amount beginning the 1st of last March, but it is not true that they were paid that amount.

I note the chairman stated that milk producers locally were better off than they were in the Toronto area because it cost 40 cents per hundred for hauling in Toronto and locally only 10 cents per hundred.

Any milk hauled to the dairy locally at less than Toronto prices is done so at a financial loss.

Now let us deal with the cost of production.

Owing to the disastrous spring and early summer the dairymen were unable to get more than 50 per cent of the grain crop seeded.

We had a very wonderful hay crop, but the rain destroyed from 50 per cent to 75 per cent of its feed value.

The rain delayed the planting of corn, the rain also retarded the early growth of corn, and an early frost destroyed a great deal of its feeding value.

When you offer a dairy cow feed that is very low in proteins it is much like mining low grade ore a lot of expense for what you get.

Almost all the grains we buy for milk production have gone up from 75 to 100 per cent.

No, Mr. Chairman, the milk producers are not indifferent about winter milk production, our feed is indifferent.

Arthur F. Vermilyea.

P.S.:—

Might I be pardoned for making a prediction?

Unless milk is hauled from long distances, there is going to be a great scarcity of milk between now and the first of February.

Proposals for City

Belleville, Nov. 20

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer,

Candidates for the office of Mayor may reasonably be expected to comply with the following qualifications:

1. Some municipal experience
2. A record of achievements
3. Proposals for the future

When I was a student at Albert College, at the matriculation entertainment, I proposed the construction of a bridge across the Bay to replace the old ferry boat that made the round trip from Belleville to Rossmore once an hour during the day time and was criticized as being extravagant and visionary. The bridge has been constructed without any cost to the City of Belleville and has been the means of bringing millions of dollars worth of trade in the city. I also proposed the construction of the Murray Canal to connect the Bay with Lake Ontario at the west end.

When I was Captain of No. 2 Company in the 15th Battalion, Argyll Light Infantry, I proposed the erection of an Armouries here. Before that, company officers were forced to rent rooms and at their own expense in different parts of the city to store arms and uniforms and to drill the men. The Armouries have been constructed and rendered great services.

When I was Mayor of the City of Belleville I proposed and carried to completion the following eight useful public measures:

1. The removal of Albert College to Highland Avenue and the erection of the fine new structure to which I contributed financially.
2. The acquisition of the land and erection of the new Agricultural Park.
3. The Rawson Bus Line throughout the city.
4. The Corby Public Baths and Buildings on Victoria Park; The late Senator Corby bequeathed a sum of money for the purpose of the baths, but for seven years nothing had been done about it.
5. The United Empire Loyalists' Celebration which brought about 60,000 visitors to the city, at no expense to the city.
6. The Old Boys' Reunion of 1925.
7. The Tourist Camp, Dundas St., one of the best in the province.
8. The Veterans' Home on the east side of Front Street.

Of course while I took an active part in proposing and completing the above mentioned improvements I received the hearty co-operation of the progressive citizens of Belleville.

All these proposals met more or less with criticism from the class known as "Little Bellevillians."

There should be no deputation at the city's expense unless approved by all the members of the council except to the Ontario Municipal Association or the Ontario Good Roads Association. No expense of the deputation should be paid until a written report and an itemized statement of disbursement submitted to the Council.

I have served in the offices of auditor, clerk, solicitor, alderman and mayor and have been presiding officer in ten other organizations.

Future Proposals

1. The Bay of Quinte is part of the River St. Lawrence and should be deepened to accommodate ocean vessels.
2. A union railway depot to eliminate the crossings at the Gibson and Cemetery crossings.
3. Beautify and improve the power capacity of the River Moira.
4. Systematic extension of the city's boundaries.
5. Erection of substantial homes of stone, brick or cement on a 40 year payment plan.
6. Dredge the harbor down to the rock to prevent pollution of the water by summer vegetation.
7. Aim at creating a city of 50,000 population on the northern shores of the Bay of Quinte.

QUICK, NURSE, THE OXYGEN TANK

A complaint which many readers make to me — they should make the complaint to their physician — is that they are unable to yawn — that is, they have a constant desire to yawn but they can't satisfy the desire no matter how much they yawn.

Sometimes this complaint is expressed rather as a feeling that one can't get enough air or oxygen to satisfy the demands of the body, or that one's breathing is too shallow and the effort or attention required for deeper breathing is exhausting.

In his classical book Respiration (too technical for lawmen, but published by Yale University Press, New Haven) J. S. Haldane, C.H., M.D., F.R.S., speaks of this feeling of inadequate intake of air or oxygen as a familiar complaint of persons with (let's not quarrel with the author right now) neurasthenia. However, lest some readers get upset about this, it seems only fair to give a few definitions of neurasthenia:

1. Nervous prostration; a psychoneurosis or nervous exhaustion characterized by abnormal fatigability. (The American Medical Dictionary, Dorland.)
2. Nervous exhaustion, a functional neurosis marked by intense nervous irritability and weakness. (Stedman's Medical Dictionary.)
3. A neurotic condition of debility characterized by feelings of fatigue, worry and inadequacy. (New International Dictionary, Webster.)
4. * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * (Freud—Asterisk's stand for Freud's definition — I want to carry on here a little longer.)
5. A lot of hoopey the doctor may use to conceal his ignorance of what ails the patient or the patient may use to conceal the nature of his illness or difficulty from the public. (Doc Brady.)

I believe there is a relation between anoxia, under-oxygenation of the body tissues and cells, oxygen shortage and anhedonia, incapacity for unhappiness, inability to enjoy life.

Now here is a physiological fact which should interest every anhedonist, neurasthenic or neurotic: Exercise increases absorption of oxygen. If you would really like to enjoy life you get off your ischial tuberosities and take a reasonable amount of general exercise every day. Not violent or athletic exercise but just good general exercise, and the best general exercise for any body any time in any weather, season or climate is walking—oxygen on the hoof.

Then, too, in my opinion—I'm no authority about anything and most "specialists" will tell you that my notions are not "accepted" by the Great Pooh Bah who makes up the minds of the yesmen of the medical profession about these things—it is my opinion that a daily Iodin Ration improves the metabolism, the oxygen absorption, of every individual who takes it the year around. On written request, accompanied with a stamped self addressed envelope, I'll send you instructions for taking an Iodin Ration iodin being my spelling, to indicate that it is nutritional iodine, not medicinal iodine.

Finally, based on my own observation, and the significant fact that patients are sometimes admitted to hospitals or sanitariums and treated for "neurasthenia" whereas months or years later it becomes evident that what the doctors called "neurasthenia" was are early stage of pellagra, I recommend to every individual who imagines he or she is neurasthenic the practice of supplementing the daily diet with an optimal ration of vitamin B complex.

Two Children Burn in Home Razed by Fire

Victoria, Nov. 20 —(CP)— Three-weeks-old Wilfred Sadler died in hospital today from burns suffered in a fire yesterday which also claimed the life of his 17-months-old sister and destroyed their parents' home at Beaver Lake, eight miles north of here.

Cardna Rose Sadler, infant sister, died while asleep upstairs in her crib as the flames which broke out in the kitchen below, spread to the rest of the house. Another daughter, five-year-old Betty, escaped uninjured.

In hospital is Mrs. Wilfred Sadler, mother of the children, who suffered minor burns during an attempt to extinguish the fire, which, police and firemen said, was believed started when the kitchen clothes line hanging over a stove became ignited. Flaming clothes on the line then fell onto baby Wilfred's buggy, setting it alight.

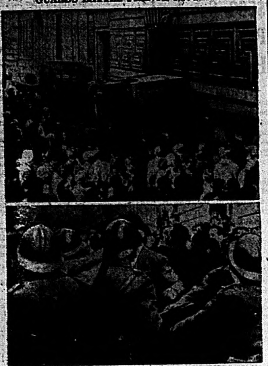
GUARDS BATTLE FRENCH RIOTERS



Communist-led rioters surround an overturned truck, top, as strikers attempt to tie-up the transportation of goods and paralyze the French Mediterranean port of Marseilles.--Below, mobile guards hold back an angry throng of demonstrators outside the Palace of Justice. The mob later seized the city hall and severely beat the mayor. Troops and police rounded up more than 1,500 suspected agitators.

LONDON CROWDS

Negroes, Indians, Boy Scouts, Sea Rangers, numberless children and servicemen, North American visitors — spotted by the men's wide-brimmed hats and the women's long skirts—surged about the Palace gates behind lines of bobbies.

Persistently they climbed on monuments and memorials and equally persistent policemen ordered them to get down.

Guardsmen marched to their posts along the route, each three paces apart, and their bands thumped and their fifes trilled. The Royal Standard, rich in gold and red, flew proudly above the Palace as the Princess prepared for her wedding.

Laughter came as the solemn sweepers carefully brushed the roadway before the massive iron gates. Hoarse officers and sergeants-major put guardsmen in position about the gates with a snapping of polished boots and a clanging of rifle butts on sidewalks.

Allowed in Forecourt.. .. ....

At 9:35 a.m. part of the crowd was allowed into the palace forecourt and a mad rush for the best places ensued. A woman carrying a baby and wearing a bright blue dress won a favored position and stood patiently for almost two hours, rocking the child in her arms. It waved its little hand as motor-cars with the bridesmaids and the pages drove into the palace amid cheers that startled even the crowd-trained police horses.

The palace gates opened at 9.50 a.m., and among the first visitors was Mrs. Winston Churchill, wife of Britain's wartime prime Minister. She made the V-for-Victory sign as she entered.

As the cavalry escort formed lines before the palace they looked like fairyland characters against the drab background of austerity London.

Swords flashed to the salute when the faint strains of God Save the King came from the inner courtyard of the palace and the Queen's coach came out at a brisk canter, Her Majesty waving to the crowd.

Silence fell as the big moment of the Princess's departure was awaited. Then the notes of the National Anthem touched off new cheers.

The bride's coach came out quickly, the red coats of the household cavalry escort bobbing under the arch, then out of the palace grounds past the Queen Victoria statue and on to the Mall, while police linked arms and held back the press of cheering people.

Through the glass of the coach people could see the Princess, her white veil flowing behind her smiling face. The King sat beside her and waved in salute.

In a moment they were gone, their escort cantering behind and from Buckingham Palace the crowd could see a spot of the color as the royal progress swept up the historic mile towards Trafalgar Square and on through Whitehall to the Abbey.

FRANCE RECALLS

Auriol invited Socialist Elder Statesman Blum to lunch with him and usually well - informed sources said the president would commission him to try to form a widely-based government—probably with all but the Communists and De Gaulfists represented.

Guy Mollet, Secretary-General of the Socialist party, said yesterday that Blum had consented to succeed Ramadier, another Socialist, whose regime was harassed by political, economic and labor troubles for the entire 10 months of its life.

500,000 Workers Out

Approximately 500,000 workers were reported on strike throughout France as Ramadier quit. Special security guards were posted in Paris and other tense French cities to prevent possible violence. Coal mines, automobile factories and Mediterranean ports were tied up by communist-led strikes. A millers' strike led to fears of a bread shortage.

Ramadier's ministers, including Foreign Minister Georges Bidault, Finance Minister Robert Schuman and Interior Minister Edouard Dépreux, who has jurisdiction over the national police, remained on the job pending president Vincent Auriol's negotiations to form a new cabinet.

Asking Increases

All the strikers involved in the current labor tie-up are members of unions affiliated with the communist - dominated General Confederation of Labor. They are asking, on orders of the General Confederation, an increase in the minimum monthly wage of 7,000 francs (about $59) to 10,800 francs (about $90) and a 25 per cent salary boost pending negotiations for the increase.

Marseille was regarded as one of the most troublesome of the French trouble spots. Troops were unloading food there from ships tied up by a longshoremen's strike.

A large part of 800 Citroen auto workers on strike at the Saint Ouen plant near the French capital returned to work this morning under police protection.

No incidents were reported.

BRITISH SEAMEN

The story, as told him by Capt. Thomas Orford of Liverpool and Chief Officer Cyril King of Sunderland was that the 4,900-ton freighter went hard aground about 5.20 a.m. Saturday. Her boilers exploded immediately and she began breaking in two.

The captain withheld the abandon ship order for two hours until the weak northern dawn gave them enough light to assess their position. Then he ordered the crew ashore.

Colling and Anderson, the first to make the attempt, disappeared as they swam in with a line but the remainder of the crew got ashore in lifeboats, taking stores of food and fuel with them and three tarpaulins to serve as shelter.

Once ashore they picked a camp-site a mile from the landing place and made fast the tarpaulins with boulders. They cooked their meals in a bucket.

It was not until yesterday that the weather cleared enough to let them see the mainland only three miles away. Then they saw the first rescue ship as the Merchant aircraft carrier Empire MacCallum hove up.

Second officer Ivan Caley of Newcastle-on-Tyne rigged up a semaphore outfit from a sheet and an oar and exchanged messages with the MacCallum.

Prevented Getting Back

The seamen saw a boat leave the side of the carrier and then saw it carried by wind and sea away from the island.

They were unaware of it at the time but the MacCallum had to abandon the rescue attempt and continue on her voyage to Montreal, leaving the 14 men in her lifeboat to be cared for by the people of Cape Onion where they landed when the seas prevented them from getting back to their ship.

Then Polar Whaling Company's little killer boat Olaf Olsen hove into sight. Equipped with a harpoon gun she fired one of her missiles at the shore carrying a four-inch rope with it.

After the stranded seamen secured the line with boulders two of the Norwegian seamen from the Olsen came away in a dory, pulling themselves hand over hand along the line. They took two apprentice seamen of the Langleecrag's crew back and when they returned they used a lifeboat because the surf was too strong for the light dory.

The lifeboat was able to take six or seven men at a time off the islet and transfer them safely to the whaler which had completed her task by noon. Then she turned around and steamed for St. Anthony.

One of the first acts of Capt. Orford after he had seen to the welfare of his crew last night was to send off to the ship's agents a message praising the seamanship of Capt. Arne Brogen of the Olsen and his crew and thanking the MacCallum for standing by.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

The Ontario Intelligencer will be pleased to receive news items regarding Belleville citizens who have guests or are visiting friends elsewhere. Kindly phone 99 or mail information to this office.

Mrs. A. Snider of Herchimer Ave., is spending the Winter months with her daughter, Mrs. A. L. Greatrix, R. 6, Belleville.

Mrs. D'Arcy Young Belleville, and Mrs. Trumpour of Hillier, are in Toronto, visiting friends and attending the Winter Fair.

Group Serves Salad Supper

A very lovely salad supper was served by Miss Gladys Harquael and her group at the last meeting of the Belleville Phiat Sorority. After the business of the meeting was discussed, the members were favored with an address by Mrs. F. R. Harback, who spoke on "Fellowship in the World Today". Her address was very much enjoyed and she was graciously thanked by Miss Doreen Bell. To end the program Miss Mary Tomaso led the group in a sing-song.

Women's Activities

AVONDALE NEIGHBORS' AID

The Avondale Neighbors' Aid held their November meeting at the home of Mrs. Leonard Reid on Thursday afternoon.

There was a good attendance and the president presided.

The meeting opened with a hymn and prayer in unison.

The Scripture was read by Mrs. J. Niblock and the Roll Call was answered by a verse of the Bible.

After the reading of the minutes the various reports were given.

The treasurer's report showed a most satisfactory amount in the treasury. The sum of $28.20 was realized and added to the funds by the three members, who were in charge of the money-making project for the month. Mesdames F. Reid, E. Windover and K. Chambers.

Plans were discussed for a members' tea and bazaar to be held at the home of Mrs. P. Boulton on December fourth.

Mrs. A. Clare was then asked to take the chair and conduct the election of officers for 1948.

The results were the return of all those in office last year:

President, Mrs. C. Hermon

Vice President, Mrs. A. Daniels.

Recording Secretary, Mrs. H. Wright.

Treasurer, Mrs. S. Lough, Mrs. Boulton.

Cor. Secretary, Mrs. T. Anger

Press Secretary, Mrs. L. Reid, Alternate, Mrs. C. Ling.

Pianists, Mrs. J. Chambers, Mrs. T. Anger.

The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction.

Mrs. Fred Reid was the prize winner in the contest which followed. Delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. A. Kingston and Mrs. S. Lough and a social half hour was enjoyed.

Holloway Young Adult Group

The regular meeting of the Holloway Young Adult Group was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry McMullen with Rev. L. Shorten in charge of the program.

The scripture lesson was read, after which a poem was read by Mrs. Shorten. The topic for discussion was the theme of a picture named "Light of the World." Business was then discussed and the following officers elected for the coming year: Honorary President Rev. L. Shorten; President Lorna Hough; Vice President, Beatrice Snider; Secretary Helen McMullen; Treasurer Ruth McMullen; Pianist Verna Townsend; Conveners are Mr. and Mrs. Don Rose; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Emerson; Mr. and Mrs. Harry McMullen, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Cassidy.

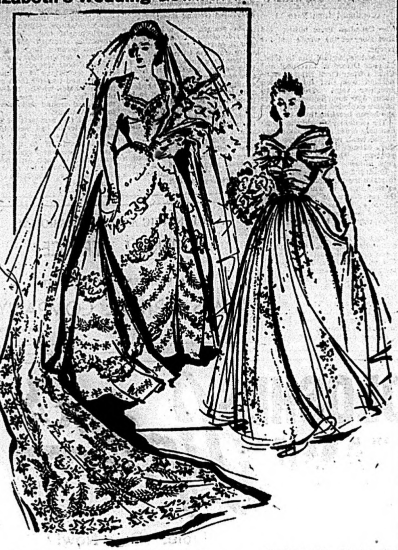
Elizabeth's Wedding Gown and Her Bridesmaids



By JOAN CAPREOL

London, Nov. 20. (Reuters)—Princess Elizabeth stood at the high altar in Westminster Abbey this morning beside Lieut. Philip Mountbatten in an ethereal, classical wedding dress of dewy white satin, sparkling with thousands of crystals and seed pearls.

With a full court train 15 feet long, the dress was inspired by a Botticelli painting.

The Princess was an all-white bride, with an all-white retinue of eight bridesmaids.

Her dress was made of 15 yards of rich, ivory duchesse satin and was cut on classical lines with fitted bodice, long, tight sleeves and full falling skirt.

The ban of secrecy on the wedding dress, imposed by the Princess herself, was lifted for reporters today—only a few hours before the Royal wedding.

The showing last night ended a long period of speculation during which the British press was sworn to secrecy. "Spies" from some international fashion houses sought to discover the secret by bribing seamstresses.

Hartnell Designed

The dress was made by Norman Hartnell, dressmaker to the Queen. Private detectives guarded the west-end salon night and day.

The broad heartshaped neckline of the bodice was delicately embroidered with seed pearls and crystal in a floral design—from the pointed waistline, formed by a girdle of pearl-embroidered star flowers, the swirling skirt was hand embroidered in an exquisite design representing garlands of white York roses carried out in raised pearls entwined with ears of corn minutely embroidered in crystals and oat-shaped pearls.

Alternating between the garlands of roses and wheat and forming a final border around the entire hem of the skirt were bands of orange blossom and star flowers applique with transparent tulle bordered with seed pearls and crystals.

The train of transparent ivory silk tulle fell from the bride's shoulders and was edged with graduated satin flowers, finally forming the deep border at the end of the fan-shaped train.

A reversed type of embroidery from that used on the wedding gown was introduced on the train by the use of applique satin star flowers, roses and wheat, further encrusted with pearl and crystal embroideries.

The Princess' two cousins, Prince Michael, 5-year-old son of the late Duke of Kent, and Prince William, elder son of the Duke of Gloucester, also 5, wearing Royal Stuart tartan kilts carried the train.

Princess Elizabeth, who chose the dress from 12 sketches Hartnell made for her, wore a voluminous bridal veil of crisp white tulle held by a tiara of pearls and diamonds.

300 Worked on Embroidery

Some 300 needlewomen worked two weeks on the embroidery. They wore tissue paper cuffs on their dresses and washed their hands every half-hour.

Standing beside her tall bridegroom, the princess appeared taller than usual. Her ivory satin-draped sandals have higher heels than she has ever worn before. The open-toe, back and side effect is finished off with a silver buckle, studded with small pearls.

Gowns of the eight bridesmaids, including Princess Elizabeth's sister, Princess Margaret, were in ivory silk tulle, in a design inspired by pictures hanging in Buckingham Palace.

The tight-fitting bodices of gathered tulle were shirred down the centre front, and the shoulders were swathed with a deep fichu of pearl-spotted tulle bordered with a delicate trail of applique white satin syringa.

Short Skirt

Princess Elizabeth gave a lead to short-skirt advocates in her going-away ensemble, the only new thing in her trousseau. The rest were the dresses she wore on the Royal tour of South Africa early this year. When she left for her honeymoon she wore a coat and dress with a hemline of her customary length just below the knees.

Her travelling coat of a mist-blue velour cloth had soft revers and rounded shoulders. A gently flared skirt gave fullness and inset bands across the coat front were held with three buttons as far as the waist.

The Princess introduced a color contrast in her shoes, gloves and handbag. They were of mushroom-beige suede.

All materials used in the wedding dresses were made in Britain, including the pearls and crystals in the embroidery.

Marriage Is in Very Real Sense A Family Occasion to Millions Of People of British Empire

London, Nov. 20 (Reuters) — British newspapers today turned from shortages, political disputes and threats of war to devote their editorials — as well as a big proportion of their strictly rationed space — to the royal wedding.

Most of them drew attention to the place the Royal Family holds in the hearts of the people throughout the Commonwealth, and their importance in the constitution.

A typical comment was that of The Daily Herald, Labor, which said: "Britain is a Monarchy. But it is not of the kind which has brought unhappiness and confusion to other lands. Our King and the people's elected government work together within the unwritten but well-understood bounds of a Liberal constitution. King and ministers alike are constantly aware that they draw their authority only from the people."

"It is a great thing that there should be in our midst one family which, regarded by all is in a true sense their own, makes the whole Empire kin and helps to give it the spirit of one family life."

This point of view was emphasized by The Daily Telegraph which said:

"This marriage is in a very real sense a family occasion to the millions of the British Empire; and their affectionate enthusiasm is shared by many in other lands.

"This enthusiasm has found expression in the personal attendance of many who have grown old in the service of the Empire. There is Mr. Mackenzie King, the veteran Prime Minister of Canada, whom his Majesty has just been delighted to honor — and in this case the conventional phrase expresses far more than conventional feelings — with the Order of Merit ... there is no part of the Empire which has not appointed a representative to honor the lady who will be its Queen, and sent a token to greet her wedding day."

The Daily Mail said:

"The affection between Elizabeth and Philip cannot be concealed. Every picture, every snapshot has proclaimed it. Since the engagement was announced the Princess has been radiantly happy."

Millions Greet Wedding As 'Fairy-Tale Romance'

(By The Canadian Press)

Millions around the world today greeted the wedding of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh as a "fairy-tale romance."

From the countries of the British Commonwealth, from world capitals and from small towns and villages in many states thousands of words of good wishes to the Royal couple poured into London.

In Canada hundreds of thousands rose early to listen to the broadcast of the ceremony. Most schools were closed for the day. Viscount Alexander, the Governor-General, sent official greetings from the Dominion and Prime Minister Mackenzie King attended the wedding in Westminster Abbey as Canada's representative.

Here is how the wedding day was observed in various centres:

Johannesburg—Flags and bunting covered all government buildings.

Lahore — Liaquat Ali Khan, Prime Minister of Pakistan, cabled congratulations.

Athens — Ambassadors of Britain, Canada and South Africa gave a party in honor of the wedding at the British Embassy. The Greek parliament sent congratulations to the King and Queen.

Tokyo — A. D. F. Gascoigne, head of the British Liaison Mission in Japan, proposed a toast to the Royal couple at a Briton Embassy reception.

Paris — The British Colony arranged a full day of celebrations, starting with a film show and ending with a ball. President Vincent Auriol sent greetings.

Shanghai — A. G. N. Ogden, British Consul-general, gave a reception for Chinese consular and diplomatic officials.

Canberra—The Commonwealth parliament adjourned after agreeing on a loyal address to the Throne and felicitations to the bridal couple, to enable members to listen to broadcasts of the wedding. Factory sirens screeched and bunting fluttered in cities throughout Australia.

W.C.A. Notes

The monthly meeting of the Women's Christian Association was held in the Board Room of the Hospital with Mrs. Imlah presiding.

General business of the Association was discussed and reports read and approved.

Mrs. Thompson in giving the report of the Home for the Aged requested that an appeal be published for a few much needed articles for the Home— some comfortable chairs; one single bed and mattress, and some blankets and quilts for single beds.

The lady on duty for the Home for the month of November is Mrs. H. H. Singer.

The following gifts to the Home to the Home for the month of October are gratefully acknowledged:

$500 Scholarship Provided by Hospital Auxiliary

The Women's Hospital Auxiliary scholarship of $500 will again be made available to a member of the 1948 graduating class of nurses at the Belleville General Hospital it was decided at the November meeting of the Auxiliary.

Purpose of the scholarship is three fold,—to stimulate graduates of the school of nursing to take advantage of the various post-graduate courses offered by Canadian Universities, thus enabling them to advance in their profession equally with graduates of other good schools of nursing.

The scholarship will also aid in the securing of well qualified head nurses for the Belleville Hospital and will promote the care of patients, improve the standards of the school of nursing and ultimately increase the prestige of all graduates of this school.

Trains For Executive Work

And also to stimulate a desire in the graduates to prepare themselves adequately for, and to seek position of teaching and supervision in hospitals and schools of nursing.

The recipient of this scholarship is expected to return to the Belleville General Hospital for a period of at least one year following post-graduate work, and to choose one of the teaching and supervision courses in preparation for a hospital position.

The award will be based on consideration of the following: Degree of leadership and ability to co-operate; Personal qualification; Educational qualification, and record made during training for conscientious and reliable work in theory and in practice.

The Auxiliary awarded such a scholarship to the 1947 graduating class and it was won by Miss Christine Makush, now at the University of Western Ontario in London, taking a course in teaching and supervision. Miss Makush plans to join the staff of the Belleville Hospital upon completion of her course next year.

Wheel Chairs Needed

Miss Laura Johnson, Supervisor, reported at the meeting that additional wheel chairs were among several urgent needs in the hospital. It was decided by the Auxiliary to purchase two of the new type wheel chairs for use in the hospital.

Mrs. Arthur W. Simpson was appointed sewing convener and will be responsible for directing the sewing and bandage making at the regular meetings. Mrs. Simpson will confer with Miss Johnson and Mrs. Hislop of the hospital staff in arranging this work.

Mrs. W. L. Langlois reported a very gratifying return from the tea given by the Auxiliary last week at the home of Mrs. J. W. Imlah.

Detailed arrangements were discussed for the charity ball which the Auxiliary will sponsor at Albert College the night following Christmas.

WE SALUTE OUR PRINCESS

God, bless our Princess, dear
So far from us, so near
God give her peace
Crown all her life with love,
Give wisdom from above,
So shall she serve our cause,
May she be blessed.

WHEN SALVAGE COUNTS

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Nov. 20 (CP)—Trade was steady in the stock exchange early session today with activity at the level established prior to Monday's announcement of a bonus for increased gold production. Industrials were mixed, newsprints and utilities firm, and mining issues saw senior and selected junior golds ahead but the gains balanced by a majority of losses.

Volume for the first three hours was 707,000 shares, about 25,000 less than yesterday's similar period.

Senior golds posting gains were Aunor, Bralorne 3-8, Kerr Addison 1-4, Lake Shore 1-2, with a loss for Teck Hughes.

Junior ahead were Amalgamated, Campdell, Cariboo, Central Patricia, Conwest, Little Long Lac, Macassa, Starratt, San Antonio and losers were Bevcourt, Buffalo Canadian, Canadian Malartic, Chesterville, Cochenour, Consolidated Beattie, East Malartic, Louvicourt, MacLeod, Negus, O'Brien and Pioneer. Smelters gained $1 for metals but losers were frequent.

Algoma Steel dropped a point but the lists of the industrial board were mixed. Ahead were Abitibi Pfd., Atlas Steel, Brazilian Traction, Distillers Seagram, Dominion Steel, Eddy Power, Famous Players, Fanny Farmer, Great Lakes Paper, Imperial Oil and McColl.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Nov. 20 — (CP)—Cattle trade was dull with prices about steady with the week's decline in the livestock market up to mid-session here today. Calves hogs, sheep and lambs remained steady. Receipts: cattle 80, calves 40, hogs 200, sheep and lambs 300.

A few medium quality weighty steers brought $13.50-$13.75 a hundredweight while plain to medium heifers were $10-$12.25. Butcher cows sold for $7.50-$9.50 with canners down to $5. A few stockers moved slowly at $8-11.50

Calves were steady in the market at $16-$17 for choice with plain heavies down to $10.

Hogs remained steady at $23 for grade A and $22.60 for B1. Sows brought $15 dressed.

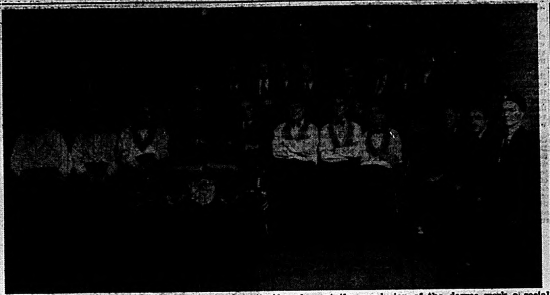
Sheep were $4-$7.50.

HOGS

Toronto, Nov. 20 — (CP) — Hog prices remained unchanged at Stratford, grade A delivered to farmers $22.75, to truckers $22.90, and at Hull $22.75 delivered while unquoted off truck, in markets reporting early this morning.



Forty candidates were recently initiated into the mysteries of The Loyal Order of the Moose and above are the candidates, members of the order and the initiation board — at the conclusion of the degree work a social evening was held.

Highlights of Wedding

As the Princess knelt in Westminster Abbey a shaft of light pierced the great rose window of the Abbey. For an instant it seemed as if her head were framed in a golden aureole.

Princess Elizabeth's vow "to love, cherish and to obey" the bridegroom was clearly audible to the wedding guests near the altar and to the British radio audience. (Some radio listeners in north America reported that they were unable to hear the word "obey" used by the Princess.)

The Duke of Edinburgh's automobile arrived at the Abbey a few moments ahead of the scheduled time. "This is a bad show," he laughed. "We must get things right."

Outside Buckingham Palace in the throng watching the royalty depart for the wedding, a pale-faced cockney lad epitomized the scene. "Coo, mummy, it's a smasher," he shouted.

The two pages, Prince William of Gloucester and Prince Michael of Kent, both five years old, showed their relief as the bride and groom entered the royal coach to return to Buckingham Palace. They had some difficulty handling the Princess' 15-foot train during the ceremony.

Persistent cries of "we want the bride" echoed from the crowd around Buckingham Palace after the return of the royal procession. Princess Elizabeth and her husband responded by appearing on the balcony followed by members of the Royal Family.

Eighty-year-old Queen Mary was supremely poised in Westminster Abbey but from time to time betrayed her feelings by rapid turnings of her head or changing weight from one foot to the other. Queen Elizabeth appeared near tears at times but her emotions always were controlled. Occasionally a smile rippled her face.

King Michael of Romania sat with the bridegroom's circle in the Abbey, resplendent in his braided uniform of dark green. Guests sought to read some sign whether he was romantically inclined towards Princess Margaret. However, not so much as a glance was exchanged between them.

The invited guests in the Abbey included persons representing all levels of the Kingdom. Ordinary soldiers were there, members of the Auxiliary Territorial Service (the women's division of the army), Girl Guides and Sea Rangers, servants of the Royal estates, railroad workers, Trades Unionists, veterans of the blitz of 1940 and 1941.

..The rich, classic ivory satin wedding gown in which Princess Elizabeth became a bride will go on public exhibition soon and eventually is destined to take its place in the Victoria and Albert museum with the gowns of earlier Queens and Princesses.

By Princess Elizabeth's request the bouquet she carried at today's wedding ceremony will be placed on the grave of the Unknown Soldier in Westminster Abbey.

ABBEY SCENE

The floor of the Abbey trembled as the throbbing organ sounded again. Then, as it fell silent, the bells of the Abbey and of St. Margaret's could be heard.

Bridegroom's Procession

A short procession, including minor canons and the precentor brought in the bridegroom, tall and erect followed by the best man, the Marquess of Milford Haven. Both took their places on the south side of the lantern just under the steps leading to the altar.

Philip was smiling and every few moments he turned to exchange whispers with the best man — who appeared the more composed of the two.

The echo of vast cheering outside indicated the arrival of the brideand soon after, as the Princess, leaning on the King's arm, passed slowly through the crowded nave, through the great bronze gates into the choir and into the lantern, the organ swelled more powerfully than ever.

As the bride passed the nave the whole clergy of the Abbey, according to custom, bowed to the King as bearer of the title, "Visitor of the Royal Foundation of The Abbey."

Princess Pale But Composed

Pale but composed, the Princess passed slowly across the lantern to the altar steps, her head held high, her carriage gracious. As she took her place beside her fiance, Philip half turned and gave her a fleeting smile of welcome which was acknowledged with a momentary upward glance.

Preceding the bridal procession were the dean and canons of Westminster, minor canons and the Abbey choir in white and scarlet singing "Praise My Soul the King of Heaven, to His Feet Thy Tribute Bring."

The service proceeded smoothly. The words "I will" were softly spoken and more softly repeated. The King bowed in answer to the Archbishop of Canterbury's question: "Who giveth this woman to be married to this man?"

The Duke placed the ring on Princess Elizabeth's finger and they both kneeled as the Archbishop joined their hands. Then, as the full, glorious music of the choir singing the Psalm "God be Merciful to Us" sounded from the distant organ loft, they moved slowly up the steps to the high altar. The King moved to stand on the left of Queen Elizabeth.

When the Psalm was finished and the precentor began The Lord's Prayer, the Abbey choir, to which children of the Chapel Royal has been added, sounded "Amen!" in clear, silvery voices.

The prayer after the responses were said by the Archbishop of York. The Dean of Westminster pronounced the blessing and the motet "We Wait for Thy Loving Kindness O, Lord" was sung to music specially composed for the occasion by Dr. William McKie, Abbey organist.

Address and Blessings

The address by the Archbishop of York followed with final blessings by the Archbishop of Canterbury and the choir singing "Amen" in a lovely, three-fold setting by Orlando Gibbons. Then the vast congregation rose as a trumpet fanfare preceded the singing of the National Anthem.

After the newly-married pair had signed the register in the Chapel of Edward the Confessor, another brisk fanfare announced their return to the sanctuary and the bridal procession, led by choir and the clerics, moved down the aisle to Mendelssohn's Wedding March.

Clanging chimes signalled the end of the ceremony and the wedding procession moved away from the Abbey to the palace.

12,000 RADIOS TURNED ON

London, Ont. Nov. 20—(CP)—With the early morning electrical load here 2,500 kilowatts more than the load in a similar period yesterday under similar weather conditions, hydro officials estimated that more than 12,000 London radios were turned in to the Royal wedding.

Officials said that some of the power increase was due to radio listeners turning on lights and having an early snack of toast and coffee.

Hitchhikers, Two Of Them Girls, Batter Driver

Toronto, Nov. 20 —(CP)— Battered unconscious by four young hitchhikers, two of them girls, Thomas Aggarty of Simcoe, Ont., told police today he was robbed of his watch, automobile and $25 and dumped on the grounds of St. Joseph's Hospital.

Aggarty said he regained consciousness about 6:30 a.m., several hours after the assault, and staggered to the hospital emergency ward, where he was treated for two black eyes among other injuries.

Police had located Aggarty's car about four hours earlier, abandoned on Queen Street West, and were seeking the owner.

Aggarty said he picked up the hitchhiking couples, who told him they were on their way to Hamilton, at suburban Long Branch. He had driven them about five miles when "something hit me on the head and that was the last thing I knew."

BOAT FOUND ON BEACH

Goderich, Nov. 20 — (CP) — Hope that a 14-foot boat found on the beach about three miles south of Kincardine yesterday might be that in which James R. Misener, 40, Stratford duck-hunter, disappeared on Lake Huron last Saturday, faded last night when a check revealed descriptions of the two craft did not tally. Little hope is now held that the missing man will be found alive.

IS THAT PALE YOUNG GIRL YOUR DAUGHTER?

Parents should not ignore the depressed moods, the listless, tired air, the pallor, headaches, fickle appetite—the crying spells—so many daughters exhibit during those years when they are passing into womanhood.

If her health at this stage is not maintained by a sufficiency of good rich blood, all kinds of weaknesses may arise to make her later life unhappy.

So should you notice any of these disturbing signs in your daughter, lose no time. Get some Dr. Williams Pink Pills at your druggist. They are wonderfully effective in helping to build up iron-impoverished blood and have helped to transform thousands and thousands of sickly, pale daughters suffering from simple anemia into happy active girls full of vitality and high spirits, hungry for meals, glad to help with the housework, attractive to others. Right now simple anemia may be undermining the strength and resistance your daughter needs so badly. Don't wait—get Dr. Williams Pink Pills today.

Women's Activities

WOOLER W.I.

Wooler.—The Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Lyal Leavitt on Wednesday afternoon. The President, Mrs. P. Gooding, presided. During the business period it was decided to send $5 to the Dr. Barnardo Fund for British Children. Donations were brought for the parcel to England and Saturday morning a Christmas gift of forty pounds of food was sent to the Women's Institute in Wooler, England.

The Roll Call was answered by responses of "My Hobby".

The main feature of the program was the report of the Belleville Area Convention by the delegate, Mrs. P. Gooding. Mrs. Bruce Wilson also gave a report of the training school for club girl leaders held recently in Campbellford.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. H. McColl, Mrs. Herman Morrow and the hostess.

Mt. PLEASANT W.M.S

Rawdon. — Mount Pleasant, Rawdon, Woman's Missionary Society convened for the November meeting at the home of Mrs. John Holmes with eight members and one visitor present.

Mrs. Ross Hoard presided at the piano. The President, Mrs. Bert Jeffs, read a short biography of H. W. Walter, who died in 1918, and all joined in singing one of his hymns, "I Would Be True".

Mrs. Arthur Phillips conducted the Devotional period and read an article on "Prayer". She said, "Paul found added strength to carry on his work through daily prayer. All prayers are not answered but individuals must leave the ultimate choice with God."

The treasurere reported $183 raised to date and said she hoped the Christmas miteboxes will be as well filled as formerly and so help to reach the allocation. Several quilt blocks were handed in and plans made for a quilting.

The Stewardship secretary said, "World conditions today are such that every thoughtful person is faced with the question 'How much shall I give?' in order to show gratitude for all the blessings bestowed upon them. The report of the sectional rally held in Trenton Grace United Church was brought by Mrs. Bert Jeffs and Mrs. Percy MacMullen, telling of Miss Louiza Mavowna, who has served as a W.M.S. missionary for eight years, in Northern Ontario.

Mrs. Frank Smith gave the Study book chapter on the theme "Island Keepers of the Word".

This chapter dealt with Hiram Bingham, an American missionary, who translated the Bible into Gilbertese. He was a son of another Hiram Bingham, who had given the Bible to the people of the Hawaiian Islands. She also reviewed the highlights of the previous chapters. To the Pacific Islands as to England, dedicated Christian men brought through the Bible, a new revelation of personal destiny and national freedom.

JOHNSTOWN W. A.

The Johnstown W.A. held the annual missionary meeting at the home of Mrs. Alex Vandervoort on Nov. 12. There were 17 members and three visitors present. The President, Mrs. Dickie, was in charge and opened the meeting with a hymn followed by The Lord's Prayer, in unison.

The Scripture was read by Mrs. E. Bush. Mrs. Dickie introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. (Rev) F. R. Harback, of Belleville, who gave a very inspiring address "Christ or Chaos", for which sincere appreciation was expressed.

The missionary collection amountd $9.75. During the business period plans were discussed for a pie-social to be held in the near future.

The meeting closed with Mizpah benediction and dainty refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants.

IVANHOE W. I.

The November meeting of the Ivanhoe Women's Institute met in the home of Mrs. R. Haggerty with the President, Mrs. W. French, in the chair.

The roll call was answered by "suggestions for saving steps in the home". A letter was read with regret, as it contained the resignation of Mrs. T. Palmer, former secretary, who is moving away from this community. Mrs. J. Wright was elected as Secretary-Treasurer.

A paper on "Use the Talent You Possess" was read by Mrs. Geo. Wood, who said "the woods would be very silent if no birds ever sang, except those who sing best".

Mrs. A. Wood, social welfare convener, took charge for the following program: A solo in keeping with Armistice Day, contributed by Mrs. Edna Keeble, with Mrs. R. Haggerty as accompanist; Mrs. A. Moore, district president, gave a very interesting address presenting some thoughts on Remembrance Day, and the duties of conveners and program planning. She spoke of the new institutes that have been organized in North Hastings, and of how this work has opened doors of opportunity for neighbors to become better acquainted. She said every W.I. member should be affiliated with some church body, which will bring spiritual help.

Mrs. C. Sills gave a report of the Area Convention recently held in the auditorium of the B.C.I.V.S. (Belleville).

The National Anthem and the serving of refreshments brought the meeting to a close.

SWIFT CONSTRUCTION

Edmonton — (CP) — It took only about three hours to build the first house for the oil town of Devon, in the Leduc - Calmar sector of the Edmonton oil-field. Parts of the prefabricated house were taken to the site by truck and trailer. Basements already have been dug for 25 of the structures. A two-bedroom home with basement costs $6,600.

Soup of the Evening

Soups range all the way from clear broths to the heavy kind which are whole meals. There is always a soup to suit the type of meal.

For a meat and potato meal a thin soup such as consomme or bouillon as a first course sharpens the appetite. If the rest of the meal is cold or on the light side, then a cream soup or substantial vegetable chowder balances it well.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture, say that soup made with stock is always welcome and canned consomme may be used as the base of many soups thus saving considerable time. Cream soups offer a wide choice of flavors and this is one way to get every member of the family to eat the full daily quota of milk.

BEEF STOCK

2 lbs. meat trimmings with bones
3 small carrots
3 small onions
3 stalks celery
2 quarts water — cold
¼ teaspoon whole peppercorns
½ bay leaf
1 spray of thyme OR ⅛ teaspoon dried thyme
1 sprig parsley
Salt and pepper to taste.

Put beef, carrots, onions, celery and water in a kettle and bring slowly to a boil. Tie spices and herbs in cheesecloth bag add with parsley to soup mixture and simmer, covered, for 2 hours. Strain. Yield: 6 cups.

NAVY BEAN CHOWDER

1 cup white navy beans
3 cups water
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons salt pork or bacon (cut in small pieces)
2 tablespoons onion (optional)
1½ cups diced raw potatoes
2 tablespoons mild-flavored fat
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
Salt and pepper to taste
Parsley

Pick over, wash and soak beans overnight in cold water to cover. Drain. Simmer in salted water until tender, about 2 hours. Fry salt pork or bacon, add onion and brown. Combine with beans. Add potato. Simmer 15 minutes. In the meantime, melt fat in pan, blend in flour gradually and add milk, stirring constantly, until thickened. Cook 10 minutes. Add to beans. Season and serve, sprinkled with chopped parsley. Six servings.

GOLDEN SOUP

1 tablespoon fat
2 tablespoons farina (wheatlets)
½ teaspoon salt
2 cups water or stock
2 cups grated raw carrot
2 cups milk
Dash of pepper
Dash of nutmeg
2 teanspoons parsley, chopped fine.

Melt fat in pan, stir in farina and cook 1 minute. Gradually add salted water or stock and cook slowly until thickened, stirring frequently. Cook until carrots are tender. Rub mixture through a sieve and add to hot milk. Season with pepper, nutmeg and chopped parsley and serve piping hot. Four servings.

The Experts Say . . .

By KAY REX

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Nov. 14.—(CP)—The Canadian sweet tooth was neglected during the sugarless war years, but nowadays with sugar available in greater quantities, any housewife may be forgiven for occasionally treating her family to a good cake with a light fluffy icing.

Home economists of the consumer section, Dominion department of agriculture, have come up with a seven-minute frosting which "is one of the easiest of the egg ano sugar icings and goes on a cake in beautiful swirls and peaks."

Fluffy Frosting: two egg whites: one-eighth teaspoon salt; one-half cup sugar; one-half cup corn syrup; 1 1-2 teaspoons vanilla.

Combine all ingredients except vanilla in top of double-boiler. Place over boiling water and neat with a rotary beater until mixture holds its shape. Remove from boiling water, add vanilla, and beat well. Spread bottom layer of cake with tart jam or jelly and cover with a layer of frosting. Place top layer in position and cover top and sides with frosting.

Choosing fish for the family meal often becomes a problem for the new housewife who may be at a loss to know what piece is absolutely the best for her money.

At this time when buying fish a few general rules may be sufficient guide:

When buying fresh fish choose fish with firm flesh, no strong odor, bright gills and eyes, bloom on skin or flesh (not dull). Choose thick plump fish in preference to long slender ones of the same variety for quality and economy. Substitute cheaper varieties for more expensive where price is important. For generous servings, allow three servings to the pound for fillets and half a pound a person for whole fish.

When buying fish it's economical to purchase a pound or so extra, so that if any is left from the first meal it may not be wasted, but combined with the extra fish and used in another way for a second meal.

Keeping fresh or frozen fish: Clean fish and put in cold place until cooking time. Fish may be kept cold to prevent spoilage and loss of juices and flavor.

Cover closely when storing in the refrigerator, to prevent odors affecting other foods.

Do not thaw, if frozen, unless too stiff to work with; then just partly thaw, slowly, in a cool place and use at once. If quick thawing is necessary place the fish in cold water for a short time.

Overcoming fish odors: Clean hands after handling raw fish by rubbing them with salt and then rinsing.

Hatpins Make Good Weapons

Johannesburg, (CP)— Many women are using hatpins again not for fashion, but as protection against bag-snatchers and other types of criminals who prowl the streets at night. They are carrying them in their handbags.

Here are points of advice given by the wife of a policeman to women who have to go out at night:

Always be conscious that you are exposed to danger. If accosted run up on the nearest porch and ring the bell. Walk by the curb to increase vision. Don't carry a purse with a swinging motion. Better still, carry your needs in a small purse which fits into a pocket. Scream "like mad" if you are attacked.

SENSATIONAL EVIDENCE

Grand Forks, B. C., Nov. 19 — (CP) — Reports that between 200 and 300 Doukhobor children had been unable to attend school because arson and bombing raids destroyed 22 public schools in the Kootenay and Kettle Valleys of British Columbia, yesterday "electrified" a Royal Commission investigating Doukhobor life.

The revelation concerning public schools came in testimony given the Commission by Inspector C. E. Clay of the Provincial Department of Education. Hearings are continuing.

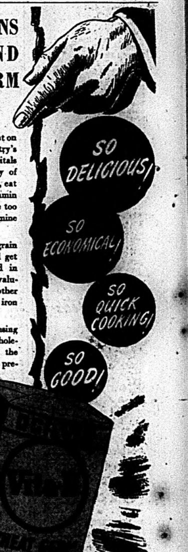
PEDIATRICIANS RECOMMEND WHEAT GERM CEREALS

A prominent child specialist on the staff of one of the country's largest Children's Hospitals gives this advice: "Many of us, including our children, eat too little thiamine or Vitamin B_1. This is because we use too much sugar and low thiamine cereals.

If we would use whole-grain cereals instead, we would get plenty of thiamine, and in addition we would add valuable amounts of several other of the B Vitamins and of iron to our diets.

Another advantage of using generous amounts of the whole-grain products is that the cellulose in them helps to prevent constipation."



Breakfast Can be Bright!

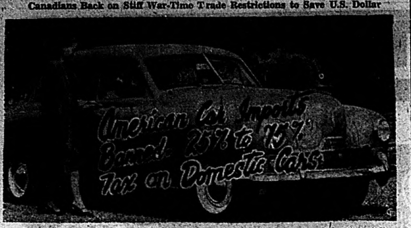
Canadians Back on Stiff War-Time Trade Restrictions to Save U.S. Dollar



Stiff war-time restrictions have been placed on Canadians in every walk of life as a means of saving U.S. dollars. Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Hon. Douglas Abbott, minister of finance, teamed up to give the bad news in national addresses. Jewelry imports from the U.S. have been banned to help save dwindling dollars; radios, refrigerators, washing machines are also on banned list. Cost of Ford and Mercury cars in Canada is up and Lincoln cars and Ford buses are no longer being imported into the Dominion as a result of import ban on U. S. cars.

Shannonville

Shannonville W.A. Holds Successful Bazaar and Tea

On the afternoon of Thursday, Nov. 13th., the L.O.L. hall at Shannonville was a hive of activity, when the ladies of the United hurch W. A. held their annual bazaar and afternoon tea. Japanese lanterns and colorful autumn blooms were used to form an attractive setting for the occasion.

The lace covered tea table was centred with a large basket of white baby "mums", with twin silver services at either end, where Mrs. Arthur Houston and Mrs. W. R. Robertson presided during the first period; Mrs. J. F. McFarland and Mrs. A. W. Loughead during the second. Assisting with the serving of the guests were Mrs. Raymond Clarke, Mrs. Malcolm Little, Mrs. Waddie and Mrs. Breadman. Replenishing plates and tea urns were Mrs. Claude Clarke, Miss Sara Stickney, Mrs. Saul MacFarlane, Mrs. Clarence Mastin and Mrs. Stanley MacDonald.

A Dresden plate patterned quilt at the table displaying fancy work, was attracting considerable attention, as well as other beautifully embroidered and crocheted household articles and novelties. Mrs. Harry Sine was in charge, assisted by Mrs. Harry Murphy.

Aprons of all colors, styles and sizes were offered for sale by Mrs. Everett Stratton and Mrs. Orval Stratton.

Mrs. H. Chilterhouse convened the home cooking table, offering a great variety of delectable dainties. She was assisted by Mrs. Vidler. Fruits and vegetables were sold by Mrs. Percy Moore.

Mrs. Elmer Vivian and Mrs. Sam Elliott were in charge of novelties and a fish pond corner was convened by Mrs. Ross Shelter, who was kept busy supplying bait and "fish" to many youthful sportsmen, after school hours.

The president, Mrs. Robert MacFarlane, the other officers and all the members of the W. A. are deeply grateful to all who assisted in making this annual project such a real success, the proceeds of which amounted to $182.50.

St. Laurent Opens Winter Fair At C.N.E. Grounds

Toronto, Nov. 20 (CP) — The Royal Winter Fair continued today in the Coliseum at the Canadian National Exhibition after an imposing day packed with the "emphasis on youth" which officials said will highlight the show until it closes Nov. 26.

Children jammed the huge building Tuesday, "city" boys and girls mingling with scores of representatives of Junior Farmer groups from all over the Dominion. Among the feature attractions were numerous junior riding events, with several dozen children putting their mounts through pace and form of which veteran adult riders could be proud.

A Canadian Army team rider —Lieut. W. R. Ballard of Weston Ont., — took top honors in the Fair's first jumping competition. Riding Reject, he led a field of five which also included a second Canadian Army entry, two United States Army entries and a Mexican entry.

J. E Adair of Brighton, Ont., walked off with first place in the opening-day cheese exhibition winning four of the nine events.

Western Canada swept the field in the Butter Exhibition, taking a total of 44 first, second and third prizes. Champion ribbon for the exhibitor obtaining the highest aggragate score went to Bashaw Creamery and Milling Company Ltd., of Bashaw, Alta.

Indicating new interest in Canada's largest annual agricultural show, 12,259 animals have been entered, 1,601 exhibitors are registered. Last year's figures were 11,217 and 1,475. The Fair was officially opened by Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent, Secretary of State for External Affairs and acting Prime Minister.

PRAISE FROM AMATEUR

Montreal — (CP) — Canada's best-known amateur artist — His Excellency the Governor-General Viscount Alexander of Tunis — opened the 68th annual exhibition of the Royal Canadian Academy of Arts at the galleries of the Art Association of Montreal, saying that "Canadian artists are all sincere and some of them may prove to be good."

Predicts Increase In Retail Price Most Vegetables

Toronto, Nov. 20 (CP) —With wholesale prices "out of sight," a 30 per cent gain in the retail prices of all vegetables except potatoes and turnips would materialize here next week, an official of a large groceteria chain predicted today.

It was estimated cabbages would sell for 25 cents as compared with last Monday's 15 cents, onions would go from four to six cents a pound and spinach from nine to 12 or 13.

An official of the Ontario Produce Company said the ban imposed by the government Monday night on vegetable imports from the United States had caused a shortage that domestic supplies could not replace.

Tomatoes are on the banned list and today's price of 32 cents will almost certainly rise, perhaps to 60 or 65 cents within a week or so.

Canadian hot houses would not be able to supply head lettuce, beans, radishes, green peppers, green onions and cucumbers, it was said and present stocks would not last more than a few days.

6th Tyendinaga

6th Tyendinaga — Among those who attended Anniversary Service at Plainfield were Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Treverton, who were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Erle Denyes; Mrs. C. Goodman and Alton who were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Sills.

Miss Marguerite Lancaster has been visiting her sisters, Mrs. Fred Wannamaker, 4th Thurlow and Mrs. Jack Emerson, 2nd line.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Treverton and sons spent Sunday at Mr. J. R. Emerson's 2nd Thurlow.

Quite a snow storm fell here Saturday night and Sunday.

PROTEST HYDRO'S STEP

Hamilton, Nov. 20 — (CP) — Charging the Ontario Hydro Commission with "discriminatory and dictatorial" action against the retail merchants in its rationing program to conserve power, the retail section of the Hamilton Chamber of Commerce at a meeting Tuesday passed a resolution of protest which will be presented at the next meeting of the Hydro Commission.

COP'S CAR SKUNK HEARSE

Oakville, Ont., —(CP)— Constable Ed Heath answered a frantic phone call from a citizen recently, telling him there was a skunk trapped in his cellar. Heath hurried to the rescue, shot the skunk, soaked it with tomato juice to partially eliminate the odor and carried it to the dump in the trunk of the police car.

PHOTOS START INTERNATIONAL CONTROVERSY

Use of Aircraft To Plant Fish In Lakes Studied

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Nov. 19 (CP) — Distribution of fish by aircraft formed the paramount feature of discussion yesterday afternoon as the regional conference of the Department of Lands and Forests concluded its second day here.

The three-day conference, which started on Monday, is expected to conclude late today completely covering a full agenda. Officials of the conference are hoping to arrange for a demonstration of a helicopter tomorrow before the delegates leave for their regions.

The discussion on the use of aircraft for planting fish in lakes was led by C. Hartmen, manager of the fish hatcheries in the Sault who pointed out some of the requirements for success of this method.

Mr. Hartman, speaking under the Fish and Wildlife section of the afternoon session, said authorities must first make sure that the water in which the planting is to be done must be very cold. Then the fish container on the plane must be brought gradually to the temperature of the water.

He told the 125 delegates that even fish become sick in the air unless the water in the container is well agitated, by means of continual movement.

Fish planters must know the water in which the little fingerlings are to be planted, he said They must know what parts of the water are best suited so as to receive the little ones so as to give them time to adapt, climatize themselves to the water. Planters must choose waters where large fish will not destroy the small ones to any great extent.

NIMROD AT 12

Northville, Alta. —(CP)— At the age of 12, Harry Berg of Northville has qualified as a hunter, his bag an elusive coyote which he shot with a .22-calibre rifle. He encountered it on his father's farm, shot once, then, for good measure, reloaded on the run and put a second shot between the animal's eyes.

Bill Ezinicki Exonerated by Pres. Campbell

By W. R. WHEATLEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, Nov. 19 — (CP) — Wild Bill Ezinicki of Toronto Maple Leafs was exonerated by President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League today in the latter's report of his investigation into charges by New York Rangers that Ezinicki was deliberately rough in a body check which 11 days ago resulted in a slight concussion to Rangers' Edgar Laprade.

The N. H. L. prexy's investigation followed receipt of a formal wire of protest against Ezinicki's play from Frank Boucher, manager-coach of New York Rangers after the Nov. 8 game between Leafs and Rangers in which Laprade was hurt.

The president's statement made no mention of a request by manager Conn Smythe of the Leafs that Boucher be fined for action not in the best interests of the league, and his statement by implication ruled this out.

Mr. Campbell summoned the referee and the linesmen who worked the game, viewed the motion pictures of the Nov. 8 play and then, early today, issued his verdict:

"The investigation shows there was no indication of a deliberate injury to opponents by Ezinicki as charged by Boucher," said Mr. Campbell.

"Reports of the officials show that the check by Ezinicki to Edgar Laprade was perfectly legal and not a charge. The injury to Laprade was not caused by Ezinicki's stick but by Laprade striking the ice as he fell."

SWELL START

Meadow Lake, Sask. —(CP)— Ice cream is the nicest thing in the world to eat. This is the view of nine-year-old Albert Gagnon. When he was two years old his esophagus was burned out with lye. Fed through a tube for seven years, he tasted his food in a normal way for the first time after an operation gave him a "new" esophagus. And it was— ice cream.

Ontario Output Of Gold Grows In 1st 9 Months

Toronto, Nov. 19 (CP)—Ontario's gold mine production increased 2.86 per cent for the first nine months of this year over the similar period of 1946, the Ontario Department of Mines today reported.

During the period under review, the industry milled 5,779,718 tons of ore and recovered 1,441,553 ounces of gold and 214,152 ounces of silver for a value of $50,629,997. These figures show an increase of 7.27 per cent in the amount of ore milled, 9.65 per cent in gold recovered, and a decrease of .32 per cent in silver ounces recovered.

The labor situation which had shown positive signs of improvement from the beginning of 1946, was at its best in July of this year when a total of 12,665 men were employed at the gold mines, the report stated. However, the situation deteriorated after July and the number of men employed in August dropped to 12,288 and in September to 12,023. Only limited prospecting work is being carried out in the province now.

HOUSE APPROVES BILL

Canberra, Nov. 19 — (AP) — The House of Representatives today approved the Labor government's bank nationalization bill for Australia on its third and final reading after opposition leader Robert G. Menzies had tried unsuccessfully to postpone action for six months.

The vote was 38 to 26. The bill is expected to pass the Senate next week, after which it will face a prolonged court battle over its constitutionality.

West Huntingdon

West Huntingdon —(Special)— The official board of the West Huntingdon United Church Circuit held a meeting in the West Huntingdon Church on Monday with a good attendance of members from each of the appointments.

Rev. A. Poulter of Madoc was chairman for the meeting and many items of interest were discussed and plans made for the winter months.

While a number of the local sportsmen were in the north country hunting deer a few residents here had the pleasure of seeing some wild animals in this district. While returning home one evening Mr. Elmer Post was startled when an average sized wolf ran across the road in front of his car near his own home. Bears have also been seen in the vicinity of Ivanhoe and deer in the Moira locality.

Cheese Manufacturers' Meeting

The directors of the West Huntingdon Cheese Manufacturing Company held a meeting on Friday evening at the home of the president, Mr. Morley Haggerty for the purpose of selecting a cheesemaker for the season of 1948. Mr. Burton Wallace, who has made cheese at the Glen factory near Fuller for the past two years, was the choice of the meeting.

Friends here were very sorry to hear of Mr. Clifford Elliott's serious accident near Norwood on Monday evening. A number of his relatives have visited him in Peterborough hospital and the latest report is that his condition has somewhat improved.

The following ladies were guests of Mrs. Melville Reid on Wednesday, Mrs. Foster Wilson, Mrs. John Moorcroft, Mrs. Geo. Barrager, Mrs. Clayton Wright, Mrs. Jas. S. Wilson, Mrs. Ambrose Wright and Mrs. Sandy McCurdy.

Rumania's Premier and Woman Foreign Minister

Ivanhoe

Family Farewell Party

Ivanhoe — (Special) — Mr. and Mrs. Frank Palmer and Miss Beverly were presented with a metal tri-light floor lamp, an end table and a tilt-top table on Friday evening in the Town Hall at a social gathering held in their honor as appreciation of the very helpful services rendered in Beulah United Church, the Women's Institute and the Sunday School during the past eleven years, while Mr. Palmer has been cheese maker in Beulah factory. Mrs. Palmer received a cup and saucer from her Sunday School class and also one from the Women's Institute while Miss Beverly, who, since early September, has been a nurse-in-training in Peterborough Civic Hospital, received a piece of beautiful china broc-a-brac. Mr. Palmer also received a nice scarf from the ball team.

Addresses were read by Mrs. Clifford Mitz, Miss Shirley Reid and Mr. William Reid, and the presentations made by Mr. Clifford Mitz, Mr. Samuel Twiddy, Miss Doris Twiddy, Mr. William Reid and John Wallace.

Everson presided for the following program: Community singing led by Mr. Reginald Haggerty, piano solos by Mrs. Charles Keeble, vocal solos by Mrs. Clarence Reid, Mrs. Milton Shaw, Misses Joyce Reid, Marilyn Fitchett and Jean Haggerty and Mr. Reginald Haggerty. Brief addresses of appreciation and good wishes were given by Miss Margaret Wright, Mrs. Samuel Twiddy, Mr. William Shaw, Mr. Stanley Prest and Mr. Arthur Wood who for some eight years has been president of the Beulah cheese factory.

Refreshments brought a very enjoyable evening to a close.

Mrs. Elymer Rollins, Allan and Carlyle, spent the weekend with friends in Toronto, where the children enjoyed the Santa Claus parade.

The November meeting of the Fuller Women's Association was held on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Roy Mitz with 15 grownups and several children present. Mrs. Gordon Mitz presided over the meeting.

Hello Folks!
EDWARDSBURG
PURE
CORN SYRUP

"An important part of my diet ever since my first bottle has been Crown Brand Corn Syrup. Now, that may be all right for a little character like myself, but let me tell you, these grown-ups sure are lucky what with Mom serving them Crown Brand Corn Syrup with so many of their dishes. And she uses it in her baking, too, as a sweetener. I can hardly wait until I'm old enough to have some hot waffles or pancakes smothered with delicious Crown Brand. If it's as good as it is in my cereal—mmmmm!"

For years doctors have recommended the use of Crown Brand Corn Syrup as a satisfactory carbohydrate acting as a milk modifier for bottle-fed infants.

No painless way of solving the dollar problem can be found, Finance Minister Douglas Abbott announced. Canada reserves of U.S. dollars have dropped to half a billion dollars from three times that amount at the end of the war. Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Hon. Douglas Abbott announced a series of moves to conserve U.S. dollars. Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe, minister of reconstruction and supply, who soon may become minister of economic development, declared he is confident trade balance will be achieved, and the present emergency restriction, mainly on U.S. trade will no longer be necessary.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1947

MANY ONTARIO COMMUNITIES GO TO POLLS DEC. 1

Several Acclamations Expected for Mayoralty Candidates but London Has Six in Race

(By The Canadian Press)

Many Ontario communities will go to the polls Dec. 1 or early in the month to select mayors, aldermen and other municipal officials for the coming year.

Nomination races this year are harder fought than in the past under new provincial regulations banning courtesy nominations, or naming of persons not present at nomination meetings.

A Canadian Press survey showed today that interest in coming elections is keen in most centres. Several acclamations are expected for mayoralty candidates and at the opposite extreme Londoners will choose among a field of six —the largest slate presented in the city's history.

Belleville will have a straight two-way fight for mayor on election day, Dec. 1, between present Mayor Frank S. Follwell and D. L. Storey, sales manager of a Belleville manufacturing concern. Nomination Day is Nov. 21 and candidates must qualify by 9 p. m., Nov. 22.

Oshawa's mayor, F. M. McCallum will seek a third term at the municipal election, Dec. 1. Whitby's nomination day is Nov. 21 for its election Dec. 15 but there has been no hint of who the candidates will be.

May Get Acclamation

Prospects are that Peterborough's Mayor William Ovens will get a third term by acclamation. Nov. 21 is nomination day for the offices of mayor, five aldermen, five members of the Board of Education and one utilities commissioner. Elections will be held December 1st.

Jan. 1 will be election day for Toronto, as it has in the past, with only present Mayor Robert Saunders to run at present. Nomination day will be Dec. 10.

Mayor John H. Matthews of Brantford will seek a third term opposed by Ald. Walter Dowden. Brantford taxpayers will also vote on Dec. 1 on the question of providing $200,000 as half the cost of a proposed municipal arena, an equal sum to be raised from other sources.

The town of Paris will also vote Dec. 1. Mayor John P. McCammon is retiring after eight years as mayor and no mayoralty candidates have yet announced themselves.

Little pre-election interest has been shown at Stratford where only one candidate Ald. W. P. Gregory, is committed for the election. Fourteen municipalities in Perth and Huron Counties will hold early December elections with others holding theirs in January.

Kitchener is expecting an acclamation for Ald. James Washburn as mayor while Waterloo has three mayoralty candidates: Present Mayor Wilfrid Hilliard, seeking a second term, Ald. Arno Hauck and former Alderman Norman Ratz.

At Guelph Mayor Gordon Rife was re-elected for a fourth term by acclamation when qualifications closed last night. The only other nominee, R. Beverly Robinson, did not qualify for the December 1 election. Guelph nominations were held Tuesday.

Woodstock's Mayor Don Thomson and six aldermen will seek re-election with opponents undecided, at the Dec. 1 elections, the same day as most communities in the area.

The largest mayoralty race in London's history is shaping up for the Dec. 1 elections with six candidates in the race. The previous record was four.

Already qualified are Mayor George A. Wenige, real estate dealer; Ald. Ray Dennis, manufacturer; former mayor F. G. McAlister, lawyer; Morris Gootson, junk dealer, and Angele Pinto, trucker. The sixth is former mayor J. Allan Johnston, merchant and former Liberal M.P.

St. Thomas anticipates an acclamation for Mayor J. Bruce Caldwell, now serving his first term. Candidates for other offices are not numerous and may result in other acclamations.

Windsor will miss the excitement of a mayoralty election this year but the voters will elect half the city's quota of controllers and aldermen Dec. 1.

To Vote on Project

City taxpayers will also have their chance to approve a proposed $100,000 debenture to finance the purchase of Pelee Island municipal park, and also a 500-house rental project which has been turned down by council.

Galt will hold nominations Nov. 21 for its Dec. 1 elections but there have been no announcements of candidates.

Owen Sound's nominations will be in December for a Jan. 1 election. No candidates have yet appeared.

North Bay will go to the polls Dec. 8. Mayor J. L. Shaw has announced he will not seek a second term, but Ald. Ced Price has appeared as a candidate for mayor. Property owners will be asked to vote on a $15,000 grant to the Canadian Legion Memorial Hall Building Fund, and on a proposed 10-year franchise for a transportation company to operate a bus system in the town.

Thirty-six small boys between the ages of 9 and 14, specially chosen choristers of Westminster Abbey, who sang music chosen by Princess Elizabeth herself, rehearse.

BEAT SCHOOLMATE

Farmingdale, N.Y., Nov. 20 — (AP)—A husky 12-year-old boy and his sister, eight, were held today after police said they savagely beat a little schoolmate because they had an impulse to "kill a boy." Authorities withheld the names. The victim will recover.

TO SINK FOUR SUBS

Washington, Nov. 20 —(AP)— Four German submarines will be sunk this week "in the Atlantic Ocean" during experiments with new types of torpedoes, the United States Navy disclosed last night. No additional information was announced except that reporters will not be invited to witness the experiments.

15 Firemen May Walk Out as Chief Resigns

Toronto, Nov. 20 — (CP) — Nearby Toronto township officials were faced with a threatened walkout of all 15 members of the fire department after Chief Jack Braithwaite tendered his resignation, effective Jan. 1, during a dispute about a gift of $50 from a Port Credit woman. The money was offered in appreciation of the department's work at a fire in her home last July.

Chief Braithwaite said the donation should have gone to the Firemen's benefit fund. Township clerk Herb Pinchin said the money had been deposited in the township's fire department maintenance fund.

HEAVY RAIN FALLS

London, Nov. 20 — (CP)—The elements were unkind today for the wedding of Princess Elizabeth as they were on May 12, 1937, when the King was crowned. The day dawned with a drizzle.

Thick fog blanketed London early on Coronation Day and heavy rain fell shortly after the ceremony ended in Westminster Abbey.

Three Rescued From Burning House by Friends

Brantford, Nov. 20 — (CP) — Three women — one a blind invalid — and a 12-year-old girl were rescued from a burning house yesterday by neighbors and four unidentified men who answered cries for help.

The fire, which started in an overheated stove, trapped Mrs. Alex Lepke, 70; Mrs. Charles Morley, 75, her daughter, Mrs. Florence Anderson, the blind woman and 12-year-old June Lepke.

One other person, Mrs. Fred Lepke, fled to the street as flames raced through the dwelling. With two men who heard her shouts of alarm, she formed a "human pyramid" and took the girl and Mrs. Alex Lepke from a bedroom window. Two other men ran inside and rescued Mrs. Anderson Neighbors braved the fire and smoke to save Mrs. Morley.

CHILD DECAPITATED

Muscatine, Ia., Nov. 20 —(AP) —Five-year-old Carol Carlson was decapitated in an accident on a corn elevator on a farm near here yesterday, when her hair or clothing became entangled in a shaft, pulling her head first into the machinery.

Creation of New European State, West Germany, Certainty If Big Four Fail to Agree

By WES GALLAGHER

Berlin, Nov. 20 —(AP)— Creation of a new European state —Western Germany — is regarded by competent authorities as almost a certainty to follow any failure by the Allied Big Four to reach an agreement on Germany in the London conference opening Nov. 25.

And virtually all Western military government officials plus three out of four Germans expect the Council of Foreign Ministers to remain deadlocked, which would leave Germany split between East and West.

The United States military government has refrained from recommending to Washington that a separate government for Western Germany be set up in order to avoid charges of jeopardizing the London meeting.

However, it is learned authoritatively that the American military governor, Gen. Lucius D. Clay, will make such recommendations immediately, should the conference fail.

It is expected that Britain, seeking to shed the heavy occupation financial drain, will concur in such recommendations.

The French, with their century-old fear of German aggression and centralization, probably would oppose such a step at the present time. However, British and American sources feel these objections could be met by a "federalized" decentralized government structure.

Strong groups in both the United States and Britain have already announced themselves in favor of such a step and even of concluding peace treaties with such a separate German state.

Russian insistence on a highly-centralized German government, rigged with "democratic front" devices which would give minority Communists every advantage, and high reparations demands, sets too high a price for such unity, according to Western military government officials.

Clay and his advisers will make their recommendations, it is said, not in the belief that in the last two years Germany has reformed and became a nation of democrats and peace-loving citizens, but in the belief that the only way the Germans can learn democracy is by practising it and the only way Western Germany can recover is by the Germans themselves doing it.

Flop or Hit? Preview Poll May Tell You

By JEAN MEEGAN

Hopewell, N.J., Nov. 20 —(AP) —Much of the risk involved in publishing a book, producing a play or releasing a movie may be removed if Albert E. Sindlinger's testing device demonstrates its worth.

Sindlinger, formerly associated with the Gallup poll, his brother, Walter E. Sindlinger and Mark Hawley are experimenting on an 83-acre farm near here with a panel process designed to find out what is wrong with books and plays before, not after, the public gets a look at them.

The system is partly mental and partly mechanical. First, a half-dozen literary celebrities examine books and play manuscripts and scenarios and send their reactions to the New Entertainment Workshop, a name Sindlinger chose because it fits the eye-catching initials N.E.W.

If the work appears worth working with, an hour-long synopsis is made, preferably in the author's own words. Hawley, a radio announcer, makes a recording of the prose which is then played for an economic, social and cultural cross-section of the surrounding area. Hopewell, it seems, is geographically ideal for such experiments.

"There is a real cross section of the United States within a stone's throw of the farm" Sindlinger explains. "Agriculture, industry, the coal mines of eastern Pennsylvania, two college towns, small town business—what more could we ask?"

The engineering staff for the N.E.W. has patented a machine which permits the human guinea pigs at the story party to snap a gadget like a light switch held in their laps, which indicates on a tape, synchronized with the story line, their likes and dislikes as the narrative progresses.

Concise Reaction

The tape is perforated along positive or negative lines as the audience gains or loses interest. "This way we get their concise reactions and we transpose them to a graph," the analysts explain, "showing exactly where the story needs to be fixed."

For instance, in the new Sterling North novel, "So Dear to My Heart" the test reactions followed a rising graph of approval until the principal character did something inconsistent with the rest of her behavior. Buttons were punched "unsatisfactory" immediately and N.E.W. gave the bad news to the author, who conceded he had been indecisive in that particular situation and would rectify his mistake.

N.E.W. predicts "So Dear to My Heart" will be a "smash." They were more cautious about Gabrielle Roy's "The Tin Flute," underestimating its sales by nearly one-half.

N.E.W. has done work for publishers Reynal and Hitchcock, Creative Age Press, Doubleday, the People's Book Club, Thomas Y. Cromwell, and individual authors. Currently the workshop is sampling five Walt Disney pictures.

Panels are held in hired halls or in Sindlinger's farmhouse. Refreshments are served. Hawley says people lose their self-consciousness in a party-like atmosphere and take their responsibility seriously.

"We find that people think about the stories after they leave," Sindlinger observed. "Several days later we send out a workshop interviewer who asks just why a certain part of the story wasn't satisfactory. By the time our interviewers approach them, they know why they didn't like a passage or turn of events."

Expect Big Season Along Florida Keys

Marathon, Fla., Nov. 20 —(AP) —A feverish building boom is under way along the chain of islands forming the Florida Keys, where the most vicious hurricane on record spread death and destruction a dozen years ago.

From the mainland to Key West — a distance of some 122 miles — boat slips, fishing lodges, hotel rooms, apartments and homes are being rushed for what many predict will be the best season the Keys have had since Henry M. Flagler built his railroad through here in 1905-1912.

The railroad is gone now—washed away by the Labor Day hurricane of 1935 that killed more than 500 persons and caused property damage estimated at $6,000,000 — but the fine overseas highway has taken its place and more people live on the Keys now than ever before.

New settlers are coming in all the time. Some were stationed at Miami, Key West or along the Keys during the war, liked it and stayed. Others came for the fishing and returned to make their homes. Former President Herbert Hoover comes from his California home each winter for a month of six weeks of fishing.

On Jewfish Key, about midway between Key West and Miami, the Greyhound Bus Corporation has spent $100,000 in building the first post house in the south. Recently opened, it provides the only rest stop in the 160-mile run between the two cities.

When completed it will include 20 hotel rooms, a swimming pool, boat docks and other facilities for travellers. It is only a sample of what is going on all along the Keys.

Here on Key Vaca, 48 miles north of Key West, for example, the southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co., is putting final touches on a modern hurricane-proof building to house a telephone exchange.

A school building, also hurricane-proof, is beginning its second term. Money has already been raised to build a community church.

Housing accommodations that will more than double the community's 500 population have already been completed or are now under way.

A few "old timers" remember the 1935 hurricane but they're looking ahead, not back. And they're not worried.

"The hurricane? Oh well," they say, philosophically, "if it comes, we'll batten down and ride it out, or maybe we'll get out if it looks too bad."

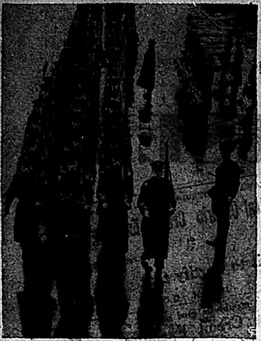
FORM GUARD OF HONOR FOR ROYAL WEDDING



These men of the King's Company, 1st Battalion, the Grenadier Guards, formed the guard of honor at today's wedding of Princess Elizabeth and Lieut. Philip Mountbatten. Average height of the men is 6 ft. 3 in.

FAMILY GIFTS FOR PRINCESS ELIZABETH

Here are the wedding gifts Princess Elizabeth has received from members of her family. At right, is a regal diamond coronet, a present from her grandmother, Queen Mary. An exquisite diamond and ruby necklace, left, was from her parents, King George VI and Queen Elizabeth. From her sister, Margaret Rose, came a snakeskin hamper with plastic articles.

THREE CHARGES WILL BE LAID AGAINST TRIO

Attempted Murder, Armed Robbery and Conspiracy Charged After Holdup

Montreal, Nov. 20 — (CP) — Police said today that charges of attempted murder, armed robbery and conspiracy will be laid, possibly today, against three men they are holding in connection with the Tuesday night hold-up at the Chez Ernest cocktail lounge where two customers were shot and another patron slightly hurt.

The three men are in police cells. One of them Victor Diamond, 45, said by police to be a convict who was released last August after serving part of a 20-year sentence, was arrested on the scene of the robbery when he was subdued by waiters and patrons.

The second, identified as David Frank Cote, 38, was captured at midnight last night by police, who said he was in an advanced state of drunkenness as he wandered aimlessly on downtown St. Catherine Street.

These two men were said by police to be directly involved in the shooting in the Drummond Street cafe. The third suspect, a 22-year old youth who stayed in a taxi while his two gun - toting companions entered Chez Ernest. He was arrested early yesterday as he slept in a rooming house.

Within minutes of the shooting, a dozen police cars under the personal command of Chief of Detectives were dispatched to the scene.

Two Enter Lounge

The hold-up occurred shortly before midnight Tuesday when two gunmen, claimed by police to be Diamond and Cote, entered the lounge and held up four employees and eight customers, including two women.

While the taller gunman, identified as Diamond, covered the room with two guns, his pint-size companion, said to be Cote, rifled the till of about $300 and then proceeded to search the pockets of the customers.

At this moment Frank McCormack, 43, objected and disarmed the smaller bandit. Diamond opened fire and McCormack fell, struck in the chest by two bullets.

While the disarmed bandit made good his escape, Diamond was surrounded by waiters and patrons and knocked unconscious by a bottle and one of his own guns.

He was taken to hospital where police obtained the information which led to the arrest of his two alleged companions.

COUPLE OF THE YEAR

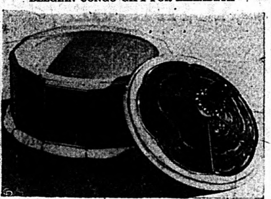
BELGIAN CONGO GIFT FOR ELIZABETH



A magnificent powder box made from precious materials has been offered to Princess Elizabeth as a wedding present from her friends living in the Belgian Congo. It is made in ivory and gold and the lid is decorated with coral from the South Seas.

IRISH COACH FOR ROYAL WEDDING

HISTORICAL

The marriage lines of the Princess, which she repeated in a voice almost inaudible at times, contained the promise "to love, cherish and to obey" her husband. The Duke's marriage lines, repeated in a deep, clear voice, used the words, "to love and to cherish".

1,000 Years of History Symbolized

The ceremony was packed with the ancient symbolism of 1,000 years of English History. It lightened, somewhat, the hearts of the Princess' millions of future subjects, adding a splash of color and romance to a national life which has become progressively more dreary since the Second World war broke out over the world in 1939.

Throughout Great Britain, in every town and village and farmhouse, and upon the high seas, in the Commonwealth and Empire, hundreds of millions of the 21-year-old Princess' future subjects rejoiced, not thinking of the ceremony as something to be shared only by the comparative few who witnessed it. Radio and television provided a personal link between the Princess and many of her people.

Bells Drowned in Welcoming Roar

As the couple left the Abbey, church bells rang out, only to be drowned in the welcoming roar of the waiting thousands outside.

Prime Minister Attlee and his predecessor, Winston Churchill, smiled at the young couple as they passed up the aisle after signing the marriage register in the chapel of St. Edward the Confessor, founder of the Abbey.

When the Princess and her groom entered the royal coach for the return trip to Buckingham Palace, the relief of the two young pages — Prince William of Gloucester and Prince Michael of Kent — became evident. They had been having some difficulty with the Princess's 15-foot train.

On the way back to the Palace, both the Princess and the Duke, who received his royal title from the King last night, waved at the throngs along the route. Many of these had waited all night and been soaked in an intermittent drizzle.

The 21-year-old Princess was radiant with happiness as she appeared for the ceremony in a mist of dewy white satin. Her gown sparkled with a thousand lights reflected, softened and shaded in a delicate embroidery of crystal and pearls.

Waiting for her in the lantern, at the foot of the steps to the sacrarium, was the handsome, 26-year-old bridegroom, attired in the uniform of a lieutenant of the Royal Navy, in which he served during and since the war.

The nave, the choir loft and the transepts shone with royal magnificence — a scene of high pomp and solemn religion, reflecting gold, purple, crimson and rose shading from the walls.

Traditional Ceremony

Kneeling on pillows on the steps of the red and gold sanctuary, the Royal Couple followed the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, through the traditional marriage ceremony of the Church of England.

As Philip and the Princess spoke their responsive "I wills" and repeated their vows of love, honor and comfort each other in sickness and in health forever, their voices were broadcast to a listening world.

"Those whom God hath joined together let no man put asunder," intoned the Archbishop, Primate of all England.

"Forasmuch as Philip and Elizabeth Alexandra Mary have consented together in holy wedlock, and have witnessed the same before God and this company, and thereto have given and pledged their troth either to the other, and have declared the same by giving and receiving of a ring, and by joining of hands; I pronounce that they be man and wife together, in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen."

Thus another page was added to the richly illuminated history of England as two great-great grandchildren of Queen Victoria were linked in matrimony. Princess Elizabeth and Philip officially are considered to be third cousins. Actually they stand between second and third cousinship—a "relatively remote" blood kinship.

The ceremony, packed with the symbolism of 1,000 years of English history, was Britain's greatest royal event since the coronation of the King in May, 1937.

Crowds Early Outside Palace

Hours before the first procession started for the Abbey, the crowds began forming outside Buckingham Palace, along the wide, tree-lined Mall, down Whitehall with its government offices, through Parliament Square and round the nine-centuries-old Abbey.

The bride had retired at Buckingham Palace shortly before midnight. Throughout the evening crowds had massed before the palace gates and the Princess, together with her mother and father and her sister, Princess Margaret, had appeared on the balcony to greet her well-wishers.

Once, the other members of the royal family retired inside, leaving the Princess alone waving to the throngs below.

The bridegroom passed his last bachelor evening at a stag party in the Dorchester Hotel, where 11 of his closest friends, including his uncle, Earl Mountbatten, gathered to give him a send-off into married life.

Philip left the party at 2 a.m. to catch a few hours sleep at Kensington Palace, where he had been staying with his mother, Princess Andrew of Greece.

The wedding eve gave London its gayest hours since before the war. A carnival spirit prevailed as hundreds of thousands milled about the West End, crowding pubs, jostling, singing, engaging in impromptu dancing.

Queen's University Juniors Defeat Belleville Rockets At Memorial Arena 6-4

Maxwell in Visitor's Net Outstanding While Tom Schrieder Showed Best for Locals

In a bruising hard-checking battle, the Queen's University juniors defeated the Belleville Rockets 6-4 in Memorial Arena last night in an exhibition forerunner of junior O.H.A. things to come.

It was the Rockets first taste of junior competition while the Queen's youngsters have been playing in the Kingston City League for the past three weeks. The collegians showed a better display of team work, and the actual reason for their victory goes to Maxwell, their diminutive goalkeeper who was one of the busiest and best players on the ice.

The local kids were on the short end of a 5-1 at one time, but they battled gamely against a better defence and almost pulled the game out of the fire. Their shooting could have been better and time after time they swarmed around the Queen's net only to have Maxwell rise to hockey heights to make spectacular saves.

At that they scored five goals but one was disallowed by Referee Toots Holway who claimed that a player had struck the Queen's custodian before the puck entered the net. And there are different versions of that episode.

Had Territorial Play

The collegians were on the short end of territorial play in the first period although their attacks were better organized when going in on the Belleville goal. They drew first blood at the 16-minute mark when Richard, rammed home the rubber after a three-player foray with Timmins and French getting the assists.

The boys started to use their weight in the second period and no less than five players graced the penitential bench. Both squads hit the opposition hard and often and there was no quarter asked nor given. One fight was in the making at one time but the officials quelled the disturbance before any damage was done.

Queen's scored two more goals by Lambert and Richard, before Milligan on a neat passing play with Gerry Semark finally dented the rigging behind Maxwell for the first Belleville tally.

Queen's Surges Back

Queen's surged back to the offensive in the third period and scored two more to make the count 5-1 before Lady Luck smiled on the local kids. They sent wave after wave of attackers into Queen's territory and on more than one occasion missed open nets when Maxwell was out of position.

They got their second goal when Schreider, one of the best players on the Rocket squad, in one of the prettiest plays of the night weaved his way through the Queen's squad and his high hard drive to the corner did not miss. Johnny Green added another ten minutes later when he raced down the right boards cut sharply across the goal mouth and belted the bunting with his shot.

With the Rockets ganging with every player up, McCafferty, and McClelland broke away and rammed the rubber past Art Wright in the Belleville nets. From then on with four minutes to go it was all Rockets. They hemmed the Queen's team behind their own blue line, but young Mister Maxwell who was "good to the last drop" held them off. With a minute to go Don Semark took Wardhaugh's pass in front of the goal mouth to score the fourth and final Rocket goal. For the last sixty seconds the Rockets were parked in front of the Queen's net driving the rubber at Maxwell but the goalie successfully held off their efforts until the final gong rang.

Three Players Hurt

No less than three players were hurt during the several melees, but no serious damage was done. Eight penalties were handed out by the officials, the teams breaking even on the count. Johnny Green spoiled an otherwise fine effort with a brace of punishments both coming within seconds of each other.

Schreider was the standout of the Rockets, with Defelice, Milligan, Hurst, Soules, Don Semark and Green turning in good efforts. Nolan rushed consistently but he was not as effective as he might have been. Richard, and the Queen's "Mc" line, McClelland, McCafferty and McArthur were the best for the winners up front with Lambert, Timmins and French also standing out.

The teams:

Queen's University: Goal, Maxwell; defence, Sutherland, Lambert; centre, McArthur; wings, McClelland, McCafferty; subs, Timmins, Wilkinson, French, Fyderchuk, Richard, Reist, Rice, Ramsden.

Belleville Rockets: Goal, Wright; defence, Milligan, Hurst; centre, Defelice; wings, Nolan, Bone; subs, Wardhaugh, Green, D. Semark, MacIntosh Adams Schreider Soules, Taylor, Adrian.

Summary:

1st period.
1 Queen's, Richard (French, Timmins) 16.35
2nd period.
2 Queen's, Lambert 13.10

CORNWALL LOSES ANOTHER

Lachine, Que., Nov. 20 — (CP) — Lachine Rapides rolled up a 7-2 victory over the luckless Cornwall Cougars in a Provincial Hockey League game here last night.

Fern Majeau with three goals led the Lachine scoring parade.

The fate of the Lachine team will be made known tonight at a special meeting of the team executive. Lachine announced earlier this week its intention of withdrawing from the circuit owing to financial difficulties. It was learned reliably that a new syndicate will meet with the Lachine club owners to discuss possible purchase of the team.

Conny Smythe Becomes Pres. of Toronto Gardens

Conn Smythe, fiery sparkplug of the Toronto Maple Leaf hockey organization, yesterday was elected president of Maple Leaf Gardens, succeeding E. W. Bickle.

Lieut. Philip Mountbatten will be a first string addition to the sporting team of the Royal House which he joins today by his marriage to Princess Elizabeth. A six-footer with an athletic build, Philip won honors as a sportsman in school and has the ability to keep up with the reputation of his father-in-law and his Royal uncles.

However, with all his sporting prowess, Philip will have to go some to match the pace of the Royal Family. The King is a crack shot and excells at tennis. While Duke of York he competed in the Wimbledon championships of 1926. Both the Duke of Windsor, the family's star golfer, and his younger brother, the Duke of Gloucester, are horsemen.

Western Mustangs, officially out of hockey for many years will enter a team in the Intermediate Intercollegiate series this winter. Johnny Metras, director of athletics, yesterday said the squad would probably compete in a league with O.A.C. of Guelph, McMaster and Toronto.

The biggest event of Dufferin Park's fall and winter harness meets, the $1,500 free-for-all pace will be held at the Toronto track when racing resumes Nov. 22.

Air Force headquarters yesterday announced a tentative list of 13 of the 17-man hockey squad to represent Canada at the Winter Olympics in Switzerland and England. Coach George Boucher selected the squad after tryouts. Included on the team is Sgt. Dick Thomas of Whitby, a forward.

Money must have been scarcer in Ontario during the last racing season, judging from pari-mutuel figures released yesterday which showed bettors wagered nearly $1,700,000 less on the horses even though they had nine more days to do it in. The total handled was $29,033,442 during 125 days of racing in 1947 on tracks operating in the Incorporated Canadian Racing Association in Ontario, against $30,714,144 in 116 days in 1946.

Dinny Pails, 26-year-old Australian tennis champion in Chicago yesterday agreed to join the professional ranks at a $20,000 annual salary, plus a percentage agreement.

ACCEPTS CHALLENGE

Guelph, Nov. 20 — (CP)—Ontario Agricultural College has accepted an Ottawa University challenge for a sudden - death game to decide the all-Ontario intercollegiate intermediate football title, it was announced here last night.

Ottawa issued the challenge after the Guelph team last week won group honors by smothering McMaster University, Hamilton 25-0. The sudden-death game will be played Saturday at Ottawa.

Jackie Paterson Has Until Mar. 31 To Defend Title

London, Nov. 20. (AP)—Jackie Paterson, once again proclaimed world flyweight boxing champion, has until March 31 to defend his title against Rinty Monoghan of Ireland.

The Glasgow fighter, who was tripped of his British and British Empire crowns as well as the world title for failure to meet Dado Marino of Honolulu in a title bout July 16. Went into court and obtained an injunction against the British Boxing Board of Control.

Yesterday, the Board rescinded its previous decision and handed the three titles back to Paterson. The Board's stewards said in a statement that the decision came "after reviewing all the first medical evidence which had not hitherto been available and which was at variance with that originally submitted."

Monoghan outpointed Marino Oct. 20 in a fight which the National Boxing Association of the United States and the Eire Boxing Association recognized as a world championship affair. That bout was substituted for the twice-postponed Marino-Paterson bout after Paterson's title was lifted by both the British and the United States bodies for his failure to weigh in on the grounds that he was too ill to fight.

Hornets Fixing Sights on Record Made Last Year

By The Canadian Press)

Pittsburgh Hornets today fixed their sights on the American Hockey League undefeated record which was set by the Hornets last season.

Fresh from their 14th game without a setback, the Flying "Wasps" have only to remain undefeated in their next five outings to tie the old mark of 19.

Last night in Springfield, the Hornets downed Indians 8-2 and the other divisional leader, defeated St. Louis 4-2.

BARRIE FLYERS BRUISING ALONG IN JUNIOR RACE

Have Record of Being the Heaviest Penalized Outfit in Loop

(By The Canadian Press)

Hap Emms' burly Barrie Flyers are bruising along in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior "A" race leaving a record of being the heaviest penalized outfit in the loop.

Last night they bagged their fifth victory in eight starts when they took a 3-1 win from Toronto St. Michael's Majors at Barrie with Referee Bill Morrison of Oshawa handing out 21 penalties. Ten of the penalties including two majors and a misconduct, were suffered by the Flyers.

In the one Senior A game Toronto Marlboros scored a 3-1 victory over the Hamilton Patricias in the Mountain City to take over first place from the Hamilton Tigers by a single point.

In the other three Junior games, Windsor Spitfires retained their first-place tie with Oshawa when they defeated Galt Rockets 5-3 at Windsor; Oshawa Generals kept pace with Windsor when they swamped Toronto Marlboros 6-2 in the Motor City and Stratford Kroehlers moved into a third-place tie with Stafford Smythe's Marlboros when they eked a 6-5 overtime win from Toronto Young Rangers.

Joe Primeau, Jr., gave St. Mike's a first-period 1-0 lead at Barrie which was followed by a three-goal splurge by Barrie in the second frame. Barrie goals were scored by Whit Mousseau, Gil St. Pierre and Stan Long.

Windsor fans saw a scrambly first period with Spitfires taking a 2-1 lead, increasing it in the second frame to 4-1 with Galt rallying in the final session to score two goals against Windsor's one.

Uniac Leads Windsor

Jimmy Uniac led Windsor with two tallies, Gordy Haidy and Bert Giesebrecht scored the other Spitfire goals. Galt counters came from Harold Hopper, Harry Pidhirny and George Burcham.

Oshawa had little difficulty although facing a fairly-strong club in the Marlboros. Chuck Blair led the Oshawa attack with three goals. Walter Brando tallied twice and Frenchy Mayer, Dick Gamble, Ross Lowe scored other Oshawa counters. Toronto tallies came from Frank Kent and Bill Ford.

Ed Wildey's Toronto Young Rangers threw a score into the Stratford camp before bowing in overtime. Elwood Small led Stratford with two goals. Dinny Flanagan, Pierre Cadieux, Dunc Daniels and Jim Loader tallied the other Stratford counters.

Toronto scorers were led by Bill Ringer who tallied twice; Dillon, Doug Ashbee and Reg Spragge scored once.

Hamilton's Senior game highlighted Toronto goalie Howie Harvey's netminding, wild shooting, high sticks and pounded noggins .Alex Buchanan knocked in two Marlboro counters and Johnny McCormack tallied once for Toronto. Pats' lone goal came from Robbie Robinson.

London, Nov. 20. (CP)—Canada should win the 1948 Winter Olympic hockey title at Switzerland "without too much trouble" and clinch its games five or ten minutes after the opening whistle, says Percy Nicklin of Fort Frances, Ont., general manager of London Harringay Arena.

Percy should know. Coach of Great Britain's 1936 championship team, he has studied European style of play for 15 years.

"As far as I can see it, Canada starts with two advantages—the power to play and the bodycheck," he said in an interview after putting Britain's probables through their paces at Harringay. "These alone are enough to win."

The "Nicklin strategy" for Canada would be to send up five men immediately the game starts. "Canada should ge there or four goals in ten minutes with these tactics and the game is won there.

"The Europeans don't know what to do with this type of play. They become confused and also suspicious. They'll worry about what trick the Canadians are up to and go off their game.

"After this initial ganging up, Canada's two wingers then could be sent into opponents' territory to 'worry' the puck-carrier while the centre—and this is very important—holds his position and acts as safety man in event of a breakaway."

Nicklin explained that continental teams are inclined to lay back and try to break up rushes around centre ice with the result that opposing forwards reach top speed before they are challenged. With the wings worrying them in their own area they aren't given time to gather speed and combination play is disorganized.

Nicklin, possessed with one of the shrewdest hockey brains in Britain, will not coach Great Britain's team at St. Morits due to "pressure of business". He offered to train the club until the end of the year and the British Ice Hockey Association officials snapped at the opportunity.

The team will be handled at St. Moritz by Carl Erhardt, vice-president of the B.I.H.A. and captain of Britain's 1936 club.

One of the last links with the old-time boxing booths has been severed by death of 84-year-old travelling showman Jack Searrett who collapsed on a fair ground at Caldicot, Monmouthshire. Before the First World War he employed at his booth such greats as Jimmy Wilde and Jim Driscoll.

Time marches on, but gamblers' tricks don't change. Iron Age dice, 3,000 years old, found during excavations in Gloucestershire had two sixes on it.

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

The Belleville Rockets may not be the Toronto Maple Leafs, but if last night's exhibition against the Queen's University juniors is any criterion, they do not lack intestinal fortitude and the willingness to "mix it" with the opposition.

The Redshirts were faced with a heavier team who has had the benefit of experience in their own and better classes of hockey, and who showed a superiority in team play. The Rockets were weak in their shooting and lacked finish around the nets, but don't forget they were faced with one of the smartest junior goalies seen here in some time. Maxwell, who wore the Tricolor pads, displayed a coolness under fire and his ability between the pipes cannot be doubted by any of the handful of fans who witnessed the fray.

The collegians showed a better distribution of offensive power in their front lines. The Rockets passing plays were broken up continuously by the speedy backchecking Queen's forwards, while they used a bunched defence that was effective.

But don't think the local kids were any pushovers. What they lacked in co-ordinated teamwork, they made up for in plain guts, speed and the willingness to use their bodies for other reasons than to hang a sweater on. And don't forget, they had Mr. Maxwell in front of them.

For our money young Mr. Schreider was the best player in a Red uniform. The kid with the crew cut showed plenty of speed going both ways; he used that which the crew cut covers, and his goal which climaxed a pretty solo rush through the college team, was one of the best of the night.

"Angy" Defelice also turned in a fine effort as did Don Semark. Milligan on the defence rushed consistently and well and was a good fella to have behind the blueline. Nolan the new rightwinger showed bursts of speed but was disinclined to pass the rubber at opportune moments. Art Wright in the nets for the redshirts played a heads-up game, and one of the goals that beat him was of the fluky nature. A Queen's player shot from well out during a ganging attack, and the rubber deflected off Schreider's pads into the twine. Wright didn't have a chance on that one.

Referee "Toots" Holway disallowed a Belleville goal, due, he claimed to the fact that the goalkeeper had been hurt before the rubber entered the net. Opinions differ on the decision, some claiming that the light was on before the official blew his whistle. Others claim that a Queen's player skated behind his goalie and was responsible for his crashing to the ice. But hockey referees, like the traditional customers, are always right, and there's nothing you can do about it. This tripe about the official being biased is just that — and merely the vaporings of some nostalgic hockey mentalities.

However both teams are far from being finished junior 'B' squads. In fairness to the Rockets, the kids have not had sufficient games of last night's calibre to give them the proper exe perience. Two many are prone to judge on initial performances. They expect a National Hockey League squad in the first time out. The Rockets will improve and it is not fair to the kids or their coach or management to judge them on their junior company debut. And those intangible things called the 'breaks" were noticeably absent from the Rocket scheme of things. On one occasion the Queen's net yawned wider than Joe Brown's mouth when Maxwell was pulled out of position and two Rockets missed the gaping hole from less than four feet out.

Tonight's Belleville District Hockey Association tidbit brings the RCAF Flyers and the Bloomfield Sky Chiefs together in the opening clash with undefeated Cobourg meeting Tweed in the nightcap. Should be a right merry duo of brawls, varlets ,and well worth the price of admission. With the playoffs in the offing much depends on the result of this evening's jousts. Cobourg is sitting pretty with two victories and naturally is anxious to remain in the spot where she can glance down at the boys struggling upwards and onwards, Tweed also has an eye on a playoff berth and the Ed. Haynes crew will have a big job of work on their hands.

In similar note, these Bloomfield Sky Chiefs, from "Spain" a right merry bevy of hockey troubadours who have yet to taste the wine of victory, will endeavor to sip the cup at the expense of "Nicky" Sargent, who flew a plane in Picton before Hitler cut his war teeth, and his winged warriors of the RCAF. Both squads will be riding high in search of that elusive will 'o the wisp, victory. First game at 7.30 with the Flyers-Chiefs soiree opening the party.

Rumblings in the baseball grapevine has it, that the famous T. P. Gorman, sports impresario of Montreal and Ottawa, owner of the Ottawa Nationals in the Border Baseball League, will be in the city, shortly, yes, quite shortly to get a whiff of the local baseball atmosphere. And while whiffing to seek out possibilities of locating his Ottaw Nationals in this city for the coming season. In fact the honorable "Tay Pay" has communicated with baseball interests here with that idea in mind. Seems as though proper ball park facilities are not available in Bytown, at least for a year, so exit the Nationals to other baseball pastures until the situation is cleared up.

Frank Boucher, coach of the New York Rangers has the distinction of playing against the first and the most recent Montreal Canadiens' goalkeepers. Boucher spent the 1921-22 season with Ottawa and played against the great Georges Vezina in the Canadiens' nets. Then in 1944 when he made a brief comeback he played against Bill Durnan, the most recent of Canadiens' goaltenders.

"Wild Will" Ezinicki, Toronto Maple Leafs' bellicose right winger, who is getting so much ink in papers throughout the country lately gains inspiration from occasionally digesting Rudyard Kipling's famous poem "If." Last summer in the Canadian Amateur Golf Championship, in which he reached the finals, Ezinicki would read the poem whenever he found himself in a tough spot and needed a little extra moral support.

Vancouver, Nov. 20 — (CP) — An east-west junior football final here New Year's Day for the Canadian championship is a definite possibility, Don (Vancouver Sun) Carlson reports.

He quoted Bus Haugh, executive member of the Big Four Football League as saying "We are now trying to arrange a Dominion final with the eastern winner here for New Year's Day."

A final would match the powerful Vancouver Blue Bombers against the best Eastern Canada can offer.

"We don't know yet who they will be," Haugh said. "It may be they would want us to go east right away for a final. It depends on what financial arrangements can be made.

"The alternative — and the deal we would like to put over—is the holiday match here for the Canadian title."

Harry Gray, manager of the Blue Bombers said, "We are going to contact the eastern people immediately."

Meanwhile, Ken (Vancouver Province) McConnell says that a game between Blue Bombers and University of British Columbia Thunderbirds may take place a week from Saturday.

Ken writes that officials of the Bombers, the Thunderbirds and the Big Four Junior Football League met to discuss such a game. The main stumbling block is U. B. C.'s membership in the Northwest Inter-Collegiate Football Conference. The Conference bans play against non - college teams.

The proceeds from the game, if arranged, would be divided between the University War Memorial Fund and another kitty to aid the Bombers stage a Canadian final.

McConnell also mentioned that U. B. C. squad likely would be going farther afield for competition. He noted that athletic director Bob Osborne had accepted an invitation to take his team to Honolulu, Nov. 20, 1948, for a game against the University of Hawaii.

While the final contract has not been received, the game is practically a certainty McConnell said.

BOSTON BRUINS TEAM TO BEAT IN THE N.H.L.

Take Toronto Leafs 7-2 and Now Leading League by One Point

By ROBERT CLARKE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Unless they suffer a complete collapse, Boston Bruins seem like a sure-fire bet to finish in the top ranks of the National Hockey League standing.

Currently, Bruins are riding along at the head of the pack. They pushed their way to the front last night with a 7-2 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs, over whom they now boast a one-point edge. Detroit Red Wings are another point away in third place.

On top of their margin in points Bruins also hold another advantage. They have two games in hand over Leafs and a one-game edge over Wings. Wings were nosed out 6-5 last night in Detroit by New York Rangers while Chicago Black Hawks and Montreal Canadiens tied 2-2.

Woody Dumart and Milt Schmidt paced Bruins to their triumph with three points apiece. Dumart had two goals, on which Schmidt had assists and also helped in a goal scored by Schmidt. Bruins' other goals went to Pete Babando, Don Gallinger, Ed Harrison and Wally Wilson.

Don Metz and Joe Klukay connected for Toronto's counters, both in the first period.

Wings lost a chance to move into a first place tie with Bruins when they dropped a home contest to Rangers. Grant Warwick fired the winning goal in the third period after a see-saw battle which saw the lead change hands four times and the score tied on four occasions.

New York's other goals were marked up by Edgar Laprade and Rene Trudell, who each tallied twice, and Eddie Kullman. Detroit's scores went to Ted Lindsay, Red Kelly, Doug McCaig, and Bep Guidolin.

The punch line of Elmer Lach, Maurice (Rocket) Richard and Toe Blake contrived to gain Canadiens a draw with Hawks. Richard came through with the game-tying goal only 63 seconds from the finish with Blake and Lach drawing assists. Blake scored in the first period on help from Richard and Glen Harmon.

Hawks disclosed following the game that they are replacing Emile Francis in the nets. His place is to be taken by Doug Jackson of Kansas City Pla-Mors of the United States League. Francis will join the Pla-Mors.

The Big Seven

(By The Canadian Press)

National Hockey League marksmen had a big night last night, garnering 24 goals and 34 assists in three games. Maurice Richard with a goal and an assist moved to within three points of league leader Syl Apps. Another Montrealer, Toe Blake moved up the ladder as he earned a goal and an assist for two points to take over sole possession of the third spot with 15 points, one behind teammate Richard. Milt Schmidt collected a goal and an assist to move into a fourth place tie with George Gee, Elmer Lach.

C.Y.O. WILL TALK WITH RICKEY ABOUT DUROCHER

One of Group That Has Exerted Influence Against Suspended Manager

Brooklyn, Nov. 19 — (AP) — The Brooklyn Catholic Youth Organization, which withdrew support from the Dodgers "knothole gang" last February because it disapproved of manager Leo Durocher, is ready to discuss the 1948 outlook with president Branch Rickey at any minute.

Rev. Vincent J. Powell, director, stated the C.Y.O.'s position clearly in an interview yesterday when he said his organization is the "pressure group" concerned in the Durocher - Brooklyn baseball situation.

"Mr. Rickey has indicated there are pressure groups interested in seeing Durocher remain out of baseball," Father Powell said in an interview. "I won't double-talk. We are the group in question. We haven't had any conference with Rickey or the Brooklyn Club recently . . . Mr. Rickey knows where we are if he cares to get in touch with us."

The Dodgers president has been whirling in indecision since Durocher was restored to the eligible list after a season's suspension for conduct prejudicial to baseball. Rickey said recently he hoped to be able to name the new Dodger pilot by Dec. 3-5.

Although there has been no definite indication as to the reason for the delay, most observers believe the possibility of another attack by the C. Y. O. was an important factor.

"Until Mr. Rickey acts we have no intention of doing anything." Father Powell added. "As of now the C.Y.O. still supports the Dodgers.

Fight Crowd Does Not Like Television

Los Angeles, Nov. 19 — (AP)— Television has reared a controversial head in the boxing game here, and the fight crowd is positive about one point.

They don't like it, and one manager, George Parnassus, has engaged a lawyer to file suit for damages in what may become an important test case for television and its application to sports events.

The suit would be directed at the Hollywood Legion Stadium and the television people, and based on televising one of his fighters in action last Friday without his or the fighter's consent.

Parnassus stated his case this way:

"In time, television will kill the boxing game. It's simple. Fans will be able to stay at home or in a saloon and watch a fight for nothing, instead of going to a club and paying to see a show.

"I am told there are already 13,000 sets in this area alone. Most of them are in public places. Anyone can drop into a place and see the fights for the price of a bottle of beer."

There are no commercial sponsors of television now. "But there will be," argued Parnassus, "and who do you think will be taking control of boxing? Who will be making the matches? I'll tell you — Toastie - Crunchie Dog Foods, or The Strange Case of John's Other Wife."

BOB ELLIOTT MOST VALUABLE PLAYER IN LOOP

Third Baseman of Boston Braves in National League Awarded Landis Cup

By JOE REICHLER

New York, Nov. 20. (AP)— Bob Elliott, heavy hitting third baseman of Boston Braves, today was proclaimed the National League's most valuable player for 1947 by a vote of a 24-man committee of the Baseball Writers' Association.

In becoming the first member of a non-pennant-winning team to gain that distinction since Ernie Lombardi of the fourth place Cincinnati Reds won the award in 1938, Elliott also had the honor of becoming the first third baseman in either league to win the M.V.P. title since its inception in 1911.

The 31-year-old Elliott, a converted outfielder who made the shift to the hot corner in 1942, polled a total of 205 votes in the balloting for the Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis Memorial award to win by a comfortable margin, over Ewell Blackwell, righthanded Cincinnati Ace pitcher of no-run, no-hit fame. Blackwell finished second with 175 points. Johnny Mize, slugging first baseman of New York Giants, was third with 144 and Catcher Bruce Edwards of Brooklyn Dodgers placed fourth with 140 points.

Elliott, traded to the Braves by the Pirates, Sept. 30, 1946, in a deal that supplied Pittsburgh with Manager Billy Herman, batted .315 in 150 games last season and drove in 113 runs. He also slammed 22 home runs. It was easily his best season since he reached the main line with the Bucs in 1939.

Blackwell, the No. 2 man, besides his no-hitter, paced all pitchers with 22 victories including a winning streak of 16 straight. He was also the league's strikeout king.

Minneapolis Millers Hold 8-Point Lead

(By The Associated Press)

Minneapolis Millers hold an eight-point lead in the northern division of the United States Hockey League because two low-scoring wings stepped in to deliver the punch last night. They were Art Strobel and Earl Bartholome as the Millers beat Omaha 6-3.

Strobel opened the scoring in the first period and came back with two assists and another goal in the second period. Bartholome lent an assist to Strobel's first goal, scored once for himself in the second period and counted two more assists in the same stanza.

In other games, Dallas Texans won at Tulsa 8-5 and Houston coasted to an easy 5-2 win over the visiting Fort Worth team. The results did not alter the standings.

Russ Brayshaw and Gerry Bellemarre were standouts in the game at Tulsa. Each scored three goals, with Bellemarre's first-period goal one of four with which the Texans built a commanding 4-0 lead. Brayshaw's first two goals in the second period represented all of Tulsa's scoring until the last period.

Houston's high scoring duo of George Agar and Paul Mundrick improved their individual scoring marks. Agar got an assist on Mundrick's only goal for a scoring total of 27 points built on six goals and 21 assists. Mundrick is second with 10 goals and 14 assists.

West led the spade jack. With only two spades in dummy, play of the queen is correct. It won. This heart ace, three top diamonds, and three clubs are eight of the nine tricks needed.

The ninth trick may be in a heart or club finesse or a fourth diamond. Meantime, however, there is danger. If east leads a spade through south it may mean defeat of the contract.

So what? Main thing is to concentrate on keeping east out of the lead until nine tricks are home. Any finesses that are taken must be through the east hand.

If a finesse loses to west, a spade lead from there is not a menace to the king in south. This is the type of simple reasoning that makes you clever in bridge.

With this reckoning came the dummy lead of club king and then the jack. A duck by east did not have any effect on the result. The finesse was good and declarer got four club tricks.

Later, declarer was able to try the heart finesse, too. When it lost he was not concerned. He still had spade king to stop that suit. The nine needed tricks were safe with any return from west.

Guarding against danger is what a good bridge player plans. This is not much of a stunt. Merely a matter of thinking of it in time. Many think of it. But not soon enough.

PUT ON ALERT

London, Nov. 20 —(Reuters)— Police were put on the alert today while the royal wedding was in progress, when the drone of a plane, defying an order by the minister of civil aviation, was heard over the banned area around the path of the bridal procession.

An Air Ministry official later said that the R.A.F. Central Flying Control was making inquiries.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Nov. 20 — (AP)— The B picture is coming back into its own. Now MGM is reported mulling the return to lower-budget films to its production schedule.

Double features are apparently here to stay and producers and theatre owners are finding it increasingly difficult to make a profit by showing two expensive films on the same bill. The answer to the problem seems to be a return to B production.

Tightening its belt another notch, MGM is planning to bring the B's next year. The new films will be geared at a cost of less than $700,000.

International Set

Maureen O'Hara hears she is to play a Russian countess in John Ford's "The Family." "So far I have been Spanish, English, German and American, in pictures—everything but Irish," said Maureen, who now is a United States housewife in "Sitting Pretty." She'll finally play her own nationality in Ford's "The Quiet Man." . . .

Gary Cooper starts his new deal with Warners this January. His first film will be "Copper Hill," a Western adventure drama by Stephen Longstreet. . . .

Roy Rogers may be trying to get his release from Republic, but headman Herbert Yates doesn't appear worried. Yates says he elevated Rogers and his Sons of the Pioneers from "a bunch of singing cowboys" to their present status, "and we can find another bunch." . . .

Home, James

Harry James visited wife Betty Grable on the "This Is the Moment" set before taking off with his band for Philadelphia and one-night stands. He'll be home for Christmas.

Roadlind Russell will finish "The Velvet Touch" in time to see her father-in-law, Carl Brisson, perform at the Mark Hopkins in San Francisco.

Cornel Wilde tells me he is going into fencing training next week. He says that his screen sword work doesn't alter his amateur status and he plans to try out for the Olympic team. Who knows — he might even make it.

SUPPORTED MARKET TO AID BONAR LAW

How Lord Beaverbrook bought bought huge blocks of shares in which his dying friend, Andrew Bonar Law, had an interest, in order to sustain the price, is related in the "The Real Lloyd George" by A. J. Sylvester.

Sylvester, private secretary to the late Earl Lloyd-George, served for a short time in a similar capacity to Law when he was prime minister. Law, like Beaverbrook, was Canadian-born, and "I do not know two men in the field of politics who meant more to one another."

"During his last illness, one of the things which Bonar was exceptionally interested in was some investment which he had made in, I believe, copper shares," Sylvester writes. Everytime Beaverbrook called Law asked about the price of copper and "every time the question was asked, Max (Beaverbrook) was able to tell his friend that the price of copper was rising and with it the value of shares...

"The rise in values was maintained daily and was a mystery market fluctuations. Not until af- to the most adept student of stock ter Bonar died was the secret of the sensational rise in values discovered. Day after day Lord Beaverbrook was buying them, huge blocks at a time, not because they were of value to him, but in order that the market price would be raised and so bring comfort and happines to his friend Bonar."

Making Pearls From Fish Scales

The beauty and value of the natural pearl has long encouraged substitutes. Cultured pearls, which the oyster is artificially stimulated to produce can scarcely be distinguished from the natural. Artificial pearls, generally much less expensive, are surprisingly close imitations and are one of the most popular adornments. Research is under way to make them even less expensive and more attractive, and a mechanized process for obtaining the pearl essence which characterizes them is under development.

Artificial pearls are usually solid spheres of "alabaster" glass coated with lacquers containing pearl essence, obtained in this country from the scales of herring. Each scale contains tiny crystals of "guanine," which appear like thin transparent blades. When several coats of lacquer containing the essence are skillfully applied, the reflection of light gives the lustrous appearance associated with real pearls.

The art of removing pearl essence from fish scales dates back several hundred years; the best essence is now produced in the United States.

The fish scales are carefully washed and churned in cleaning solutions, and the transparent bony structure of the scale and other undesired matter are removed by straining and repeated siphoning. The crude essence is then washed and extracted several times with organic solvents, with each step followed by centrifugal separation. The purified essence is then suspended in a clear lacquer for use.

Fish scales contain yellow protein matter, which must be removed to an exact degree. The balance between too much protein, resulting in a deep yellow color, and too little, resulting in a high metallic lustre is extremely delicate.

Alabaster glass beads were first made in Czecholslovakia, but the Japanese captured a large portion of the world market. Because of labor costs, the United States has never produced any appreciable quantity of the beads. Beads of transparent plastic have been used during the last eight years, in addition to the regular glass beads.

In coating the beads, each bead is impaled on a toothpick, hand dipped in a suspension of pearl essence in lacquer, rotated for even flow of the lacquer over the surface, and re-dipped until a suitable coating is achieved. After dipping the beads are dried and buffed. Most of the cost of a simulated necklace is in the large amount of hand labor involved. For the best necklaces, which may sell for as much as $100, the individual pearls are carefully matched for color, lustre and size.

HOUSTON WINS ANOTHER

(By The Associated Press)

Houston Huskies batted out a 9-7 decision over Fort Worth last night in an overtime game to move into a first-place tie with the losers in the southern division of the United States Hockey League.

In other games last night Minneapolis Minners continued their domination of the northern division with a 3-2 victory over Omaha and St. Paul won an overtime contest at Dallas 4-3.

Hub Macey, Joe MacArthur and George Agar scored for Houston in the overtime period, while Fort Worth's only tally in the extra period came from Vernon (Wimpy) Jones' unassisted goal.

Whence Came Curls In Piglets' Tails?

Riviere Du Loup, Que., Nov. 20 — (CP)— Perhaps a stop should be put right away to talk of hemispheric influence on the curl in pigs' tails.

The question got into print in a recent editorial note in the New York Herald Tribune telling of queries received by the New York Botanical Gardens about the effect of hemispheric location on plants. Questioners wanted to know if plants in the Northern Hemisphere twine in one direction — say clockwise—while plants in the Southern Hemisphere twist the opposite way.

The editorial mentioned that similar information about pigs' tails was sought of the Gardens which replied happily that pigs and tails were not its concern.

Both these questions recall a story that keeps cropping up in Australia — a Southern Hemisphere country — about basins draining with the water spiralling away in a clockwise turn. In Montreal, Toronto or any other Northern city, water is supposed to drain with an opposite spin.

A Canadian - Australian gathering in a Sydney hotel once put the damper on the idea by experiments with the basins in several rooms. The finding was that some of the Australian basins drained clockwise, others just the opposite.

The puzzle of the curl in the pigs' tails is not new, at least in Quebec where several generations have sung the tune "Pourquoi les petits cochons ont-ils les queues en tire-bouchon?"

However, a barnyard survey on the farm of Ernest Carrier on the outskirts of Riviere du Loup revealed this position:

Among nine big and little, male and female pigs, four have tails curled clockwise, three have counter-clockwise tails; one had a variable tail, sometimes clockwise, sometimes counter-clockwise.

The ninth pig, independent of the forces that worked on the rest of the family, holds its tail up straight.

Canada Sends Official Greeting To Happy Couple

Ottawa, Nov. 20 — (CP)—Canada's official greetings to Princess Elizabeth on her wedding day went winging their way from Government House Wednesday in the form of a message from the Governor-General.

The telegram, to be delivered to the Princess today, read:

"On this happy day I send to Your Royal Highness on behalf of the people of Canada our most loyal and affectionate greetings, wishing you and your future husband many full years of health and happiness.

Alexander of Tunis."

AT THE CAPITOL — Maureen O'Hara is currently to be seen in the new 20th. Century-Fox hit, "Miracle on 34th. Street," which opens today at the Capitol Theatre. Co-starred with John Payne, Miss O'Hara plays the role of a slick department store executive whose composure is shattered by the strangest and most hilarious series of circumstances ever plotted. The added hit, "Swing the Western Way," features the Hoosier Hotshots.

Chapter 7

There began to be heard the rhythmical hum of crickets on the cool dampness of the night air, the deep croak of bullfrogs. The figures of the guests were mirrored fantastically in the nearby pool—these guests, who were fascinated by the dramatic trapping of a jewel at one of the gayest and smartest of early summer parties.

Finally, down the gravel path came Card behind the fiercely scowling Webb Taylor.

"Man arrested—had Miss Millstrom's ring on him," said one.

"Yeah?" Webb said, his eyes narrowing. "Well—it happens I know more about it than any of you. You've ruined a swell joke, see? I found Miss Millstrom's ring—and slipped it into Nourse's pocket. Later, I intended to find it on him—then confess it was arranged as a part of the evening's entertainment."

Hennington Blare looked aghast. "You—you fool!" he snapped. "How many drinks have you had? Some one has put you up to inventing this story!" He looked directly at Kay.

"Cards will explain," she said immediately.

"Yes, sir," put in Cards nervously. "I'm sorry it happened, sir—but I thought Miss Millstrom should know the truth—so I told her. I saw Mr. Taylor drop the ring into Mr. Nourse's pocket, earlier in the evening."

"You—what?" blustered the flabbergasted Blare.

"Yes, sir—I did, sir," reaffirmed Bird stoutly.

If it had not been so tragic a moment, Kay could have shouted with merriment at the expression on Blare's face. It was nearly worth all the evening's unpleasantness.

The officers now grinned helplessly and strolled away. At any rate, some one had called the police station and said the ring could be found in Chuck Nourse's possession. To be called to a job, think they were doing it neatly, then be told it was a joke was beyond their comprehension. But these society folks went to great lengths for thrills.

Kay quickly sent Aberilla Jenkins after the officers to offer refreshments. Aberilla was one of the season's prettiest debutantes. If any one could brighten the wilted self-esteem of husky policemen, she could.

Then, after flinging Webb Taylor a barbed glance of mingled hate and distrust, Kay, totally ignoring the baffled Henn, linked an arm through Chuck's and led him away.

When Kay and Chuck were quite alone by a moonlit fountain, he said gratefully, "You rescued me again—just in time, Kay. Why do you bother?"

He seemed half regretfully of his good fortune in having slipped so easily from the clutches of the law, half regretful of his innocence.

She dropped his arm and crouched like a child on the bottom step of a stone flight leading up to the tennis courts. He sat down beside her, clasped his hands tightly over one knee, as if to keep from touching her.

"It's maddening to see Webb Taylor get away with one of his tricks!" she flamed. "Only—this was no trick—he meant it to be serious, I'm sorry to admit. He wanted to get you into difficulties. No doubt, he managed to get my ring that night when we were dining on the hotel roof—waited for this opportunity to place you in a compromising position. I'm positive of it!"

"I can't believe that, Kay. Why, I hardly know the fellow! What could he have against me?"

She stirred a little, said bravely, "He—he has a silly notion that I like you—too much. He thought—with you out of the way—"

"His chances would be better," finished Chuck soberly.

He leaned to her now, dared to caress a soft curl over her ear.

He said now, "Does that mean my chances are improving? I thought you were engaged to Blare. If there is still a—a possibility—Kay—"

She brought all her will to bear on her quivering mouth. "No—I'm engaged—to Henn," came from her faintly.

There followed an awkward silence. Finally, he sighed, said musingly, "When I first glimpsed you tonight, I thought I'd never seen a lovelier picture. That blue stuff your dress is made of—"

She laughed a little throatily. "It's embroidered net over pink taffeta," she supplied quickly.

"Thank you. I know so little about women's clothes. But somehow it came over me in a wave tonight—that what you told me the last time we met couldn't be true. I felt you had an ulterior motive for saying you didn't love me."

The note of pure anguish in his tone made her senses throb uncontrollably. Yet she had no will certainly no desire, to tear herself away from this man. Her excuse to herself for remaining with him was that she must thoroughly convince him his love for her was hopeless, that her part in this evening's episode had been motivated wholly by friendship.

"You must believe me, Chuck—you must believe I don't love you," she said haltingly.

"Then why do you put yourself out to extricate me from rather dangerous situations? First you save my life, then my reputation."

There was no humor in his short laugh. "Why, Kay—my dear, why?"

"When you consider it sensibly, it's no more than one friend would do for another, is it?" she flung out heartlessly. Then despised herself.

The orchestra was playing again. A heavenly waltz floated down to them from the patio. Kay tried in vain to steel her aching heart against it, dared not look at the moonlit counterance of the intense man beside her.

He said, brutally direct, "I've about decided to return to New York—leave Deweyton forever."

She turned to him, quivering. "Oh, no, you mustn't! The new factory—your big chance! You can't leave that!"

"What can that amount to now?" he asked depectedly.

She caught her breath savagely. She could not trust herself to speak.

"I did have plans," he went on, and his voice sounded pitifully weary, "many beautiful plans. But now—" His hands went out in a gesture of futility. "Now, there's nothing left for me here."

"I'm sorry," came from her tremulously.

"Of course, I was a fool to think a girl like you, who has everything—please forgive me, Kay, for asking you to give it up. I can see how selfish I was—what a blundering idiot I was to dream—"

Wistfully, she said, "No you weren't selfish, Chuck. No real love is ever that. You offered me everything. I never knew a man could be like you, I—"

He turned to her in glad surprise. "Kay!" he whispered, in leashed suspense. "Kay! Tell me you do love me!"

For answer, she held up her tempting lips, her eyes swimming in tears. She could not deny her love in this instance; it was all she had.

He hesitated, then leaned down to her lovely face, his soul in his gray gaze. His lips came to rest revenrently on her warm, vibrant mouth. Her eyes closed.

Voices came from the terrace above them, faintly, then louder. He got to his feet and lighted a cigarette.

Adele called impudently from the top of the steps. "Hi, there, cousin! No fair interviewing the latest fiancee in town! Shall I take him off your hands, Kay?" Reggy Wold, home from his freshman year in Harvard, strolled with studied nonchalance down the steps behind her.

The perturbed Kay stood up and shook out her long flowing skirts. She said hastily, "I'd better be finding Henn—it's time we were leaving."

She laid a hand in Chuck's. "Good night—and best luck," she said bravely, and left him standing there imobile as a statue.

Adele's laughter rang after her. When Kay was out of hearing she said lightly, "Kay always was a fast worker. Don't look like that, cousin—you still have me. However, I do think she and Webb planned a rotten joke on you."

"But she didn't plan it!" he said resentfully.

"Oh, la, la!" sang out Adele, like a woman knowing for more than she chose to tell.

"You heard Webb Taylor's explanation," he said stiffly. "It was perfectly clear."

She wound an arm around his and proceeded to walk him away. He shrugged, and sauntered with her and Reggy back to the crowd encircling the swimming pool.

Adele had, however, succeeded in planting the germ of a cruel, gnawing doubt in Chuck's mind. It was a gem of doubt that, given proper nourishment, could grow into towering strength. And Adele Sanders was an amazingly clever girl.

Early the following morning, the linky figure of Webb Taylor stood on the rim of the Millstrom pool, unobserved by Kay for at least two minutes. He was morosefully watching Kay's graceful, expert swimming. At last, she came up from a dive, her hands brushing water from her eyes, and saw him contritely standing there.

"What an early riser you are," she exclaimed sarcastically.

A faint flush showed through the tan of his thin, elongated cheeks. He said, "Sinners must rise early—or be damned by the torture of their own regrets. I couldn't sleep after that party. I thought of getting disgustingly spiflicated—then decided against it. I had to see you, Kay."

He thrust both hands into his blue flannel trousers and began pacing the pool's rim.

She had swum up to him now. She snatched off her tight rose cap, shook out her bright curls, and came slowly up the ladder. She kicked her feet into rose sandals, her eyes dark with something near to loathing. From a bench, she snatched a yellow beach robe and folded it about her.

"Damn it, Kay! I don't know how to excuse myself! Saying I'm sorry, won't make it up to you—I can see that. But honestly, you had me going over Nourse. I thought if I could make him out a rotter, you'd forget him—maybe I'd have a chance."

Kay looked him scornfully up and down. She said frigidly, "You forget—I'm engaged to Hennington."

"Oh that!" He laughed shortly. "I'll have a barrel of money some day, too."

"You're—you're insulting!" she said. "I shall never forgive you! I was a horrible trick! If Cards hadn't intervened—"

"Yes—damn that butler—he's a nuisance."

"How dare you be so callous about such actions? How you got that ring off my finger, I can't imagine!"

Special Notice

PROCEEDINGS NOMINATION MEETING

Following are the new regulations pertaining to procedure at nomination meetings:

Nomination Papers: "Every nomination shall be in writing and state the name, residence and occupation of the candidate and shall be signed by the proposer and seconder, both of whom shall be municipal electors and present and shall be filed with the returning officer within an hour from the opening of the nomination meeting."

When proposed candidate absent: "When a proposed candidate is not present his nomination paper shall not be valid unless there is attached thereto evidence satisfactory to the returning officer that he consents to be so nominated.'

Resignation of Candidates: At the nomination meeting or before nine o'clock in the afternoon of the same day, a candidate may resign in respect of one or more offices for which he is nominated by filing his resignation in writing with the returning officer or the clerk and in default he shall be deemed to be nominated for the office for which he was first nominated.

Qualification of a Candidate? When a candidate makes the filings mentioned in subsection 1 of Section 70 by filing the same with the returning officer or the clerk at the nomination meeting on or before nine o'clock in the afternoon of the same day, he shall deemed to have resigned as a candidate for all other offices for which he was nominated.

Question Canadian About Two-Year Old Murder

Lee Brooks, a Canadian mining financier, covers up as he is about to enter an auto following his questioning by the district attorney in New York. Brooks was questioned about the murder of Albert E. Langford, wealthy textile manufacturer, who was slain in his room at the Hotel Marguery in New York, two years ago. Brooks voluntarily appeared at the D.A.'s office and it is believed that police had hoped to clear up the mystery after questioning Brooks, who is said to have been a friend of the family.

White's District

Mr. and Mrs. Murney Jeffery were Saturday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. C. Rush.

The friends of Mrs. Glenn Meyers will be glad to know that she is able to be about again after being confined to her home for the past two weeks.

Mrs. Clayton Stickle opened her home on Wednesday for the regular meeting of the Bay of Quinte Institute with Mrs. John Reid presiding. Splendid reports of the Institute Area convention held in Belleville were given by Mrs. Frank Sandercock and Mrs. John Reid. Mrs. Sandercock kindly offered her home for the evening of November 29th when an Institute speaker from Toronto will speak on "The Care of Clothes."

Sunday School and church service at White's Church were held on Sunday afternoon with the Rev. Hallwell of Bay Circuit, Napanee, as guest minister. Mr. Hallwell contributed a solo.

The Rev. A. S. McCallum was anniversary minister at Bay Circuit, Napanee, on Sunday. Mr. McCallum was a former pastor on that circuit.

DANGEROUS PATIENTS CAPTURED IN LONDON

London, Nov. 20 — (CP)—An early-morning thrill stirred the crowds waiting in London's misty dawn today for the wedding of Princess Elizabeth and the newly-created Duke of Edinburgh.

Two dangerous mental patients were captured in the throng. They had escaped from a military hospital.

This is view looking from organ loft in Westminster Abbey toward high altar (middle background) at which Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh were married today. In accordance with age-old Abbey custom, there were no flowers on high altar. Instead it was covered with glittering gold sacred vessels, some centuries old. On each side were two alabaster urns filled with roses.

Take 1,800 Trout From Quebec Lake

St. Adele, Que., Nov. 20 —(CP)—Here, amid the rugged Laurentian hills, Quebec game and fisheries branch officials may look at Round Lake, ponder a somewhat extreme experiment at fish conservation and count it an outstanding success.

A few years ago the branch poisoned the lake to kill undesirable fish such as grey trout, chub, suckers and catfish which prey on desirable game fish. Then the lake was restocked .

The result: This year anglers have taken more than 1,800 trout from Round Lake. All of an average fair size, they were topped by specimens of 1¾ pounds in weight, a joy to any fly-caster using light tackle.

Fishing was prohibited in Round Lake for two years and opened for the first time this spring with a special daily limit of 15 trout a day. Under the direction of Gustave Prevost of the government biological bureau a man was placed in charge of the lake to check up on anglers and keep track of conditions. Fishermen were required to report fish taken and a reasonably accurate check was kept on the number of trout removed.

Invaluable data was obtained and guesswork eliminated—1,800 trout killed to offset claims of unlucky fishermen who heeded rumors that the government had fed the fish so well they would not rise to a fly.

Send Books, Games To Lonely Island

By LESLIE BRODIE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Sydney, Australia, Nov. 20 —(CP)— Four cases of books and a crate of draughts and chess sets are included in the cargo of the Antarctic supply ship LST 3501 which sails this month for Heard Island and the Antarctic continent.

The books and games will be the only recreation her crew of 116 men will have during the six months they are due to spend in the southern wastes.

LST 3501 is carrying stores and scientific equipment for the bases to be used by the Australian Antarctic expedition which leaves Melbourne in December under the command of Group Capt. Stewart Campbell, Royal Australian Air Force.

It also carries a small party of scientists and meterologists who will spend a year on Heard Island gathering data on scientific research and establishing meterology stations.

LST 3501 is equipped with radar for detecting icebergs and the latest echo-sounding devices for navigation in little-known waters.

Specially balanced diets have been drawn up for the men by naval doctors to ensure that they get the greatest possible amount of heat-producing foods.

No definite date has been fixed for the departure of the Wyatt Earp, lead ship of the expedition, which will fix a base on Antarctica for future expeditions to use.

TYENDINAGA EAST W. A.

The November meeting of the Tyendinaga East W. I. was held on Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Fred Kimmerly. The president, Mrs. G. Provins, opened the meeting with the Ode, followed by the Lord's Prayer. In the absence of the secretary, Mrs. F. Hutchinson was appointed to act in that capacity. Twenty three members and several visitors responded to the roll call. Several letters of appreciation for remembrances were read, also one from Mrs. John Craig, Deseronto, with a donation of $2. It was decided to give $3 to the Children's Aid Society. After a short discussion, prompted by the recent sex murders in this province, it was decided to send a letter to the provincial representative, Mrs. Arnold Mitchell, desiring a change in the penal laws in regard sex degenerates. The topic "The History of the Banana" was given by Mrs. F. Hutchinson. Mrs. C. Russell presided for the following program: Reading, "Princess Elizabeth," by Mrs. D. Harvey, other readings were given by Jean Gaylord and Mary Harvey; a paper on "Home Economics" by Mrs. Russell; reading, "You Never Can Tell," by Mrs. G. Kimmerly and the concluding reading, "Jimmy's Lament," by Mrs. C. Akey. Mrs. Russell conducted a contest; Mrs. B. Kimmerly and Mrs. C. Marisette being the prize winners. An auction sale was held to raise funds for the flower committee. Mr. Harry Sweetnam acted as auctioneer. Refreshments were served to close a profitable and enjoyable evening.

State Secretary Marshall Leaves For Great Britain

Washington, Nov. 20 (AP) — State Secretary Marshall leaves for London today to put United States policy toward Russia to a new and perhaps crucial test.

Travelling in President Truman's original plane, the Sacred Cow, Marshall scheduled at 1 p.m. takeoff for the Big Four foreign ministers conference.

Marshall's announced goal is the same elusive objective of four previous sessions: (1) agreement with Foreign Minister Molotov on a peace treaty with Austria and (2) a decision at least the main outlines of a German settlement.

But while those are the immediate problems, the underlying issue is the mounting tension between Russia on the one hand and the western powers on the other.

Pointing up that issue, the Brookings Institution, a private research and educational agency declared in a report made public today that a continuation of the present "nightmare" of big-power relations could result in war at any time.

The previous foreign ministers' sessions ended in complete stalemate on both the German and Austrian questions.

This time, if Russia again balks France may join the United States and Great Britain in setting up a "trizonal area" engaging their combined occupation zones in western Germany.

Russia would be left in control in eastern Germany, but this step would not necessarily mean making peace with Germany without her.

Marshall left the door open for a final chance at agreement in his Tuesday night foreign policy address at Chicago. Without professing optimism, he said then it should be "possible" to get on with setting up "a provisional central authority in a federate German state" and the final framing of a peace settlement.

11 PIRATES EXECUTED

Nanking, Nov. 20 —(AP)— Officials announced today the execution by firing squads of 11 of a gang of 17 pirates seized in various China hide-outs. The gang, most active in the molesting of merchant ships off the mouth of the Yangtze River, was blamed by prosecutors for the deaths of a tleast 30 persons.

Had Bad Stomach For Years, Limbs, Back Sore, Painful --- Tells of Relief

"Tried All Sorts of Things, But Nothing Really Helped Me Until I Got Syntona," Says This Well Known Man.

Nearly every day you can read in the paper about local men and women who have obtained surprising results by using a short treatment of Syntona Herbal Compound. Sufferers of stomach disorders, sluggish liver and kidneys, nervousness and rheumatic aches and pains tell how this medicine has given them prompt, effective relief even after ordinary things failed to help them.

For example, Mr. Bert Orton, 198 Adelaide Street south, Chatham, Ontario, said in a recent report:

"I suffered with stomach disorders for almost ten years. Often I had so much gas, sour acid-risings and indigestion after my meals I was afraid to eat. Many nights my food would be undigestion in my stomach and I couldn't sleep. I had a gassy, distressed, bloated feeling which made me feel sick and nauseated. My back and limbs became very sore and painful with rheumatic pains affecting almost every joint and muscle. I suffered from frequent headaches and dizzy spells with spots darting before my eyes.

"I tried many different things, but nothing really helped me until I began taking Syntona. In a surprisingly short time this medicine has made my stomach feel very much improved. I am now able to eat things that I couldn't before and I have less trouble with gas, indigestion and sourness than for years. I haven't had any dizziness or headaches since I began taking this medicine and the aches and pains are relieved. So all in all, I am feeling considerably better than I did for a very long time and I sleep more soundly and restfully at night."

Canadian Rail Unions Ask 35-Cent Wage Increase

140,000 Workers Stand To Benefit If Boost Given

Montreal, Nov. 21 (CP) — Seventeen International Railway Unions, representing 140,000 workers, have served notice on all Canadian railways demanding a 35 cents-an-hour wage increase effective Dec. 20, F. H. Hall, chairman of the General Conference Committee announced.

The requested increase is to be applied proportionately to employees on a weekly, monthly, mileage or other basis.

Mr. Hall said that request has been made for a meeting with railway officials Nov. 20 emphasized the rapidly increasing cost of living with its consequent deterioration of the living standards of the employees and their families.

A spokesman for the railways confirmed that the notices from the unions were being received and said that the requested conferences would be arranged.

Recently these unions, with the exception of the railroad trainmen, telegraphers and commercial telegraphers, were granted vacations with pay on a sliding scale as recommended by a government appointed arbitration board, thus averting a threatened railroad strike.

The unions concerned are: Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers; Order of Railway Conductors; Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen; Order of Railroad Telegraphers; Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees; Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers; Express and Station Employees; International Association of Machinists; Brotherhood of Railway Carmen of America; International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, Iron Ship-builders and Helpers of America; International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths, Drop Forgers and Helpers; International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers; United Association of Plumbers and Steamfitters of the United States and Canada; International Moulders' Union of North America; International Brotherhood of Firemen and Oilers and Shop Laborers; Brotherhood of Railway Signalmen of America and Commercial Telegraphers' Union.

ONTARIO DEALERS HOLDING PRODUCE GROWERS CHARGE

Wholesalers Also Criticized for Advancing Prices 50 Per Cent

Toronto, Nov. 21 (CP)—M. M. (Bobby) Robinson, Secretary-Treasurer of the Ontario Fruit and Vegetable Growers Associations, charged last night that Ontario dealers are withholding produce from the market in the hope that restrictions on imports from the United States would force up prices.

In an interview he also criticized wholesalers who claimed Wednesday that fruit and vegetable prices advanced 50 per cent after import restrictions became effective.

"This (wholesalers' claim) was nothing but a wild expression of opinion and an open invitation to farmers to raise their prices accordingly," said Mr. Robinson, who urged growers to "go slow on sales" until the fluctuating market becomes settled. He said he expected this would take about a week.

At least 50 per cent of normal consumption of fresh fruits and vegetables at this time of year was met by imported produce.

"If you remove 50 per cent or more of our supply in the fall after the bulk of crops are harvested, it is only natural for prices to advance. But before anyone accuses the farmers of taking advantage of the situation it would be well to ascertain who owns the available supply.

50 P.C. Held by Dealers

"I would say that as far as apples and onions are concerned, more than 50 per cent of the supply is held by dealers who bought when prices were very low. I know of hundreds of thousands of bushels of apples, which were sold by growers for $1 a bushel and which today are held in cold storage by dealers."

He estimated that 80 per cent of the western Ontario onion crop is held by dealers. A grower had told him nine-tenths of the apples in eastern Ontario were in dealers' lockers.

"They (the dealers) and not the growers will benefit by any upswing in prices."

M. J. West, an official of British Columbia Tree Fruits Ltd., said that some Toronto wholesalers have increased their mark-up on B.C. apples by as much as $1 a box during the last two days. The boost would not benefit the growers because it would reduce consumption.

Meanwhile interest in the situation centred on Ottawa where the headquarters for the Canadian Association of Consumers received a telegram of protest regarding increases in vegetable prices, from its British Columbia branch for presentation to federal government authorities.

In Victoria, R. A. Lipsey, a wholesaler, said that the possibility of relaxing the Canadian import restrictions on United States fruit and vegetables will be discussed in Ottawa Monday. Representatives of the Canadian Fruit Wholesalers' Association will meet the deputy finance minister.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, Nov. 21 — (CP)—Synopsis: Clear skies and below freezing temperatures prevail in most sections of Southern Ontario and Northeastern Ontario this morning. In Northwestern Ontario rain and snow are falling in advance of a storm over South Dakota which is moving northeastward. The storm will move into Northwestern Ontario tonight and snow will spread eastward ahead of the storm in the northern sections of the province. Increasing winds are expected in southern sections of Ontario late today, and rain on Saturday.

Mr. King Lunches With Lawyers Of Gray's Inn

London, Nov. 21 — (CP) — Canada's Prime Minister Mackenzie King, as an honorary member of the bench, lunched today with Gray's Inn lawyers. He drove to the function with Viscount Greenwood, his comrade in a students' strike when both were at the University of Toronto in the 1890s.

This afternoon the prime minister attends a reception at the Canada Club and tonight attends one given by Philip Noel-Baker, secretary of Commonwealth relations.

Lord Greenwood, born Hamar Greenwood in Whitby, Ont., in 1870, came to England before the First Great War and has long been prominent in Britain's public affairs. He once served with the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Bowery May Not be There Any More If East Side Plans in N.Y. Carry

New York, Nov. 21 — (AP) — The Bowery, the Bowery, it won't be there any more — if the Bowery improvement committee of the East Side Chamber of Commerce has its way.

The committee proposed that the old street of Steve Brodie undergo a face-lifting, that its countless drunks be sent to work camps, and, yes, even that its name be changed.

In keeping with its plans, the committee adopted a resolution to appoint a special sub-committee of architects to recommend "constructive and attractive" property rebuilding program.

First opposition came from the unofficial mayor of the Bowery, Sammy Fuchs, owner of the Bowery Follies, who said.

"The only way we can help is to have a committee of welfare workers on this board, raise funds and send the 'smoke hounds' home, or else send them away to a farm for rehabilitation for a year or so.

Also in opposition was Rev. Richard E. McEvoy, Rector of St. Marks in the Bouwerie Church, who said: "There is no need of changing the name . . . the problem is one of human rehabilitation."

RUSSIA CHARGES IRAN GUILTY OF 'HOSTILE ACTIVITY'

Note Says Iran Must Be Responsible

Moscow, Nov. 21 — (AP) — Russia charged today that Iran, by voiding a 1946 agreement granting oil concessions to the Soviet Union, was guilty of "hostile activity . . . incompatible with normal relations between the two nations."

A strong note, delivered to Premier Ahmed Qavam in Tehran yesterday and made public by the Russian press and radio today, accused the Iranian government of "treacherously violating obligations and gross discrimination against the U.S.S.R."

The note, described as a "resolute protest," declared that Iran must be responsible for "the consequences of its actions."

It was sent as a result of the Iranian parliament's nullification on Oct. 22 of an agreement signed April 4, 1946, by Quavam and Russian Ambassador Ivan Sadchikow, under which a joint Soviet-Iranian oil company would have been formed for exploration and exploitation of oil in northern Iran.

"The Soviet government," the Russian note said, "cannot pass by the fact that the decision of the majlis (parliament), while British concessions in the south of Iran are being preserved, is an act of rude discrimination against the U.S.S.R."

Under the 1946 agreement, Russia would have been allowed to prospect for oil in five northern provinces of Iran, including Azerbaijan. Any oil discoveries would have been exploited by a Russian - Iranian company in which Russia would have controlled 51 per cent of the stock for the first 25 years.

In rejecting that agreement, parliament instructed the Iranian government to undertake oil exploration in the north in its own and then, in the event oil was found, to discuss its sale to Russia. In addition, parliament called on the government to begin talks with the Anglo-Iranian oil company, which is partly British-owned, with a view to boosting Iran's share of oil profits in the south.

Navy Lockheed Crashes into Sea, Two Rescued

San Diego, Calif., Nov. 21—(AP)—A Navy Lockheed Neptune patrol bomber with 11 men aboard crashed at sea 102 miles off San Diego early today, and naval headquarters reported that two survivors had been picked up.

The craft flashed a distress signal shortly before crashing, a naval spokesman said. The submarine U. S. Pomadon, cruising in the area, picked up the two men and was searching for others.

The U. S. S. Bairoko, an escort carrier, also was in the vicinity looking for survivors.

Nomination Meeting:

Mayor Follwell Reviews Work Done During His Tenure of Office: Storey Advocates Lower Taxes

In a brief post-nominations address, Mayor Frank Follwell reviewed his term of office during the past three years. He had gained experience while a member of the council and he paid tribute to the work done by the wartime mayors.

He also paid tribute to the industrial branch of the Chamber of Commerce for their assistance to the Industrial Commission in which they exerted every effort toward the city's industrial program.

An aggressive industrial program had been achieved during his tenure of office, the mayor said, that had resulted in three large industries locating here and another coming in the near future. He, himself, he added had spent considerable effort and time in assisting in this project.

Improvements Listed

The housing situation here was difficult, he went on, but this city had more housing construction per capita than any city in Canada. This was a fine achievement. He mentioned the recreational facilities provided to the city in the Memorial Arena and the ice plant; improvements to the air Grounds and the installation of children's playgrounds in various parts of the city.

"This city," the mayor declared, "has never been in a better position, but experienced leadership is necessary if this enviable position is to be maintained."

Belleville has undergone and will under go considerable expansion with the assistance of everyone, he said. "The city will take over 125 acres on January first for industrial and residential purposes. It is now at the crossroads of going ahead.

"But this prosperity needs careful attention, and it is my opinion that it must be handled by men who have had experience."

Should Share Credit

Mr. D. L. Storey, mayoralty nominee, told the gathering that he had been a business man for the past thirty-five years, and any good business man can run a city if he has the full co-operation of the city council. The mayor should not take all the credit for what has been done.

He believed in normal spending and hoped to reduce the city's taxes if elected. He would spend the city's money as if it were his own and not take too many out-of-town trips at the city's expense.

Mayor Follwell in rebuttal, said that taxes had always been an important part of the city's business, and his council had spent the taxpayers money to the best administrative advantage. They had been sound reliable men with one of the best chairmen of finance the city ever had.

"The future holds grand promise for increased assessment and there is no doubt that in the future the city can maintain its services with a substantially reduced taxation.

W. C. Mikel was of the opinion that Mayor Follwell had too much experience nad Mr. Storey had too little but he thought his own experience was just right. Referring to the mayor's out-of-town trips, Mr. Mikel said it was grossly unfair to blame him. The onus of blame should rest on the council which authorized them. He deplored the decrease in the population of the city over a long period of years and eloquently pleaded to citizens to concentrate their attention on the city's expansion.

Criticizes P. U. Commission

Geo. A. Reid, Utilities nominee levelled sharp criticism at the present commission charging that it had reduced rural rates and had increased those of the city.

"Every year I sat on the commission the rate was reduced but I ask this commission why there has been no reduction for the past two years. Are they building up a surplus for the government or what are they doing with the money?"

The commission he charged, passed motion some time ago to delegate monies to Western Ontario to assist in the cost of converting from 25 cycles to 60 cycles. "I wrote a letter to the local paper protesting this move. It appeared on a Saturday and on the following Monday the commission met and rescinded the motion."

"If I am elected, I will not be told by the Commission what I am to do," he concluded.

Cites Experience

Harry Rollins another utilities nominee said that his experience as former mayor and alderman fitted him for the job as a utilities commissioner. He intended,

Philip Has Grown Steadily In Estimation of Public; His Full-Dress Performance

By GLENN WILLIAMS

London, Nov. 21 —(AP)— Philip, born to be a Prince of distant, troubled Greece, has become a "proper" Prince of Britain, sharing whatever affection Britons hold for their Royal Family, whose eldest daughter he wedded yesterday.

Since the first rumors spread from Athens that there was marriageable affection between him and Princess Elizabeth, he has grown steadily and increasingly in the public esteem, which first assessed him indifferently as a little-known youth from the rear ranks of one of Europe's less stabilized royal families.

He has been built up — and yesterday he answered the build-up with a full-dress performance of a man who knows his place, a man who must ever bear himself as a king and never wear a crown.

His place is that of a companionate shadow, a reflector of public adulation upon his wife. He must also, perhaps, be a target for criticism, as was "Albert the Good," consort of Queen Victoria.

Observed by Critical Eyes

Critical eyes watched him yesterday to see how he would behave as he was thrust upon the stage.

He drove to Westminster Abbey and the crowds cheered, but he looked neither to right nor left nor waved his hand to accept any acclaim. For he was less than 12 hours a duke, an earl and a baron. His lordly titles having been carefully withheld until his last bachelor night.

Line Between Old Life and New

Returning from the Abbey with his bride, he was different. A line was drawn between an old life and a new one.

Now he grinned broadly, waved his right hand to the cheering crowds as did Elizabeth. Yet he never outdid her.

Then Philip was on the Palace balcony.

Once he sprang aside to put Queen Mary in better view of the crowds. Again, he noticed his young sister-in-law, half-hidden behind Elizabeth, and motioned her forward with a brotherly grin.

Alone on the balcony with Elizabeth, he waved to the crowds — but not as often as his wife. Deftly, he kept her in the centre of the spotlight, himself on its less intense perimeter.

How had he grown to this "proper" stature?

Shortly before he became a British citizen, a Sunday picture paper polled the populace and found that it barely approved this Greek princeling.

His Career in Royal Navy

Then the stories of his career in the Royal Navy began to be told more and more. Britannia, long ruler of the waves, began to take him up. He became a British citizen and took the name of his uncle, Viscount Mountbatten.

Throughout all the growing talk of engagement to Elizabeth he carefully kept himself out of print except for a few public appearances as Elizabeth's escort. Finally, the big announcement of impending marriage. He shared the Palace balcony for the first time, and dropped back into the shadows, leaving Elizabeth in the light.

Carefully he was built from a little-known Greek prince to a world-spotlighted British prince, prospective consort of a ruling queen, prospective father of a king.

ROYAL NEWLYWEDS BEGIN HONEYMOON IN HAMPSHIRE

Residents Respecting Wishes for Privacy

By MICHAEL O'MARA
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Romsey, Hampshire, England, Nov. 21 — (CP) — This little town, of which only a few persons outside Britain had heard before a few days ago, was the centre today of world interest — the honeymoon home of the most widely-acclaimed newlyweds in many years.

But 6,000-odd residents here were respecting Princess Elizabeth's and the Duke of Edinburgh's wishes for privacy following the strain of the last few days culminating in the tumultuous scenes which attended their Westminster Abbey wedding yesterday.

There were none to report the activities of the Royal couple as they spent their first morning together at Broadlands, majestic Georgian mansion which is one of the homes of the Mountbatten family.

But it was learned that the couple began the "ever-after" days of their Royal romance with one of rationed Britain's rare treats — bacon and eggs for breakfast.

Couple Left Alone

From time, the oaken door of Broadlands closed on them late yesterday, the Royal couple has been alone.

Two girls, delivering wedding-evening greetings from Romsey's townspeople said they saw nothing of the couple. But Philip's navy officers' cap was tossed casually on a hallway chair.

Throughout the 500 acres of the estate's rolling grounds there are many secluded bridle paths along which the coupe might be strolling beneath trees shedding their last leaves — a scene sharply contrasting with the excitement and enormous crowds of the wedding day.

Or they might be sitting in Broadlands' splendid drawing room furnished in the Venetian manner with the walls hung with portraits of Romney and Baeburn.

Dog Went Alone

Around their feet probably was "Crackers", Elizabeth's favorite Welsh Corgi which travelled with the couple in the open coach through the cheering, jostling, adoring hundreds of thousands on the way to Waterloo Station yesterday afternoon in the final triumphal procession of the day.

As the little dog hopped down from the coach and shook himself briskly, he flung a small shower of rose petal from his coat to which they were still clinging after members of the royal family and the bridal party laughingly pelted the "just married" couple as they left Buckingham Palace.

This incident—perhaps the gayest in the whole thrilling, emotion-laden day—was one of the most widely depicted in London's morning papers, many of which devoted half or more of their four pages to heavy headlines and several-column photographs of the wedding scenes.

Could Only Happen Here

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express seized on the moment in which the King and Queen came to such close and informal proximity to their delighted subjects, to remark in heavy type: "It

Could Only Happen Here

At least not since the war ended have Britain's papers given such play to a single news event. Veteran newspaper man Hannen Swaffer wrote in the Daily Herald: "I attended yesterday the most popular wedding ever celebrated since history began"—and to anyone who saw yesterday's giant crowds this statement does not seem much exaggerated.

Even after the couple left from Waterloo Station the tidal wave of pent-up enthusiasm was not spent. Repeated cheers for the Royal Family brought the King, Queen and Princess Margaret back to the Buckingham Palace balcony several times.

When the floodlights playing on the place went out at 11 p.m. and it was evident that the big show was all over, the tumult and the shouting still died hard. Fireworks were let off, Christmas Carols and "God Save The King" sung, and sporadic cheering broke out again and again and again.

1,500 Tons Nazi Air Research Papers Microfilmed, Worth Billions

Dayton, O., Nov. 21 (AP) — Any student who ever tried to wade through just a single page of German translation will appreciate this:

What once were 1,500 tons of German documents — a complete history of the Nazi air research program from 1933 to 1945 — have been evaluated, classified, catalogued, indexed and published in microfilm by United States Air Intelligence experts at near-by Wright Field.

As a result, American Aircraft industries have at their call products of the most intensified aeronautical development program the world has ever known.

Engineers estimate the actual research contained in the captured documents would cost between $2,000,000,000 and $3,000,000,000 if reproduced today in the United States.

The air documents division of the A.A.F. air material command's intelligence department discovered 1,450 tons of lesser papers at the beginning of project index. But it handled 55,000 Nazi documents all written in technical German and using at least 110,000 new German aeronautical terms familiar only to German Scientists.

Included were tons of top-secret details on the world's first production jet-engine fighter, the Messerschmitt-262; design, production and test information needed to duplicate the deadly V-1 and V-2 missiles, plus hundreds of other ideas ranging from swept-back wings for supersonic flight to formulas for making heat-resistant dyes and synthetic rubber for airplane tires.

Hunters Cannot Reach Agreement On Who Shot Deer

The argument, friendly of course, still rages around the Mountain View district.

It seems that Messrs. Morley Moy, Kenneth Motley, Harold Motley, Elmer Young and Mac Wallbridge went deer hunting last week, and they've been arguing over the traditional point since they returned.

It happened in the MacArthur's Mills district. The boys had spent two days of fruitless search for venison on the hoof and had decided to return home buckless.

But on the morning of the third day they decided to try their luck once more. And luck was with them. By the time the gunfire had subsided a four-year-old 200-pound buck, a smaller buck and a full grown doe had been brought down.

The big buck had wandered on the runway in full view of three of the boys. Their guns rang one after the other, and the big deer slumped to the ground. Examination revealed only one bullet hole.

Now the question is, "Who shot the deer?"

Angles of sight, trajectory of bullets, wind resistance were all taken into consideration. Each claims it was his bullet that killed the deer. It could be, however, that all three bullets entered the same part of the deer, but the boys can't agree on that point.

Carmel Young Adults Present Interesting Remembrance Program

The Young Adult Group of Carmel United Church met Tuesday evening, Nov. 11th., when a fine Remembrance Day program was presented, under the leadership of Mrs. Carman Dafoe, Miss Marguerite Hicks and Mrs. Clayton Sullivan. The President, Mr. Clare Horton, acted as chairman for the occasion.

Mrs. Glen Lawrenson, Belleville, sang "Always", and Mrs. John Lawrenson favored with "We'll Never Let the Old Flag Fall". Carmel Orchestra contributed "There'll be a Rainbow at Midnight", and Mrs. C. Horton, a piano solo, all of which were much appreciated and enjoyed.

Mrs. Ben Clarke recited "In Flanders' Fields", and another appropriate reading was given by Gary Chambers, entitled "Remembrance Day". Marion Sills, a contestant in the Public Speaking Contest for South Hastings Inspectorate, gave an interesting address, "Canada's Colorful Capitals".

Miss Dorothy Osborne, of Belleville, who served as a nurse in World War II, told of the evacuation of Dunkirk and of the aid of fishermen of England, with their small craft in this colossal achievement; closing with the song, "Fishermen of England", in memory of their assistance.

Guitar music by Mr. Harold Howes and Miss Hilda Howes was the closing number of a very entertaining program.

An offering was received, and members of Group 3 served delicious refreshments.

FRIGATE FOR WEATHER SERVICE

he said, to have an open mind on everything that came before the commission, if elected, and felt that the city's interests should come a great service if the province or country.

"The Public Utilities can become a great service if the proper relationship with the public is maintained. There has been a decided laxity on the part of the present commission with regard to public relationship. The Utilities," he said, "if operated behind closed [illegible] was nothing but a money-making proposition. I will give [illegible] the same sound judgment and common sense that I gave the city while in the capacity of mayor and alderman."

The above were the only candidates who offered to speak, and Chairman George Wishart adjourned the meeting.

Labor Protesting Import Restraints Affecting Living

Toronto, Nov. 21 — (CP) — New Federal import restrictions which would "seriously lower Canadians' living standards" have been protested by the Toronto District Labor Council, which called upon the Dominion government to "put pressure on business to cut profits and lower prices."

At a meeting last night the council demanded that excess profits taxes, price controls and subsidies be restored and discussed the possibility of establishing union co-operative stores to offset increases in the cost of living. One delegate said the unions should use their "economic strength" to gain their demands.

WORKED IN SHEER COSTUMES IN 18-DEGREE TEMPERATURE

Empire Dairy Show and Cheese Makers Convention Opens Dec. 3rd

Approximately 240 of the finest cheese in Ontario and Quebec will be on exhibition here on December 3rd and 4th at the British Empire Dairy Show to be staged at the Riggs Motors showroom on Pinnacle Street.

The 240 cheese will be shown by about 50 cheese makers from all over Ontario and from the province of Quebec.

In conjunction with the Dairy Show will be the 20th annual convention of the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association, session of which will be held in the banquet room at the Hotel Quinte. All cheese makers and farmers in the district are invited to sit in at the convention sessions while the general public will be welcomed at the cheese show.

Concluding the convention and cheese show will be the closing banquet which will be held in the Belleville Armouries with Women's Auxiliary of the local branch of the Canadian Legion doing the catering. Guest speaker at the banquet will be Rev. A. M. Laverty, chaplain at Queen's University, and formerly of Stirling, while entertainment will be by Morley Plunkett and Company of Kingston.

OBITUARY

FREDERICK COOK

Frederick Cook, 284 William Street, died in hospital at Kingston on Thursday afternoon. He was in failing health for some time.

The late Mr. Cook, who was in his 73rd year, was born in Belleville and was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Cook. All his life was passed here and for over forty years he was a machinist in the service of the old Grand Trunk Railway and later the Canadian National Railways at the local railway shops.

Mr. Cook was a prominent member of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church and took an active part in the work of the congregation, being for a considerable time the superintendent of the Sunday School, and for forty years he was a valued member of the choir. He also discharged the duties of a deacon over a long period of time and held this office to the time of his death. Fraternally he was a life member of The Belleville Lodge, No. 123 A.F. & A.M. Fred Cook was well known in the city and was highly esteemed by many friends to whom his death has brought much regret.

Surviving him are his wife, the former Alice Frost; three daughters, Miss Mary Cook, a teacher at King George School, at home; Miss Jean Cook, on the staff at the O.S.D., at home, and Mrs. Gordon (Laura) Bateman, of Whitby; two sons, Frank F. Cook, of Toronto, and Lorne E. Cook of Detroit, Mich., two sisters Mrs. Archie Vine, Winnipeg, and Mrs. David Strachan, Vancouver, B.C.

IN MEMORIAM

REEVES—In loving memory of my dear mother, Agnes Reeves, who passed away one year ago today.

Oft and oft our thoughts do wander
To the grave not far away,
There we laid our dear Mother,
Just one year ago today.

Sadly missed by daughter Betty.

REEVES—In loving memory of my dear mother, Agnes Reeves, who passed away, Nov. 21, 1946.

In my heart your memory lingers,
Sweetly, tender, fond and true,
There is not a day dear mother,
That I do not think of you.

Sadly missed by son, George. N21

REEVES—In loving memory of my dear wife, Agnes Reeves who passed away on Nov. 21, 1946.

I have lost my soul's companion,
A life linked with my own
And day by day I miss her more,
As I walk through life alone.

Lovingly remembered by husband, Cecil Reeves.

REEVES—In loving memory of my dear mother Agnes Florence Reeves who passed away, Nov. 21, 1946.

A wonderful mother, woman and aid;
One who was better, God never made.
A wonderful worker, loyal and true,
One in a million, that mother, was you.

Ever remembered by daughter Orra. N21

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Nov. 21 (CP) — A dull early session left prices at about the same level as yesterday's close in the stock exchange although scattered pivotal losses in fractions for industrials eased the list a little. Golds and base metals broke even on gains and losses.

Volume for the first three hours was 529,000 shares, about 180,000 less than yesterday's similar period.

The gold list balanced fractional gains for a majority of senior issues as against minor losses for juniors. Up were Hollinger, Kerr Addison, Lake Shore; down were Cariboo, Cochenour, Consolidated Beattie, Macassa, Malartic, Sullivan, Senator, Preston and Pamour. Base metals were quiet with gains and losses about equal.

Industrial prirce changes were fractional scattered gainers included Algoma Steel, Bathurst Power, Brazilian Traction, Canada Northern Power, Canadian "B", Distillers Seagram, Eddy, Great Lakes Pfd., Laura Secord, Winnipeg Electric, Steel of Canada Pfd., Shawinigan and Asbestos.

TAXI MANAGER FINED $4,400 FOR TAX EVASION

Sudbury, Nov. 21 — (CP) — Frank Collins, taxi manager, was fined a total of $4,400 for evasion of income tax regulations here and was ordered to pay arrears for 1945 and 1946.

Evidence was shown he kept two sets of books and in 1945 paid taxes on an income of $23,853.88, whereas another set of books, which the prosecution said was the correct one, showed an income of $48,487.90. Collins was accused of having an actual profit of $14,602.45 although he reported a loss of $2,847.54.

$4,119,000 NET REVENUE

Montreal, Nov. 21 — Operating revenues for the Canadian National Railway system, all inclusive for the month of October amounted to $38,434,000. Operating expenses were $34,315,000. The net operating revenue was $4,119,000. In October, 1946, revenues were $37,529,000; expenses $33,226,000; and net operating revenue $4,303,000.

For the first ten months of the year, operating revenues were $362,206,000; operating expenses $329,805,000; and net operating revenue $32,401,000. The comparative figures for 1946 are: revenues $327,647,000; expenses $292,962,000; and net operating revenue $34,685,000.

Cheese Board Holds Final Meeting of Year

Belleville Cheese Board adjourned for the season on Thursday night when district factories boarded a total of 1,188 cheese.

All cheese boarded sold at 25¼ cents with buyer P. J. Murphy taking the entire board. By agreement the buyer taking cheese at Thursday evening's board will take the balance of factory cheese until the end of requisitioning for overseas shipment. Following the end of requisitioning factories will make individual sales.

The recent suggestion that cheese factories re-organize on a true co-operative basis came up for brief discussion when President Arthur Wood asked if any of the factories had re-organized.

William Montgomery replied that the directors of many factories were willing to surrender their charter and re-organize but they could not do so without the sanction of the patrons. The entire matter would be thoroughly discussed at the quarterly meeting of the Ontario Cheese Producers to be held soon.

Following were the factories represented at the board and the cheese each offered.

One of First to Set Foot on Lake's Shore

North Bay, Nov. 21 — (CP) — William Christopher James, one of the first white men to set foot on the south shore of Lake Nipissing, and a pioneer lumberman and farmer of the North Bay district, died today at the home of his daughter, Mrs. G. Stewart, here in his 90th year.

Mr. James was born at Eganville and more than 80 years ago he moved to Nosbonsing with his parents.

While he was still a young boy, he began to work around lumber camps as a water boy, and he was with the first party of lumbermen who pierced the virgin forest wilderness on the south shore of Lake Nipissing, to carry out logging operations.

Mrs. A. G. Kelsey World Wheat Queen Honored

Toronto, Nov. 21 — (CP)—Mrs. Amy Grace Kelsey of Erickson, B.C., newly-named world wheat queen, was scheduled to arrive here today for a round of presentations and honors at the Royal Winter Fair.

The 54-year-old farmer's wife left home by plane last night soon after fair officials announced her exhibit of Reward spring wheat had won her the world championship and a $2,000 cash award donated by the Canadian National Railways.

Formal presentation of the honors will be at a ceremony tomorrow night.

Mrs. Kelsey, who last year won the North American Wheat Queen title at the Chicago International Grain and Livestock Exposition, grew the championship wheat between trees on a six-acre fruit ranch in the Kootenay valley.

Two other western Canadians were named world champions at the fair last night.

Albert Robbins of Laura, Sask., and B. and C. Brown of Cassils, Alta., were declared winners of the oat and barley titles, respectively.

Both these championships also carry with them $2,000 awards to be presented at tomorrow night's ceremony.

Cowden to Have New Hearing By Judge's Order

Toronto, Nov. 21 (CP)—Presenting his reasons today for ordering a new preliminary hearing of the murder charge against Ivan Cowden, 32, Mr. Justice Genest explained it was "far from obvious" the man had killed Mary Morrison, 18, Oct. 7.

"The theory of accident is perhaps more consistent with the facts than the theory of murder," he said.

At a preliminary hearing Oct. 30, Cowden has testified the girl had fallen across his bed, waking him and there was evidence of a trail of blood from the living room where she slept. Medical testimony, indicated she died of a fractured skull.

Justice Genest cited the testimony of Dr. I. H. Erb who said the injury could not have been caused by a fall to the floor but "he thought it could have been caused by a person falling from a table or a bed on to some blum object."

"There is nothing in his evidence to show definitely the wound causing death was brought about by an instrument wielded by human hands."

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 21 (AP)—The United States was shooting in the second World War eight months before Pearl Harbor and President Roosevelt left a navy fireman as an impersonator when he set out for the Atlantic Conference with Winston Churchill at Argentia, Nfld., in August, 1941.

These are but two of many hitherto unknown or little-known facts disclosed in Prof. Samuel Eliot Morison's "The Battle of the Atlantic," published today by Little, Brown and Company as volume 1 of the 13-volume history the former navy captain was commissioned to write of the United States Navy's part in the war.

The destroyer Niblack he relates, was closing the coast of Iceland when she came upon and rescued from life boats the survivors of a torpedoed Netherlands freighter.

"Just as the last men were being pulled on board," the account continues, "Niblack's sound operator made contact on a submarine evidently approaching for attack. Cmdr. D. L. Ryan, division commander ordered an attack with depth charges. The ship did, and the U-boat retired. So far as can be ascertained, this bloodless battle of 10 April, 1941, was the first action of the war between United States and German forces."

En route to the Atlantic Conference, the history relates, President Roosevelt transferred to the cruiser Augusta off Martha's Vineyard Island from the presidential yacht Potomac.

"The U.S.S. Potomac, was routed through Cape Cod canal with a histrionic touch which deceived everyone. A fireman and two bluejacks dressed in white summer clothes and bearing a superficial resemblance to Mr. Roosevelt, Stephen Early and Gen. Watson, lolled in easy chairs on the quarterback and waved genially to the public that lined the banks and bridges. Even the chief of the secret service did not know where the President was for several days."

Sun's Gravitation Pull Does Strange Things to Oil and the Ladies

By HOWARD BLAKESLEE
(Associated Press Science Editor)

Philadelphia, Nov. 21 —(AP)—If a woman is reducing, the best time to weigh herself is around noon when the sun is nearest overhead, because then she weighs actually a bit less than when she is getting up in the morning.

The reason is the upward pull of the lady by the sun's gravitation. This fact of life came out incidentally at the American Philosophical Society when Paul D. Foote, physicist and vice-president of the Gulf Oil Corporation, was telling how to discover oil.

One favorite way is to read the extra gravitational pull of rocks buried as much as two miles under the earth's surface. For this, amazingly sensitive instruments have been developed and they give the basis for knowing that human weight is slightly less at noon.

Foote said a 150-pound lady at sunrise weighs 149.999955 pounds at noon.

Dr. Wallace O. Fenn, Professor of Physiology at the University of Rochester School of medicine and dentistry, estimated a man could live 20 years if sealed up in New York's Grand Central Station so no outside air could get in.

Even in 20 years this lone man would not breathe up all the oxygen in the Grand Central. But in 20 years his body would have produced so much carbon dioxide to mix with the station air that he would begin to feel badly. By that time, however, he would have become so accustomed to increased carbon dioxide in the air he could stand an amount of this gas which people outside could not endure.

CHILD FOUND IN COOP

Vancouver, Nov. 21 — (CP)—A city-wide search last night for a lost, four-year-old girl ended when a relative heard the faint tapping of tiny hands on the wall of an abandoned chicken coop.

Charles Teeple, who first heard the tappings while passing the previously-ignored coop, had to crawl on hands and knees through a bramble patch to reach the door.

It had closed after the child entered, jamming on a bramble lying across the sill.

All the girl said before bursting into tears at being found was "My feet are cold!"

GERMAN SCULPTOR DIES

Berlin, Nov. 21 (AP)—Prof. Georg Kolbe, 70, noted German esculptor, died here yesterday. A student of the famed Rodin of France, he was well known in European art circles.

JACK BEST

Grinding ophthalmic lenses to designated curves represents one of the most important operations in the Belleville plant of American Optical Company Canada Limited. That's why we entrust such responsible work to skilled, experienced lens grinders like Jack Best who is shown above testing the curvature of glass discs ground on the machines under his control. These discs will be utilized later in the manufacture of highly complex bifocal lenses.

Ophthalmic lenses produced in the AO Belleville plant are esteemed for their exceptionally fine quality, the reason why they're widely prescribed by professional men who provide eye comfort and visual efficiency for millions of Canadians. To Jack Best and his fellow-employees goes the credit for producing lenses of such merit.

Adept at lens grinding, Jack is equally skilled in wood carving, his principal hobby. Interested also in drawing, he is a cartoonist on the staff of the AO plant paper. He likes fishing too. Obviously, he is a well-rounded individual who enjoys both work and play. His two brothers-in-law—Ray and George Van-Allen—are employed on the night shift and so we'd say his family is well represented among the AO personnel.

Frankly, we are proud to employ people like Jack Best. Energetic, able, believing in fair play, they constantly strive to do a good job and yet enjoy life. It is through such co-operative effort on the part of AO workers that the AO Belleville plant has progressed and why it has become, through its employees, an important part of Belleville community life.

Prevent Accidents

Most people won't bet except on a good thing, says Public Relations Services Ltd., of Toronto, adding that thousands of motorists and pedestrians take foolhardy chances to save a minute and wager all the millions of minutes they might otherwise expect to live through. That is worth thinking about and acting upon by never becoming negligent or careless.

Not all the advantages that speed and rashness might give are worth the possible sacrifice of life in such a suicidal gamble, which not only may involve the offender but others who are innocent of any infractions of the law as to driving.

The Service also notes that one of the greatest causes of traffic accidents is the mental attitude that "accidents will happen." Of course accidents will happen to those who do not believe in trying to prevent them by common sense carefulness.

Accidents need not happen. The Ontario Department of Highways has been careful to issue bulletins of advice at certain seasons when there is greater danger through heavier traffic and weather conditions. It does this to save lives.

There is another very suggestive statement by Public Relations Services. It ought to convince anyone to be forever henceforth a safe and sane driver. This is the comment:

"Here's a simple lesson in arithmetic. Traffic accidents multiply a man's worries; divide his money; add to his discomfort; and subtract from his family's happiness. Be alert — be careful — for soundness of body and long life."

Simplified Form

A simplified form of income tax statement has been announced. On such a matter no simplification can really go too far for there must be many persons to whom any form causes anxiety for many people have long since left school and since their schooldays have had little reason to become actuarially minded. It is so easy in time to forget much of what one has learned in school even arithmetic and spelling.

Effort succeeds effort to simplify the tax statement form for those whose income is under the $3,000 class. The new form has reduced the number of questions to six and there is this to be noted, the taxpayer does not have to compute the taxes. All he or she has to do is to give name, marital status, number of dependents, deductions for charity and so on and leave the question of figuring the tax to the officials.

Spirit of Britain

The world truly loves a romance. That modern Britain is deeply rooted in a past that extends back far beyond a thousand years is realized by everyone and the royal wedding on Thursday in Westminster Abbey emphasized how much the people of Britain and the Commonwealth honor the members of the Royal Family and at this time how pleased they are to demonstrate their love for the Princess Elizabeth and her husband and Their Majesties the King and the Queen and to show their loyalty to the long history of progress which has been achieved by the British people and to the institutions of that happy land. Their history and their institutions are a part of the life of this virile people. Their history is an amazing story of development of democracy and freedom and of the sure instinct of the British public for development and growth while retaining institutions which are as living and as real as the people themselves.

Thursday's royal event brought so beautiful a touch into the upset and turbulent conditions of this time, it brought a real romance more true than the most beautiful of fairy tales to the hearts and minds of the people of many races and it revealed how much the Briton cherishes his institutions, especially the Monarchy. His loyalty to the Throne has made the Throne one of the vital institutions of history. The Monarchy is a vital force today and it traces its origin back for many generations. Britain's Throne is an institution as real as anything in history.. In this institution her people are blessed and are enabled to carry on their service in the world in the development of freedom and international understanding. Her people are those indomitable, heroic people who for a long time during World War II had to bear and did bear willingly the burden of humanity in holding back the aggressor and in playing no little part in the fight against the enemies of freedom.

Britain and her people are believers in progress, and they sacrifice themselves in that cause for freedom's sake. They are romantic enough and wisely so, to have faith in mankind for that has made her of so potent an influence to mankind. They are people who preserve the Church as an institution of the greatest benefit to man.

The Old Smithy

The Sparta Women's Institute have set an example which might well be emulated by other community organizations. They have remodelled a 125-year-old blacksmith shop, the oldest building in the area, for use as their headquarters.

A village blacksmith shop is a link with the past.. At one time it was a community centre, where farmers chatted as their horses were being shod, and the children were fascinated by the sparks from the anvil.

In almost every part of rural Ontario there are old buildings which once were important in the history of the district. Too many of them have already been torn down, or have fallen down. Those used by the pioneers will soon be all gone, unless some action is taken to preserve them.

It is not necessary to remodel them and keep them only as relics. Some can be put to useful purposes, such as the Sparta smithy..

It is up to local organizations to do the job. If they don't, none will. Governments sometimes restore battlegrounds, and it is right that they should.. But surely all our relics should not be commemorations of military events. After all, such establishments as the old village blacksmith shop also played their important part in the development of Canada. — Windsor Star.

Earth's Common Things

Our aim should be quality, not quantity. "The kingdom of heaven is within you." One might be placed in the richest surroundings, amid the most georgeous scenery, and yet be thoroughly discontented. Conversely, one may have little of this world's goods, but yet be quite happy. Ambition is a good thing; it is praiseworthy to wish to better our material position, but ambition is not enough, if increasing appreciation goes not with it. It is not in the big things, but rather in the little things, that the greatest satisfaction is to be found. The imporant things are generally available to all who are capable of appreciating them; they need not be owned to be enjoyed.

A poet has said that it is in "earth's common things" that God reveals Himself, and it is true, as he asserts, that "grass and stars and flowers spell out His name." What a tragedy it is to be living amidst so much splendour and not be able to feel delight in it! How foolish to ignore the "common things," which are of the greatest signifcance, in order to follow a will-o'-the wisp which leads on and on, from disappointment to disappointment, from error to error, till the final disillusionment comes, when we understand, too late, that we have been chasing vain shadows while missing the real substance of existence!—Hamilton Spectator.

The blood of the martyrs is the seed of the church.—St. Jerome.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

(Copyright, 1947, Edgar A. Guest)

CHILD'S-EYE VIEW

How can fathers, or grandfathers, of their wisdom boastbul grow,
When we're every day admitting there is much we do not know?
For the questions of a youngster who has wonder in his eyes
Wring from us the sad confession that we're not so very wise.

When we take them to the circus, with the acrobats on view,
We must often tell the children there are tricks we cannot do.
And I'm sure it must seem shameful to the lad upon my lap
That I have to hire a plumber just to fix a leaky tap.

A carpenter seems greater to the children standing by,
As he works with saw and hammer, I am certain, than do I.
And I sometimes get the feeling that the children more admire
The man I have to summon to my car to change a tire.

Oh, we fathers and grandfathers of ourselves should never boast.
The knowledge we are blest with is but little at the most.
And we should always be humble, for the children know it's true,
There's not much that we can tell them and not much that we can do.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS.

20 YEARS AGO

Nov. 21st., 1927.

Mr. George Vanblaricom, an old Belleville boy, now managing editor of the Canadian Lumberman, Toronto, was the guest speaker at the Kiwanis Club luncheon today.

Two hundred and fifty soldiers arrived in Trenton today to feature in the war picture being produced at the movie studios there.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

How many counties are there in the United States?

According to the U. S. Bureau of the Census, the total number of counties in the United States in 1940, including the 64 parishes in Louisiana, was 3,069.

The total number of counties does not long remain constant, owing to the fact that occasionally two or more counties are merged and new counties are formed by dividing large ones.

For instance, on January 1, 1932, Campbell and Milton counties, Georgia, were consolidated with Fulton County.

Texas leads all the States in the number of counties — 254; Georgia, with 159, has the second largest number.

There are 37 counties in Texas as large as the State of Rhode Island.

As a general rule the county seats in northeastern Texas were laid out one day's horseback ride apart.

When Dallas County, Texas, was created, it was specified that the seat should be at the exact centre.

Van Zandt County, Texas, is popularly known as the "Free State of Van Zandt," because during the Civil War it attempted to secede from the rest of Texas and set up its own independent government.

There is a legend that Jones County, Mississippi, passed resolutions seceding from the State and set up the "Republic of Jones," but the legend appears to rest only on the fact that about 125 Unionists took refuge on an island in Leaf River and for a time forcefully resisted Confederate control.

Delaware has the smallest number of counties — only three. One-sixth of the surface of the State is covered with water and there is an old saying that the Blue Hen State has three counties at low tide.

Rhode Island, with five, has the second smallest number of counties.

A LITTLE MORE INDIGESTION, PLEASE

Our nine year old twins, writes a mother (I often wonder why fathers never write either to ask for information or advice about the care of the baby or the health of a child or to tell me whether information or advice I have given proved any good.)

Our nine year old twin sons are certainly sturdy testimonials for your common sense and practical teachings. Your column has been so much help, ever since we received your Baby Book early nine years ago (with the booklet Preparing for Maternity) and began the process of rearing our tiny premature babies — one weighed 3 1-2 pounds, the other 4 pounds at birth. You should see what fine specimens they are now! Taller and heavier than most nine year old boys, and so much vim and vitality they keep us pretty well fagged out ... They have perfect teeth and neither has had a single cavity yet. They do have C-R-I as soon as the school year begins, and you may be sure they are properly indignant at the children who cough and sneeze open-face in school and thus spread their C-R-I. In fact they quote you nearly as much as their parents do. (Signed—)

Good! Their dad does quote Ol' Doc Brady, then, even if he never has any truck with him.

Prospective mothers, friends or relatives of prospective mothers, prospective fathers, ditto, ditto, may have a copy Preparing for Maternity on written request — inclose twenty - five cents and stamped self addressed envelope. Or for the Brady Baby Book ditto ditto. Any prospective father who may not care to play the role of stooge, goof or namby-pamby should study everything his wife studies in regard to pregnancy, childbirth, care of the baby. He should sit in with her whenever she visits her physician for instructions. He should remain at her side during the great miracle — the father who has not witnessed the miracle of childbirth, particularly the birth of his own child, has not had a fair deal, for he has not experienced the supreme joy of life.

The indignation of these nine year old twins towards the ignorant, untrained children who cough and sneeze without covering nose and mouth is a great satisfaction to me.

As the twins go on feeling and manifesting their indignation about that offense—which is not confined to ignorant, untrained children but is perpetrated by a good many equally ignorant, untrained adults—the mere fact but they object to it is bound to have some good effect. And I imagine the twins will not take seriously any of the draft, wet feet, sudden change and insufficient clothing delusions which most old fogies and quaint old doctors cherish.

QUESTION & ANSWERS

A Cold Settled

When his trouble began the doctor told him it was just a cold settled in his back. After some X-ray studies they now talk about an operation, but he says they are all quacks... (Mrs. M.J.)

Answer — Well, you can't blame the man — if they are all like that first doctor who told him it was a "cold settled in his back," I agreed with him.

Evidently Not a Scout

Boy, twelve, always has hard time getting to sleep nights. Pediatrician gave him (a barbiturate) to take to make him sleep better but ... always planning to write a play or something. (V.T.S.)

Answer —The should lose no time joining the Boy Scouts. As a scout he will get some good healthy discipline and direction for his physical and mental activities.

Freed From Bad Habit

For years I had taken literally quarts of mineral oil, trick cereal preparations and all vegetable laxatives ... Read your book with great interest, was converted at once ... the fight lasted six days, but I won out and ever since have been as regular ... gratitude. (W.H.E.)

Answer — Send twenty-five cents and stamped self addressed envelope for booklet The Constipation Habit and Colon Hygiene.

Howe Says Canada Can Balance Trade In Few Months

Ottawa, Nov. 21 — (CP) — Reconstruction Minister Howe, the man who will guide Canada's economic program to save vital American dollars, said last night that if Canadians make the building up of a U. S. dollar exports a national objective, "We should be able to balance our trade in a matter of months."

In an address prepared for delivery over a national network of the CBC on free time provided for political broadcasts, Mr. Howe dealt extensively with the Geneva trade agreements and the government's new "short-range" policy of spending less U. S. dollars, a policy involving prohibitions, quotas and excise taxes. This policy, he said, would "bring immediate help."

He had great faith in the stimulus of a national objective as a means of solving a national crisis and now the national objective must be to produce goods needed to meet the U. S. dollar shortage. It must be every man's job and every manufacturer must know ways and means by which his industry can help.

Mr. Howe said he had been asked if the new measures would lead to unemployment. He did not think so because provided wholehearted co-operation was forthcoming, there need be little dislocation.

The minister mentioned the products of mines and forests as two resources which could produce American dollars through sales of products to the U. S. It was to be hoped, too, that the announced aid to the gold mining industry would bring greater production. By bringing gold production back up to the level of 1941, gold could contribute another $100,000,000 of U. S. exchange.

Vernon Welch Held for Murder Of His Wife

Toronto, Nov. 21 — (CP)—Vernon Welch of Aylmer, Ont., who failed to turn up for the inquest into the death of his wife, Florence, last week, was arrested here yesterday and charged with her murder. The arrest was made at Chorley Park military hospital where Welch was serving as a member of the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps.

Evidence at the inquest was that Mrs. Welch, 31, died last Aug. 21 in convulsions. Prof. Joslyn L. Rogers of the Attorney-General's Department said an autopsy showed a quantity of poison in the woman's body.

The inquest jury's verdict said in part:

"We are of the opinion Verne Welch's action has been most suspicious and we strongly recommend every effort be made to prove his guilt or innocence."

Police said that shortly after the wife's death, Welch obtained a job in a Toronto broker's office and was working there when subpoenaed for the inquest. The hearing was postponed due to illness of a police witness. Police said that when they sought Welch to tell him of the new date, he could not be found.

Mrs. McKay W.C.T.U. Secretary Speaks in Y.M.C.A.

This week an outstanding visitor to the city was Mrs. McKay, Field Secretary of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, who spoke to children in four of the city schools, showing instructive pictures, and on Wednesday afternoon addressed an assemblage of ladies in the Y.M.C.A., with Mrs. J. Shortt presiding.

"Unto the Hills" was the psalm sung for opening the program. Mrs. Shortt read a scripture lesson and offered prayer.

Mrs. Gorsline read a reply to a letter sent to Mrs. Gerrie recently, and another letter from past-president, Mrs. Denton.

Mrs. McKay gave an inspiring address based on the 31st verse of the 40th chapter of Isaiah. She used an illustrative story telling of people who started to climb a mountain in order to view the scenery from the top; but how a few stopped at the first resting place, more at the second, and so on until only a few reached the top to view the wonderful sunset. She said: "Let us never be content with half-way achievement."

Mrs. McKay stressed the subtlety of the methods for advertising liquor, and told a story of the actual experience of a young lady who was assisted by a young man who was an employee of a distillery company.

She told that in the United States there is now a Men's Association working for temperance. "Canada" she said, "might do well to copy this example." She also suggested that Canadians buy only magazines and papers which do not carry liquor ads., and told of one young editor who resigned his position because the paper for which he worked advertised the liquor trade, and later started one of his own which has proven very successful. Mrs. McKay closed her address with this admonition: "Never forget to commend the right."

The Experts Say . . .

By KAY REX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Nov. 21. (CP)—Higher prices are playing hob with family budgets, and nowadays "economy first" has become the slogan of the Canadian housewife.

Buying for the small family always has been a problem and when it comes to choosing a chicken for Sunday dinner, home economists of the consumer section, Dominion department of agriculture, suggest picking a small bird. Right now there are a number of these on the market and they have been termed an "excellent buy".

A small fowl —three to 3 1-2 pounds—will make satisfactory servings of pot pie or chicken with dumplings for one meal for two persons. And there will be enough left over for a hot chicken mould, a delicious dish for a company meal of four.

Hot Creamed Chicken Mould—

Ingredients: three tablespoons fat; three tablespoons flour; one cup milk (or 1-2 cup milk and 1-2 cup chicken stock); salt and pepper; one cup cooked fowl; two tablespoons chopped green pepper or pimento; 1-2 cup minced canned pressed meat; 1-2 cups soft bread crumbs; two eggs.

Melt fat and blend in flour. Gradually add milk or milk and stock. Cook this over hot water, stirring constantly, until thick. Season with salt and pepper. Cool slightly, then add chicken, pressed meat and crumbs. Add beaten eggs. Pour into individual greased moulds. Place in pan of warm water and oven poach in moderate oven about 45 minutes, until set. When set, a knife inserted in the centre of the mixture will come out clean.

If your family is going to appreciate the gravy you make better be sure it's dark and smooth and full of meaty flavor.

Several rules must be followed if the gravy is to be just right in consistency and flavor. When the meat is cooked it should be removed from the pan to a hot platter and kept warm in the oven with the heat off, or in a warming-oven.

All excess fat must be poured from the pan before flour is added. Otherwise, the gravy will have floating fat which makes it unappetizing.

For each cup of gravy required there should be two tablespoons of fat left in the pan. For the average family two cups of gravy is sufficient for generous servings.

Brown Gravy — One-quarter cup fat; one-quarter cup flour, two cups water; salt and pepper. Pour excess fat from the roasting-pan leaving one-quarter of a cup. Add flour and cook, stirring constantly, until flour becomes liquid brown, but not burned. Remove pan from direct heat and add cold liquid. Return to low heat and cook, stirring constantly, until gravy boils and thickens. Season to taste. Makes two cups gravy.

Milk Gravy—Use milk as all or part of the liquid. Serve with roast poultry, veal or pork, chops or cutlets.

Giblet Gravy: Add finely-chopped, cooked, steamed or baked giblets to brown or milk gravy. Serve with roast poultry.

Onion Gravy— Add one-half cup raw onion to fat in pan. Cook until clear and golden brown, stirring occasionally to prevent burning. Add flour and proceed as for brown gravy. Serve with roast beef, baked heart, baked or fried liver, or meat loaf.

Prisoner Rehabilitation Outlined by J.A. Edmison To Women's Canadian Club

"A court sentence of twenty-five dollars and costs or thirty days is a modern version of imprisonment for debt, and the poor man who cannot pay the fine and must go to jail is ever afterwards labelled an ex-convict," stated Mr. J. A. Edmison, K. C., executive secretary for the John Howard Society for prisoner rehabilitation, when he addressed the first post-war luncheon meeting of the Women's Canadian Club at Chez Henri on Thursday afternoon.

In the absence of the President, Mrs. May, the chair was occupied by Mrs. Wm. Doyle. In introducing the speaker, Mrs. Doyle referred to Mr. Edmison's distinguished career as an honor graduate of McGill University, a member of the Board of Trustees at Queen's University; a delegate from UNRRA to Germany where he took care of displaced persons, and received citations from General Eisenhower, and General de Gaulle. As a practising lawyer Mr. Edmison became interested in penology, and made a detailed study of the Borstal system in England.

Pay in Installments

Continuing his address Mr. Edmison said he hoped that eventually we would have a civilized system such as some other countries had introduced to allow payment of fines in installments.

In a reminiscent mood, induced by the broadcast of the Royal wedding, Mr. Edmison recalled that in London at Wormwood prison there are two statues, one to John Howard, the greatest name in penology, and one to Mrs. Elizabeth Fry, a great pioneer in prison reform whose efforts revolutionized the treatment of women prisoners at Newgate. He hoped that among the groups of women to whom he spoke one would rise up and try to do what Elizabeth Fry had done in England.

Referring to the recent sex crimes which have shocked the country, Mr. Edmison stated that since men and women are becoming aware of the condition which exists many protests and resolutions are being sent in from societies thus paving the way for reform laws.

"Men who serve prison terms for sex offences come out all the worse for being jailed, and continue in their perverted activities.

Five Previous Convictions

In the recent case in Owen Sound which closed last week, the prisoner had five previous convictions for molesting little girls. As an example of our system here in two press reports from Vancouver, one man gets six months for stealing a purse, and one man gets six months for committing a sex crime against an eight-year old girl.

"At the present time there is a committee of representative persons meeting to study this question from the psychiatric angle and from the legal angle. When these have been thoroughly investigated the findings will be co-related for immediate action to reform out present-law dealing with perverts. We must also concern ourselves with the educational angle, as proper information is important as a preventative means.

Mr. Edmison digressed at this point to pay tribute to a former Belleville man, Mr. Harry K. Hunt, whose mother and sister were in the audience. Mr. Hunt, who is President of the Kiwanis club in Toronto, was the man who helped to finance the project of sending psychiatrists from the committee to study the systems used in the States and to carry out research and bring the information gained back to Canada. The necessary funds were lacking, and when appealed to, Mr. Hunt told the committee he would find the means and through the Kiwanis he did.

"There were fifty thousand serious crimes committed in Canada last year," Mr. Edmison declared. "One quarter of these were committed by boys from 16 to 21 years. They present a serious problem with which we will have to deal for many years to come. A study of these cases show that the average one comes from a broken or unsatisfactory home, where the parents are divorced or separated. The average one comes from the slums, because the slums breed crime. On maps which mark the areas where crime is committed it is shown that they are concentrated in slum areas. In school the average offender does not go beyond grade six or seven; he has no trade, no religion, is not a Boy Scout, or does not belong to the Y. M. C. A. He is magnificently unprepared for life. Is it any wonder he gets into trouble?

Prevention Sorely Neglected

"Crime prevention in Canada is sorely neglected," the speaker emphasized. In his book, Dr. Rogers tells of three areas in Toronto where he found gangs of children from eight to fifteen roaming around with little or no home and school supervision, no church or club affiliations. The home, school and church are the three great agencies we have and the stronger they are the less crime we will have in Canada.

"Whenever life studies have been made of criminals we find that they did not get along well in school, they were idle, truants, or a general nuisance. This pattern which they develop in elementary school stays with them. They need help, not kindness alone, but help from scientific methods of specialists in human behavior so these faults can be corrected at the start, by finding out what is behind their anti-social behavior."

In a letter from a criminal serving time a request was made that some agency would help the people who were crowded into downtown rooms, that some means would be found to shine a social flashlight into the dreary lives there, so some preventative could be employed. Of the forty million dollars left by philanthropists only twenty thousand was directed to research in crime prevention.

Need for Reform

The need for penal reform, legal and court reform was shown in the case of Bob who has just finished five years at Dorchester penitentiary. Arrested as a vagrant in a western city at the age of sixteen, he appeared in court with no lawyer because he had no money. This could have been remedied by introducing a system such as they have in England where legal aid is paid by the state at a nominal fee for persons unable to pay. Bob was placed in a county jail.

The average county jail in Canada is a crime breeding place. In the commissioner's report it was stated that there is lack of segregation, the sick are placed with the healthy, seasoned criminals are placed with others waiting for trial, and this condition has grown worse with the years. In one jail in Manitoba the prisoners sat idly in their cells without one book in the place or a magazine or a newspaper. Criminal tricks are passed on by old-time crooks to young unsophisticated youngsters. So although Bob went into jail without criminal knowledge he came out well-schooled. He started a career as a burglar and made a good deal of money at it before he came into the clutches of the law again.

Getting Some Reforms

"We are getting some reforms in Ontario," Mr. Edmison claimed. "In Guelph we now have a psychologist and trade classes. But we must be concerned with the whole country, because crime conditions spread from one province to the other with seasoned criminals.

"In Edmonton at the present time there is a jail which has cells downstairs which are used to house prisoners and youngsters where there are no mattresses on the beds, no exercises, no toilets in the inner cells. The Humane Society would not allow animals to be housed in such conditions, and our boasted Canadian civilization is a mockery where such conditions exist.

"Since General Ralph B. Gibson and his two assistants have been appointed to the Commission a change for the better is taking place. They are three enlightened people with hearts as well as heads, they have started to mix humanity with discipline, and the results are very encouraging with this fine triumvirate.

Great Hurdle to Overcome

"The prisoner on release has a great hurdle to overcome. He lacks clothing, money and sometimes even carfare. What can he do? He requires material aid at once, so he will not get into trouble again. Don't put any faith in that old bromide that a man has paid his debt to society on his release. They go on paying and paying the rest of their lives. Often they lose their jobs because it is discovered they are ex-criminals. They have great problems and they need help and counsel. If this is done intelligently they will not get into trouble again. This is not sentimentality. It is an effort to get them into step with the march of society and stay in step.

"In a memorial to John Howard in St. Paul's Cathedral there is written, 'He travelled the open but unfrequented road of prison reform.'

"The released prisoner needs common sense, kindliness and food," concluded the speaker. "We can reduce the crime rate by rehabilitating the men and women who have served their time."

In response to a question from the audience Mr. Edmison urged the women present to use their influence with their members of parliament to interest themselves in prison conditions and to read and study the Archambault report.

Thanks to the speaker were expressed by Mrs. Doyle.

University Club

"Last year there were more than 50,000 indictable offences committed in Canada, one-quarter committed by youths between the ages of sixteen and twenty-one," said J. Alex Edmison, K.C., of Toronto, speaking to the University Women's Club of Belleville last night. The church, home and school are the greatest forces in crime prevention. The eradication of slum conditions and careful attention to the press and movies, so that crime may not appear glamorous were suggested as deterrents to crime. The speaker explained the aims of the John Howard Society of Ontario as threefold, crime prevention, prison reform and rehabilitation of men and women on release from prison. The society named in honor of John Howard, the great British reformer, is one of many in England, the United States and Canada.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Donald Amos and was presided over by Miss Erie Grout, the president. The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Douglas Burr and the thanks of the club were expressed by Mrs. Grant Sparling.

Wedding-Sidelights

London, Nov. 21. (CP)—The Irish Times noted in Dublin today that Eire, alone of all the States associated with the British Commonwealth, had no official representatives at Princess Elizabeth's wedding. The newspaper also expressed regret that Eire had not sent a gift.

Young King Peter, of Yugoslavia, a king without a throne, rented a dress shirt to wear at the wedding his intimates disclosed. He got it after discovering that he hadn't brought enough shirts with him from his Paris quarters.

Miss Sofia Ballard, 73, clutching a vacuum bottle of tea and a packet of sandwiches took up her position Wednesday night—by a lamp past midway between Buckingham Palace and the Admiralty Arch. She has been at the same spot for every royal "do" since Queen Victoria's funeral in 1901, she said.

Many took special note of the 84-year-old dowager Marchioness of Milford Haven, the bridegroom's grandmother. Plagued by misfortune for 30 years, this frail woman derived keen happiness from the marriage of her favorite grandson to the heiress presumptive.

Circumstances forced her husband, Prince of Battenburg and first Lord Mountbatten, to relinquish his place as Britain's first sea lord in the First World War because of his German origin.

A bow tied with a lovers' knot with the letters "E" and "P" in the loops will appear on the envelopes of about 15,000,000 letters and parcels passing through British post offices during the rest of November to commemorate the wedding. No special stamp, such as Canada's new four-cent issue, will be issued.

Women's Activities

UNIONDALE W. I.

The November meeting of the Uniondale Institute was held in the home of Mrs. Herrington, when eighteen members answered the roll call.

Plans were made to serve lunch to people attending Mr. McLaren's sale on Nov. 19th., and a committee was named to supervise same, namely, Mesdames Faul and Rose.

Menus were distributed to cover the pot-luck dinner to be held in Stone dining hall on Nov. 25th., when Miss Eleanor Kidd will be guest speaker on the topic, "Care of Clothing."

Mrs. Howard Dafoe, speaking on "Milk Products," besides giving the various uses of the component parts of milk, told that penicillin is made from the sugar in whey. One third of all Canadian cheese and butter is produced in Ontario, the consumption per capita annually has been 3½ lbs. of cheese and 32 lbs. of butter. In 1900 cheese sold for ten cents but in 1945 the average price was 23.34 cents.

Miss Byrant suggested that members plant a garden for exercise, and for nature study.

Mrs. Bird gave a reading, "Daylight Saving."

The Area Convention recently held in Belleville Collegiate Auditorium was well reported by Mesdames Bush, Burkitt and Wardle, who brought an enthusiastic account of Miss Lewis' description of her trip to Amsterdam and Great Britain last summer.

WOMEN OF THE MOOSE

The regular meeting of the Belleville Chapter No. 435, Women of the Moose, was held Monday evening with Senior Regent, Mrs. G. M. Rich presiding. Reports of the L.O.M. convention, recently held in the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, were read for the benefit of all members unable to attend. Mrs. Rich had been the delegate for the Belleville Chapter.

Two new members were initiated, namely, Martha Freeman and Frances Burtt.

The Sunshine prize was won by Co-worker, Mrs. M. Haslip.

This enjoyable evening closed with the serving of a pot luck supper.

ROSLIN UNITED W.A.

The Woman's Association of Roslin United Church sponsored a bazaar and appetizing supper in the Anglican parish hall, on Wednesday evening, Nov. 19th., with Rev. A. C. Campbell as chairman for the occasion.

A program lasting for one and a half hours was well received, and the participants were thanked by Rev. F. C. Beazer of the Roslin Anglican Church, and by the chairman. Miss B. McConnell contributed several piano solos, Mrs. Percy MacMullen of Mt. Pleasant, (Rawdon), gave a number of humorous readings and dramatic numbers including "The Pilot of the Plains", by E. Pauline Johnston; and Mrs. Marguerite McMullen was heard in five vocal solos, concluding with "The Lord's Prayer".

A sale of aprons, needlework and home-made candy added to the proceeds of the evening, which were very gratifying to the sponsors of the project.

Birds Find Tree Trunks Are Well-Stocked Larder

By GRAHAM VAIL
(In the Windsor Star)

The birds of the tree trunks are the White-Breasted Nuthatch, the Red-breasted Nuthatch, the Brown Creeper and the Downy and Hairy Woodpeckers.

It is easy to be fascinated by these birds. They look very comical indeed, moving constantly and deliberately, up and down the trunks of trees searching for a juicy morsel to whet their appetites. The nut-hatches are the only birds that habitually travel head-first from the top of the tree downward, while the Brown Creeper always begins at the bottom of the tree and spirals upwards toward the top.

Trees Are Bare

The best time to observe their antics is in the winter, when the trees are bare. All of these birds may be found on trees in your own city. The Hairy Woodpecker, Brown Creeper and the Red-Breasted Nuthatch, however, are more frequently found in large woodlots in the surrounding country, although occasionlly they are seen in the cities, especially in the Springtime.

Now let is tune our ears to hear the notes of these birds. The note of the White-Breasted Nuthatch is truly an amazing thing. This bird, though very small, has a loud raucous call—yank-yank-yank! Once a person identifies it with the bird he will not easily forget either the note or the bird.

The other extreme can be found in the note of the Brown Creeper, which is so faint a person must be close to it and listen with undivided attention to catch the sound. It is sometimes described as a faint lisping chirp. All of these birds have their individual notes, which, when learned, identifies them and tells of their presence in your vicinity. One of the quickest ways to find birds is to know and listen for their notes. These are usually heard long before the bird is seen.

The nuthatches and Brown Creeper are rarely seen away from tree trunks, but the two woodpeckers sometimes wander away in search of food. The Downy, for instance, is frequently seen industriously digging and devouring European corn borers from corn stalks. It is one of the few birds that are able to extricate the borers, although the crow is also adept in securing them from the stalks. These two birds eat about 25 percent of the borers overwintering in corn stalks.

Larder Well Filled

The uninitiated would wonder what the birds could find to eat on the limbs and trunks of trees. These, in truth, are well stocked larders, with each type of food neatly arranged in layers so that each bird can obtain its food in its own characteristic manner. There are worms, which are the larvae of wood-boring insects, within the root of the trunk and underneath the thick bark. These can be secured by the woodpeckers, but not by the creepers or nuthatches, because the woodpeckers have a chisellike bill and a barbed tongue, which enables them to actually dig into the trunk and extract the worms.

Under the loose bark and in the crevices are numerous kinds of hibernating insects, their eggs, larvae and cocoons. These can be secured by the nuthatches and the creepers. The nuthatch has a comparatively stout, straight, sharp bill, which enables it to secure the larger, more exposed morsels, while the creeper has a long ,slender, curved bill, allowing it to get into the smaller, deeper crevices not generally reached by the nuthatch.

Insect eggs, for example, which are very small and usually well hidden, make up a large part of the creepers' diet than they do that of the nuthatch. Also it must be remembered that the nuthatch is usually going down the trunk and the creeper going up, so that they search for the trunk for food from different angles. Nature has provided for and made sure that among the group of birds living on tree trunks there will be as little competition for food as possible, and so has endowed each with different anatomical details and habits.

MOOSE INVADERS

Midland, Ont. — (CP) — Visitors to the fall woods in the Honey Harbor area near here may get a taste of the wild when they find themselves looking at the horns of a large moose or two. Several have been seen in the area and a close-up view estimated one at 800 pounds.

Three women and a girl were rescued from this burning home of the Lepke family in Brantford yesterday by a human ladder. Mrs. Fred Lepke got an unidentified man to stand on her shoulders and take the trapped persons from second-storey windows. Firemen are seen fighting blaze which left the Lepkes destitute.

June Lepke, 12, and her grandmother, Mrs. Alex Lepke, 70, were saved. Family's slender hoard of cash was also destroyed in fire.

Stirling

Past Grands' Club

Stirling, (Special.)—The Past Grands' Club of Laurel Rebekah Lodge were entertained at the home of Mrs. R. B. Duffin last Wednesday night. Among the guests were Mrs. Isabelle Carr, Rebekah Assembly Warden of Toronto and Mrs. Eva Turvey, D.D.P., of Belleville. A program of duets, readings and contests was presented under the direction of Mrs. Major Fraser and Mrs. F. McKee.

Mrs. Sam Elliott voiced the thanks of the members to Mrs. Duffin for her hospitality and for the privilege of meeting Sister Carr and Sister Turvey. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Walter Warren's, on December 10th.

St. Paul's Y.P.U.

The regular meeting of St. Paul's Y.P.U. was held in the Sunday School rooms on Monday evening. The President, Miss Georgina Huffman turned the worship service over to Mr. Harold Hagerman. A poem, "Building God's Kingdom" was read by Miss Roberta Good.

Mr. Harold Hagerman gave the story of the hymn "In Christ There Is No East or West".

The topic for the evening was well prepared by Mr. Jack Bush, Christian Missions convener, who spoke on how the Bible was translated into English.

Mr. Glenn Bush had charge of the recreation period.

Special W.M.S. Service

A special W.M.S .service was held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church last Sunday evening. Mrs. W. J. Turner of Burnbrae, was the special speaker and delivered a very inspiring address on missionary work in India. Mrs. R. A. Hermiston, president of St. Andrew's W.M.S. conducted the service and was assisted by Miss Gena Spry, Mrs. W. L. Anderson and Mrs. M. Tompkins.

Special music rendered by the choir under the direction of Mrs. R. H. Williams included the Anthem "I was Glad" with Misses Marilyn Eggleton. Arline Tummon and Mary Agnes Fox singing trio parts while an orchestra composed of Jack Bush, Benny Mason, Ross Mason, and Ross Hermiston accompanied on the piano by Marilyn Eggleton rendered "The Old Rugged Cross". Miss Barbara Fargey recited "In Flanders Fields". during the service.

Mission Band

Mission Band was held in the Sunday School rooms on Monday November 10th with about thirty-five present.

A party for the children was given. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Good, Mrs. E. Luery, Mrs. Warren and Mrs. Irish.

Says Production and Sale of Margarine Would Disrupt

Strathroy, Ont., Nov. 21—(CP) Production and sale of oleomargarine would disrupt the "agricultural economics" of Canada, a meeting of Middlesex cream producers was told here Wednesday by R. W. Morrison of Alvinston, secretary of the Ontario Cream Producers' Association.

A resolution was passed asking the Ontario Federation of Agriculture to counteract the present campaign for butter substitutes.

SCHOOL ON WHEELS

Lundar, Man. —(CP)— School children here pile into two railway coaches every day but unless they use their imagination they don't move very far. They were loaned to the district school board after fire last July destroyed the original school building. Equipped with desks, they will continue to serve as classrooms until a new school is built.

Farmers Disposing Of Brood Sows, Unfinished Hogs

Bay of Quinte district farmers are reluctant to pay current high prices for grain to feed to hogs and are disposing of their brood sows and unfinished hogs, according to the weekly crop report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

The report states that heavy shipments of brood sows and gilts are continuing, while packing plants report slaughtering of sows has increased.

Feed dealers report a slump in the sale of concentrates, but in general are able to dispose of what coarse grains they can get.

Platinum: King of Metals

(By C. Lester Walker, condensed from Coronet Magazine.)

In a big Ohio factory where glass wool is spun to insulate your modern home against Winter's winds, research men were faced with a serious problem. Hot glass, liquid as quicksilver, was being shot through nozzles made of a variety of materials. But the heat, equal to volcanic lava, made all the nozzles warp and clog.

The chemists were baffled. Then one day a new material was tried—a metal never used before. It worked a miracle. The new glass-wool fibres were the longest, the most uniform that the plant had ever produced. And the nozzles never clogged.

For days the laboratory men went around exclaiming: "The new nozzle is something: Two thousand degrees, Fahrenheit!"

And just recently, at La Guardia Field, I watched a plane mechanic working on a Stratoliner motor. He held up a spark plug.

"Here's one that can take it," he said. "It's got the right kind of points. Must be some magic metal."

But strictly speaking, it isn't magic at all. It is simply the eons-old grayish metal which, in our day, government, science, industry and even the romantic young men who save up to buy engagement rings have come to appreciate for its extraordinary qualities. It is platinum—one of the most indispensable metals of modern times. So indispensable, in fact, that a prominent chemist recently remarked: 'If it hadn't been for platinum, we might have lost the war."

He was referring to platinum in the explosives industry. Our wartime explosives—like TNT—were manufactured largely from nitric acid, and our vast nitric-acid program was made possible only through enlisting platinum for the duration. No other metal could stand up against this corrosive acid, which is an essential ingredient in the chemical process of manufacturing high explosive.

Today, platinum is serving in countless ways to expand peacetime productive capacity: ways, incidentally, which are often phenomenal. For instance, nothing out-performs platinum in feats of precision.

Typical is what platinum "wire" used by General Electric will do. This wire is so fine it has to be picked up with a pointed glass rod, the tip of which measures less than 1/1000th of an inch.

The wire itself gauges 13/1,000,000ths of an inch—or 25,000 strands to equal a human hair. Actually a single thread is invisible. But if it is mounted between glass plates—which is one way G.E. uses it—you can see its shadow!

It is wire like this which will mark off invisible squares on a lens of the giant 200-inch telescope to be installed on Mt. Palomar in California. It takes platinum to give this finess; and the finess is necessary because of the precision of measurement and the tremendous magnification which will result when the giant 'scope is turned against a distant star.

Surgeons are now using platinum in bone-replacement operations and for braces to a shattered joint, because the metal rarely corrodes. And dentists have discovered it to be an irreplaceable aid, because pure platinum is the most workable and platinum alloy the strongest of materials. Often platinum will soften and harden alternately, without loss of strength.

When someone's front teeth have been knocked out, it is "anchor loops"—tiny flat eyelets of tough platinum—which holds the new bridgework in place.

Radar, radio, the X-ray, sun lamps, even the common electric light bulb, wouldn't be with us today were it not for platinum. "Lack of it would have held back developments in the electrical industry for decades," engineers say. And rayon- How many American women realize that the shimmering evening dresses they wear to dinner parties likely owe their existence to platinum?

Back of today's story of how platinum came of age is a colorful history. Spanish conquistadors, searching for gold in Mexico's rivers, first discovered the metal four centuries ago. In gold-bearing sands it appeared as gray grains and was tossed away as worthless. Not until 170 years later, when a French-sponsored expedition found the metal in Colombia, was it given a name from the Spanish platina, "little silver".

Then, for another long stretch, platinum's capabilities were appreciated chiefly by men of science in their laboratories. When they learned how impervious it was to heat, they made crucibles of it for conducting experiments with molten rock or glass. The fierce heats melted other metals, but platinum stood up unaffected.

As this is written, the price of pure platinum is $72 an ounce—$37 more than gold. But this is not the top figure in the metal market, Iridium and rhodium, two metals of what chemists call the 'platinum family', bring $125.

Small quanties of these top-priced metals are mixed with platinum to make special alloys. They produce super-hardness, ultra-resistance to heat. And despite their high cost, they are responsible for so many manufacturing economies that they can be used extensively in industry.

Ten years ago, platinum was 100 to 200 times as rare as gold, but wartime demands and now the demands of postwar industry have increased production and, hence, the world's supply. About 775,000 ounces are produced in a peak year, as compared to 27,000,000 ounces of gold. The British mine some in South Africa, Yankee dredge companies produce still more in South America. But major supplies come from Russia and Canada.

Yet the U.S. in peace or war, is the world's largest user. So today our top military minds recall what Germany did before World War II. The Nazi hoarded the metal and stopped publishing import figures many months before invading Poland. The Japs years before Pearl Harbor, ordered all citizens who had the means to buy platinum rings and jewelry.

For the gray-white metal is a strategic metal, and in wartime a lack of it might easily spell the difference between defeat and victory. Flying Fortresses bombed Germany midway in the Allied air offensive against the Nazis, the engines conked out at crucial times.

The trouble, engineers discovered, lay in the sparkplug points. They overheated and often disintegrated, for lack of oxygen when planes were forced to extra-high altitudes to avoid flak. Somehow, a tougher and stronger metal had to be found. The answer was an alloy of 20 per cent iridium and 80 per cent of the metal you see in every jeweler's window.

LOUDEST ERUPTION

The loudest noise the world has ever heard is believed to have been the eruption of the volcano Krakatoa, in 1883, heard 3,000 miles away.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was helping ma carry things home from the market, including a pround of seedless raisins, and I said, Hay, ma, how many raisins do you bet there is in this pound packidge?

I'm not in a betting mood, thanks, ma said, and I said, But jimminy, ma, wouldn't you like to know exactly how many raisins there is in a pound?

Why, do you think somebody will ever ask me for land sakes; ma said, and I said, Sure, ma, there's libel to be a guessing contest sometime, and if you knew the answer you'd win the ferst prize and maybe get your name in the paper. Let's both guess, ma, let's have a contest rite now, I said.

I'd advise you to try guessing something more practical, sutch as how many helpings of dizzert you'll get at dinner tonight if your hands aren't any cleaner than they were last night, ma said. I'll even make it easier for you by telling you the answer in advance, she said.

Probably meening no helpings, and I said, Aw, ma, just make one guess, and I'll make one, I said.

Now what's the sense in a lot of idle guessing about a subject that will never have an answer as far as we're concerned? ma said, and I said, Sure it'll have an answer, ma. I know a perfect way of finding out. I'll make a little hole in one corner of the packidge and start eating every 5th raisin and putting the other four in my pockit till the box is empty. Then I'll put the left raisins back in the box and multiply the number I've eaten by five, and that'll give the exact number in a pound. What's your guess, ma? I said.

Oh, I guess you can eat a small uncounted handfull right now if you think that will be sufficient to change the subject, ma said.

Which it was, making me feel at least partly lucky.

A.A.U. REJECTS MOTION TO RAISE JR. AGE LIMIT

Proposers Claim Boys of 19 Should Not Compete Against Oldsters

By LORNE BRUCE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Lethbridge, Alta., Nov. 21 — (CP) — Delegates to the annual convention of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada have rejected a recommendation from the Central Ontario branch that the union's junior age limit be boosted one year to bring 19-year-olds in that division.

With an average of about 25 delegates in attendance at a late sitting last night, the convention heard Ed Temoin of Vancouver say that in British Columbia professionals were being given "non-competing" amateur cards and a statement from vice-president N. C. Hart of London, Ont., that the union gives no such authorization.

The convention postponed until today discussion of a resolution from the Central Ontario Branch advocating "broken-time" payments for competitors in national or international tournaments and urging that the union urge international amateur authorities to adopt similar regulations.

The most prolonged debate of the evening came on the motion urging a change in the junior age limit, and it ended with President George C. Machum of Montreal suggesting no objection would be made if junior-age athletics competed in graduated age groups in provincial meets, but such action would not be advisable in Dominion championship tournaments.

Bob Somers of Toronto, secretary of the central Ontario branch argued for adoption of the motion which would raise the present limit — 18 years — to 19 years and break down the junior groups to juveniles for those under 18, midgets for those under 16 and bantams for those under 14.

Somers' contended most sports, including hockey and baseball, allowed 19-year-old to compete as juniors, and that track and field is the only sport where an athlete is a senior at 19. He claimed boosting the junior age limit would increase acitivity in junior ranks and avoid having 19-year-olds impair their health by competing against older athletes.

Troubles Never Come Singly

Minneapolis, Nov. 21 (AP) — You think you have troubles? Here is what has happened in the last couple of weeks to George Masters, an editor for The Associated Press in Minneapolis Bureau:

1. His daughter underwent a minor for a foot infection.
2. His wife went to a hospital for a major operation.
3. His daughter (same one) was quarantined with scarlet fever; Masters moved to a hotel.
4. He called the fire department when it appeared a faulty furnace was going to set his house on fire.
5. The climax—the insurance adjuster and the furnace repairman refuse to come near the house because of the quarantine.

TWO KILLED AS CAR CRASHES TRAIN

St. Hyacinthe, Que., Nov. 21—(CP)—Two young men were killed and four others seriously injured last night, when an automobile crashed into a moving train near here. The dead are: Oliver Voghel, 20, of St. Hyacinthe, driver of the car and Ambroise Jodoin, 19, of Ste. Madeline, passenger in the vehicle.

BEWARE OF ARGO BOUNCE TIP GIVEN TROJANS

Toronto Team Made 5-1 Favorites to Defeat the Ottawa Squad

By JACK MITCHELL
(Canadian Pess Staff Writer)

Toronto, Nov. 21. (CP)— Tip to the Trojans: the Argos can be beaten, they're just 24 football players same as you are. But beware of the Argonaut bounce.

It's an elusive quantity, this secret weapon of the champions that explodes like an atom bomb. But it's real enough, as the record shows, and potent enough to sink a team like Ottawa Trojans, inexperienced in matters of sudden-death playoffs with the Argos.

The bounce is one of the reasons—not all by any means—why the crowd of some 19,000 who'll pack Varsity Stadium Saturday have installed Argos 5-1 favorites to win the Eastern Canada final and go on to try for their third straight Dominion championship.

The fans may be surprised, at that, to find it turn into a battle of the bounce. The Trojans showed some of the same quality when they finished third with a spotty record in the Ontario Union, then swept into the Eastern final with upset victories over Toronto Balmy Beach and Hamilton Wildcat.

Some folk would rather apply the term "Argo luck" to the bounce, which opponents claim even extends to the way the ball itself behaves. But Coach Tedder Morris will have none of that luck stuff.

"We got the best material and that makes us the best team," the little man contends. "We can't win them all. O.K. we lose some. But the important thing is for the boys to be in the right frame of mind to win when it counts."

Right there may be the explanation for the bounce. You could see it last night as the Champs worked through a fast one-hour drill, polishing up pass plays and timing. They worked hard but they kidded a lot and they fooled in the dressingroom afterwards.

"It was never like this on Alouettes," said Eric Fleet the bulky snapback who played last season in the businesslike atmosphere of Lew Hayman's Montreal Club. "I never played on a club with so much team spirit."

Clubs Invited To Attend Ski Training School

(By The Canadian Press)

Invitations have been sent to 29 member clubs of the Canadian Amateur Ski Association throughout Ontario to send representatives to the Canadian Travelling Ski Schools for training in skiing.

Those who pass the week-long course, organized and supported by the Ontario Department of Travel and Publicity, will be listed as qualified amateur instructors by the C.A.S.A. The schools will be held at Huntsville from Jan. 11 to 17, and at Fort William Jan. 18-24. Some 80 amateur and professional instructors are expected to attend.

Sale of the American Association Baseball Club, St. Paul, to the Brooklyn Dodgers was announced yesterday. The amount of money involved in the deal was not revealed.

Jake Lamotta, the Bronx fighter whose knockout by Billy Fox of Philadelphia last Friday is under investigation by the State Athletic Commission and the New York Grand jury, underwent two lengthy sessions yesterday in the District Attorney's office.

Also appearing for questioning were Frankie Carbo, described by the District Attorney's office as an underworld link with boxing; Frankie Palermo, manager of Fox, and Bill Daly, who currently handles Lee Savold and Pat Comiskey.

Carbo told reporters that if there had been a "fix" in the Lamotta-Fox bout he "knows nothing about it."

Officials of the Windsor A.K.O. football team have announced that the club will enter the Junior O.R.F.U. playoffs starting Saturday, filling the berth vacated when the Assumption College Purple Raiders withdrew from competition after winning the district championship last weekend.

Plans call for the A.K.O. club to play a sudden-death quarter-final tilt in Petrolia Saturday afternoon against the Petrolia Hard Oils.

Port Edward and London Kiwanis are also playing off a sudden death quarterfiual game in London, Saturday and the winner of this series is likely to meet the winner of the A.K.O.-Petrolia series in the semi-final round. Hamilton Wildcats have a bye to the final.

A protest by Calgary Stampeders over the poorness of markings on the Winnipeg field as the Stamps lost the Western football final to the Blue Bombers 10-3 last Saturday has been disallowed by the Western Interprovincial Rugby Union. The League Executive found that the markings were bad but the Calgary should have protested before the game got under way.

Frank McAloran, manager of Belfast Flyweight Rinty Monaghan, said in Belfast yesterday he is seeking legal advice on the decision of the British Boxing Board of Control to reinstate Jackie Paterson as World Flyweight champion. Monaghan defeated Dado Marino of Honolulu last Summer in a bout recognized by the National Boxing Association of the United States as a world title fight.

Record Period of Sunshine Blown Nova Scotia Way

Dog days in November and these schoolboy footballers at Halifax, N.S., find the sunshine a little too warm for strenuous exercise. While west coast Canadians sloshed through the heaviest rains on record, Nova Scotians basked in one of the longest periods of continuous sunshine ever experienced. At supposedly dampish Halifax the sun failed to shine on only six days in three and a half months. October rainfall, 9/100 of an inch, was the smallest in the history of local weather records.

GALT ROCKETS DEFEAT GUELPH BY 7-3 COUNT

Winners Outscored Losers in Every Period and Looked Best

(By The Canadian Press)

Galt Rockets appear to be awakening from an early season lethargy. Last night at Galt they administered a 7-3 trouncing to the strong Guelph Biltmores in an Ontario Hockey Association junior A fixture for their third win in nine starts.

They had also tied Stratford Kroehlers in two games and are deadlocked with Toronto St. Michael's Majors in sixth place — each with eight points.

Galt outscored Biltmores every period, taking a 3-2 first-period lead, bouncing it to 5-2 in the second frame and tallying two to Guelph's one in the final session.

Harry Marchand led Galt scorers with two goals. Lyle Gibson, Bob Robertson, Harry Pidhirny, George Bertram and Wiggy Wylie tallied Rockets' other counters. Guelph scorers were Tatter McClellan, Thompson and George Ferguson.

Tonight St. Michael's Majors meet St. Catharines Teepees in the lone junior game.

In the senior A circuit Toronto Marlboros will try to maintain their top position when they visit Kitchener - Waterloo Flying Dutchmen; Hamilton Tigers will be gunning for top spot when they go to Stratford and Brantford's Redmen are hoping for their first victory when they visit the Hamilton Patricias.

Car Tries to Take Store by Surprise Smashes Window

Bancroft (Special) — Wednesday just before noon an automobile tried to take the 5 cent to $1 store on Hastings Street by surprise by via the store window. Mr. J. Flynn's buick from Bird's Creek was standing in front of the store while Mr. Jack Maxwell and Mr. Milton McGhee were doing some repairs to the raidio in the car. In some unaccountable way they touched the starter button and the car shot ahead over the curb and sidewalk, smashing into the large plate glass window breaking it and also the transom window above and then didn't come to a stop until it had shoved back two corner pillars and smashing a good deal of glassware that was in the window display. It took most of the afternoon to get the building front back into its former shape and get the gaping hole covered before night fall. It will be some days before the damage will be totally repaired and ready for the Christmas displays.

Adams and Boucher Differ In Opinions Over Where Les Canadiens Will Finish

Detroit's General Manager Thinks Habitants Will Make Top Position

By ROBERT CLARKE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

One guess is practically as good as another at this stage on which club is likely to finish on top in the National Hockey League, and it's interesting to note that not even the men close to the situation are able to agree.

Frank Boucher, the manager-coach of New York Rangers, went on record some weeks back with the forecast that Montreal Canadiens would finish out of the playoffs. Boucher called Toronto Maple Leafs, Boston Bruins, Detroit Red Wings and his own Rangers as the teams that would make the grade.

On the other hand, General Manager Jack Adams of Wings feels Canadiens will finish on top. At least that was his opinion a week or so ago when queries for his views. Adams tossed second and third places to Leafs and Bruins with the three other clubs, including his Wings, fighting it out for the last playoff spot.

But Adams still injected a heeding note into his predictions. He said he actually wouldn't be surprised to see any club finish in first place, even the lowly Chicago Black Hawks. The portly major-domo of the Wings felt it would be a "dog-eat-dog race right down to the wire".

Hawks began to percolate around the time Adams came out with his estimate of the situation, aided by the famous five-for-two trade that gave three forwards and two defencemen from Leafs. This weekend they could take a big jump up the ladder and, ironically enough, at the expense of Wings.

Hawks and Wings clash Saturday night in Detroit and again Sunday night in Chicago. Two victories could lift Hawks out of the cellar, providing they had the co-operation of a loss by Rangers against Canadiens in Montreal, Saturday night. Rangers only see action once this weekend.

Leafs, like Rangers, only engage in one contest during the two nights. They play Bruins in Toronto Saturday night with first place at stake. They'll enter the game with Bruins holding 17 points and Leafs 16. Bruins move on from Toronto for a Sunday night clash in Montreal against Canadiens.

St. Paul Scores 5-1 Victory Over Houston

(By The Associated Press)

Big Gus Schwartz knocked in three goals at Houston last night and combined with goalie Jack McGill to give St. Paul Saints a 5-1 victory over Houston Texans of the United States Hockey League.

McGill was credited with 38 stops, successfully halting all Houston drives except Marcel Dheere's first period goal.

The game was the only contest of the night and left Houston tied for first in the southern Division of the league. The Saints remain in second place in the northern half, six points behind the leading Minneapolis Millers. No games are scheduled tonight.

In a move to add strength, Tulsa Oilers announced the acquisition of goalie Nelson Little and right wing Ducky Skinner. Little came from Fort Worth in a three team deal in exchange for Tommy Fowler who had been sent to San Diego. Skinner came to the Oilers in exchange for left wing Andy Brown who was sent to Houston.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

Belleville hockey dnafe. . . Belleville hockey fandom saw what will in all probability represent Canada in Olympic hockey a few days ago when the Ottawa RCAF (Candidates) played the Trenton Flyers in an exhibition game here.

For Air Force headquarters announced today in a special release the names of thirteen hockey players "tentatively" selected to represent the Dominion in the forthcoming winter hockey classics in England and Switzerland. From a total of sixty potential players, Coach George Boucher selected thirteen of the seventeen who will eventually form the team. Boucher stated that "This is a strictly a tentative selection and, if before the team sails, other players prove to be better than the ones named today, they will be taken to the Olympics."

No goalkeeper is noted in the list. Five custodians are battling for the position, so apparently the competition is keen as Boucher did not announce any netminding selection.

Those selected and all were in action here against Trenton are: Corporal Jack Seymour, Woodroffe, Ottawa, Ont.; Louis LeCompte, Ottawa; Stan Molinski, Ottawa; Jack Maitland, Winnipeg; Orval Gravelle, Aylmer, Ont.; Len Beaton, North Battleford, Sask.; Corporal Irving Taylor, Wrightville, P. Q.; Hubert Brooks, Montreal; Tommy Moore, Montreal; Roy Forbes, Vancouver; Sgt. Dick Thomas, Whitby; and Corporal Patsy Guzzo, Ottawa.

It looks as though "tentative" or not, that is the squad with the addition of four others which will carry the Maple Leaf into world hockey battle in the Olympics. The Air Force hockey barrel is pretty well scraped, as there has been plenty of time to select the best of the flyer players.

• • •

With all due respect to the RCAF squad, from the exhibition we saw here against the Trenton Flyers, the Belleville Intermediate "A's" could have given the Olympics aces and spades, in actual competition. In all fairness to them, the Ottawa Flyers, have not been playing as a whole due to selection and tryout regulations, althought they are entered in an Ottawa hockey league. Once selected the squad will go through a strenuous training grind and be given plenty of exhibition games before they leave for England on January 3rd.

While Canada will not be represented by the best hockey talent procurable, it must be remembered that the team which will carry the Dominion colors will be the best eligible to play under the Olympic rules. And it should be borne in mind also that these gallant young men on whose shoulders rests the hockey honor of Canada, will go out there once more "fearless and unafraid" to do battle against the best Europe can produce , with Uncle Sam's "amateurs" thrown in for good meosure.

The American Olympic Committee has announced that several college hockey stars will be tried out for spots on the team which will represent the gentlemen with the whiskers. If the number of athletic scholarships that have been dangled under the noses of Canadian athletes by American colleges is indicative of the system used south of the border, then that Olympic oath may bet a good "going-over" according to Brundage ideas of amateurism. But then an athletic scholarship should not be classed in the same category as the gift of a cream-colored convertible. Or should it?

Cobourgs hockey edition of their Galloping Ghosts made no mistake about carving themselves a playoff spot in their section of the District Hockey League last night. They defeated the Tweed crew in their half of last night's twin bill at Memorial Arena while the speedy Flyers from Trenton drew even with the local Rockets on the top perch of the "A" section ladder.

Next Tuesday's games sees the Belleville Hornets tangle with the Point Anne crew while in the other half of the dual meet, Campbellford takes on the Trenton Hockey Club team, if they are still in the league. Point Anne expects to add some strength to the goal-keeping department and if they get the player they are after they should make things interesting for the saucy Hornets.

In a post mortem interview with Dink Carroll, sports editor of the Montreal Gazette, Dick Irvin, boss of the Canadiens said that some changes can be expected when his Habs meet soon. Irvin was not at all pleased with the club's double defeat over the weekend.

Some of the club's stars will be benched and the Punch Line might be broken up. "The team has fallen apart badly," Irvin wasc quoted as saying. He also stated that the team wasn't clicking and the management was talking trades.

When Boston Bruins whacked nine goals past Bill Durnan last Saturday night as they trounced Montreal Canadiens 9-1, it was the worst shellacking the Canucks had suffered in five years and the worst night Durnan has had in more than 250 N.H.L. games.

Durnan's worst previous effort was during Montreal's 8-5 loss in New York March 17, 1946. The last time the Habitants took such a trouncing was December 17, 1942, when Toronto Maple Leafs peppered goalie Paul Bibeault for an 8-1 victory.

YANKEES VOICE CRY OF ALARM OVER THIRD DEAL

Browns Trade First Baseman and Pitcher to the Indians for Players and Cash

St. Louis, Nov. 21 — (AP) — St. Louis Browns turned another player deal yesterday — their third in less than a week — as American League rivals expressed growing concern and New York Yankees announced they would seek a "complete investigation."

As Brownie general manager Bill De Witt plunged ahead with plans to lift the club out of the cellar, provide new faces and acquire much-needed cash, the Yanks declared they would ask Commissioner A. B. Chandler and President Will Harridge of the American League to open a thorough inquiry into the situation.

De Witt declined comment on the Yankee statement which came after the Brownies' latest transaction sent two more of their regulars — first baseman Walt Judnich and pitcher Bob Muncrief — to Cleveland Indians for pitcher Bryan Stephens, outfielder Joe Frazier, a play still to be named and an indicated $25,000 or more in cash.

The Yankees, in a statement signed by Daniel R. Topping their president, said they did not want "to see the American League become a seven-club league," and that they believed "something radical must be done to bring about discontinuation of these trades."

Chandler and Harridge had no comment.

Connie Mack, who disposed of most of Philadelphia Athletics' top pitchers and his great catcher, Mickey Cochrane, during the winter of 1933, voiced the opinion that the deals with the Red Sox "apparently have wrecked" the Browns and "are not going to help our league any."

He joined Steve O'Neill of Detroit Tigers and Bill Veeck of Cleveland in the belief that the Browns' deals with Boston have given the Red Sox the green light on the 1948 pennant road.

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Nov. 21 — (CP) — In times of adversity a hockey player's best friend would appear to be the sports editor of the home-town newspaper.

Joe Klukay, hard-working Toronto Maple Leaf forward, found that out this week. Klukay, who hails from Sault Ste. Marie, came in for a little criticism from the experts on a recent broadcast of a National Hockey League game, and promptly found Emil (Sault Star) Rajnovich in his corner, waving several towels and a medium-sized cudgel.

One of a number of wing men tried on Toronto's new "third line" centred by fleet Max Bentley, Joe was branded as "inferior" by the commentators as he sought to adapt his style of play to that of the high-scoring newcomer from Chicago.

Frequently playing on his wrong wing, Joe, a left-handed shot, certainly hasn't hit the scoring columns as regularly as some of his mates. But Raj asserts in rebuttal that the Leafs have no more valuable forward to do a competent fore-checking job when the team is short-handed.

The penalty-killing role, increasingly important this year as referees crack down harder in enforcing the rule book, has been largely filled by Joe and veteran Nick Metz. That job, says Raj, is just as important as getting the goals for the home team.

The Spartan Treatment

Bill (Owen Sound Sun-Times) Dane, who has watched plenty of hometown players get hurt in Ontario Hockey Association senior games, suggests the ancient Spartans may have had the remedy for the coach's headache.

The Spartans, it seems, used to put their seven-year-old boys out in the cold and let them shift for themselves. If they were tough enough, they came through and made the first team for the big game against the Athenians. If they weren't tough enough, it was just too bad.

Cobourg, Flyers, Defeat Bloomfield, Tweed In District Hockey Twin Bill

Lakeshore Team Wins Third Straight Game While Trenton Airmen Now Share Top Slot With Juniors

The hockey edition of the Cobourg Galloping Ghosts are now sitting pretty on top of the "B" section of the Belleville District Hockey Association by virtue of their clean-cut 8-5 win over the Tweed crew last night while the R.C.A.F. Flyers drew into a second place tie with the Belleville Juniors when they defeated the luckless Bloomfield Sky Chiefs by an 8-2 count in the first-half of last night's twin attraction.

RCAF 8, Bloomfield 2

The speeding RCAF Flyers raced through to a somewhat easy victory over the Bloomfield Sky Chiefs in the curtain raiser leading at the end of the first period by a 3-1 count and taking over the situation completely in the second innings when they scored five goals with not a return from the Prince Edward club. In a desperate third period struggle in an attempt to whittle down the Flyers commanding lead the Chiefs held the airmen off the score-sheet and scored the only goal of the period.

Brack Brackenbury opened the scoring in the first period before the referee's whistle had died away, ramming the rubber behind Parks in the Chiefs' goal at the 47 second mark. His linemate Miller made it two a couple of minutes later on a neat solo effort but Bloomfield's Mosley got that one back on a drive through the air force defence.

"Bull" Bullock put the air lads two up at the half way mark when he took Ault's pass from close-in to hit the rigging behind parks.

The Flyers turned on the heat in the second period and had things all their own way from a scoring viewpoint shoving no less than five rubbers behind Parks while his mates battled desperately to stem the rising tide of counters. Edwards scored twice in this period for Flyers with Brackenbury, Bullock and Christire also denting the twine.

The Chiefs battled desperately in the third chukker and held the speeding Flyers off the scoreboard. They scored the only marker of the period when R. Cork beat McKenna cleanly from close in with Platford and Hickey getting assists on the play.

Cobourg 8, Tweed 5

Ed Haynes' Cobourg Pavilions, as they are now dubbed, consolidated their position in first place in the "B" section of the league with their third straight win of the season over Tweed. The lakeshore lads also assured themselve of a playoff spot in their section with their 8-5 win last night.

Haynes, who was dubbed a "slow-skating" forward by a fellow sports - writer in his home town apparently changed his oil, for the Cobourg captain pulled off the hat trick as did a teammate Tom Hogan.

The first period was closely fought with Cobourg opening the score at the one-minute mark with Baker doing the honors. Leale evened the matter for Tweed a dozen minutes later pushing the biscuit past Hoselton in the Cobourg nets on a neat play. Haynes got his first goal of the evening two minutes later on a neat individual effort.

The squads split scoring honors in the second period with Cobourg forging ahead in the first thirteen minutes on goals by Haynes and Hogan, but a fighting Tweed team rallied to even the scoring on Leale's second goal of the night and another by Rivers. The period ended with Cobourg on the long end of a 4-3 count.

The game developed into a wide-open affair in the third period with no less than six goals rattling the twine. It was a nip-and-tuck affair with the lakeshore lads holding the edge, and taking a two-goal lead seconds after the period opened. Tweed got that one back when Bruce Gehan took Stewart's pass to ram home the rubber, but they faded before a Cobourg onslaught that netted the winners three straight goals and put the game in the bag.

Tweed battled desperately in an effort to whittle down the lead and pushed the rubber past Hoselton for their fifth goal of the night with but two minutes to go. The game had its rough spots with Referee St. Louis and Don Lee dishing out no less than eleven penalties.

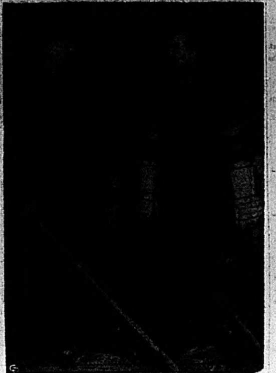
R.C.A.F. HOCKEY TEAM TRAINS FOR OLYMPICS



George "Buck" Boucher, coach of Canada's Olympic hockey team, all R.C.A.F. personnel, talks matters over with his son, Corporal Frank Boucher, in Ottawa's Auditorium before beginning a practice session. George is coaching the team in Canada, and Frank will take over the coaching duties when the team leaves for Switzerland. George Boucher played professional hockey in Ottawa, Montreal, Chicago and St. Louis. Last year he came out of retirement to take over the coaching of the Ottawa Senators. Frank played professional hockey in Philadelphia and Providence before joining the R.C.A.F. in 1941.

F.O. Hubert Brooks, 25-year-old, 165-lb. right winger for Air Force Headquarters, Ottawa, is another who made the grade for Canada's Olympic team. Brooks, who played high school and junior hockey in Montreal and with the U. S. Army All-Stars in Europe in 1946, has a fine war record. Shot down in April, 1942, he was captured by the Germans and eventually escaped three times. Twice recaptured, he finally succeeded in reaching Poland in April, 1943. There he joined the Polish underground army and fought with them until liberated by the Russians in January, 1945. For his gallant work he was awarded the Military Cross.

Fast-skating, shifty, LAC Tommy Moore, of Montreal, is one of the many airmen selected for R.C.A.F. Olympic hockey team now practising in Ottawa. Moore, a 25-year-old, 165-lb. rightwinger, played junior hockey with the Winged Wheelers in Montreal. His hockey style is similar to that of Fleming Mackell, former junior star now a member of the Toronto Maple Leaf organization.

BASKETBALL

The All-Stars captured their second win of the season in the House League Basketball games played at the Y M.C A. Gym last night when they downed the Monarchs 30-13. Fouls proved costly for the Monarchs and the winners took full advantage of them sinking 12 out of 21.

At half time the All-Stars led 13-4 and continued to hold their lead in the second half piling up 17 points to the Monarchs' 9. For the winners Al Saunders led his team with 11 points while Sid Spiegel with seven and Bill Muirhead with six did all the scoring for the lowly Monarchs.

Increase League Lead

In the second game the Dodgers increased their league lead when they whipped the Rough Riders 40-30. The Dodgers clinched first place with their win last night. Rough Riders and Monarchs are still deadlocked in second with six points apiece, and the All-Stars hold down the cellar. With each team still having two games to play it should be an interesting race for second place as the play-offs start December tenth.

Fight Losing Battle

At half-time in the Dodger-Rough Rider game the score stood at 17-15 for the Dodgers and it looked as if the high-flying Dodgers had met their match. The losers fought a hard but losing battle as several times they were within overcoming the Dodgers' slim lead. However, the winners got down to business in the dying minutes and made every shot count to win the game by ten points.

For the Dodgers, Al McBurney led the parade with 13 points and Lepore was next with ten. Basket shooting Lloyd Faulkner racked up half of the Rough Riders' 30 points, collecting 15. Al Galbraith was next with 13 and these two did nearly all the scoring in their losing cause.

Next Wednesday at 6 30 the All-Stars clash with the Dodgers and at 7 15 the Rough Riders and the Monarchs hook up in what promises to be a battle from start to finish as the winner will then take over undisputed possession of second place.

First Game

All- Stars— Buchanan, 4; Dolan, Burshaw, Jeffery 6, Burke 9, Saunders, 11, Kelly. Total 30.

Monarchs — Rose, Bongard, Spiegel 7, Muirhead 6, Trumpour, Creeggan Allison, McClay. Total 13.

Second Game

Dodgers—Button, 9, McBurney, 13, Scrymgeour 1, Rollins 6, Lepore 10, Sparling. Total 40.

Rough Riders — Galbraith 13, McMillan, Soule, 8, Morris, Pappas Faulkner 15, Total 30.

Referee—Burrell Morris.

Rockets Default

Only one game was played in the Girls' House League Basketball loop last night as the Rockets defaulted to the Yankees in the second game of their doubleheader.

In the first game the Comets, led by their captain Shirley Marinoff, took the Flashes by a six point margin winning 28-22. Marinoff collected 18 points of her team's total. For the Flashes Doreen Bell was the best getting nine points to lead her team.

The default in the second game put the Yankees well up in first place with six points and they have yet to lose a game. Comets follow in second place with four points and the Flashes are third with two. The Rockets hold down last place as they have yet to win a game.

Next Wednesday the Flashes and the Yankees meet in the opener at 8.00 with the Rockets and the Comets doing battle in the night-cap.

Comets—S. Marinoff 18, Ruttan 6; Tilker, Hinchliffe, M. Marinoff 4. Total 28.

Flashes—Bunnett 4, Bell 9, Flintoff 5, Markle 4, Jeffery. Total 22.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

(By The Associated Press)

Fall River, Mass. — Al Smith, 129, Boston, outpointed Jack (Spider) Armstrong, 133 1/2, Toronto (10).

Providence Reds Defeat Hornets To End Win Streak

(By The Canadian Press)

Pittsburgh Hornets today are still riding at the top of the American Hockey League's western division but they can no longer boast of their unbeaten streak.

At Providence last night, the 14-game unbeaten run came to an abrupt end when Reds came from behind to edge Pittsburgh 3-2. New Haven Ramblers and Indianapolis Capitals battled to a 2-2 deadlock in the only other A. H. fixture played last night.

Hornets gave Providence fans the impression that they intended to continue their string when they took a 2-0 lead on goals by Tod Sloan and Fleming Mackell. However, a 27-year-old veteran rightwinger had different ideas. The Red forward — Edward (Whitey) Prokop — scored two goals, one in the third period that proved to be the winning marker. Charles Scherza scored the other Providence goal.

Ramblers scored two goals in the third period to earn a stalemate with Indianapolis. Goals by scoring leader Cliff Simpson and Barry Sullivan gave Caps a 2-0 lead but Ed Slowinski and Bing Juckes scored for New Haven.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

For each type of attack, an attempt is made to invent some adequate defence. For each effective play in bridge, defenders try to find an upsetting method.

In expert play of the cards there are several clever methods by which unexpected tricks are developed. Adept opponents usually anticipate what is being tried and look for frustrating moves.

Many deals sent to me contain plays that deserve a spot in some special place. A very interesting defence play shows up in this one:

NORTH
♠Q 8 7 5 3
♥Q 7 6
♦A Q 7

WEST
♥J 2
♦J 10 8 2
♣A Q 7 6 4

EAST
♠10
♥K 10 9 4 3
♦6 5 3
♣J 10 8 2

SOUTH
♠A K J 9 2
♥A 8 5
♦K 9 4
♣K 5

The bidding is simple. South opens with one spade and north hops to four spades. That is all there is to the bidding. Unless the game jump by north needs a little explaining to your neighbors.

An immediate one-jump response promises two sure tricks with tricks enough to help make a game. A high jump to game shows enough tricks for a game without two sure tricks.

Does north have tricks enough to make such a responding jump? Yes, he has five tricks; four high and a short in clubs. With the five promised by opener they have the ten tricks for game in a major.

The opening lead from west is diamond jack. When dummy hand goes down, declarer in south can see four possible losers. Two of them are in clubs and two in hearts.

His first play is to strip as many suits as possible. If he can then throw west into the lead, maybe he can get a club lead. This would keep him from losing more than one club trick.

So, he takes a diamond, two trumps, two more diamonds, and the heart ace. Then he leads a small heart toward dummy queen. West would have had to be wary of his heart play to defeat the contract.

Let it not be said that you do not look ahead.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Nov. 21. (AP) — Billy DeWolf, Paramount's handy man for exploiting pictures, will be devoting most of his time to film-making next year.

The comic, who has made enough appearance tours to run for office, will next do the lavish color comedy of the 1910 period, "Father's Day". That's the one that Veronica Lake will be in. Then Bill does "Dear Wife", the "Dear Ruth" sequel with Joan Caulfied and Bill Holden. After that comes "Miss Ruggles of Red Gap", the remake with Betty Hutton.

Before all this, however, Bill has to do one more chore for the studio. He'll play on the holiday bill at the New York Paramount. "That means six shows on Christmas Day!" he moans.

Slack Support

Abbott and Costello head for England after "The Noose Hangs High" but there plans to do a film there have cooled. Instead, they'll do a four-week appearance tour for $60,000 with proceeds to go to their Youth Foundation here. The boys are disappointed with the lack of support from Hollywood. They have sunk $500,000 into the recreation centre and can't carry the load alone.

Barry Fitzgerald is much in demand after a couple of leisurely years. He is wanted by Warners to appear in the biography of Seabiscuit, which will star Geraldine Brooks. The news that he will be with Ty Power and Peggy Cummins in "That Old Magis" at 20th-Fox is premature, he told me on the "Sainted Sisters" set. "I am feeling very old aud very tired," he sighed. . .

Miscellany

Edmond O'Brien will team again with the Freddie Marches in "The Judge's Wife". They're now in "Another Part of the Forest". ● Benedict Bogeaus has good reason for expanding the Charles Laughton sequence, cut out of "A Miracle Can Happen", into a feature picture. He told me he has a half-million invested in the sequence.

SELLS "MIKES" OUTSIDE TOKYO PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS

Tokyo, Nov. 21 (AP)—An enterprising peddler selling microphones and amplifiers set up shop outside the parliament buildings yesterday.

When he proceeded to demonstrate, and his voice roared through the halls, five Diet members immediately bought sets at 9,500 yen (about $190 at the official exchange rate) apiece.

"Diet members have lots of loose cash," the peddler said complacently as he packed up.

Prime Minister King Deeply Impressed by Service in the Abbey

By JAMES McCOOK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Nov. 21. (CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King said in an interview that the Royal wedding he attended Thursday in Westminster Abbey as Canada's representative "surpassed in solemnity and beauty anything one had expected."

The Prime Minister returned to his west end hotel at 4:15 p.m., after attending the wedding breakfast at Buckingham Palace which followed the Abbey ceremony.

He wore in his lapel a bunch of white heather tied with a lover's knot. Each of the distinguished guest at the reception received a similar memento.

Canada's representative drove to the nine-centuries-old church through crowded streets where the Canadian ensign on his automobile was quickly spotted. Cheers followed his progress all the way.

He was seated next to Prime Minister Attlee in a position of honor as Prime Minister next in seniority to the United Kingdom Government leader. Beside him were Prime Minister Smuts of South Africa and then Winston Churchill, Britain's wartime leader.

The Canadian Prime Minister said his seat was so placed in the historic Abbey that all the ceremony could be seen.

"It was deeply impressive with its simplicity and beauty outstanding features. It was the beautiful service of the Anglican Church with which we are familiar at home!"

Of Princess Elizabeth and her sailor husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, he said: "The whole Commonwealth has reason to find joy in this marriage. It is evident that they are devoted to each other and he is a fine young man."

When the ceremony was over, Prime Ministers King and Smuts walked together from the Abbey in the wake of the bridal procession. Their status as Prime Ministers gave them precedence over United Kingdom Cabinet Ministers, other than Attlee.

At the Buckingham Palace wedding breakfast, the Canadian Prime Minister was given the honor of escorting Princess Alice, wife of the Earl of Athlone, former Governor-General of Canada, to the table where he sat with her.

Last night he was among the guests of Prime Minister and Mrs. Attlee at a reception at 10 Downing Street.

Other Canadians fortunate enough to attend the ceremony in the Abbey were just as enthusiastic as Mr. King.

"It was wonderful—the Princess looked just as a Princess should," said Miss Ellie McLoughlin, Canada House Social Secretary who has been in London since 1917 and who was chosen to represent the staff of Canada House.

"It was too bad people couldn't clap," she said. "Everybody wanted to—but of course they didn't—when the procession left the Abbey after the service."

J. S. P. Armstrong, Ontario agent-general, described the wedding as "a magnificent event" and added "the ceremony was most impressive."

AT THE BELLE — Joseph Cotten co-stars with Jennifer Jones and Gregory Peck in David O. Selznick's mightiest triumph—in Technicolor, "Duel in the Sun." The distinguished supporting cast includes Lionel Barrymore, Herbert Marshall, Lillian Gish, Walter Huston. "Duel in the Sun" is closing at the Belle tonight.

AT THE CAPITOL — Those zany masters of music and mirth, the Hoosier Hotshots, backed up by the Jerry Wald orchestra, give out with some buttered corn in Columbia's newest action musicale, "Swing the Western Way," at the Capitol Theatre today and Saturday. On the same program "Miracle on 34th. Street" starring Maureen O'Hara and John Payne.

Santa Claus Back To Reindeer

Buffalo, Nov. 21 (AP)—Santa Claus tried to streamline his operations here by changing over to helicopter, but has returned promptly to the reindeer and sleigh class by the Buffalo Airport Advisory Board.

The action came on an application by a department store to permit their Santa to land on the store roof and at a Christmas celebration in Civic stadium. The board said no—too many people in the vicinity.

PLAN STUDENTS' HOME

Saskatoon, Sask. —(CP)— The Ukrainian Catholic Brotherhood of Saskatchewan will launch a province-wide campaign for funds to be used in erecting a new students' home near the University of Saskatchewan.

WOLVES KILL DOGS

The Pas, Man. —(CP)— Hungry wolf packs have invaded the South Indian Lake region, trapping and fishing settlement 250 air miles north of here, killing 26 sled dogs in night raids recently.

GROWTH OF EDUCATION

Public school children now are required to read about 15 times as much material as children a generation ago.

WEATHER VAGARIES

CHAPTER 8

"I didn't. It wasn't premeditated ...I was a little tight that night at the hotel. Your ring dropped on the floor when you left the table. I picked it up and stuck it in my pocket. I intended to let you discover your loss, let you get a good scare, then return the ring to you. Afterwards, I remembered how you looked at Chuck Nourse—and planned to get even with him."

"A fine specimen of manhood you turned out to be!" she flaunted, walking away from him.

He stared at her an instant, then leaped after her. He caught her around the waist, his head bending to hers. But before he could carry out his intentions, she slapped him vigorously across the cheek.

Startled, he loosened his hold, and she slipped from him like a flash, left him standing there, trying to collect his dazed wits.

Kay, angrily rushing up through the rose garden, encountered her mother. Cora had been wandering about the grounds, taking what she called "exercise"

"My dear!" she exclaimed, startled by her daughter's gleaming eyes. "What's happened? You look positively furious."

"Webb and I just quarreled!" she panted.

"Webb, is he here this early? Very well, I'll give him a piece of my mind. Why! He might have ruined everything! You can't be too careful of Hennington, my darling. You could, you know, drive him too far. As it is, he's horribly upset over what happened last night."

Kay scowled, pulled petals from a white rose on a bush beside her. She said, with downcast eyes, "Henn would be upset But we can't hush up an incident so many people already know about. We'll have to take it standing. However—it's nothing serious. I dine with Chuck—Webb joins us —tried to play a joke on us. There's nothing incriminating in all that—even if I am the fiancee of the pompous Mr. Blare."

"You sound more bitter than happy over it, Kay. It worries me. Sometimes, I wish you weren't engaged to Hennington. But now that he has settled all our pressing debts, it would be unfair if you—"

"I'll marry him, of course," said Kay resignedly. "There's nothing else to do." The roar of a motor came from the drive. Kay shrugged. "That's Webb—taking his mangled feelings home to breakfast," she said.

In a way, she felt sorry for him. She knew what it meant to lose the object of one's affections. Something went out of you and made you feel eternally alone in a world full of people.

"Thank heaven, I didn't see Webb!" came from Cora emphatically. "I would have told him exactly what he is—and forfeited his mother's friendship."

"Yes," said Kay vaguely, "We'd better forget the whole business.

She went slowly up the elm-lined path, thinking. Henn had settled the immediate debts of the Millstrom family—and Cora was satisfied. Things could go on as usual—on Henn's money. If she ever had had hopes of escaping from marrying him, she had not been thinking straight. She couldn't escape, that's all. As for love—love was a sacredly dear emotion which you shelved when personal matters grew too pressing to be ignored. It was being done continually, more or less. It was her turn now.

She entered her dressing-room, with a heavy sigh. Listlessly, she put on the white silk sport dress that Aimee had laid out for her. She glanced through her morning mail, sipped the coffee Sartin had brought in.

The pile of bills she laid aside for her mother to go over, and read the note from Gloria Sherman. It was an invitation to spend a month in the Sherman camp at Lake George.

Kay brightened. A whole month away from Hennington! Then abruptly, her perplexities returned. Henn would fly out every weekend, if he did not insist upon being at the lake constantly to chaperon her. She knew Henn! He was always more fatherly than loverlike. Even his kisses seemed provokingly premeditated, coolly calculating. She often wondered what the innermost thoughts of such a man could possibly be—and shuddered. To be tied to him for life!

Kay tossed aside this annoying chain of thought and had her maroon roadster brought around on the drive. She wished for a jungle within easy driving distance—where she could be alone.

The car whizzed her down the highway at sixty, making a stiff breeze that whipped strands of hair into her troubled eyes. She wore no hat. She wanted to feel the fresh cool air on her head as well as on her feverish cheeks, to blow the cobwebs from her seething brain. While she was in motion—terrific motion finally, the speedometer going to ninety—she felt strong enough to conquer the world. She even felt able to conquor the peculiar situation in whilh she found herself.

Several times on a curve or at a crossroad she narrowly avoided crashing into buses or trucks or slow-moving, horse-drawn farm vehicles, She laughed aloud at the other driver's scared faces, only feeling, not hearing, the noise that came from her dry throat because of the buzzing in her ears.

She drove on and on until she was seized with acute hunger. She began looking for a lunch room, and at last saw a clean-looking shack. She drew up beside the gasoline pumps.

"Fill up the tank—and look at the oil, please," she said to the fresh-faced young attendant, and stepped to the ground.

"Yes, miss," he eagerly responded, taking the gasoline hose off the hook. "Fine spell of weather we ben havin'."

Her wind-reddened eyes flitted negligently past him to the clear windowed little house behind. She murmured almost incoherently, "Yes—nice weather."

She opened the screen door, feeling lame in every muscle and, now that the exhileration of driving had suddnly ceased, a decided let-down in spirit.

She walked past the cigar stand to the end of the small room and slumped down at a little table. She leaned her head on her hand. She didn't remember ever having been more exhausted.

A bloodless blond, vigorously chewing her gum, advanced and offered a greasy menu card with, "Good-afternoon." Kay laid down the card, opened her white handbag, and took out her compact. "Iced coffee and a ham sandwich, please," she said.

The girl went to a room in the rear from which came the odor of roasting meats and stewing vegetable, the clatter of dishes, the raspy voice of a woman, demanding that Pa feed the hens. Otherwise, the silence of the countryside enveloped the place.

Putting Tut's Trumpet on the Air

(By Rex Keating in the Magazine "London Calling")

We all remember the wonderful find of treasure discovered in the Pharaoh's tomb in the early 1920's. All those priceless objects are now on view in the museum at Cairo, and not least among hundreds of lovely things, are two of Tutankhamen's ceremonial trumpets. They are unique; nothing like them has been found before or since, so you can imagine how valuable they are.

Various attempts had already been made to broadcast the trumpets. It took six months to get the museum authorities to agree. After that, there was a long search to find someone who could blow them properly—they are terribly difficult to blow. We finally selected Bandsman Tappern, of one of the Hussar regiments.

In the meantime, the broadcast had been widely publicized, and it was capturing popular imagination everywhere. The BBC arranged to relay it, and so did one of the big American radio networks and a large number of European stations. Six days before the broadcast, Bandsman Tappern began to work out the various possible notes, and that meant rehearsing every morning at the museum.

The broadcast was to take the form of an interview, in which I question Alfred Lucas—he was the man whose life-work had been the restoration of the hundreds of objects found. It was a dramatic story, and Lucas was about the last one left of the little band of men involved. Then the "incidents" began. We did not know it then, but the silver trumpet had crystallized with the passage of 3,000-odd years, and it was as brittle, almost, as glass. Four days before the broadcast we did find out. It was damaged during a rehearsal, only slightly.

When Lucas heard what had happened, he was so upset that his heart gave out, and he collapsed. He was at that time over seventy, so you have an idea how serious it was. In the meantime, superhuman efforts were being made to restore the silver trumpet. Lucas was still in hospital, and the broadcast was only twenty-four hours off.

It was to take place in one of the huge, echoing corridors of the Cairo Museum, on a Sunday evening, when it was normally closed shortly after dusk. I set out in my car to drive there, and had my first accident for years: I was run into by a runaway horse and carriage.

When I did arrive at the museum, late and somewhat shaken, I was confronted by two frantic engineers: The curator had not turned up, and the guards would not let them in to test their apparatus. The curator arrived only ten minutes before zero hour, there was no time to carry out the usual tests; we just had to connect up and trust to luck. Even that was made difficult—the electric light was found to be cut off at the main.

It was now completely dark, but a frantic search produced two watchmen's electric lanterns. By this time, Lucas had arrived, accompanied by a doctor and looking very shaky indeed.

All set then, with only five minutes to go when the watchmen's lanterns failed, both of them, leaving us in total darkness. With only two minutes to go, someone produced one candle. Then, with the looming relics of a long-dead civilization stretching into the shadows all around us, with only that tiny flickering light, the broadcast was under way.

Letters about the broadcast came in from all over the world, among them several drawing attention to the much publicized "curse" of Tutankhamen's Tomb, alleging that these were war trumpets, and that, by broadcasting them far and wide, I had released the curse of war on the world.

As a matter of history, war did break out, six months later, but my conscience is quite, quite clear.

FRANCE'S WEARY MAN

HEADS CZECH PARTY

At the annual congress of the Social Democrat Party in Bruenn, Czechoslovakia, Bohumil Lausman, minister of industry in the Czechoslovak government, is an outspoken opponent of any merger of his party with the Communists.

DEPENDENT ON MAN

The moth of the silkworm has completely lost its ability to fly and is dependent on man for its survival.

Britain May Accept Modified Form Palestine Partition

Plan Meets With Unexpected Progress in U.N. Assembly

By ROSS MUNRO
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Lake Success Nov. 22 (CP)—Britain will likely accept the modified United Nations plan for Palestine partition, it was learned reliably today.

With Britain probably dropping her objections, in the light of the latest adjustments in the scheme to divide the Holy Land into Jewish and Arab States, the outlook is brighter for a Palestine settlement nere possibly within five or six days.

This is the lone item of business left for the 1947 General Assembly, which last night cleared the rest of its slate. Only top delegates will remain here to deal with the Holy Land question.

Unexpected progress was reported on the Palestine issue last night when the nine member subcommittee, which includes Russia, the United States and Canada, reached final agreement on the modification in its plan to implement partition.

These modifications were necessary to make the scheme acceptable to the United Kingdom and most of them were advanced by the Canadian delegates.

The adjusted plan goes to the 57-member Palestine committee this morning.

These are the principal changes, aimed at achieving Birtish acceptance:

1. Britain will end her Palestine mandate herself, without consultation with the five-member U.N. Commission and without prior approval of the Security Council as contemplated in the original scheme.

Britain insisted on this right and refused to be tied down to the Commission and the Security Council.

2. To ensure continuity in the functioning of administrative services in Palestine, there shall be a progressive transfer of responsibility by Britain to the U.N. Commission, as British forces withdraw.

Britain had objected strongly to having the Commission share the responsibility with her during the transitional period of the next seven months until the final British withdrawal next Aug. 1, but this new clause gets around the difficulty.

3. Britain will not turn over any authority to provincial councils of government in the two new states, but will deal only with the commission. The commission, in turn, will hand over responsibility to these provincial councils, but only after British authorities have withdrawn.

This meets another strong British objection.

4. From the time the Assembly makes its decision and the end of the mandate, Britain shall maintain full responsibility for administration in areas from which her troops have not yet withdrawn.

This new clause merely underlines the British contention that there must be no dual authority in areas she controls while still holding the mandate.

KILLED BY CAR

CANON J. TURNER EVACUATED FROM ARCTIC MISSION

On Reaching Winnipeg Late Today Canon Will be Taken to Hospital

Winnipeg, Nov. 22 (CP). — A saga of Arctic life was borne today on the wings of a fast-flying R.C.A.F. Dakota aircraft, winging its way to Winnipeg from lonely Moffet Inlet, 1,700 miles north, with a seriously-injured missionary aboard.

At Winnipeg, likely to be reached in the late afternoon, the clergyman will be taken to hospital for treatment of his wound.

The story began at the wind-lashed Church of England Mission at the Inlet 400 miles within the Arctic Circle last September when Canon John H. Turner was shot in the head when a rifle he was carrying accidentally discharged.

At first only his wife, a registered nurse, was there to care for him, with their two young children keeping a careful calm near the room where their father lay partially paralyzed.

But word of the missionary's plight reached military authorities and from River, Man., a Dakota piloted by FO. Bob Race flew north to the wintry outpost 1,000 miles past the end of timber.

The plane reached Moffit Inlet during the in-between season, when winter was sweeping its snow-driven path southward but before its cold had reached deep enough into the ice to make it safe for an aircraft to land.

The plane dropped four army paratroopers, Capt. Ross Willoughby, an army doctor, Capt. Guy D'Artois, veteran of many drops overseas during the second World War, and Sgts. H. C. Cook and W. W. Judd, signals operators. That was Oct. 4.

Ice Thickens In Path

For more than two weeks they fought successfully for the life of Canon Turner. Then an effort was made to move him by boat to Arctic Bay, 75 miles on Baffin Island. But the ice thickened in their path and with the missionary's condition still serious the attempt was finally given up.

Evacuation by air was the only resort left, but Arctic fogs and blinding storms which swept the northland delayed the return of FO. Race and his plane.

Last week a reconnaissance flight to Moffet Inlet was attempted, but due to inclement weather no landing could be made. By this time, however, the paratroopers had surveyed a landing strip strong enough to bear the plane.

Friday the second attempt was made. This time the Dakota skimmed low through Polar skies, finally coming to a stop some distance from the mission.

By dog sled the missionary, his wife and two children, an Eskimo girl and the four paratroopers travelled from their post.

Search Teams Find No American Airmen Captives of Lolo Tribesmen

Nanking, Nov. 22 —(AP)— A 15-months search during which American officers lived with primitive Lolo tribesmen in the mud huts of wild West China has "proved conclusively" no United States airmen are captives there, the army announced today.

An army spokesman said the long search ended after special teams completed the tracing of every report and rumor. More than a year ago, one American officer returned from a remote tribal village to report "we feel there are five Americans in the Lolo country," but Maj. Alva Smith, commanding a search team, said today:

"Our work positively established that no Americans are held captive."

The officers lived with the little-known Lolos of the wildly rugged China-Tibbet border region during the search.

Two disguised themselves as priests to gain the confidence of the mountain tribesmen. They found slavery a general practice, with Chinese seized in raids on lowland villages held to work while their masters fought with neighboring tribes.

They followed down one report of a "big-nosed" American captive to find instead that one Lolo tribe was holding a North China native whose size and facial characteristics led to reports he was an American airman.

Another report led to a former Chinese soldier who had gained a reputation as a pilot "because he had once ridden in an airplane."

The Lolos, instead of being wild, semi-savage people as described in earlier reports, were kind and co-operative once their trust was obtained, the officers said.

Early expeditions, a year ago, found the remains of four wartime airmen who had died in plane crashes.

Elizabeth and Philip, man and wife, were cheered by London's teeming thousands when they appeared on the balcony at Buckingham Palace with other members of the Royal Family after the wedding breakfast. The couple left aboard a specially decorated train. They were pelted with rose petals and confetti as they entered their open coach

700,000 FRENCH WORKERS IDLE THROUGH STRIKES

Marseille-Paris Rail Line Traffic Cut

Paris, Nov. 22 (AP) —Spreading French strikes stalled rail traffic on the great Marseille-Paris line today and officials announced that saboteurs had cut telephone lines connecting two army forts on the outskirts of the capital.

It was estimated that nearly 700,000 workers were idle throughout France as a result of the Communist-inspired walkouts which have virtually choked off economic activity in Marseille, Toulon and other cities.

This is the situation in some of the focal points:

Maritime workers: A longshoremen's general strike was called for Monday, but the walkout may be general before then, with all Mediterranean ports and the Atlantic port of Bordeaux already tied up. Seamen are on strike in Marseille, Port de Bouc, Bordeaux and the Seine River ports of Nantes and Rouen.

Railwaymen: The Rhone Valley and the Riviera are tied up as far as Avignon and the Italian frontier respectively by a strike that spread from Marseille. Several suburban commuter lines reported strike movements around Paris.

Metal and machinery: About 300,000 workers are on strike in the Paris region, especially in automobile factories. There was a back-to-work movement at the Citroen plant.

Coal miners: The strike spread from the Nord and Pas De Calais coal fields to central France. About 125,000 workers are idle although a back-to-work movement was reported.

Building and woodworkers: A strike of 100,000 workers in the Paris region was called today.

Secondary Schools: Teachers and principals went on strike in Paris and the Seine department, with some back-to-work movements reported.

Flour mills: A general strike is on around Paris, Lille and Marseille.

The strikes were being backed energetically by the Communist party. The back-to-work movements were largely in the hands of the Anarcho-Syndicalist element, which after being dormant for years has suddenly sprung back into activity.

Although the Syndicalists have started strikes as often as Communists, they announced in leaflets that they considered the present movement not to be in the interests of the working class but rather "political strikes" intended to make the workers "enslaved to the eastern bloc."

Troops and extra police were distributed throughout Paris and other troubled cities over the country.

13,000 Allied Bodies Found in Mass Graves In U.S. Zone in Berlin

Hammelburg, Germany, Nov. 22 —(Reuters) — The bodies of about 13,000 Allied prisoners-of-war from seven countries, including Britain, have been found in 68 mass graves discovered in a strip of woodland near this town in the middle of the United States zone of Germany, it was stated today. No Canadians were among them.

The graves, discovered following extensive investigations by officials of the International Refugees Organization, were found to have contained the bodies of British, Australian, French, Italian, Belgian, Yugoslav and Russian prisoners-of-war.

The searchers also found 50 French bodies and graves of Italians, Britons and Australians who were buried more carefully and marked by crosses carrying their names. These, it is believed can be positively identified.

The graves were found two miles from the site of a former German prison camp, Stalag 13-C. Available evidence indicates that most of the prisoners were stripped and buried in large groups, possibly after mass executions.

Discovery of the mass graves was made after members of I.R.O. search teams, checking old records of the German camp, found that thousands of the camp's former 23,500 prisoners had disappeared. Checking on rumors of graves in the woods, they began a search of the area and uncovered several mass graves in the area, one of which contained the bodies of about 10,000 Soviet soldiers and 1,100 Red Army officers.

Wins Widow's Heart Helping With Love Letter

Chicago, Nov. 22 — (AP)— A pretty, blonde German widow, whose air passage to the United States was paid by one ex-soldier sweetheart, today flew into the arms of another, who won her heart while helping her write letters to her first suitor.

As Mrs. Marielle Strauss, 28, was being warmly kissed by Fred Lutz, 39, a Chicago bakery operator, her eight-year-old daughter, Helga, danced excitedly along side them.

The gay greeting meant only bad news to Charles Schumaker, 40, of Strong City, Kans., who had expected to participate in a similar scene himself in Kansas City.

Mrs. Strauss, after warmly embracing Lutz would say nothing about their plans.

Schumaker, a railroader, met, wooed, and became engaged to Mrs. Strauss, widow of a German officer, while he was on occupation duty in Bavaria. He paid the $700 passage for her and Helga.

"He'll get his $700 back," Lutz said. "I won't owe money to anybody."

Lutz said that he and Mrs. Strauss were childhood friends in Bad Tolz, Germany, and he met her again as an American soldier.

During his tour of duty in Germany he helped her with her English in her letters to Schumaker, fell in love with her himself, proposed, and was accepted.

Seventeen Mayors Are Elected By Acclamation

(By The Canadian Press)

Seventeen mayors were elected by acclamation on Friday as nomination meetings were held in scores of municipalities throughout Ontario.

Hundreds of other men and women—nominated as reeves, deputy reeves, councillors, aldermen, school trustees, hydro and public utilities commissioners—have until tonight to qualify.

Entire municipal administrations were swept into office by acclamation in some communities. But in most centres elections are expected. Nominations were unusually heavy in a few cities and towns.

Most of the municipalities whose nominations meetings were held yesterday will vote Dec. 1. Some others will nominate Monday for elections later next month. A still smaller number will hold nomination meetings for elections in January.

Three of the mayoralty acclamations yesterday were in cities. Mayor Sam Lawrence of Hamilton, was returned for a fourth term as chief magistrate. Mayor J. Bruce Caldwell was returned to office in St. Thomas without opposition and William Ovens was chosen mayor of Peterborough.

Other mayoralty acclamations, shown in a survey by the Canadian Press:

Iroquois Falls, Mayor P. J. Redmond; Chelmsford, J. A. Gratton, Whitby, William Davidson; Levack, Earl E. Gilchrist; Port Colborne, H. H. Knoll; Preston, W. H. Skelly; Southhampton, E. L. Bickley; Parkhill, James E. Orr; Frood, H. J. Cullen; Coniston, Roy L. Snitch; Warren, H. H. Roy; Copper Cliff, W. T. Waterbury; Waters Township (Sudbury District), Lauri Hill; Capreol, Alistair McLean.

ROBERT SCHUMAN TRIES TO FORM NEW FRENCH GOVT.

Leon Blum Refused Sufficient Support

Paris, Nov. 22. (AP)—Robert Schuman, finance minister and member of the Mouvement Republicain Populaire (M.R.P.), announced today that he had agreed to try and form a new French government.

Schuman made his announcement to reporters upon emerging from a conference with President Vincent Auriol.

He then began consultations with party leaders prior to going before the National Assembly to demand a vote of confidence in the face of a rising tide of Communist-engineered labor difficulties.

The Chamber refused last night to give venerable Leon Blum enough support to become premier.

As Blum failed in the National Assembly—by nine votes—to win the necessary majority to succeed his Socialist colleague, Paul Ramadier, Communist leaders continued to push their country-wide strikes, now estimated to involve nearly 750,000 workers.

Beneath the strike wave, however, a "back-to-work" movement was reported growing. To meet it, strike leaders were faced with the alternatives of compromising or gambling on an all-out anti-government strike, such as the one which nearly crippled the Labor movement in 1938.

Facing Auriol was a threat of dissolution of the Chamber should it fail again to marshal a majority vote on the choice of a premier.

Movement Growing

The new constitution does not allow the president to dissolve the legislature under such circumstances until it has functioned for 18 months, which would be next Spring, but the Assembly could vote its own dissolution if it finds no other way out.

This would mean a new election which the new de Gaulle Rassemblement du Peuple Francais (R.P.F.) has been asking in the hope of repeating its victory in the recent municipal balloting.

The de Gaullist have pledged themselves to oppose any government until they got a new election. They voted against Blum last night.

An R.P.F. victory would mean the end of the present form of the Fourth Republic. Followers of de Gaulle have pledged to revise the new constitution in favor of a more centralized and more controlled government.

The 61-year-old Schuman, born in Luxembourg, is little known to the general public. He generally has come to be regarded as a financial expert.

"If he is successful in winning a vote of confidence and organizing a cabinet it will be his task to try and bring labor peace to France which has been without a premier since Ramadier resigned Wednesday under heavy pressure from the Left.

Eight Are Killed And 18 Injured In Plane Crash

Airliner Hits Mountain Peak in Czechoslovakia

Jicin, Czechoslovakia, Nov. 22 —(AP)— Police announced today that eight persons were killed and 18 injured when a transport en route from Bucharest to Prague hit a 2,000-foot peak six miles from here last night and burned.

Among those injured were Alfred Davidson, identified as European director of the United Childrens' Fund for Europe, (not described as an American newspaper man en route to Paris and H. Grigorescu, Romanian ambassador to Prague.)

The plane, owned by Romanian - Soviet Airlines, was flying in bad weather. Jicin is about 50 miles from Prague.

Milford Garage Destroyed by Fire

Milford, Ont., (Special)—Fire of unknown origin completely destroyed the large garage and contents owned by Clayton Stouffles early this mornig. Damage is estimated at several thousands of dollars. No insurance was carried on either the building or contents.

Mrs. Quentin Minaker residing nearby, wakened at 2 a.m. and smelled smoke. She roused her husband who investigated and found the Stouffles' garage a blazing mass. A volunteer bucket brigade was quickly formed but the flames had made such headway that saving of the building or contents was impossible. The brigade concentrated its efforts on adjacent buildings and saved them from the blaze.

Stouffles, who suffered a heavy fire loss a few years ago, stated that he would not rebuild at the present time due to the high cost of materials.

The garge contained all his equipment and expensive sets of tools.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, Nov. 22—(CP)—Synopsis: It is cloudy in all sections of Ontario this morning and intermittent rain is falling in White River region and in extreme southwestern Ontario. Rain has changed to snow in the Rainy River district. Temperatures in most sections of Ontario are higher than yesterday morning's. Much cooler weather is advancing slowly eastward to northwestern Ontario, Wisconsin and Iowa, and should reach southwestern Ontario late Saturday or early Sunday. The weather is expected to remain cloudy during the weekend with intermittent rain today changing to snow on Sunday.

GOVT. REQUESTS TWO CANADIANS BE RELEASED

Members of Military Mission Held by Russia for Crossing Border

Ottawa, Nov. 22. (AP)—The Canadian Government has asked the Soviet Foreign Ministry to release and allow to return to Berlin two Canadian members of a Canadian Military Mission held by Russian authorities on charges of having illegally crossed the Polish-Soviet frontier near Kaliningrad, the former Koenigsberg in East Prussia.

In a statement issued last night the External Affairs Department identified the Canadians as J. D. M. Weld of Ottawa and Capt. A. W. Clabon of Edmonton, both attached to the Canadian military mission in Berlin. It said Russian authorities had been asked to allow the men to return to Berlin and promised that disciplinary action, including recall to Canada, would be taken if a Canadian investigation discloses an illegal crossing of the border or any breach of regulations.

The Canadian Government spoke through its Charge D'Affairs in Moscow, John Holmes. It said that if it was not immediately possible to permit their return to Berlin, that a means of communication with them be provided and that R. A. J. Phillips, Third Secretary of the Canadian Embassy, be permitted to visit them in person.

The department said that so far as it knew the Canadians still were being held at Pravdinsk (formerly Friedland) by the commander of the Kaliningrad border area and apparently the enquiry being made by the Soviet Foreign Ministry had not been completed to its satisfaction.

Weld and Capt. Clabon were seized as they were returning to Berlin from an authorized trip to Warsaw in Capt. Clabon's car. They had left Warsow Nov. 10 intending to reach Berlin Nov. 12.

(The Moscow radio last night broadcast a message from Kaliningrad that the Soviet frontier had been "violated" by the two Canadians. The message said it was obvious that Weld and Clabon found themselves near Kaliningrad "not because they had lost their way. . . . .They are persons who are engaged in special business.")

Chiang in Strife With Chinese Reds Wins War of Cities, Losing War of Rails

By HAROLD K. MILKS

Nanking, Nov. 22 (CP).—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, in his struggle with the Chinese Communists, is winning the war of cities but losing the battle of railroads.

A study of the last three months of civil strife indicates that while the government defended its Manchurian strongholds and recovered some cities below the great wall, its most vital communication lines have been ripped and torn apart by skilful Communist attacks.

Military experts, reviewing the struggle both in Manchuria and in China proper, agree that at least the first phase of the autumn campaigns have ended with the balance sheet in favor of the Communists.

On paper and on maps showing regions generally controlled by the government it appears that Chiang's armies have made important progress in their fight to quell "the Communist rebellion".

But maps fail to show the blasted bridges, the mile after mile of burned rail lines, the nightly guerrilla raids by which Red bands have practically driven the National army into defending strongpoints and allowing the enemy to roam the countryside at will.

Fighting of the last three months has again demonstrated that the Chinese high command has not yet been able to hold and control areas won in battle.

Vegetable Prices Remain Steady, Stocks Scarce

Attendance was slim on the local produce market Saturday morning with approximately one half of the stands, both inside and on the outside market being occupied by vendors.

The offering of apples was featured on the outside market as No. 1 McIntosh sold at $2.75 and $2.50 per bushel. Best Spys and Delicious brought $3 the hamper, while Greenings and Ganos sold at $2 and Talman Sweets at 50 cents the basket.

Eggs held at 52 cents the dozen for firsts with pullets bringing 40 cents and mediums 48 and 50 cents the dozen. Fowl sold generally at 40 cents the pound with well finished chicken quoted at 45 cents. A few ducks were available at $2 and up.

The vegetable offering was slim although prices held steady with carrots and beets fetching 50 cents the peck; parsnips 60 cents and cabbages a dime and 15 cents. Potatoes were available at the customary $2 the bag although some vendors were asking $2.50 or 60 cents the peck. Hickory nuts were 50 cents the quart.

A few whitefish were offered at 35 cents the pound; pike were 25 cents and mudcats 30 cents the pound.

Only a very few young pigs were offered with prices generally at $5 each.

London People Talk of New Love Matches

London, Nov. 22 (AP).—Many of the people of London, loath to let go of the excitement of Thursday's Royal wedding, talked of new love matches yesterday.

The rumors linked:

Princess Margaret Rose, 17, sister of Princess Elizabeth, and the handsome Marquess of Milford Haven, Prince Philip's best man.

Young King Michael of Romania and Princess Thereza of Orleans Braganza, of the house which claims the non-existent throne of Brazil.

Court sources at Buckingham Palace had nothing but scorn for the talk connecting Margaret Rose and the Marquess of Milford Haven.

"Just silly gossip," one informant said. "She is too young for romance."

The rumors about the Princess and the Marquess were taken up in London's newspaper columns recently, and were revived yesterday but the renewed gossip apparently stemmed mostly from the report that the Princess danced frequently with the young nobleman at a night club party he gave for Elizabeth's bridesmaids Thursday night.

Sen. Jim Davis Dies in Capital

Washington, Nov. 22 (AP). — James J. (Puddler Jim) Davis, who came to the United States as the seven-year-old son of poor Welsh immigrants and rose to become Secretary of Labor and Senator from Pennsylvania, died early today after several months' illness. He was 74.

Largely self-educated, Davis started to work in a Sharon, Pa., steel mill as his father's helper when he still was in his early teens.

When he was 16, he became a steel "puddler"—a job of which he was proud for the rest of his life, and which earned him his nickname.

Davis later moved to Elwood, Ind., and joined the Loyal Order of Moose, becoming director-general in 1906, and holding that position until his death.

He was appointed Secretary of Labor by President Harding in 1921. Nine years later, after serving under Presidents Coolidge and Hoover, he quit to accept appointment as Republican Senator from Pennsylvania.

What Council Did in Committee

In progress of construction for the past twelve months the public lavatory on the market square will be opened during the early part of next week, members of city council were informed Thursday evening at their regular committee meeting when a recommendation was passed for the committee in charge to arrange temporary supervision for the building. The committee was also authorized to make further recommendation regarding proper permanent supervision of the building.

In order to instruct deputy returning officers and poll clerks of their respective duties, the city clerk will hold a class of instruction for these officials prior to the date of the municipal elections.

Food allowances for the relief recipients in the city were recommended increased by 10 per cent in accordance with the announcement by Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, Minister of Welfare for Ontario.

A committee of Aldermen Harvie, Hyde, Allin and the city engineer was appointed to investigate the proposed removal of trees on Albion Street to make possible a new hydro line in that area.

The matter of additional help in the city clerk's office was turned over to the city comptroller for action, who with the chairman of finance will report on needed additions to the office staff and also on the condition of typewriter equipment. Work of the city clerk's department has increased considerably during recent years but it is being handled by two stenographers, the same staff as was in the department 20 years ago.

Authorization was given for the calling of tenders for the construction of sewers on Sidney Street.

Fire Chief William Lynch and the city comptroller were authorized by recommendation to investigate and report to council with full details of the accident on the market square during Old Home Week in which one of the city firemen was injured.

Application was made to the Department of Highways for an interim payment of $26,700.76 for highway maintenance within the city from January 1st. to August 31st.

One straight sidewalk snowplow will sold by the city and prices will be obtained on the old road roller. An extension of building covenant was given Don Brown on his lot on Lewis Street, the covenant being extended to the end of 1948.

Council approved of the plans for the sub-division of part lots 37 and 38 in Sidney township which is to be annexed to city. Plans of the sub-division were prepared by Critoph and Meadows, town planning engineers, and have now been approved by council and by the Belleville Suburban Planning Board.

Hunters Return From Bushlands

With the hunting season all but completed for another season gangs of hunters are returning from the bushlands with varied stories of success. Some parties report getting their full quota of deer, others have been "fairly" successful while still others have seemed unwilling to give complete details.

One of the "fairly" successful parties, members of which returned from their camp at Weslemkoon Lake was that consisting of Joe Shortt, Dr. Van Blaksiee; Russell White; Alfred Baird; Dick Hart, Guy Bennett of Toronto; John Garland of Port Hope and Rev. J. Hall of Maynooth. The party reports "lots" of deer and admitted that four deer had been killed for the eight-man party.

To quote one of the party "there was lots of deer but they just did not stand still long enough for us to get our quota."

Nominations

Picton, Ont; — Mayor Lance Nethery will guide the destinies of this town for another year, taxpayers decided at the annual nominations meeting here yesterday. Mayor Nethery was given an acclamation as were members of the Town Council and Hydro Commission. Following are public officials for the coming year: Mayor, Lance Nethery; Reeve, C. C. (Buff) Cooper; Deputy Reeve, Robert Cockburn; Hydro Commission, Bert Tully; Council, J. R. Gibson; Frank Dunning; Oscar Grimmon; Charles McKibbon; Nesbitt McKibbon; William Henley.

Reeve Arthur Jones, was given an acclamation at the Huntingdon Township nominations yesterday. Five nominees will go to the polls for the township council. These include Arthur Hagerman, Cecil Geen, Elmer Wood, Morley Haggerty and A. C. Herrington. Four of these to be elected.

Heavy Buying Of Vegetables Noted in Toronto

Toronto, Nov. 22 —(CP)— Heavy buying of staple vegetables especially potatoes, in the last two days has led some Toronto grocery stores to limit the amount purchased by an individual, a survey of retail store operators showed last night.

A few store owners said purchases in some cases amounted to a "run" on their stocks of potatoes.

At the same time, Mrs. R. J. Marshall, president of the newly-formed Canadian Association of Consumers, urged women shoppers not to buy homegrown fresh fruits and vegetables on which prices had jumped since imports from the United States were restricted this week.

"If you are asked to pay 25 cents for a 10-cent homegrown cabbage, don't buy it," Mrs. Marshall advised, in a statement. "Make do with a turnip or some squash. If we stop buying these perishable foods at present exorbitant prices, the prices will come down."

She called on consumers, retailers, wholesalers and growers to join in a voluntary co-operative effort to halt unwarranted price rises in Canadian fruits and vegetables.

Referring to a charge made by M. M. (Bobby) Robinson, secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Fruit and Vegetable Growers Associations, that dealers were holding back stocks of onions and apples until prices went higher and to reports that some growers were delaying shipment of vegetables, she said:

"The Canadian grower should not take advantage of the present situation by holding back shipments. The wholesaler and retailer should hold their profit margin and refuse to profiteer at this crucial time. There isn't any justifiable reason why homegrown fruits and vegetables should skyrocket now, just because some imports from the United States have been restricted."

Some Toronto stores reported a "run" on potatoes and said they were limiting the amount of vegetables each customer could purchase. Quotas ranged from 15 pounds to a peck. No restriction was placed on onions or bulk carrots.

Commenting on this development officials of the Provincial Agriculture Department's fruit and vegetable branch said it was "folly" for householders to buy semi-perishable foods beyond their immediate needs unless they had adequate storage facilities to keep them from spoiling.

COLLIER REFLOATED

Brockville, Nov. 22 — (CP)— The collier Bayanna of the Bayswater Shipping Limited of Brockville, was refloated yesterday from Excelsior Shoal near Alexandria Bay, N. Y., where she grounded last weekend in a snowstorm.

After being freed by two salvage tugs, the Bayanna, under command of Captain Clarence Forbes of Owen Sound, proceeded to Port Weller for inspection. A preliminary inspection disclosed a split in one plate below the waterline but the damage was not believed serious.

Board Members Take No Action On Insurance

The matter of premium rates for accident insurance covering medical expenses for students of the Belleville Collegiate came up for discussion at the regular monthly meeting of the board held Friday evening.

During the meeting a communication from the firm handling the accident insurance was read before members advising that with the frequency of accidents among students it would be necessary either to increase the rate per student or to change the contract and have the collegiate or students pay the first ten dollars of medical expenses arising out of an accident.

Premium rate at present is 25 cents per student per year, this covering medical expenses up to $50 per student.

Board members took no action on the matter other than to comment on the fact that students were possibly going to a doctor for minor injuries and bruises, which if there were no insurance, may go unattended. On the other hand Principal G. E. Currie stated that teachers would be "on the spot" if they advised students not to see a doctor because if complication later set in they would be held responsible.

May Increase Premium

The fact of the matter will be placed before the Student Council with the warning that if accidents, minor or otherwise, are not reduced the rate per student will be considerably increased when the insurance contract is renewed.

A delegation from the local Trades and Labor Council asking for the use of the Collegiate lecture room to hold a meeting of educational nature at which out of town men would speak, was heard by the board. Reference was made to the recent action of the board in voting to not rent public school auditoriums to organizations for holding of closed meetings or for meetings of a controversial nature.

1,740 Pupils in Schools

The need of a loud speaker for the collegiate auditorium was brought up by Frank Creeggan, board member, who asked if there was no loud speaking system to the building. With Mr. Currie's reply that there was no satisfactory system, it was voted to arrange to have one installed as soon as possible.

A public school enrolment of 1,740 pupils with an average attendance of 95.01 for the month of October was reported by Inspector-Administrator L. A. Kells. Decorating was in progress at King George School with two rooms having been completed. Inspection of the public schools was underway, the inspector finding much that was commendable and little that need cause concern.

Attendance at the collegiate was given as being 862 with 509 students attending in the collegiate and 353 in the vocational department.

Eye Tests Carried Out

In the school nurse report submitted by Mrs. B. Watt, public health nurse, it was shown that special physical inspections were still being carried on in the kindergarten classes with about 75 per cent of the children having a 20/30 vision test, which appears typical of this age group. During this inspection when children were found not to have had diphtheria toxoid the parents were again reminded.

Cod liver oil was given into the home of eight families of four and five children in each home and milk was arranged for one home. This was supplied by the local Red Cross Society.

Two children who were found to have vision defects were referred to the Kinsmen Club for examination by an eye specialist.

Present at the meeting were Chairman Wishart and members Enos David, Miss Tickell, F. Cushing, Frank Creeggan, A. Nathan, E. A. Geen, H. C. Seldon, Principal G. E. Currie and L. A. Kells.

E.S. Hagerman Winner of First Carter Scholarship

Former student at Belleville Collegiate and presently studying for medicine at Queen's University, E. Stanley Hagerman was the winner of the first Carter scholarship for Hastings County in 1947, it has been announced by the Department of Education.

Other county winners of the Carter scholarship award were R. Alan Swan, Trenton High School and Jane I. Symons of Madoc High School. The first Carter award is $100 cash, the second $60 and the third $40.

Carter scholarships are awarded to the three candidates having the highest aggregate marks in not more than ten papers in the Department Upper School examinations. The papers must include English composition and English literature, algebra and geometry, but not the problem papers.

$6,500 Necessary To Carry Out T.B. Program

If the 1948 tuberculosis control program for Hastings County and district is to be carried out successfully, it will be neccessary to raise a minimum of $6,500 through the sale of Christmas Seals, D. L. Storey, chairman of the local Christmas Seal Committee told the Ontario Intelligencer this morning.

"Fighting tuberculosis has become more and more a community effort, a citizens' movement," Mr. Storey said. "Funds raised through the sale of seals help pay for mass X-Ray surveys, health education, nursing services and, in some instances, rehabilitation of the ex-tuberculous into profitable employment and normal living conditions."

It is the intention of the Hastings County Tuberculosis Association to sponsor complete X-Ray of citizens of the county and place X-Ray equipment in the local hospital to X-ray every patient on admission.

Two dollars worth of Christmas Seals will reach every household in Hastings County the day the campaign opens, November 24th. If everyone will do his share the success of the undertaking will be assured, Mr. Storey said.

"I have every confidence that the 1947 campaign will be a success reflecting our awareness of our responsibility for improving our own health conditions," he added.

Father on the Farm

He Always Worked for His Hired Men

By KENNETH C. CRAGG

Father always said he worked for the hired man.

He would say it with a half laugh, as if not expecting to be believed the way he referred sometimes to mother as the boss.

"You'd better ask the boss around here," father would say to the drover who hadn't offered quite enough for his fat cattle. It was his way of dismissing a person or proposition. But he could call mother the boss in a tone he supposed was jocular, that used to set her jaw in a straight hard line and her eyes sparkling like a plow-point on an emerywheel.

Experience taught the hired man and me to drift out until things got straightened away. We once had a hired man who would say admiringly, "By golly, but that woman, can she talk!"

It was about the cagiest thing he said all the time he worked for us. He got fired for answering back to mother.

Hired Help Trouble

But there was a peck of truth in what father said about working for the hired man. Not that he wasn't boss when it came to a showdown. Lionel, for example, was sent packing so fast with a week's wages in his hand that he was still trying to figure it out when he hit the main road at the end of the lane.

Lionel, in a way, was unfortunate, a victim of his early environment. He was known as "the Englishman" and had two main faults. For one thing he was slow in the move and it was a dreadful and heartrending thing to see him trying to keep his head above the hay as it piled onto the wagon from the loader.

For another, and this is what fired him ultimately, he couldn't forget that he was an Englishman and that they did things different 'over 'ome'.

We Canucks—it was still in the age when Canadians were commonly called Canucks — didn't plow, plant or reap like they did 'over 'ome'. Lionel, in different ways and at different times was told that no one cared how they did things 'over 'ome'.

The crisis came in haying. The day was fine, the clover prime and the pitman rod broke. On our mower it was a wooden shaft that transmitted motion to the knife.

Father bellowed for wire, the soft black wire that used to repair anything from a wheelbarrow to a car in the tin lizzie era. He called for splints and shingle nails and proceeded to bind the broken rod together. Such slap dash repair was to much for Lionel and the British way.

Not Executive Type

Afterward father used to claim that the 'over omers' were more responsible for Canada changing from colony to nation than anything mentioned in the history books.

The main trouble with father and his hired men was that he wasn't the executive type. He just didn't have the faculty of assigning work in such a way that the work would be done.

The result was that our hired men were the ones who spent a lot of time standing around while father worked, and it led to dissatisfaction. A good tired man had the attitude, "Tell me what you want done and I'll do it." As it was, no one by watching could readily tell which was the hired man.

Then there was father's stomach. Father wasn't ailing, but his stomach had no time sense, and his watch, a great massive piece that wore holes in his pocket, was completely unreliable. Consequently he was frequently late for dinner, and hired men, in those days, while they might be vague about starting time, had a well-developed sixth sense about quitting for dinner. This situation led frequently to words and sometimes to a parting of relations.

For these and other reasons it is doubtful if working conditions on father's farm would have fitted into a farm workers' union or any similar organization.

Father was, of course, an individualist, and at the same time seemed to attract many highly individualistic hired men. Walter worked for years at our place, but there is no record of him being fired. He seemed to know when we needed help even before we knew it ourselves.

Walter In Retirement

Walter lived alone in a little cottage perched above a crossroads where he soaked up all the information and gossip for miles around. That is, when he was at home or "in retirement", as he would say in a falsely genteel tone. Walter knew more news than the editor of the paper. He specialized in shotgun weddings and would feel hurt for days if he missed one in advance.

When in retirement Walter lived what his more prim neighbors described as a scandalous life, drinking bootleg liquor and loafing around smoking chewing tobacco. Walter never drank when he was working and as if in compensation for this self-denial took it out in cussing the horses, for which no one in honesty could blame him.

Father, not a swearing man himself, took the attitude that it didn't hurt us and might do the horses, animals of somewhat dull mentality, some good.

This gift for the descriptive phrase failed Walter only once and then at a time when he was under extreme provocation. We were taking off a load of oats when a hen flew out of a hole high up in the side of the mow. Walter, by stabbing a fork into the mow and using it for a handhold climbed up to the hole. In it were three eggs.

It was a moment that called for cool judgment and split-second timing. With one quick gesture he took the eggs and slid them into his overalls hip pocket, which bagged like a wind sock from having carried too many wire pincers and monkey wrenches.

Couldn't Judge Mows

As any one knows, it is easier to claw up the side of a mow than climb down. Walter found that out. His left foot slipped and his posterior took up the slack in the hip pocket. There was a soft crunch and a queer look came over Walter's face, just as a wet stain spread out below his pocket.

But Walter didn't say a word, although any one could see it must have taken it out of him. He was still silent as he scooped the mess, with fingers dripping, out of the pocket and wiped his tobacco plug dry on a wisp of hay.

Walter usually turned up around meal time.

"Hee-up! Hee-up!" we would hear, coming from away down the lane, getting louder as he neared the house. No one would speak. Mother simply put another plate to warm.

We always knew in advance when Walter was about to leave. It would come on him like a low fever, and he would get progressively more morose and apt to fly off the handle at the slightest cause. He would take his wages almost savagely and go.

Walter Was Unreliable

Walter was unreliable, but he had the gift for creating laughter. Jake was different. Jake had never got on comfortable speaking terms with life. Father used to say he reminded him of the runt in the litter. On top of that Jake was not happily married.

He didn't live in but went home to sleep each night. Jake always timed his return in the mornings to miss the milking and invariably began by sounding off in the horse stable with a blow-by-blow account of his evening at home. He divided his resentment equally between his wife and his wife's parents. He swore his mother-in-law was a witch, but he confused easily in his pronunciation.

Jake's big day was the day his father-in-law was buried. At the moment the little cortege left the cemetery, a messenger came up panting that Jake's mother-in-law, who had remained at the house, had a seizure and died.

For the moment Jake was stunned by his second visitation of the Unseen Hand: recovered in time to blurt: "God be praised."

No one thought the less of Jake for it.

Another article will appear next Saturday.

Cardinal Directs Million to Stay Away From Theatre

Philadelphia, Nov. 22 — (AP) — Dennis Cardinal Dougherty, head of Philadelphia Roman Catholic Archdiocese, Friday instructed the Archdiecese's 1,000,000 Catholics to stay away from the Fox Theatre here "at least one year" because the theatre refused to discontinue showing the film "Forever Amber."

The Cardinal ordered the ban in a letter to pastors in the Archdiocese.

"At all masses of the coming Sunday, Nov. 23," the letter stated, "please have the goodness to warn your flock against attendance upon theatres which exhibit moving pictures condemned by the National Catholic Legion of Decency, and especially the moving pictures 'Forever Amber' and 'The Outlaw.'

"Your parishioners should be especially warned against attending the Fox Theatre of Philadelphia, and any of its ramifications if such exist.

"The prohibition is to last for at least one year from the present date."

Schoharie

Schoharie—Norma, Shirley and Ronald Foster accompanied by Mrs. Norman Leavitt left Thursday morning for a few days' visit with relatives in Toronto. While there they will attend the Royal Winter Fair, The Ice Capades, and Saturday night's hockey match at Maple Leaf Gardens.

A number of young people from this community attended a skating party at Belleville arena on Monday evening.

Mrs. Eric Smith spent Wednesday with Mrs. Gordon Leavitt.

Miss Barbara Stone, Mrs. Ralph Stone and Mrs. Wm. McGee are attending the Royal Winter Fair and The Ice Capades, this week.

Keith Foster was a guest at the Dingman-Bird wedding at Brighton on Saturday.

Miss Ruth Collier, of Picton, who was the bride's attendant, at the Dingman-Bird wedding in Brighton, on Saturday, has returned home.

Miss Patsy Maybe, Mountain View, spent a recent weekend with her grandmother, Mrs. Les Jackson.

John and William McGee returned home from their hunting trip, bringing a deer with them. They report the deer are scarce this year.

Mrs. Gordon Leavit and Mrs. Les. Jackson spent Tuesday with Mrs. William Jones, Picton.

Mrs. Harry Foster returned home Tuesday evening, after some time spent with her parents, owing to her mother's illness.

Claims Higher Freight Tolls Not Justified

By JOHN LEBLANC
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Nov. 22 — (CP) — Nearing its end, the national freight-rate inquiry had before it Saskatchewan's claim that the railways are not entitled to higher freight tolls and criticism from that province of Canadian Pacific Railway financial methods.

Saskatchewan's contentions were placed on the record by M. A. MacPherson, counsel for that province in the inquiry, who Friday continued before the Board of Transport Commissioners what was expected to be a three-day summation of the province's case against rate increases.

In Thursday's lead-off on the final argument for the seven provinces opposing the railway application for 30-per-cent increases, Mr. MacPherson:

1. Accused the C.P.R. of chalking up to current maintenance millions of dollars that should have been capitalized and paid off over a period of years.

2. Renewed an application that the Board disregard the finances of the Canadian National Railways in determining any railway financial need, declaring the C.N.R.'s financial structure made it unusable as a yardstick. The Board did not give a decision on the point.

3. Declared the C. P. R. is asking more money for maintenance work, had "disregarded" $25,000,000 which it had in its deferred maintenance fund.

4. Tendered a 60,000-word "brief of argument" on behalf of the Saskatchewan government. The brief was not accepted into the record as such, but Mr. MacPherson read excerpts from it in making his argument.

Should the company's position get to the point where it was in financial distress, said the brief, a "national subsidy" would be preferable to freight rate increases. The subsidy could take the form of a conditional loan, to be repaid when railway finances improved.

Mild November

November, the eleventh month of the year, usually the month of grey gloom, has followed the good example of October and surrounded human beings with the enjoyable setting of weather conditions. Just at this season of the year temperatures have been a little lower than they were a year ago but the conditions of today are not as severe as they usually are. November has been called wild, grey, sullen, gloomy, but those words do not describe the past few weeks.

It is the month of stillness in nature as Helen Jackson Hunt says

November woods are bare and still;
November days are clear and bright;
Each noon burns up the morning's chill,
The morning's snow is gone by night;
Each day my steps grow slow, grow light
As through the woods I reverent creep
Watching all things lie down to sleep.

Those lines suit the present month more than the usual November.

This month does of course lack much in color, but it has been very welcome for it has been cheery. It lacks the great chorus of birds, the flowers and the leaves, and misses the butterflies and the bees. But the sun has shone generously this month, even though it is the time usually thought to be given over to meditation and reverie. It is the month of calm.

And when these November days are done, there have been nights which possess the same calm as the day. Nature waits now. December usually brings us the cold winter and the blankets of snow that may block the roads.

Little more than a month from the mid-winter festival of Christmas, this season has been unduly mild and kindly and it has been making it difficult to realize that the year will soon be at the opening of the twelfth month.

Monoxide

Winter months with changes in manner of living conditions are to be regarded with care; one of the conditions which may arise being the creation of carbon monoxide gas which claims a larger number of persons in the cold season. Industrial Health Bulletin refers to this threat to safety and advises extra care to prevent the formation of gas in closed places as in homes, cars and garages.

Careful ventilation practices are advised to prevent being overcome by this deadly enemy of life.

One cannot be too careful to avoid being a victim of monoxide. In small garages the car engine should never be run unless the doors are open and large garages should be equipped with mechanical ventilation equipment. In the case of the latter it is essential that equipment for ventilation be kept functioning properly in winter when doors are usually kept closed. It is advised that flexible tubes be available for conducting gas from exhaust pipes to the outside.

Motorists when driving should maintain proper ventilation in the cars. Windows should never all be closed. It is well known that many fatalities are caused by drivers becoming drowsy through seepage of monoxide into the car.

In winter the home safeguards must be maintained with furnaces and pipes checked and repaired. Chimneys and pipes should be cleared of clogging soot. Premature checking and improper use of damper are common causes of air contamination.

In industry monoxide poisoning must be guarded against. Industrial processes must be checked periodically to prevent concentration of gas from reaching dangerous levels. Provincial Departments of Health perform air analyses on request in various plants.

The danger of monoxide is that it gives no warning of its approach as it is colorless and odorless. However the odor of any escaping gas from burning fuel should always put an individual on the alert against monoxide. Early symptoms are shortness of breath, tight feeling across the forehead and dizziness. Collapse and suffication will ensue unless the victim is removed to fresh air. In such a case a doctor should be called and if breathing is difficult or has stopped artificial respiration should be applied.

50 New Air Centres in U.K.

The cost of private flying in Britain will be substantially reduced and 50 new aviation clubs opened if recommendations by the Ministry of Civil Aviation's advisory committee published recently are adopted. The plan also includes the provision of facilities for power flying, gliding and aeroplane model making by school children. This would be arranged through an appropriate aviation club which would coordinate all such activities in the district it serves. The 50 new centres to be set up would give Britain a total of 100 such clubs as well as a dozen for gliding.

Molotov the Comedian

There are some people who feel sorry for the Russians because they have no top notch comedians and entertainers like our Jack Benny, Bob Hope and Fibber Mcgee, to mention only a few. But after reading the latest diatribe delivered by Vyacheslav Molotov on the eve of the 30th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution it is obvious to us that such sympathy is uncalled for.

Molotov declared, for instance, that in capitalistic countries the workers are oppressed, but it is possibly because they have to ride around in automobiles and put up with such inconveniences as gas and electric stoves, refrigerators and radios. No, there is plenty of humor on the Russian radio. The only difference between Molotov and the American radio comedians is that the latter are always trying to be funny, and generally succeeding, while Molotov is funny without even trying.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Passed by Censor

When William Bird of The New York Sun wanted to tell readers in 1940 how Hitler-minded Franco was, and how impoverished Spain had become, he knew censors wouldn't pass his copy and that Franco soldiers would probably pass him into the clink if he wrote it, recounts Editor and Publisher. He wrote it, nevertheless—this way.

"Critics of Spain, which is serenely peaceful on the frontiers of a war-ravaged world, have been viciously biased, as regugees from the debacle of France today could see with their own eyes.

"To say that General Franco is the voice of Hitler is no more true than to say that Edgar Bergen is the voice of Charlie McCarthy. Under a regime of independence and self-sufficiency, this country is flourishing like Job's turkey." A Spanish censor passed it.

Scientific Disaster

One of the tragedies of the forest fires that swept Maine and other parts of New England was the destruction of the Jackson Memorial Laboratory at Bar Harbor. Although it is officially announced that $500,000 will be required to rebuild it, the real loss can not be determined.

The flames destroyed not only buildings and equipment, but 100,000 mice whose strains had been developed for 25 years and along with them records of cancer research that money can not replace.

Since Roscoe B. Jackson, president of the Hudson Motor Co., in the '20s put up funds for the original laboratory, 25 generations of mice have been raised and studied. This "family" record in terms of human development would reach back 3,000 years before Christ.

In this period 30 distinct strains had been developed and perpetuated. In some strains 90% were susceptible to cancer, while others displayed a high degree of immunity. In the susceptible strain a virus was found in mother's milk, which gave new support to the virus theory of causation.

During the late war the laboratory raised 700,000 mice for government research. Of the 30 strains; 12 have been preserved elsewhere, so only 18 are lost.

Plans for rebuilding the Jackson laboratory have already taken shape through a $50,000 gift from the Damon Runyan Fund and $10,000 from the Maine Cancer Society. However, years will be needed to get back to the position enjoyed when fire razed Bar Harbor. — Cleveland Plain Dealer.

SEASON'S END

Now the golfing season's over,
All the hopes of springtime shattered,
Once more those who played discover
Gains and losses little mattered.

Trivial now the cups alluring.
Silver stains and glass is brittle.
Friendship's all that is enduring.
Prizes matter very little.

Golf's a game for joy intended.
Every man who plays has faltered.
If in fellowship it's ended,
What's important isn't altered.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS.

20 YEARS AGO

NOV 22ND., 1927.

The Hon. Charles McCrae, Ontario Minister of Mines, was the guest speaker at the Chamber of Commerce banquet at Hotel Quinte last evening. Short speeches in response to the various toasts were made by the President of the Chamber, E. W. Worth, Major R. D. Ponton, W. B. Deacon, Mayor Wilmot and Lieut. Col. R. J. E. Graham. Vocal solos were rendered by Messrs. Stillman, Bankier and Thomson and Sandy Burrows led the community singing. Leo Riggs was piano accompanist.

Mrs. Earle McQueen, Church Street, will sail shortly for the Old Country to visit friends.

The members of the Belleville Club are making arrangements for a dance in their club rooms on New Year's Eve.

30 YEARS AGO

NOV. 22ND., 1917.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the city council it was decided to take $30,000.00 from the Sinking Fund and invest the amount in Victory War Loan Bonds. It was also decided to make a grant of $3,400.00 to the British Red Cross in order to make the public subscriptions from Belleville amount to $10,000.00.

At a meeting of Belleville Lodge I.O.O.F. No. 81 the following officers were elected for the ensuing term: J.P.G., Geo. S. Kerr; N.G., Grant Way; V.G., Isaac Sills; Financial Secretary, R. W. Adams; Recording Secretary, S. A. Barclay; Treasurer, J. Coon; Physician, Dr. A. E. MacColl

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

What woman in private life was given the privileges of the floor of the House or Representatives?

On Jackson Day, January 8, 1844, Representative Romulus M. Saunders of North Carolina noticed Dolly Payne Madison, elderly widow of President Madison, sitting in the gallery of the House of Representatives. He immediately moved and obtained unanimous adoption of the following resolution: "That a committee be appointed on the part of this House to wait on Mrs. Madison, and to assure her that, whenever it shall be her pleasure to visit the House, she be requested to take a seat within the Hall."

Thus far this has been the only instance of a woman in private life without previous service as a member to be formally given the privilege of the floor of the House.

At that time "the venerable Mrs Madison," who had returned to live in Washington after the death of her husband in 1836, was probably the most popular person in America.

The committee, of which Saunders was chairman, made a report consisting largely of Mrs. Madison's gracious letter of thanks.

What Vice-President served the shortest period?

The shortest period served by a Vice President corresponds to the shortest period served by a President. William H. Harrison and John Tyler, both natives of Charles City County, Va., were inaugurated President and Vice President respectively March 4, 1841. President Harrison died April 4 of the same year, after serving 31 days, and Vice President Tyler became President after serving as Vice President the same length of time.

Andrew Johnson, who became Vice President when Lincoln was inaugurated President the second time March 4, 1865, succeeded to the Presidency upon Lincoln's death April 15 of the same year. Thus he was Vice President only 42 days, the second shortest period that any person has occupied that office. William Rufus King was Vice President 45 days. He took the oath March 4, 1852, and died April 18 the same year. Harry S. Truman was Vice President 83 days, Theodore Roosevelt 194 days, Chester A. Arthur 199 days, and Thomas A. Henricks 266 days.

VITAMINS AND MINERALS

As most readers know, I'm a great believer in the importance and value of vitamins and minerals, not as medicines but as food accessories or essential elements of nutrition. Any one who needs vitamins or both—and most of us do, in my opinion—should take 'em regularly, daily, month after month, year after year, of course. It is silly to take vitamins and/or minerals for a few weeks or months and then stop taking them either because you think your ailment is cured or because you think you have derived no benefit from them. You do not reason that way about food, do you?

It is just as silly, as I see it, to take "shots" of enormous doses of this or that vitamin as it is to take "super" concoctions or combinations of vitamins in much greater amounts than are needed for optimal nutrition. This applies to taking minerals, too, in my judgment. Not that there is any actual harm done by super vitamin capsules or by more than the optimal daily ration of minerals, but why squander good money for superfluous material?

The vitamins and minerals which most of us need because the refined diet of the great majority fails to supply them, are vitamin B1 (thiamine), vitamin B2 or G (riboflaven), sunshine vitamin, calcium, phosphorus and iodine. The best or among the best sources of these are respectively plain wheat (from which nothing has been removed); milk or cheese or other dairy products; egg yolk and butter and fresh or canned salmon and nudity or exposure of body to sunshine or daylight; milk or cheese and greens or salads made of raw greens and vegetables and herbs; wheat, meat, fish, eggs; sea food of any kind.

One who is willing to devote enough time and effort to it may contrive to get most of these elements in adequate amounts in this daily diet, but, speaking as a frustrated man, I warn you most people will regard you as a nut if you try it.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Stage Fright

I am 26, big and tough, have always liked public speaking and acting, but since I got out of the service after three years of it I find I have a tremendous nervous reaction and excitement when called upon to say anything even before a small group—my legs shake and I quiver from head to foot and my mouth gets dry. (R. A. C.)

Answer—For the emergency, all I can offer you is my sympathy son. Remember, there are at least a hundred million of us who have the same trouble, but it never proves fatal. If you know a week in advance of the ordeal, take one two-grain pill, tablet or capsule of quinine twice daily to ease the horror—which, a minute after you will have begun speaking, singing or performing, will seem as amusing to you as it seems to the rest of us who are not facing the prospect at the moment.

No Stamps

Send me your prescription for running ear.—(E.M.)

Answer—I do not prescribe or send prescriptions. I do not reply to queries unless stamped self addressed envelope is provided. For a pamphlet on Running Ear send stamped envelope bearing your address, and ask for it in writing.

Take It Easy, Skinnay

I am 17, 6 feet tall and weigh 150 pounds. I want to put on another fifty pounds but can't seem to gain any—our doctor said I'd fill out when I finished growing, but I have finished growing for some time now and still weigh the same.—(J.R.W.)

Answer—You may increase a little or no more in stature, son, but you'll grow in breadth and thickness for several years yet. Send stamped envelope bearing your address and ask in writing (not with clipping) for pamphlet How to Gain Weight.

The Soil of Health

Greatly interested in an article in your column on soil fertility and human health. I'd like to get the book you recommend, by an author named Howard.—(———, D.D.S.)

Answer—Title of the book is The Soil and Health, by Sir Albert Howard, published by Devin-Adair Co., New York.

Sebaceous Cyst

A lump the size of a bean between my ear and my eye. The doctor at school said it is a sebaceous cyst and I'd have to enter the hospital to have it removed. Everyone stares at it.—(V.M.)

Answer—Usually such cysts can be obliterated by simply inserting needle and applying unipolar high frequency current. This is done under local anesthesia and the cyst thereafter atrophies or gradually disappears and leave little or no scar.

Vincent Massey New Chancellor Of University

Toronto, Nov. 22 (CP). — Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, former Canadian High Commissioner to Great Britain, was installed as chancellor of the University of Toronto at a convocation during which he conferred honorary degrees on nine prominent citizens of Canada, Great Britain and the United States.

The installation ceremony yesterday was in part a tribute to the contribution the Massey family made to the university by endowing it with Hart House.

The convocation audience of 1,200 men and women heard Mr. Massey uphold liberal education as the strongest defence against the "pagan, materialistic, tyrannical, ruthless" philosophy of Communism. It heard Lord Beaverbrook, Canadian-born publisher of the London Daily Express and an honorary degree recipient, declare that a dictatorship of the press threatens in Great Britain.

President Harold W. Dodds of Princeton University who received another of the honorary degrees, said there was "distressingly little" co-operative research between Canada and the United States on social relations.

Publishers Given Degree

The others who received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws were: Mrs. Odgen Mills Reid, publisher of the New York Herald-Tribune; George McCullagh, publisher of the Toronto Globe and Mail; Lieutenant-Governor Ray Lawson of Ontario; Sir Alexander Cadogan, permanent representative of the United Kingdom on the United Nations Security Council; Chief Justice Thibaudeau Rinfret of the Supreme Court of Canada; Lawrence Hunt, New York lawyer; and Msgr. Ferdinand Vandry, rector of Laval University, Quebec City.

Mr. Massey, former lecturer in modern history at the university, said he saw the supreme value of a university not as a training for any occupation or profession but as the cultivation of the mind.

Lord Beaverbrook, speaking as Chancellor of the University of New Brunswick, said that where once the liberty of the press was restricted on grounds that a war was being fought, it now was threatened on the excuse of the dollar shortage.

"I do not say this threat of dictatorship of the press is intended," he said. "Politicians rarely intend the deeds that events and their own mistakes drive them to commit. But the danger is upon us. And it is intensified by a widespread movement in Britain frankly directed against the liberty of the press. Men in high places, some in government employ, are in the forefront of this attack."

BEAUTY, SIMPLICITY, GRANDEUR COMBINE IN WEDDING OF PRINCESS AND PHILIP

A radiant bride, Princess Elizabeth drew cries of "Isn't she lovely!" as Royal Family's Irish coach carried her to the Abbey for her marriage to Philip Mountbatten.

In London

Huddling together for warmth people on the wedding route ignore the chill rain which fell before the wedding procession. By 10 a.m. there were two hundred casualties along the marriage route — six were injured so seriously as to require hospitalization.

In New York

In a New York restaurant the radio was carrying a running account of the British royal wedding pageantry. And these people, including a milkman making deliveries, were getting as much of a bang out of the great event as were any of the officials in Westminster.

Bancroft

Man Accidentally Shot Thru Chest, Dies in 20 Mins.

Accidentally shot through the chest with the rifle which he was going to use to kill one of his pigs, Cecil Bruce, 47, of Bancroft, died early Friday afternoon.

Bruce, with a neighbor Harold Thompson, had gone into his kitchen to get the rifle and had been outside but a few minutes when the rifle discharged the bullet entering under one arm and coming out through the chest. He died 20 minutes later.

Mrs. Thompson was emptying dish water in her back yard when she heard a shot and looking up saw Bruce throw up his arms, stagger and fall to the ground.

An employee of Canada Packers, Mr. Bruce was very familiar with a rifle and made his livelihood partly by hunting and trapping. He was particularly careful in seeing that his rifle was unloaded before it was put away.

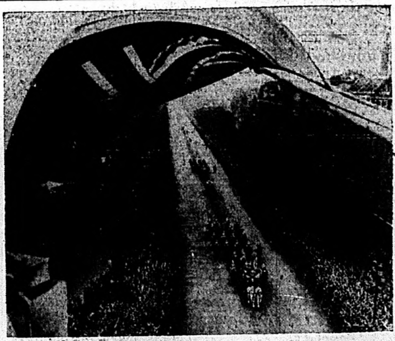
The funeral will be held Monday from the Anglican Church.

500-POUND BEAR SHOT

St. Thomas, Nov. 22 — (CP) — A bear said to be the biggest ever shot in the Golden Valley area of Northern Ontario — a 500-pounder — was shot by Maurice Jones, local merchant, during a deer-hunting trip.

CARRIED TO SAFETY

Niagara Falls, Nov. 22—(CP)—A four-month-old baby was carried to safety by a passing milkman when fire broke out in a two - storey frame apartment house here yesterday. The fire left four families homeless.



A general view of the royal wedding procession coming from Buckingham Palace to Westminster Abbey as it passed along London's famed Mall through a mass of enthusiastic Londoners, thousands of whom had waited all night for a sight of the royal bride. Austerity took a holiday to permit Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh to say their "I will's." This photo was made from Admiralty Arch, which straddles the bridal path.

WAR HEROINE

National heroine at the age of 11, Marguerite Vansteenberghe, now 15 years old, stands at attention in Nice, France, after being decorated with the Croix de Guerre, her country's highest honor. A member of the resistence movement during the war, Marguerite won the award for saving the lives of two chiefs of the underground army from the dreaded Gestapo.

THREE ARRESTED

Toronto, Nov. 22—(CP)—Three men were arrested last night and charged with theft and receiving in three separate cases involving a total of more than $50,000. John Finley, 55, cashier for a produce firm, was charged with theft of $36,000. Terence O'Reilly, 59, was accused of receiving $14,000 in stolen bonds. Ernest Drewery, an accountant, was charged with theft of $500 from his employers.

WEDDINGS

FARGEY—GALLOWAY

Springbrook United Church was the scene of a pretty Autumn wedding on Saturday, November 8, when Florence Helen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Galloway, became the bride of David Allan Fargey, only son of Mr. Samuel Fargey and the late Mrs. Fargey, of West Huntingdon.

Rev. H. P. Christensen performed the ceremony, wedding music was played by the church organist, Mrs. John McKeown, and Mrs. George Williams was soloist singing "In The Garden of Tomorrow" and "Because".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of brocaded satin featuring a sweetheart neckline and fitted sleeves coming to a point over the wrists. Her shoulder length veil was caught with a headdress of orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

Mrs. Hugh McMullen was matron of honor, wearing a floor length gown of blue taffeta with matching shoulder length veil. She carried a bouquet of deep pink roses.

Miss Dora Galloway, sister of the bride was bridesmaid, wearing a floor length gown of yellow eyelet embroidery with matching shoulder length veil. She carried a nosegay of 'mums and roses.

Miss Carol Raye as flower girl looked charming in a floor length gown of pink taffeta with matching veil. She carried a nosegay of 'mums and roses.

Mr. Orval Raye was groomsman and the ushers were Messrs. Stanley Galloway, brother of the bride, and Laird English, cousin of the groom.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mrs. George Williams, for approximately seventy-five guests. The bride's mother received in a two-piece dress of blue wool with a corsage of red roses. Mrs. Robert Belshaw assisted.

Later the young couple left for a honeymoon to Niagara Falls, United States and Ottawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Fargey will reside in West Huntingdon.

SCIATICA—LUMBAGO

Here is a medicine made specially to help you

Have you ever stopped and wondered WHY you suffer those sudden stabs—those joint and muscle pains? It may be Nature's best method of warning that all is not well with you. Pains may be caused by waste matters that should have been cleared from the system. They should have been cleared if the kidneys were working well. These all-important organs must be helped to function normally so that they can get on with their ceaseless work of helping to eliminate harmful impurities from the body. If these are left to accumulate in the system, serious trouble in the form of a crippling attack of sciatica or lumbago may develop. So don't delay when you get warning pains—get a medicine made specially for your trouble—De Witt's Kidney and Bladder Pills. This valuable remedy can be relied on to help in toning and enlivening the kidneys to function the better and assist in cleansing the system.

Shakesperian Repertory Group To Tour Canada

By PAT USSHER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, Nov. 22 (CP)—Donald Wolfit and his British Shakespearian repertory company next month will start a cross-Canada tour which will bring to a number of cities in the Dominion their first professional stage productions since 1939.

The company, which toured six cities in eastern Canada last season before coming to Broadway, will play in at least 12 centres through the Dominion beginning in Halifax on Dec. 18. Also on the itinerary are Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto.

The Wolfit players, who have just completed a run at London's Savoy theatre, will include six Shakespeare plays in their repertory: "Macbeth," "King Lear," "King Richard III," "Much Ado About Nothing," "Twelfth Night" and "A Midsummer Night's Dream." The company will follow their Canadian appearances with an eastward tour of United States cities As reported earlier, they plan an eight weeks' run in New York starting late in March.

Rosalnd Idn will play the lead femine roles opposite Wolfit.

Celebrated Scenes

A new type of stage performance, celebrated scenes from noteworthy plays with the original stars re-acting their boles, may be seen in New York next January. Plans are underway to present 10 such scenes in a series of benefit performances on behalf of the American National theatre and academy. Helen Hayes already has agreed to appear in "Vistoria Regina" which appears a certainty for one of the episodes. Producer Cheryl Crawford has suggested these among others Katharine Cornell in "The Letter"; Raymond Massey in "Abe Lincoln in Illinois"; Elisabeth Berger in "Escape Me Never!" Paul Robeson in "Macbeth"; Florence Reed in "The Shanghai Gesture," and Maurice Evans in "Richard II."

White Shrine Holds Successful Bazaar In I.O.O.F. Hall

On Thursday afternoon the Oddfellows' Hall, Front Street, was the scene of great activity when ladies of the "White Shrine" sponsored a bazaar. The hall was attractively decorated in a color scheme of yellow and green, adding to the beautiful setting.

Mrs. Ashby W.H.P., and Mrs. J. Pinch welcomed the guests.

A lace covered table was centred with a bouquet of 'mums in yellow and rusty tones, with candles of a rust shade in twin candelabra. The silver services at either end of the table were presided over by Mrs. M. J. Barlow, P.W.H.P., Mrs. W. D. Elliott, P.W.H.P., Mrs. Frank Moon and Mrs. A. D. McLean, the presiding Worthy Matrons of the O.E.S. Chapters in the city.

Conveners Mrs. W. Harrrison and Mrs. C. Baragar were highly complimented on the arrangement of the tea room. They were assisted by Mrs. W. Adams, Mrs. Storey, Mrs. Taft, Mrs. Austin, Mrs. Holst, Mrs. Armstrong, Mrs. P. Anderson, Mrs. Moorman, Mrs. Bolton, Mrs. York, Mrs. McGlashon, Mrs. E. Barlow, Mrs. Ironside, Mrs. McLaughlin, Mrs. Blackwood and Miss Sprague.

Aprons of all colors and styles were displayed by Mrs. S. Cherrie, Mrs. H. Reed as conveners, assisted by Mrs. B. Anderson, P.W.H.P. and Mrs. Doolittle.

Mrs. R. Sargent and Mrs. Grey with Mrs. W. Broad attracted considerable attention with their booth of fancy work and knitted goods, while Mrs. H. Stevens assisted and displayed the lovely wool blanket.

Mrs. H. Stewart and Mrs. C. Clapp, convened the home-cooking table offering a great variety of delectable dainties. They were ably assisted by Mrs. Wessel, Mrs. Lazenby and Mrs. A. Calnan.

Mrs. Elvidge, Mrs. Twiddy, presided at the table of jams, plants and candy, and did a flourishing business assisted by Mrs. Nokes, and Mrs. Stephenson.

Mrs. G. Adams and Mrs. Ceigler were in charge of the grocery baskets of which Mrs. Ironside and Mrs. A. Cooper were the winners. While the lovely wool blanket was won by Dr. McMullen of Frankford.

Mrs. A. Nayler and Mrs. K. Adams as conveners of the bazaar are deeply grateful to all for a very successful afternoon especially financially for the first bazaar sponsored by the White Shrine.

Davies Concert Party Wholly Family Group

The Davies Concert Party who are coming to Tabernacle United Church on Monday, Nov. 24, have met with much success since they started to tour early in 1946. Since that time they have given 160 concerts in centres from London, Sarnia to North Bay.

The ensemble is wholly a family group consisting of Vera Hendeson Davie (mother), musical director and accompanist; Frances, mezzo-soprano (daughter); two sons, Nelles Davie, basso, and Noble Davie, baritone.

VERA DAVIE

The father, William Malcolm Davie, is manager and booking agent. The group is touring the east for the first time and will have appeared in Kingston, Brockville and other centres before coming here.

They have visited and given concerts in summer hotels such as Bigwin Inn, Limberlost Lodge and Tally Ho Inn.

Mrs. Davie has supervised all the vocal training of her family and has been responsible for a large number of the harmony arrangements which they use. Through her own study and experience in Canada and the United States she has prepared a concert of solos, duets and trios designed to appeal to those who enjoy music of a better type. They feature French, German and Italian repertoire, but they give largely an all-English program. They sing oratorios and operatic airs as well as concert songs and also include a few of the well-known light opera and musical comedy numbers.

As one newspaper put it, "A musical treat of outstanding merit; a night of music which will long be remembered by those who were fortunate to attend."

The Davies Concert Party are coming under the sponsorship of the Tabernacle Men's Club with the proceeds of the concert to church work.

Quintena Lodge Holds School Of Instruction

The Quintena Rebekah Lodge No. 133 held their School of Instruction in the I.O.O.F. Hall on Tuesday afternoon, with the President of the Rebekah Assembly of Ontario Sister Ruby Webb of Prescott in charge; the Assembly Warden Sister Carr of Toronto and Assembly Chaplain Sister Morrow of Stirling assisting.

Representatives from Laurel Lodge, Stirling, Oakdale Lodge, Madoc, Crescent Lodge, Thomasburg and Tweed Lodge, assisted in the demonstration of the various orders of business. This was a very instructive and helpful meeting as this has been the first school of instruction held here in many years.

Dinner was served in the upper Hall amidst a setting of white 'mums and ferns. Sisters Andrew, Beale Robb, Mitchell and Fitzgibbon were in charge.

The visiting Sisters showed their appreciation at this time by inaugurating a C.P. & T. Fund. This fund is for the helping in the prevention of cancer, polio and tuberculosis and was gratefully accepted by the lodge.

The evening meeting opened in regular form with the following visitors introduced:

President, Sister Webb, by Sister Cooper, P.N.G.; Assembly Warden, Sister Carr, by Sister Twiddy, P.N.G.; Assembly Chaplain Sister Morrow by Sister Sandercock, P.N.G.; Bros. Geo. Kerr, Past Grand Patriarch by Sister Ruth Charlton P.N.G.; District Deputy Pres., Sister Turvey by Sister Cornish P.N.G.; District Deputy Grand Master Bro. Webb of Thomasburg by Sister Mabel Bray, P.N.G.

A memorial service was beautifully portrayed in a very impressive manner in honor of deceased Brothers and Sisters, the Noble Grands carrying lighted candles followed by their Past Noble Grands forming an arc around the altar while the members of Quintena Lodge formed in a double cross. District Deputy Sisters Webb, Countryman, Morrow, Sandercock and Conley reciting the charges.

Solos were rendered by Sister Webber and Sister Plumpton after which each of the officers placed a white 'mum on the altar followed by the members who placed evergreen on forming the shape of a cross.

Owing to the resignation of Sister Mary Fleury, Noble Grand Elect, who was unable to accept her office on account of illness, District Deputy Pres., Eva Turvey with Sister Irene Aman as Deputy Marshal installed Sister Dorothy Harwood as Noble Grand and Sister Elizabeth Noakes as Vice Grand. They were escorted by a guard of honor.

Presentation of gifts were then made as follows:

Gift to the President from the District was made by Sisters Cooper and Countryman.

To the Assembly Warden by Sisters Ironsides and Lottie Smith.

To the Assembly Chaplain by Sister Annis Webb and Sister Bird.

To the District Deputy Pres. by Sister Andrews and Sister Frost.

Gifts were presented to Sister Dorothy Harwood from Sister Mary Fleury and Sister Turvey, D.D.P.

All expressed in a few words their appreciation of the gifts.

An inspiring message was given by the President who reviewed the work of Oddfellowship and Rebekahs at home and abroad.

Speeches were also made by Sister Carr, it being her first official visit and Sister Morrow.

After the close of Lodge all assembled in the upper hall where refreshments were served.

A Painting for Christmas

(From an article by T. S. Gordon in the Sun Life Review)

With Christmas just a few weeks away the inevitable question is "What shall I give her for Christmas?"

Here is an idea which would delight the heart of any homemaker, whether she be mother, wife, or girlfriend, and all you need is a little time and ingenuity.

A lot of people on seeing an attractive color picture in a magazine or on a wall calendar often feel that it is a pity to waste its beauty so why not frame it—possibly by sticking the picture on a card, trimming to size and mounting in a frame? Yet, by doing this, there is something lacking when viewed through the glass pane. It is lifeless and drab, and your interest wanes. The sad result is that the once beautiful picture is consigned to the furnace.

This lead me to suggest a method I have had the pleasure of using for some time past, and one that keeps the picture alive. The picture selected should be preferably printed on an art paper or taken from a magazine, provided that the printed matter on the reverse side does not show through. The picture is first thoroughly dampened to soften the paper and the surplus moisture is then removed by blotting the paper. The next operation is to spread a glue, usually the kind purchased in tubes, carefully and evenly over the whole of the reverse side of the picture, and place it on a strip of canvas by use of a roller similar to that used by photographers. Now place several thicknesses of blanket on the table, then a sheet of tissue paper somewhat larger than the picture, and on this the canvas mounted picture, face down. Now place a board or a piece of staff cardboard on top, and over all, some heavy articles such as books (or the old-time office press is ideal). Then leave the picture under pressure until thoroughly dry, generally for a day or so. Do not attempt to hasten drying by using heat.

When released from the weight or press, the canvas should be showing through the picture with the result that you have a fair representation of one actually painted on canvas. The final step is to apply two or three coats of clear picture varnish which can be bought at any art shop. Ordinary painter's varnish will do if of good quality and not yellow. The finished picture may be slightly darker than the original, but it is at least alive and when trimmed and framed without glass, looks like the real thing.

The completed picture has something of the appearance of an oil painting, is cleanable by wiping with a damp cloth, and will last for years. The whole process can be done by anybody, and without any tools except a pair of scissors. Thus many a fine picture can be given permanence and made worthy to hang in any room in the house.

Women's Activities

ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S.

Marmora. — The November meeting of St. Andrew's Women's Missionary Society was held in the church parlors on Tuesday afternoon. The President, Mrs. Haacke was in the chair and conducted the opening and Worship period. There was a good attendance of members and one associate member and a visitor. Mrs. H. C. Barlow acted as secretary in the absence of Mrs. Wallbridge.

At the conclusion of the business period, Mrs. Pack presented the slate of new officers and Rev. E. M. Cadigan conducted the installation. The officers and Rev. E. M. Cadigan conducted the installation. The officers-elect for 1948 will be:

President, Mrs H. A. Burwash.
1st Vice President, Mrs. H. C. Barlow.
2nd Vice President, Mrs. E. C. Prentice.
Rec.Sec., Mrs. W. J. Pack.
Cor.-Sec., Mrs. I. Wells.
Treasurer, Mrs. G. Jarvis.
Sec. of Christian Stewardship, Mrs. E. M. Cadigan
Assoc., Members Sec. Mrs. Jarvis.
Supply Sec., Mrs. Wallbridge
Community Friendship Sec., Mrs. F. Sweet.
Literature Sec., Mrs. Trenium.
Miss. Monthly Sec., Mrs. Sproul
Press, Mrs. H. W. Sabine

Mrs. Burwash and Mrs Cadigan had charge of the Study period and in an interesting manner dealt with the way the Bible was translated into the Hawaiian and Gilbert Islands' tongue. The difficulties that were overcome in the building of an alphabet and language, and later getting it printed in book form, then teaching the natives was very fascinating. On hearing of the need of a printing press, friends of the missionary in America sent over the necessary equipment to the Hawaiian Islands; but it remained for a shipwrecked sailor, who was rescued, and who had been a printer by trade, to teach the art of printing.

Mrs. Jarvis gave a short quiz, on "Do You Know?". The meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. Haacke.

What Savings Plan Are You Using?

A small sum of money, readily available, will meet a minor financial emergency .. but savings of this sort, because of their availability, never grow large enough to meet a major financial crisis. Nor do they offer a guarantee that, in case of death, your dependents will be left the amount of money you intended to save .. Life insurance savings are available in emergency but are protected from "spend-thrift" impulses. Insurance guarantees financial security for your dependents and is the soundest, surest way of saving for your own later years.

Dulles Attacked By Russian Paper In Cartoon

Moscow, Nov. 22 — (AP)—The Literary Gazette published today a photo-montage entitled "John Foster Dulles," showing the figure of a man with the face of a bespectacled, pipe-smoking gorilla. The sub-title described Dulles as a supporter of a "tough policy" in American-Russian relations.

Dulles is the United States delegate on the United Nations political committee and has been the subject of previous attacks in the Literary Gazette, which also has carried bitter denunciations of President Truman and other leading American personalities. Dulles leaves today for London to attend the four-power council of foreign ministers.

I want to know how much does it cost to keep your family?

Caring for his family in the way it deserves takes much of a man's effort.

But the cost of adequately providing for your loved ones would be just about the same, even if you were not here.

Since 1869, the Mutual Life of Canada has been providing policyholders with low cost life insurance.

Call and see our representative and let him show you how easy it is to be sure that your family will be properly looked after, no matter what happens to you.

COLLEGIATE NEWS

ASSEMBLY, NOV. 22, 1947

Assembly this morning was under the direction of the Hi-Y Club, and it opened under the chairmanship of Jack Campbell. Bob Davidson read the Scripture passage, after which were the Lord's Prayer and the National Anthem. Then the audience sang the hymn 'Follow the Gleam'.

Next came a series of announcements. First, Mary Lo Wishart told us about an evening of one-act plays to be held early in the next term. Also, there was an announcement about a course in voice training.

Then Doug Wilmott enlightened the audience about a program of Christmas music to be put on by the Glee Club on Dec. 12.

Mr. Townsend had a series of announcements, the first being a letter he received from Jim Taugher, thanking the school for sending flowers at the time of his father's death. Mr. Townsend also told us about the formation of a boxing cub, so any Hercules and Joe Louis' will be welcomed. The third athletic announcement was about the beginnings for Boys' Night.

Mr. Phillips then presented the awards to the boys who won the honors at the Field Day. Congratulations are in order to Mort Bradshaw, George Locke and Tom Lewis.

The B. C. I. Band, under the direction of Mr. A. Cooper, then played the march 'Our Director' while the stage was being prepared for the HI-Y program. With Jim 'That's our president' Airth as the M.C. the Hi-Y "Truth or Consequence' show got under way. After a series of fairly easy (?) questions, which all but one of the contestants failed to answer, they paid the 'Consequences', such as singing (by Gerry Bongard), squirting water (Alan McBurney and Kip Summers), a hilarious delicious pie-eating contest (Dick Martin and Bruce Robbins), with the winner, Dick Martin getting pie-eyed and faced! Bob (God's gift to women) Moher answered a question correctly, so the assembly just had to close. As the students filed into the auditorium, the band played the march 'Through Night to Light' and while the students were sadly going out the band played 'Pack Up Your Troubles'.

Well — see you next week.

"ELEVATOR BANQUET"

The annual "Elevator" Banquet was held at Lanthorn Inn, Trent Rd., on November 19th. A sing-song preceded the serving of a delicious chicken dinner. Brief reports were made by the various committees on the Elevator staff regarding their achievements so far. The meeting was then adjourned so that the guests could patronize the Sadie-Hawkin's dance at the school. Mr. and Mrs. Currie, Miss Priest, and Mr. and Mrs. Archibald were present as well as the Elevator staff.

SADIE HAWKINS DANCE

(By Jean Wright)

It happens once every year and for 1947 the opportunity has passed. Of course I am referring to the Sadie Hawkins Dance, Wednesday night.

What an affair! The lucky men were 'dragged' (or rather escorted) to this event by their dream girls, and never has there been such a smile on their faces as they casually (?) strolled by the ticket table. They didn't even have to worry about dancing partners. It was the girls who did the asking and the cutting in. Naturally the boys hated it. To prove this statement is a conversation I overheard by two of the handsome L'il Abners. Each was trying to outdo the other as to the number of "babes" (I quote) who had cut in on him.

The dance was put on through the combined efforts of the tenth grade and the Girls' Athletic Society. It was very well organized and everything went smoothly. There were many specialty dances: Spot, lemon, boys' tag and a statue dance (the positions some couples managed to get into!) Half way through the evening a line was formed and everyone paraded around the gym in order that the best Daisy Mae and L'il Abner might be chosen.

At eleven o'clock the dance broke up and what happened after is anybody's guess.

GIRLS' SPORTS By L.R.M.

Sorry we missed last week, kids, but it was because of unavoidable circumstances—ahem! Here is the schedule followed out during the past two weeks.

Nov. 7—GXIIIB vs GXIIIA scored 22-20 for XIIIA. Referee, J. Ashbury.

Nov. 7—GXIIA vs GXIIA scored 27-18 for GXIIA, Referee, Meribeth Miller.

Nov. 10 —C12B vs H12A. H12A won this game by default. Referee, M. L. Wishart.

Nov. 10—GX1A vs GX1C. Scored 19-6 for GX1C. Referee B. Zebedee.

Nov. GX1B vs CX1A. Scored 18-12 for CX1A. Referee, Miss Morgan.

Nov. 12—G10A vs C10A. Scored 16-19 for G10A. Referee, B. Rees.

Nov. 12—G10C vs H10A. Scored 16-8 for H10A. Ref. B. Rees.

Nov. 13 —G10B vs C10b. Scored 16-5 for C10B. Referee B. Roblin.

Form teams are being picked from Grades 9, 10, 11 to go to Napanee to play volleyball on Tuesday, Nov. 25.

The Girls' Athletic Society and the Executive committee from grade teners are combining their efforts for a whang-up Sadie Hawkins dance—the results of which will be heard next week.

CUFF NOTES

—By Turtle

As the door of my padded cell clangs behind me and my footfalls ring in the cold grey, halls, I clutch my yellow slip tightly, praying to the gods that the teachers won't see me. After threading my way through various objects such as Grade eleven French books, cigar butts and used Kleenex I finally reach my place of refuge—the band room.

With other associates we solemnly march to our place of honor before the assembly. I then look at the audience of hushed students wondering what goes on in their minds. Of course when our illustrious band is playing, there is no doubt as to what they think as one can see them rocking back and forth to the beat of the rhythm.

Many comments have been passed on the program of our assemblies. Some students want more music, some more films and certain dubious characters want more cheerleaders. But everyone is satisfied with the forms taking turns putting on the assembly.

They picked him up, carried him tenderly to the waiting vehicle. Gently they dressed his many wounds. He lay stiff as a piece of steel from the lift-locks. It was hard for him, that long journey home, but at last he entered the dressing-room, the Juniors carrying the Seniors with one hand and a bottle of liniment in the other. What a scene of pity it was, but we can't win all the time—those Peterborough cads.

BOYS' SPORTS

By John Francis

The Juniors, Bay of Quinte champions this year, and bearers of an unbeaten record, went to Peterborough on November 8th to play Peterborough Juniors. Our boys left the field smarting from a 17-0 whitewashing. Thus, they took the field last Saturday at Albert with a 17-point deficit on the series. Although they sparkled on the attack both in ground and aerial tactics, they displayed a weak passing defence, and took a 22-16 lacing. The game was wide open, with five passes, three for Peterborough, resulting in touchdowns.

B.C.I. took an early 10-0 lead on touchdowns by Hatfield and Locke, but P.C.I. struck back with two majors and a convert, to lead 11-10. Wyatt, both times, took forward passes to score the Pete majors, with Coon converting on the first try. From there on Peterborough was never headed. Griffin took a pass for the third P.C.I. major, and Coon converted. Fleet Bob Taylor took a pass from Locke, and ran 30 yards for the third Belleville T. D. "Buck" Buchanan booted a single point, making the score 17-16, with B.C.I. pressing. But the fumble, which is still the greatest play in rugby, aided the Petes in gaining their fourth major, and in clinching the game. When the B.C.I. backfield fumbled, Evans broke through the line, kicked the ball all the way down the field, and fell on it in the end zone for the final points.

The Seniors finished their season two days before the Juniors with a game at Albert. The Seniors made their winless season complete, by losing to the College boys 13-1.

Albert pulled into a 7-0 lead in the first quarter, on a converted touchdown, and a single point. Taugher scored the major, while Scott booted the convert and the single. In the second quarter, McGaughy went over for the second Albert touchdown, and Scott converted to make it 13-0. Creeggan saved B.C.I. from a shutout with a rouge into the end zone in the final quarter. Incidentally, the best player on the field for B.C.I. was the Junior who played the whole game at quarter — George Locke.

Oh yes, the boys may need this information for their (gulp) impending Health exam: I-10-B won the Lower School rugby championship, while Commercial 12th grade took the prize in Upper School.

Thus ends another rugby season in the history of the BCIVS, so on with basketball.

THE GLEE CLUB

By MYRTLE REID

Parts are being assigned and practised by various students and customers are being made in preparation for the Christmas Pageant. Mr. Templer thought he would have a hard time to locate someone with even the slightest resemblance to a Christmas angel so he began his search early. Results: not only one angel, but eighteen. How he picked them out is beyond me! All the girls look angelic only four weeks before the Christmas exams. It comes naturally in the presence of teachers who set the exam papers.

Members of the Glee Club are also holding heavy rehearsals for the Pageant. These rehearsals, which are combined with "Purple Towers," include chants and carols and the kids are doing a fine job (including our boy alto). The Glee Club will be heard through the entire performance but will not be seen until near the final curtain. As well as singers from the school, a couple of outside vocalists will be present to offer their talent.

A Christmas Pageant is something new in this school but if you will give us the support that you have in the past, we feel that we can make it an event which would be greatly looked forward to every year. The big night is Friday, December 12.

Educational Notes

Reminders to Parents

(Contributed by Belleville Teachers' Council)

It is very important that your child be at school on time. If late, he not only has lost time, but has disturbed the class and started the day himself on the wrong foot.

Are you buying new galoshes for your child? If so, please help the teacher by getting them large enough so he can put them on himself.

If lost, they are easier to find if his name is in them.

What is Education?

Someone has defined it thus: Education is what remains after what you have learned is forgotten.

Wise men have always known that the important thing is not what Johnny is taught at school, but what Johnny learns at school. Citizenship, as such, can be deleted completely from the curriculum, but every day while he is being taught reading, writing or arithmetic, Johnny is acquiring habits of behavior which will color the quality of his citizenship. Through his teacher's approach to subject matter, he learns to become interested or bored, to be tolerant or intolerant, to accept unquestionably or to seek for proof, to respect authority or to cringe and rebel at it. He is learning to express his opinions or to be led around by the nose; he learns to listen to the minority or to bully it. Every day he practises being a citizen, and that practice is never wholly static. Through it he becomes more proficient as a constructive or a destructive member of society.

(Scottish Rite Bulletin)

In an article in the November issue of "Atlantic Monthly", Sir Richard Livingstone says, "Human beings rarely walk in the centre of the road; they reel drunkenly from the ditch on one side to the ditch on the other side.

This is a weakness in our society, and education which includes what is learned in the home as well as at school should protect society from these extremes, and teach our youth to measure values by thinking problems through.

Education is the process of guiding the individual in his ability to adjust himself to this changing world, to enable the individual to meet life as it comes and live it richly, to solve new problems as they arise; to maintain health, to obtain the necessities of a physical living in a physical world, to take his part in the family and in the home, to adjust himself to civic life, to understand that freedom necessitates self-control and self-discipline; to get knowledge, to use his leisure time in ways profitable to himself and to society, and to meet the needs of his spiritual life through better understanding of his place in a complex universe.

You know where your stocks and bonds are;
You are careful to lock your car,
You guard your silver and your jewels,
Do you know where your children are?

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

BY WINIFRED E. WILSON

AN AUTUMN VISITOR

"What do you mean by saying the Junco has white shafts, Aunt Alice?"

"The bird's outer tail feathers are white. Did you notice its bill? That is characteristic too, Bobbie."

"Yes, it's about the color of your face, and shaped something like a Sparrow's."

"That's right, because it is a kind of Sparrow. Their bills are all shaped so that they can crack open seeds. The slate-colored Junco eats a few insects in summer, especially caterpillars. But the reason it is able to live here in cold weather is because it is a seed eater; and unless there is a tremendous snow storm, some weed seeds can be found even in winter. Farmers should be glad that it actually prefers these to anything else."

"Remember Juncos came for crumbs to our feeding table late last fall, Aunt Alice. They said, 'Tsip, 'tsip.'."

"Yes, that was after a big snow storm. How very friendly they were! People that band birds say Juncos get into their traps oftener than most species, and one will sometimes be caught year after year, proving that it returns to the same locality each autumn."

From April on through the warm weather the Junco may be found in open poplar and birch woods anywhere from our southern border north westward to the Mackenzie River. Under a tuft of grass or close to a rock the nest is hidden from prying eyes. When the young ones first leave home they are greyish brown with black streaks; but in one way they resemble their parents—they have the white shafts, though their tails are so bunty that the white is merely a little dot on each side. If you try approaching too close, mother and father will object with their scolding "chuck" note. When unmolested, Mr. Junco's song is like the tinkling of a little bell, similar to, yet more musical than the trill of a Chipping Sparrow.

Grey and white join in an absolutely straight line across their breasts. This costume easily differentiates them from their brownish relatives, with whom they associate in migration. However, not until really cold weather has set in do they leave their nesting grounds, and even then they may not travel far. On taking a walk on a snowy country road in December it is quite possible to find oneself in the midst of a flock of a hundred or more feeding Juncos.

Stratford Scores Biggest Upset of Senior O.H.A. Season By Beating Hamilton Tigers

St. Catharines Teepees Take St. Michael's by 7 to 4 Count

(By The Canadian Press)

Stratford Indians scored the biggest upset in last night's Ontario Hockey Association Senior "A" games when they blanked the highly-touted Hamilton Tigers 2-0 at Stratford.

In the two other senior fixtures Hamilton Patricias rang up a 5-3 victory over the winless, bottom-rung Brantford Redmen in the Mountain City and Toronto Marlboros preserved their top-place position by defeating Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen 4-1 at Waterloo.

St. Catharines Teepees upset Toronto St. Michael's Majors 7-4 at St. Catharines in last night's lone junior game. It put them in a three-way tie for sixth position with Galt Rockets and St. Mike's.

Stratford's win was the team's third in eight starts. Joe Fitzpatrick, with Pete Long and Mike Dzuira assisting, came through for the battling Tribesmen in the second frame with the first counter. With less than five minutes to go in the last stanza Pete Long salted the verdict away. Dzuira and Johnny Messmer were given assists.

Hamilton Patricias hitting .500 in their six games so far this season, looked good in their 5-3 win over Kenny Kipp's Brantford crew. Pats took a 2-1 first-period lead, went on to 3-1 second-frame lead and scored two for two in the last session.

Oscar Clouthier led Hamilton with two tallies. Pats' other counters were by Nick Phillips, Murray Comfort and Warner. Don Caddy, Robin Hewson and Luckman scored for Brantford.

Again teh Toronto Maple Leaf protege, goalie Howie Harvey, sparked the Marlies. Kitchener outplayed the winners in the first and third periods but could beat Harvey only once. He stopped 44 shots to Dutchmen goalie Keith Woodall's 23. Toronto scorers were Harry Psutka, Ike Hildebrand, Al Buchanan and Dean McBride. Dutchmen's lone tally came from Bobby Dixon.

St. Catharines Teepees appear to be on the upsurge with their sound 7-4 triumph over Joe Primeau's collegians. Teepee's scorers were Fred. Hildebrand ,Tom Buck, Jack McIntyre, Jim Maxwell, Moon Mullens, Wayne Service and Topper Toppazzini. St. Mike's counters came from Gordon Hannigan with two, Brian McAllister and Joe DeCourcy.

Brantford will bid again tonight for its first victory. Owen Sound Mercurys will meet the Redmen in Brantford, in the lone senior game scheduled.

Four junior games are on deck. Oshawa and Windsor will try to break their first-place deadlock when they meet Toronto Young Rangers and Toronto Marlboros at Maple Leaf Gardens and Windsor, respectively. St. Catharines faces Toronto St. Michael's Majors in the afternoon's second game at the Gardens and Guelph visits Galt.

JAKE LAMOTTA SUSPENDED BY COMMISSION

Can Fight No More in N. Y. State Until Grand Jury Reports

New York, Nov. 22 — (AP) — Jake Lamotta can fight no more in New York State, at least until the Grand Jury and the District Attorney's office complete their investigation of his fourth-round knockout by Philadelphia Billy Fox.

The State Athletic Commission handed the middleweight an indefinite suspension yesterday on a charge of concealing vital facts about his physical condition prior to his Madison Square Garden appearance a week ago last night.

At the same time, the Commission ruled that the purses of both fighters would be held up until the D. A.'s office concludes its investigation. The two inquiries were launched simultaneously after newspaper stories criticized Lamotta's performance.

The commission headed by chairman Eddie Eagan, announced its decision at the end of a three-hour closed session during which Lamotta was questioned along with Al Silvani, his manager of record, and Dr. Nicholas Salerno, Lamotta's personal physician.

Eagan said Lamotta had visited Dr. Salerno three times during his training for the fight and that the doctor had advised him not to box because of a haematoma of the spleen. Salerno reported that Lamotta had ignored this advice, Eagan disclosed.

"Dr. Nardiello (physician employed by the 20th Century Sporting Club) stated that if he had been advised about this hidden injury Lamotta would not have been approved by him for a major boxing match for at least two months after the injury.

Such a concealment for personal gain this commission holds to be against the best interests of boxing," Eagan said.

The commissioner would consider the facts again after the results of the District Attorney's investigation are presented to the New York County Grand Jury.

ARGOS CONFIDENT THEY CAN TAKE OTTAWA TROJANS

Toronto Club Will Enter Eastern Finals as Strong Favorites to Win

By ROBERT CLARKE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Nov. 22 (CP).—Any team that has "everything to win and nothing to lose" can be a threat, and Ottawa Trojans were in just such a position today in the Eastern Canadian football final against Toronto Argonauts.

Not many of those on the sidelines, apart from a few relatives and good friends, give Trojans much chance of upsetting the power-laden Canadian champions. Argos will enter the game favorites at four or five to one and their supporters talk freely of winning by 15 or more points.

Argos rate as an all-weather team so they aren't likely to be bothered by the fact the weatherman has predicted as follows: "Showers beginning early Saturday morning, ending Saturday afternoon." Nor are they likely to be phased if it turns up cold, as predicted. They walloped Ottawa Roughriders 21-0 last Saturday in weather that Eskimos might have enjoyed but certainly not a football player would order.

In fact, it was that mastery over Riders, in the Big Four final, that established Argos prohibitive favorites to trounce Trojans, who are upholding the honor of the Ontario Rugby Football Union in the eastern final.

Steve Levantis, big and beaming and one of Argos' ace linemen, remarked last night while the scullers went through a one-hour drill that the only way Argonauts could lose against Trojans would be "if we fall asleep".

Then, as if feeling that a bit of hedging mightn't do any harm, Levantis added:

"Of course, lots of teams have fallen asleep."

Obviously (as will be seen by reading further) Levantis didn't make the remark in the hearing of Coach Teddy Morris, who has worried all week about over-confidence in the Argonauts' camp. While Argos were going through last night's drill, Morris said:

"I only hope the boys don't think they've just got to throw their helmets on the field."

Trojans have three former Argonauts in their line-up, so all the boys won't exactly be strangers. The ex-Argos are the Smylie brothers, Doug and Rod, and Tom Glenn. Doug Smylie is the kind of player who hight easily come up with a couple of sensational touch down sprints, as he did last week when Trojans eliminated Hamilton Wildcats in the O.R.F.U. final.

AHEARNE BUSILY PLANNING TOUR FOR HOCKEY TEAM

Former Hockey Official Claims Trip Will be an Eye-Opener for Players

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London. Nov. 22 — (CP) — John Francis (Bunny) Ahearne is unhappy. One of the old-school hockey officials who can hatch a plot along with the best of them, he hasn't time these days for behind-the-scenes manoeuvring.

Bunny, secretary on the British Ice Hockey Association and general secretary of the International Ice Hockey Federation, has been caught in a terrific pre-Olympic scramble necessitating a 12-hour working day interrupted by Trans-Atlantic telephone calls, cables and telegrams.

Bunny, called a "racketeer" many times in his 15-year career in hockey, is busily planning an enterprising European tour for Canada's Olympic team that will be an eye-opener for the players. Four of his daily working hours are spent on the telephone trying to arrange ship and air travel and hotel accommodation.

Arrival of the Canadian hockey club in Britain early in January is placing a terrific burden on his shoulders. Although he stoutly contends he is not a promoter, Bunny, is trying to figure out ways and means of defraying travel cost from North America and also to make the three-week lag before the Olympic games a paying proposition.

The Canadians will travel to Paris, Stockholm, and Davos. A post-Olympic series, not yet definite, calls for matches in Belgium, Czechoslovakia, France, Holland, Italy, Sweden and Switzerland.

In addition to this work Ahearne is busy arranging trips by British clubs to most of these countries; visits to Britain by Swedish, Czechoslovakian, French and Swiss; extra games against British clubs for the English Olympic team; preparing B.I.H.A. schedules and rules; meeting Association referees and coaches, rink managers and attending twice-monthly sessions of the B. I. H. A. executive council.

Edgar Laprade's Two Goals in 34 Secs. Not Record

(By The Canadian Press)

Just in case you're wondering if New York Rangers have come up with another National Hockey League record, you can forget it.

Last Wednesday Edgar Laprade rapped in two goals in 34 seconds when Rangers defeated Detroit Red Wings 6-5.

Laprade's performance falls short of the individual scoring record set March 13, 1933, by Carl Liscombe of Detroit, who scored twice in 23 seconds against Chicago. What's more, it is shown in the files dug up by Publicity Director Ken McKenzie of the N.H.L. Liscombe rounded out the hat trick, three goals in one minute and 52 seconds.

Don Raleigh of Rangers set an individual assist record last Sunday against Montreal Canadiens, taking part in three goals in one minute and 21 seconds.

Falconbridge Junior Combines defeated Sudbury Senior Wolves 5-4 last night and won the Macaskill trophy awarded annually to thes team winning the Nickel Belt Hockey League's pre-season tournament. League play gets under way on Monday.

Two goals by Jerry Seguin after a thirdperiod 3-3 deadlock won the game for the Combines. Other Falconbridge goals were scored by Howard Beaudry, Hector Barbe and Bud MacIver. Sudbury counters came from Bucky Basso, Al Knapp, George Hastie and Norm Miles.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

Jersey Joe Walcott, the latest lamb for the Joe Louis slaughter come December 5 in Madison Square Garden, had a namesake way back in 1899 who was the current Negro welterweight champion. The early Joe, something like the Sepia Slugger, ran out of good competition and decided to take a coast-to-coast tour "meeting all comers."

• • •

In Louisville, Kaintucky, were at proper seasons of the year, the blue of the grass takes the gold of the jays, Joe was scheduled to meet the local Negro pride, one Jim Ward for ten rounds. Now Jim had something between his ears besides a mop of fuzzy hair and a lot of white teeth, and he realised that his chances against the great Walcott, who had bopped several leading heavyweights to bye-bye with his lethal fists, were not overly brilliant

• • •

Jim, the pride of the high yallers, in order to maintain his reputation, or what there was of it, decided to assume a diplomtic role and accordingly sought out Joe for a tete-a-tete the day before the contest.

• • •

"Mistah Walcott, sah," he smiled in his most ingratiating manner. "Ah knows, sah, you kin beat me. An' I h'ave come to ask you if you'd lemme stay the ten rounds, and just get the decision without knocking me out. Ah has a lotta frens in this yere town and Ah doan wanna put up too poor a showin'."

Jims eyes misted with tears. "Mah ole fathers gwine to be here too, Mistah Walcott, and you wouldn't want youah ole man to see you murdered by a much bettah man than you, sah. If you'll only lemme stick around for the distance, you-all would be doin' me a favor Ah'll never fo'get, sah."

Ward seemed a likeable young man and Walcott, always a soft-hearted easy-going sort of fella took pity on the local fistic pride. The champion on his opponent and WaWW laughed, agreed to have mercy on his opponent and Ward went away, a huge grin splitting his ebony features.

But what Mistah Walcott did not know sah, was that Massa Ward, besides being a bit of a diplomat, was also a wily schemer. For eight rounds the champion outpointed his man, but eased up on his attack whenever Ward showed signs of distress. The faithful howled its approval. Their boy Ward was going great guns against the mighty champion. Who knew, perhaps he would beat him.

• • •

Joe, in the meantime, had grown a bit careless and just before the bell rang to end the eighth frame, he left his jaw exposed. Massa Ward sensed his opportunity. One solid punch, and he might make fistic history. He swung his right with everything he had behind it, and his fist caught the champion flush on his unprotected jowl.

Walcott staggered, and nearly went down. He clinched rapidly and saved himself. But being a champion and in the pink, or ebony, of condition, he quickly rallied. When they came up for the nineth round, he smiled grabbed Ward's gloved hand and shook it heartily.

• • •

Ward's eyes opened wide. He looked at Joe in surprise and grinned, "Yo' is makin' a mistake, Mistah Walcott, this yere ain't the last round."

"It's the last round for yo', brother" retorted the champion and hooked a left to the chin that tumbled Massa Ward to the canvas in a heap — knocked out cold.

The 58th annual meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association will be held at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, Saturday, Dec. 6 at 10:30 a.m. Notice of amendments to the constitution, regulations, rules of competition and rules of the game must be in the hands of the secretary, W. A. Hewitt, Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto, on or before Saturday, Nov. 22. Nominations for office of the O.H.A. executive must be registered with the secretary by Saturday, Nov. 29.

And while on that subject Belleville's representative on the O.H.A. executive, Mr. S. R. (Sandy) Burrows will likely run for office again. The bluff "Sandy" is well liked by his confreres on the exec, as well as by prominent hockey men of the province. A former junior player, he has taken a keen interest in the game since laying his skates away.

* * *

The flames of trouble are still raging about the coming Olympic hockey competition scheduled to take place at St. Moritz, Switzerland, in February, says a London despatch. John Ahearne has added more fuel to the fire when, in a statement from London he said it was "thumbs down" on the entry of a team from the United States.

* * *

The secretary of the British Ice Hockey Association commenting on the plans of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States, stated, "such a club won't be allowed to compete and will only be wasting time and money if they attempt to go through with it."

* * *

Fighting against American participation are officials of Europe and North America and they are presently taking steps to put a crimp in the U.S. entry.

* * *

Said Ahearne, "The move, in all probability, was inspired by Avery Brundage, chairman of the United States Olympic Committee. It will be the last kick in the two-year-old feud between the A.A.U. and A.H.A.—Amateur Hockey Association of the United States—but it won't work."

* * *

Brundage was also reported to have told the International Olympic Committee that if they accepted an A.H.A. of U.S. team for the February games, he would see that no other American competitor in any other sport would take part in the games.

* * *

The battle between the two American bodies was brought to the bursting point at a meeting in Prague last February when the A.H.A. of U.S. took over from the A.A.U. as a member of the International Ice Hockey Federation.

* * *

Officials of the A.A.U. then claimed they were "railroaded" out of the Federation and Brundage stated that the A.H.A. of U.S. would never be recognized by the United States Olympic Committee.

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

By H. DENT HODGSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Nov. 22 (CP).—If the dwindling football season has taught sports writers anything, it is that the Canadian grid game is an uncertain thing at best and that anything—anything at all—can happen.

In fact, you won't find anybody coming out flat-footed and saying that the super-smooth Toronto Argonauts are going to whop the pants off the third-rate Ottawa Trojans in the eastern grid final. Those climbing out on the limb are staying extremely close to the trunk.

It is comparatively simple, now, to explain why Trojans, who managed to look like a losing team all season and lost 46-12 on home ground to the league-leading Hamilton Wildcats, could take the sudden-death O.R.F.U. final with the Cats 15-3.

Likewise, reasons can be found for Ottawa Rough Riders, the leaders of the O.R.F.U. regular schedule, with five men on the Big Four all-star lineup and three deep in every position, losing out to Argos at such an ignominious 24-0 score on the Big Four's two-game playoff round.

Some are even able to explain how the "wonder team" of intercollegiate football, University of Western Ontario Mustangs, could be tied by Toronto Varsity.

"There is no law," says Tommy (Ottawa Citizen) Shields, "against Trojans upsetting Argos. . . . In a football game, it takes but one fumble, or one ball bouncing the wrong way, to turn a contest upside down. Times without number the fans have seen one play turn an impending defeat into a victory and vice versa."

Bill (Ottawa Journal) Walshe, is less speculative, but dwells on the "team spirit and desire — a factor that may help a great deal in the Eastern Canada final Saturday in Toronto."

Anywhere you look—at Toronto or 'disinterested' columnists—you'll find the same thing. Nobody saying it can't be done.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Now and then you will muff a defence. Lay no odds you are stupid or dense. You may only be slow on the trigger when a crisis compels you to figger.

You may be a slow calculator and sensitive about it. Maybe you are considerate of the impatience of others. Either influences you to make hasty decisions that fail to reflect your true ability.

Many players know what to do and how to do it. But they hate to hold up the game for others. In their hurry they overlook a good play. It could happen in this deal:

NORTH
♠Q 8 7 5 3
♥Q 7 6
♦A Q 7

WEST	EAST
♠6 4	♠10
♥J 2	♥K 10 9 4 3
♦J 10 8 2	♦6 5 3
♣A Q 7 6 4	♣J 10 8 2

SOUTH
♠A K J 9 2
♥A 8 5
♦K 9 4
♣K 5

South was declarer at a contract of four spades. West led jack of diamonds. A look at the dummy hand told south to fear two losers in clubs and two losers in hearts.

After taking the first diamond, two trumps, two more diamonds, south cashed heart ace. He then led a small heart to dummy queen. His hope was that west would win and return a diamond or club.

By then a diamond lead from west would let declarer trump in one hand and sluff in the other. Or a club lead from west would make sure of losing no more than one trick in that suit.

But when south led heart ace, west hoped east could take two tricks in that suit. If so, it would take two club tricks to defeat the contract. And east must lead that suit to help do it.

So, on the heart ace, west had the foresight to drop his heart jack. Had he not done so, his jack would be on the second heart. Then, all declarer had to do was refuse to cover with dummy queen.

In that case, east could not get in to lead clubs unless he overtook the west jack with king. If so, declarer would not lose the third round of hearts.

To combat poison look for an antidote.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Nov. 22 (AP). — Hollywood has its critics both in and out of town, and now comes Victor Fleming, one of the town's most noted directors, who declares that the movie industry has become "old, rich, fat and lazy".

Fleming, who directed "Gone With the Wind" and now is doing "Joan" with Ingrid Bergman made this assertion when I asked him about his future plans.

"I don't know," he answered. "I cant see any incentive in Hollywood any more."

The director said that a moviemaker might get a burning desire to make a film, as did Albert Lewin with "Picture of Dorian Gray". But he is unable to get his fellow workers enthused over the project.

"Most of the people on the set care more about horse races, football games and overtime than making a good picture," he said.

"Inspired pictures are being made in Italy and England because the people over there are cold and hungry and want to work. This is also true of Mexico."

He illustrated Hollywood methods by an experience which happened when he was filming the first (and abortive) version of "The Yearling" in Florida some years ago:

"I was making a close-up of the head of a little deer. I looked around me and counted the number of people who were supposedly working on the set. There were 125."

Hopeful Note

Striking a more hopeful note was Rosalind Russell.

"Look at the number of pictures Hollywood makes, and look at the number that are successful," she suggested. "The percentage of hits is higher than any other country's films."

Roz indicated that much of Hollywood's difficulty in filming serious intelligent pictures is due to the public.

"Take 'Sister Kenny'," she suggested. "It was a sincere effort to combine a serious subject with entertainment. Yet it was difficult to get people into the theatre. After they had seen the picture, they liked it."

But there is still hope. It was a struggle, but "Sister Kenny' paid off at the box-office.

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, Nov. 22 (CP)—Things are so bad with New York Rangers that Manager Frank Boucher has made a special trip to New Haven, Conn., to look at the American Hockey League Ramblers with an eye out for replacements. . .The Rangers won their last two games but they still occupy fifth place and Chicago Black Hawks have been showing dangerous signs of life. . . .It's understood that defencemen Jean Paul and Lamirande may replace Ranger rear guards

Fred Shero and Bill Moe

Of course, if the Rangers topple Montreal Canadiens tonight, the lineup may stay as is. . . But the New York team is definitely worried. . . Goalie Chuck Rayner is out with a broken cheek bone. . .Right wing Bryan Hextall, a great player on the comeback trail, may be lost for three weeks with a wrenched left knee. . . And the Rangers haven't had a strong defence since Ott Heller and Art Coulter were back there bruising the opposition. . . .

Blues in The Night

The Rangers have won five games, lost eight for 100 points . . . Only team back of them is Chicago with seven points and a revamped lineup . . . The only cheering note for the New York squad is rookies Don Raleigh, who is regarded as a comer. . . After Boucher looked at the Ramblers, coach Lynn Patrick of the New Haven team said he hadn't talked about any transfers with Boucher and that Lamirande and Lancien were set for at least three more games. . .

Prospects

Lamirande played briefly with Rangers last year. . . Although he said when he came up that the Major League wasn't so tough, he didn't last long. .

AT THE CAPITOL — What you've waited for — Glamorous Rita Hayworth once more delights her fans in Columbia's Technicolor musical 'Cover Girl,' starting at the Capitol Theatre, Monday. She is co-starred with Gene Kelly in a story which tells how a Cover Girl gets that way, and on the same program another top Technicolor hit "San Antonio," featuring Errol Flynn and Alexis Smith.

AT THE BELLE — The armful of loveliness above is Marie McDonald, of the million-dollar figure, who welcomes Gene Kelly back to the screen in M.G.M.'s new, stepping, pepping comedy "Living in a Big Way." With Kelly as her partner, curvesome Marie not only has her biggest chance at romance, but also is given an opportunity to dance.

CHAPTER 9.

Elbows on the clean tablecloth, Kay rested her small chin on her locked hands, gazing out reflectively on the serenity of these surroundings. The sun blazed down on the long stretch of hot-looking meadow across the road, where cows tried to keep cool under a small tree.

What would it be like always to live in such a place? Possibly the blond waitress was the girlfriend of the pleasant young man out front. They would marry, have a dozen children, and nothing very exciting could ever happen to them. Or could it? Out here did anything exciting ever take place?

The girl set on the table a tall thick glass containing coffee, and a plate piled high with sandwiches. It looked unappetizing, but after the first mouthful, Kay voted it excellent. The bitter coffee was at least refreshingly iced.

Kay rose from her lunch with a certain flare of her old will, paid the curious-eyed girl now standing behind the cigar counter, went out and got into her car. She gave the attendant a bill and smiled as he waved her cheerily out the drive.

It was high time she was getting home. She suddenly remembered her appointment for a fitting at two o'clock. Her wedding gown! Then there was that tea in her honor which Nettie Tooter was giving this afternoon and she mustn't let Nettie down, as much as she'd like to avoid the tea and the buzzing crowd of old friends. She was so weary of acting the happily engaged girl before their penetrating eyes!

Her speedometer began climbing again. Alfalfa, fields of corn, wheat, barley, oats became a single blur on her horizon. She began looking for a turn which would take her back to Deweyton, and suddenly realized she was lost.

She came to a crossroad and sighed with relief. A signboard read, "Deweyton 40 miles." She pressed her foot down hard on the accelerator.

She came to a long wooden bridge, thinking, "How rustic-looking! It must be old—its really an addition to the landscape."

That the bridge was very ancient she was immediately to realize. As she raced across its rotted boards, they responded with an angry, crackling sound, and her car came to an abrupt halt, hurling her forward into the windshield.

With its two front wheels caught tightly in the hole they had ploughed, the car swung dangerously over the pebbly-bottomed shallow brook twenty feet below. The limp form of Kay lay cut and bleeding where it had bounded back against the maroon leather seat.

Fortunately Kay's accident occurred during daylight, so it was not long before a motorist, blocked by her car in the middle of the bridge, stopped to investigate. He had Kay quickly removed to the nearest hospital in Wheating, the nearby county seat. The contents of Kay's handbag revealed her identity, and her mother was immediately notified.

Kay's face was swathed in bandages and her fractured leg was set when the distracted Cora came rushing into her hospital room. She kissed Kay's chin, the only bare spot left on her face, clasped one of her hands tightly in both of hers, and got out shakily, "My darling! How did you ever do it?"

Memory sent pure horror into Kay's eyes. Would she ever forget that crash, the feeling that her life had abruptly ended?

She tried to mutter something about, "Bridge—old bridge," and gave up. She was too weak to talk.

A nurse took the thoroughly frightened Cora away. She was put to bed in a nearby room, and a sedative was administered.

In the morning, Hennington Blare, returning from a day's business trip away from Deweyton, learned of Kay's accident and sped to Wheating to make things hum with his orders. He did much efficient telephoning, arranged for Kay's removal to a Deweyton hospital where she could have as much luxury as possible in any hospital, and took all details under his own capable supervision. He was so greatly concerned over Kay that it almost touched her heart.

However, she sighed wearily and closed her eyes when he attempted to talk to her, and had little to say to him. She could only think, "One more expense for Henn—as if he hadn't already done enough for us! And—one more tie, binding me to him tighter than ever!"

The following day when finally she was settled in a private suite in Deweyton's newest and finest equipped hospital, Kay with a day and night nurse in attendance, settled into bearing the pain of her injuries as best she could. The image of Chuck Nourse drifted back and forth, making her restless.

One minute she was wishing he were with her, the next, was thankful he was not seeing her in this dreadful condition. Anyway, she was not supposed to receive visitors. She was certain her mother would not allow Chuck to visit her, and worse than this—he might not care to come.

What the windshield glass had done to her face was a matter of speculation. She had tried to quiz the nurses but they proved evasive. The doctors were so grim-faced she hadn't dared to question them. It was plainly apparent however, that Hennington was worried over the probable scars it might be her lot to carry the rest of her life.

While greatly concerned over this, Kay was secretly amused. If she came out from under the bandages horribly disfigured, Hennington would doubtless not care to marry her. Besides youth and background, his wife must have beauty to complete the picture, His wife in short, was to be as highly decorative in his home as any rare object or art he possessed. His wife would be more or less another luxurious asset to be flaunted on the high voltage of wealth.

MELEE WITH GUARDS IN TOKYO

Tokyo, Nov. 22 — (AP) — Japanese House of Representatives members staged a 40-minute fist-swinging melee last night with chamber guards, government party members, communists and oppositionists joining in the clash. No injuries were reported. Some had claimed there was no quorum present, but Speaker Komakichi Matsuoka said there was, and ordered the reading of an agriculture report. Fighting followed.

Property Owners - Attention

Question:—What is landscaping?

Answer:—Landscaping a home, a public building or an industrial property is simply that of taking into consideration such factors as driveways, walks, service area, property lines, shades and sun, then planting suitable trees, shrubs and flowers in the right place,

The result of good landscaping is a dignified, pleasing picture — restful and inviting. No cluttered, gaudy appearance. Good plantings become the pride of the owner and the community. The yenhance the value of a property as nothing else will do.

Our Mr. William Hogle will be in BELLEVILLE shortly. His years of experience in landscape survey, design and construction will mean much to you, should you have a genuine planting problem, whether large or small. Write us at once, without obligation, asking him to call and discuss modern design, treatment and development of your property. Plan now.

Peasants, Carabinieri Battle in Bitonto Priest Shot Three Times

By FRANK BRUTTO

Rome, Nov. 21 — (AP) — Peasants battled carabinieri today in the streets of Bitonto, near Bari, in a new outbreak of the violence which has taken a growing toll of lives throughout Italy in the last week.

The fight was touched off by an attack by an unidentified assailant upon a priest, Rev. Pasquale Pileo. The cleric, on his way to say mass, was shot three times in the back. In the subsequent fighting, two carabinieri were gravely wounded. Armed mobs ranged the streets. Headquarters of the Christian democratic and the Rightist Uomo Qualunque (Common Man) parties were reported wrecked.

Disorders turned into bloody skirmishing in the strike-bound Apulia region in the heel of Italy yesterday, and four persons were killed, dispatches to Rome newspapers said.

The total dead in the recent epidemic of leftist-led disorders throughout all Italy was near 20.

In this capital, Premier De Gasperi, whose Christian democratic government is a target of a concentrated leftist attack, conferred with the general commander of the carabinieri.

At least 13 persons, seven of them carabinieri who were reported to have used their arms in self-defence, were wounded in skirmishing yesterday at Campi Salentina and Gravina in the Apulia region the independent newspaper Messagero reported.

Telephone communications with Bitonto were cut. Communications between Bari, principal city of the northern Apulia region and Rome were interrupted. Lines also were broken elsewhere in the trouble zone, particularly in the area of Corato, where three persons have been killed.

Government sources in Rome said the Bitonto rioting began with bomb explosions and gunfire. A mob gathered quickly and attacked the Christian Democrat and Uomo Qualunque headquarters, the informants said. The mob set fire to the buildings and also to a hunters' club and the headquarters of the Agricultural Association, they reported.

Caribinieri were forced to retreat to their barracks, a government informant said. The crowd had erected barricades in the streets in the heart of the city and its outskirts. Dispatches to Rome newspapers said many demonstrators were armed with machine-guns.

Rome, meanwhile was threatened with a one-hour cut-off of electrical power if wage demands of electrical workers were not met before nightfall.

95PC World Trade Represented At Meeting

Havana, Nov. 21 (AP)—Delegates of 62 countries doing about 95 per cent of the world's trade assembled today under United Nations auspices for an oblique attack on war by removing some of the economic ills that cause it.

Opening of the international conference on trade and employment found more than 1,000 specialists in many fields of foreign trade working to set up a charter of an international trade organization which its sponsors say will "cover the whole economic life of the nations subscribing to it."

The proposed charter was shaped in prior conferences in London, New York and Geneva, and conference officials hope the delegate will accept ti by Jan. 14 when the Cuban Congress convenes and must take back the capitol building.

A ten-man delegation headed by Dana Wilgress, Canadian minister to Switzerland, represents the Dominion at the conference.

Already 23 of the countries attending have jumped the gun by putting into effect one of the provisions if the proposed charter—that calling on all members to work toward tariff reductions. Canada is among the 23, representing about 65 per cent of the world's trade, who announced last Monday multilateral agreements materially reducing tariffs.

Russia and two satellites, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia, declined invitation to attend, but others within the Russian sphere of influence—Finland, and Czechoslovakia—have delegations here. One from Poland is expected.

Italy is represented but will have no voting privilege, along with other non-members of the United Nations. The occupation authorities in Japan will be represented, and those in Germany were invited.

MORE ABOUT

INCENTIVE PAY AT THE "ALEMITE"

In the second of this series on wages we showed the basis for a "Norm" we are able to credit our people with extra pay for their efforts.

Once a "Norm" has been established and a number of employees have held efficiencies of 100% (really only 88%) or more, then the rate is fixed. It is not subject to change unless there is a substantial change in method or in the equipment used on the job. When any such change occurs in method or in the equipment the new method or operation is again studied, timed and tested, and allowances made as outlined for the original procedure.

If after a "Norm" has first been set, operators are unable to attain the task and it appears that some error has been made in calculation, the job may be re-timed and tested, and if necessary, the whole cycle of elements re-examined to find the cause. Such errors are very rare for the whole method is positive and subject to a variety of cross checks.

Under this system beginners are eligible for incentive pay equally with the experienced workers. Many of them do qualify and take home with their first pay, a worthwhile bonus over and above their actual hourly pay.

Some recent good ones:

Mr. J.—On morning shift November 12th. he worked 3.9 hours on assembly, earned 1.87 extra incentive hours. His hourly rate is 65 cents per hour and he made 96 cents per hour.

Mr. M.—On assembly work November 12th., worked 7.2 hours and made incentive of an extra 2.27 hours. His 70 cents per hour rate plus incentive became .92 per hour.

Mrs. B.—A drill operator, on November 12th., had 9 actual hours and made 3.72 incentive hours. Her base pay for the day $6.03 became a total pay of $8.52.

Mr. H.—A machine operator worked 9 hours on November 12th., earning incentive of 3.27 hours. His base pay of $7.56 became a total pay of $10.31 or a $1.14 per hour on a base of 84 cents per hour.

Jury Subpoenas Are Withdrawn

Ottawa, Nov. 22 — (CP) — Representatives of the United States Department of Justice and the Canadian newsprint industry sat down together in Ottawa and resolved their differences, it was indicated in announcements yesterday here and in Washington.

As a result, American Grand Jury subpoenas against the companies, which had been termed an infringement of Canadian sovereignty, have been withdrawn and the companies on their part have given the Justice Department certain information which it wished to have for its anti-trust division.

External Affairs Minister St. Laurent said the matter had been terminated "in an atmosphere of goodwill" while Attorney-General Clark of the United States referred to "cordial co-operation" received from Canadian authorities.

The case arose when a Grand Jury, investigating newsprint shortages in the United States, asked newsprint companies to produce their records. American companies complied, but Canadian companies refused. The Grand Jury subpoenaed them, and they again refused to comply, making them liable to citations for contempt.

Correspondence revealed that the Canadian Embassy in Washington had made representations on the matter and that State Secretary Marshall had sent a memorandum to Attorney-General Clark "requesting assistance in preventing any undesirable interference with Canadian companies."

ALL SIX TEAMS IN N.H.L. WILL BE IN ACTION

Biggest Game Will be Between Bruins and Leafs for League Leadership

(By The Canadian Press)

Those two great educational institutions for training youths—Toronto Maple Leafs and Boston Bruins collide tonight in one of the National Hockey League's full card of three contests. Apart from the Toronto meeting of the first-place Bruins and second-place Leafs, the third-place Detroit Red Wings entertain Chicago Black Hawks and the fourth place Montreal Canadiens are hosts to New York Rangers.

Toronto hit the jackpot last season with their rookie-studded team that beat Canadiens in the Stanley Cup final. Now it's Boston who has used rookies to build up a new team and so far it's paid off. Before tonight's tussles, Boston was topping the league, a point ahead of Toronto with Detroit third another point back, and Montreal two points further down in fourth place.

The capacity crowd at the Toronto Gardens will see on the Boston lineup young Eddie Sandford and Ed Harrison, heroes of Toronto St. Michaels Juniors only a year ago.

At the Montreal Forum another capacity crowd will expect Canadiens to redeem themselves. Les Habitants have been below their accustomed form of late, which is another way of saying that they're slumping and need victories.

As for Rangers, they're riding jubilantly on starry performances by Ron Raleigh and Edgar Laprade. They won't go down without a battle.

The Detroit game is another toss-up, with the rejuvenated Hawks tackling the Wings holding Canadiens to a 2-2 tie Wednesday.

HUNT WILD GEESE FROM AIRPLANE

Edgartown, Mass., Nov. 22 — (AP) — Two Cape Cod men today faced charges of hunting wild geese from an airplane.

Warrants were obtained against the men yesterday by state conservation officers after investigation of complaints from various sources that men were hunting the birds from aircraft.

The warrants charge specifically that the men hunted "migratory game birds, to wit, Canadian geese, by use of an aircraft."

Officers said the practice was to shoot the geese and then land on the water in seaplanes to pick them up.

BROWNS' OWN AFFAIR

Chicago, Nov. 22 — (AP)—Will Harridge, president of the American Baseball League said last night that St. Louis Browns "still have a roster of 40 players filed with us" and that 'there isn't anything the league office or anybody else can do' about the Browns selling off their star players.

New York Yankees and Philadelphia Athletics had protested the sales as making the tail-enders weaker.

"It's strictly the Browns' own affair — they have a perfect right to sell their players as they see fit," added Harridge.

Two Canadians Released, Moscow Notifies Ottawa

Had Been Charged With Illegally Crossing Border

Moscow, Nov. 24. (Reuters) — The Foreign Affairs ministry has notified the Canadian Embassy here that J. D. M. Weld of Ottawa and Capt. A. W. Clabon of Edmonton, attached to the Canadian Military Mission in Berlin have been released by Russian authorities and have started back to Berlin via Poland.

The two Canadians had been detained by Russian officials on charges of having illegally crossed the Russian frontier near Kaliningrad formerly Koenigsberg in East Prussia.

Moscow radio broadcast a message from Kaliningrad last Friday alleging that the Russian frontier had been "violated" by members of a Canadian military mission and that two persons had been detained by frontier guards.

It was reported from Ottawa, Saturday that Canada had asked the Soviet government to release Weld and Clabon and that John Holmes, Canadian Charge D'Affaires in Moscow, had told the Russian authorities that if a breach of regulations was established disciplinary action would be taken including if necessary, the recall of the two men to Canada.

The Moscow radio broadcast Friday said the Canadians had been caught "engaged in special business". It did not amplify the reference to "special business".

They gave "confused" explanations of having become lost when "in fact they were quite aware of where they were going," the broadcast added.

In Ottawa government officials said Claborn and Weld were seized while returning to Berlin from an authorized trip to Warsaw in Claborn's car. They left Warsaw Nov. 10 intending to much Berlin Nov. 12.

The External Affairs department said that as far as it knew the Canadians were being held at Pravdinsk (formerly Friedland) by the commander of the Kaliningrad border area.

At Ottawa, External Affairs department officials received word from the Canadian Charge D'Affaires in Moscow that the two Canadians had been released, but had no further information immediately.

Official word of their release was contained in a note from Soviet authorities received by the Canadian Charge D'Affaires yesterday.

SNOWPLOW SNAPS WIRE

Toronto, Nov. 24 — (CP) — A large steamshovel being towed on a tractor-trailer snapped an overhead wire near the west-end car barns today and tied up traffic on five street-car routes for 24 minutes. The mishap made thousands of west end residents late for work.

FOUR DROWNED IN SWIFT RAPIDS OF OTTAWA RIVER

Cable Catwalk Breaks Loose From Anchor and Plunges Men Into Water

Pembroke, Nov. 24 — (CP) — A turbulent stretch of the Ottawa River was being dragged today for the bodies of four men swept to their deaths in the swift rapids late Saturday when a cable catwalk they were constructing at a hydro electric power project broke loose from its anchor and plunged them into the water.

A fifth man, Mattio Luikko of Kirkland Lake, 45-year-old foreman of the cable crew at the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission project near Des Joachims, Que., about 40 miles northwest of here, also was swept into the water but was carried near shore by the current and clambered to safety.

Authorities identified the victims as John Gornick, 41, of (105 Wilt St.) Kirkland Lake; Emile Niemenen, 53; Ivan Alenan, 55 and Emile Nurmi, 50, all of Montreal. All were married men.

None of the bodies has yet been recovered.

Project officials blamed frost action in the rock anchoring one end of the cable catwalk, stretching from the Quebec shore to an island 200 feet out in the river, as being responsible for the accident. The rock anchor, which had previously borne a much greater weight on the cables, suddenly tore loose and toppled down an incline on the Quebec shore slackening the catwalk and the five-man crew on it into the swift current.

The men were swept away almost immediately.

Luikko said the cable slackened a few feet then stopped for a fraction of a second before dropping into the water. He was caught up by an eddy and was whirled to a point close to the Quebec shoreline in a matter of seconds.

Once in calmer water he swam ashore and was helped by three other workmen to whom he yelled for aid.

Motorists Help Selves To Tractor to Haul Car Out of Ditch

Kitchener, Nov. 24 — (CP) — Provincial police said today they expect to lay charges against two men who borrowed a farm tractor Saturday and burned out the motor while trying to haul their car from a ditch.

No one was at home at Joseph Wagner's farm, R. R. 1 St. Agatha, when the motorists called. Seeing a tractor in the barn, they helped themselves to it. The vehicle lacked oil and water and became overheated. Damage is estimated at $200.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, Nov. 24— (CP)—Synopsis: Over Southern Ontario this morning snow is falling, occasionally mixed with rain in the extreme southern sections. Over Northern Ontario it is generally cloudy with occasional light snow. A storm centred near Chicago is moving eastward rapidly and will pass through Southern Ontario today. Much cooler air to the rear of this centre will cover Southern Ontario tonight. Another storm centred in Saskatchewan is moving southeast rapidly and will pass through Southern Ontario Tuesday afternoon.

SCHUMAN FORMS NEW COALITION FRENCH CABINET

First Task Will be To Stop Strike Spread

By ROBERT EUNSON

Paris, Nov. 24 (AP)—Premier Robert Schuman announced today the formation of a new coalition cabinet and immediately plunged into the task of dealing with a spreading wave of strikes which threatened France with economic disaster.

Already tied up by walkouts were nine out of every 10 railroads in France. All the country's harbors and most of her coal mines were idle, and all grade schools in the capital were closed.

The situation was further complicated by the threat of disturbances arising from a one-franc increase in subway fares in Paris, which went into effect today.

To meet the threat several thousand mobile guardsmen were rushed into the city last night and reservists of the 1947 class, who recently were recalled to duty, were assembled in readiness at Fontainebleau, 40 miles south of the capital.

Schuman announced the formation of his new government at 12:15 a.m. after 36 hours of negotiating, with the leader of all major political parties except the Communist and Gen. De Gaulle's Rassemblement Du Peuple Francis (rally of the French people—R.P.F.)

The cabinet—France's seventh since her liberation from German domination—is composed of six members of Schuman's Mouvement Republican Topulaire, five members of the Socialist Party's Radical Right Wing, three middle-of-the-road Radical Socialists and one moderate Independent Republican.

Retained as foreign minister in the new government was Georges Bidault, a member of the M.R.P., who is scheduled to depart for London, tonight to participate in the Big Four foreign ministers conference, which opens there tomorrow.

Locomotive, Ten Cars Derailed

North Bay, Nov. 24 — (CP) — A locomotive and 10 cars were derailed with considerable resultant damage yesterday, when two southbound Canadian Pacific Railways freight trains collided on the main line at Britt, 65 miles southeast of Sudbury in the Parry Sound division. No one was injured.

Train No. 80 struck the rear of train No. 954 and force of the impact drove four cars of train 954, stopped at Britt station, and six cars and the engine of train 80 from the tracks.

Railway officials here said damage was "considerable," but declined to give further information. They said that cause of the incident has not been determined.

Holding hands as they walk from Westminster Abbey, smiling Princess Elizabeth and Philip are shown after they were pronounced man and wife. Now honeymooning at Romsey, the newlyweds attended church services yesterday.

Briton Claims Secret of Pirates' Gold Hoard on South Sea Isle

London, Nov. 24 (Reuters)—A fabulous treasure trove of gold bars worth between £2,000,000 and £3,000,000 lies hidden beneath 12 feet of sand in a pool on an uninhabited South Seas atoll near Tahiti, G. Hamilton Snowball of London claimed Saturday night.

Snowball asserted that he is the only man in Britain who knows the secret of the treasure location.

He said that he had himself dived into the pool, but had failed to retrieve the treasure due to lack of equipment.

Snowball has turned down all offers, including one from New Zealand to back a new expedition to the South Seas to find the loot he failed to uncover in 1937.

Convinced that his story should be filmed, Snowball wants to wait until he receives an offer from a film company. Then he will use the funds for the expedition.

Two or three men connected with the film world are already working on the possibility of making a film of the story, Snowball said.

In explaining how the treasure was buried in the South Pacific Island, Snowball said:

"In 1849 a gang of buccaneers and cutthroats sailed from Peru with stolen treasure, reached a small atoll not far away from Tahiti and there hid hundreds of ingots of pure gold beneath 12 feet of sand in a pool.

"Several of the crew were killed before the ship sailed for Australia. The others were shipwrecked and of the three who reached Port Darwin two wre slaughtered by natives. The third survived to a great age, and in his dying hours confided the treasure secret to a friend.

"In 1937 I and six other men formed an expedition to get the treasure. We reached the atoll without mishap, but found that the hurricane of 1926 had silted up the pool. Twelve feet of golden sand was between us and the real gold. We lacked the machinery to shift the sand and had to return to Britain."

Appendix Can be Located Anywhere Below Midriff but Has No Function

Baltimore, Nov. 24 — (AP) — Your appendix is apt to be in any position below your midriff — on the left side as well as the right — and it may contain anything from a bullet to a collar button.

You might even lack an appendix entirely; or have one that can amputate itself naturally; or have a "double" appendix; or one that branches like the prongs of a sling-shot.

Such examples of the "bizarre" appendix were listed today at the 41st annual meeting of the Southern Medical Association.

The examples cited offer boundless potential conversational topics for anyone who has ever had his appendix nipped — provided he gets the lowdown from his doctor on how his particular appendix rates with the field.

The normal appendix is located in the lower, right side of the abdomen. It's a remnant of the formation of the embryo, and it has no specific function. It's an offshoot of the large intestine, and when it becomes infected, you're liable to find yourself whisked away in an ambulance.

Dr. Samuel McLanahan and Wallace Rowe, a lay colleague, both of Baltimore, combed medical literature and found that the appendix is apt to be a rover.

They reported, in a scientific exhibit, that the appendix may be found anywhere from beneath the liver (up around the right midriff) right on down to the left iliac region near the pelvis.

And they said appendices have been found to contain such "foreign bodies" as .48-calibre gunshot (in a man who was a "great grouse-eater"), fishbones, a tooth, a screw, a needle, a pebble, a staple, a piece of wood, 11 pieces of flattened lead, a bullet, a collar button and two pieces of egg shell.

In their exhibit presentation, the Baltimore researchers said that doctors themselves can have screw-ball appendices. There was the case of a surgeon, they said, whose appendix was found to contain "his recently-lost gold inlay filling."

100 Snowplows, 3 Snow Blowers Addedby Province

Toronto, Nov. 24 (CP) — As snow and sleet swept Southern Ontario today, J. D. Millar, deputy Highways minister, announced that his department had added 100 new snowplows and three new snow blowers to its snow-fighting equipment.

In addition, the province, which now has 400 snowplows in all, has received 25 more heavy duty trucks which can be equipped with a plow. It has 10 blowers altogether.

"We plan to concentrate four blowers in the western snow belt area, which is bounded by a triangle drawn from Toronto west to Goderich, then to Owen Sound and Owen Sound to Toronto," Mr. Miller said., "It is usually in this area, which includes the Bruce Peninsula, that we have our worst snow."

Two blowers will be kept in the Owen Sound area and two in the Stratford district.

Production of Creamery Butter Shows Increase

Toronto, Nov. 24 — (CP) — Production of creamery butter in Ontario during October was increased by 13.3 per cent over the corresponding period of last year, it was shown today in the monthly dairy report, issued by the Ontario Agriculture Department.

Milk production continued to rise in September but sale of fluid milk decreased, the report stated. Commercial dairies sold 4.5 per cent less cream and milk during September than in the corresponding period of last year.

It is estimated that 470,524,900 pounds of whole milk were used for production of creamery butter, cheddar cheese, ice cream, condensed, evaporated and powdered milk, and sales of milk and cream in September, a 10.7-percent increase over that period of 1946.

An increase of 33.6 per cent over last year was reported in output of milk products during September.

WORKER-OWNERS OF PLANT PAY SELVES DIVIDEND

Have Received $7 Per Share in 19 Months

Gananoque, Nov. 24 —(CP)— The 180 employee-owners of Parmenter and Bulloch paid themselves a dividend of $ 2.50 a share today, the third since they took over the company 19 months ago, for a total of $7 a share. Today's payment amounts to about $7,000.

In April, 1946, they mortgaged their homes, sold their cars and borrowed from the banks to purchase the 84-year-old plant, which makes rivets, rivet-making machines and other metal products, from the retiring owner, W. V. Bulloch.

The price was $525,000, for which they raised $252,000 in cash and floated a $273,000 10-year bond issue.

Since then:

Production is up 18 per cent over a year ago; export business has increased from a fraction of one per cent to more than nine per cent of output; any one who is late gets a "dirty" look from his fellow employee-owners; 10 per cent of the bond issue has been retired and a further 10 per cent goes off next April; further modern machinery has been installed; a new pension plan provides at 65 for about two-thirds of an employee's average salary over the last ten years; and 180 acres have been purchased on Gananoque's eastern edge for residential purposes.

Every employee has bought or is buying stock under payroll deduction; new employees will be put on a waiting list; shares of resigning employees go into a pool, and shares of an employee who dies may be held by his wife but at her death they must be pooled.

Calgary Bride Beaten to Death

Calgary, Nov. 24 (CP)—Her skull battered by blows of a machinist's hammer, Mrs. Pauline Smith, believed to be about 27 years old, was found dead on her rooming house bed yesterday. Her husband, a trucker, was missing last night and was being sought by city police for questioning. The victim had been married only about a month.

LUMBERMAN DIES

Welland, Nov. 24 (CP)—Samuel S. Lambert, prominent Welland business man for 40 years, died at his home last night in his 69th year. Primarily a lumber dealer, Mr. Lambert also had numerous other interest during his long career. Currently he was the proprietor of the Lambert Lumber Company at Haliburton.

He was the builder of the Reeta Hotel and Capitol theatre here.

No Justification For Rise in Prices States Abbott

Supplies Raw Vegetables Adequate For Months

Ottawa, Nov. 24 — (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott announced today the re-imposition of price ceilings on the more important varieties of canned fruits and vegetables.

He also announced that the Prices Board has been directed "to prepare to re-impose" marked-up control on fresh fruits and vegetables and canned fruit juices.

Concerned About Rise

He said the government has noted "with concern" that marked price increases have taken place during the last week, particularly on some processed foods, "under circumstances which cannot be justified by increased costs."

The new ceilings will become effective within the next few days, when details will be announced by the Board. It is expected, however, that prices will be "rolled back" to their levels of a week ago or more.

Mark-up control is the method by which the margin of profit throughout the trade is kept to a limited percentage of cost.

He continued:

"Furthermore, rumors about present and potential shortages of some food supplies are being bandied about in such a manner as to intensify fear of scarcities. Such stories are having the effect of disturbing consumers and increasing the pressure on prices.

"I cannot state too emphatically that fears about shortages of essential foods or indeed, of any essential of life in Canada, are entirely unwarranted.

No Need for Panic

"It is true that the program recently announced by government to meet the drain on our United States dollar reserves, does restrict or prohibit a wide range of imports of commodities and some foodstuffs which hitherto have been imported from foreign markets.

"But, as I stressed in the statement I made when this program was announced, it is essential that we keep a proper perspective about the meaning of the restrictions imposed.

Some Lines High

Toronto —(CP) — Vegetable prices, which dealers said reached all-time highs on wholesale and retail markets at the end of last week, started to level off, an official of the Ontario Produce Company said.

But in some lines prices were holding at approximately 30 per cent more than last Monday. Wholesalers quoted potatoes at $3 a 75-pound bag as compared with $2.50 a week ago and asked $2.25 for a 50-pound bag of carrots which sold for $1.75 prior to last Thursday.

Prices jumped following announcement last week of restrictions on the import of United States fruits and vegetables.

"There is absolutely no justification whatever for any panic buying of basic foodstuffs such as has been reported in the press over the past week. Domestic supplies of such items as potatoes, cabbage, onions and carrots are fully adequate for this season of the year and for several months to come.

"Moreover, on items of such a basic character, the government will not hesitate to augment the supply if real shortages are being experienced and would do so, in case of real need, either through direct purchase from foreign markets, as was done during the war, or by facilitating import through amendments to the list of goods now prohibited or under quota."

Mr. Abbott said today's action did not mean the government intended to move back towards any general system of price control.

Missionary's Wife Favors North, Children See First Motor Vehicle

Winnipeg, Nov. 24 (CP) — The hustle and bustle of a Canadian city were unfolding today for the first time for the two young daughters of Canon John Turner who was flown here for hospital treatment from his lonely Moffet Inlet post in the Arctic Circle.

The girls, two-year-old June, and Grace, 13 months, were born in polar regions and until their 1,700-mile flight to Winnipeg Saturday in the R.C.A.F. Dakota which brought their accidentally-wounded father to hospital they had never seen a street car, an automobile, electric lights, tap water or two-storey buildings.

Neither had their 15-year-old companion, Rebecca, an Eskimo girl who assisted the Turners at their mission for several years and is a ward of theirs.

"It's all new to them," said Mrs. Turner in an interview. "For that matter, it looks rather new to me too. I expect to have trouble with the street cars, they seem so much more complicated than dog sleds."

A dark-haired, quiet-spoken woman who went direct to the Arctic from England — except for a "hectic month in Toronto" —she admitted life had been rather busy at the mission house 400 miles north of the Arctic Circle after the September afternoon when the rifle Canon Turner was carrying accidentally discharged a bullet into his brain.

"Once Dr. Willoughby and the other army paratroopers came things were easier. But I never slept much. There might always be something to do for my husband."

But Sunday night, after learning that he was resting easily in a Winnipeg hospital and his condition good, Mrs. Turner had her first real rest in two months.

This week, with her two daughters and Rebecca, she intends to explore department stores, ride escalators, use telephones, have dinner in a restaurant and do all those things foreign to the polar regions.

When Canon Turner has recovered, however, she hopes they will return to their mission field.

"It's cold in the winter, but there's plenty to do in the house and Eskimos are always coming to visit. And it's beautiful in the summer. Fifteen varieties of bright flowers grow outside our home and there are even blueberry patches nearby.

"And there's whale meat and caribou and Arctic salmon.

"And no street cars."

18 Aldermanic Candidates File Qualifications

Eighteen aldermanic candidates filed qualification papers with City Clerk Wilfred Holmes before the prescribed deadline at nine o'clock Saturday night, and will face the barrier when the civic elections race gets under way here December 1st.

Two mayoral candidates will vie for honors as will the same number for the utilities commissionership. Possibilities of an acclamation for the four vacancies in the Board of Education went aglimmering late Saturday when a fifth nominee submitted the necessary documents forcing a five candidate election.

Those qualified and who will stand for election to the various offices are:

For Mayor
- Frank S. Follwell
- D. L. Storey

For Public Utilities
- Harry Rollins
- F. Russell Wotten

For Board of Education
- Arthur L. Burke

SHOPPING HOURS FOR CHRISTMAS

After some discussion and rejections of various suggestions, the Retail Merchants Division of the Chamber of Commerce at a special meeting this morning decided to keep their stores and shops open on Wednesday, December 17 till six o'clock, Wednesday, December 24 till six o'clock and Monday and Tuesday, December 22 and 23 until nine o'clock.

A former motion that stores remain open every Wednesday in December till six o'clock and Monday and Tuesday, December 22 and 23 until nine o'clock was rejected as was another that they be open on Wednesday, December 17 to six o'clock and till 9 p.m. on December 18, 19, 22, and 23rd.

BAXTERS TO PACK PORK AND BEANS

With an all-winter operating schedule ahead, the Baxter Canning Company, Bloomfield, Ont., expects to pack in the neighborhood of between 150,000 and 200,000 cases of pork and beans during the coming season.

HEAVY SNOW BREAKS TREE ON WEST HILL BLOCKING TRAFFIC

The heavy fall of wet snow weighed down tree branches and resulted in extremely slippery conditions on hills about this city today. Large trees denuded following the loss of their summer leaves, were seen with their branches touching the ground as result of the heavy weight of snow.

On Highland Ave. at noon the weight of snow caused part of a large tree to break off and fall across the highway blocking all traffic, while on the Bay Bridge Road several telephone poles were reported down in the marsh, apparently from the weight of snow on the wires.

Young Women Chased by Men To Their Homes

Reports from two sections of the city of young women being chased by men were received at the police station on Friday evening. Subsequent investigation by officers in the police cruiser failed to reveal any party of the description given by the complainants.

First report was from the Burton Street district with a young woman reporting she had been chased home by a man as she was returning home from work at six o'clock. She reported her would-be assailant as being about five feet five inches in height with medium complexion and wearing a dark suit.

The other report was from the Bettes Street area where a man wearing a jacket was stated to be window peeking. A young girl in the neighborhood stated this man had chased her as she was going to visit a girl friend.

Slippery Roads Cause Accidents Of Minor Nature

Slippery streets caused by the morning's heavy fall of snow were responsible for several minor accidents on city streets this morning. Only dented fenders resulted and in most cases damages were amicably settled between the parties involved.

On Saturday an accident at the intersection of Front and Bridge Streets involving three autos resulted in the arrest of Joseph Bourett, Moira Street on a drunk driving charge, the driver also being found driving while his licence was suspended.

Taxi Rolls Over, Driver is Cut By Flying Glass

Rolling over several times on the pavement when the vehicle went out of control after the front wheel struck the shoulder of the highway, a taxi owned by Finkle's Taxi was considerably damaged near the Belleville cemetery on Sunday evening. With the exception of the driver, Gerald Finkle, who was cut by flying glass, no one was injured in the accident although there were four other persons in the car.

Reason for the car striking the shoulder of the highway was not stated by Provincial Police who investigated the accident. No other vehicle was involved in the crash. Provincial Constable Bolster investigated.

Retail Merchants Will Support Restrictions on Power 100 Per Cent

The Retail Merchants Division of the Chamber of Commerce at a special meeting this morning went on record as favoring a communication being forwarded to the Ontario Hydro Commission, Toronto, stating its appreciation of the seriousness of the present power shortage and requesting whatever assistance could be forthcoming insofar as power is concerned, for a short time before Christmas. In the meantime, the motion stated, merchants here would co-operate to the fullest extent in the conservation of power.

The Division also went on record to the effect that it would observe 100 per cent Hydro restrictions and would use its influence with domestic users so that business and industry may continue operations.

It rejected a motion that the Ontario Hydro Commission be requested to secure an alternative method of shop restrictions so that stores could reduce inside lighting by a substantial amount and retain window and door illumination.

Shortage Outlined

O. H. Scott, manager of the Belleville Public Utilities, addressed the merchants and brought out in a detailed address the seriousness of the electrical power shortage as now affects Ontario in general and Belleville in particular.

"In spite of the savings effected by power restrictions," Mr. Scott said, "industry has been interrupted approximately 150,000 to 200,000 kilowatt hours at the peak time and 950,000 to 1,650,000 kilowatt hours per day which indicates the great need for maximum amount of voluntary conservation at all times."

If the increasing load continues, Mr. Scott warned the merchants, the Hydro Commission cannot let its system go to pieces. If too much load is apparent, there is only one thing to do and that is to take it off the lines."

He believed things would be better if everyone went along conserving power in every shape, form and manner. No saving is too small.

May Last Long Time

Queried as to how long present shortage would last, Mr. Scott stated that he hoped a new unit at Stewartville would come in next fall but after that no extra power would be available until the Shipshaw unit came in operation in 1950, then with only 135,000 horse power. At the rate the Hydro Commission is growing, these plants will not overtake the shortage. Unless there is a depression, the shortage situation will be here for some time.

It is felt by hydro executives, Mr. Scott pointed out, that the dimming of lights in business has had a great effect on voluntary saving on the part of the domestic users. Personally he believed that the window and signs restrictions had a helpful effect in creating better conditions in hydro. He estimated the load relief from these media was approximately 5 per cent.

Suggestion Turned Down

The suggestion that shop and store proprietors cut down power usage inside their places of business and retain door and window illumination did not meet with the speakers approval. He thought it would have an effect on the domestic user who was trying to conserve power in the home. "If if he comes down and sees windows and doors lighted up, he'll go back and put on extra lights of his own."

Mr. Scott stated that it was not the extra usage of power that was important but the wastage. If waste is eliminated then things would be vastly different. He urged merchants to eliminate as much as possible the use of electric heaters.

A suggestion that portable generator be purchased either by the city or by merchants met with some discussion but nothing was done about it. It was pointed out at this point that several large Toronto concerns which operate their own lighting systems had co-operated with hydro using merchants in the question of conservation.

Try to Be Fair

The question of reducing power usage inside the store and retaining door and window illumination was one of trying to allocate kilowatts to each square foot. "Lighting needs vary in different stores and there is no way of remedying it," Mr. Scott said, adding that it was a matter of trying to be fair to everybody.

Asked as to what will happen when the city gas plant closes next month. Mr. Scott said, "that the Public Utilities Commission here has asked the City Council to keep this plant open until the power situation changes. "While the Council seemed sympathetic towards the suggestion, nothing definite has been done as yet."

The question has been placed before the Ontario Hydro Commission as to what will happen here if further loads are put on in this city. The Northern Electric Company, the American Optical Company and the Bakelite Corporation want increased power. If the Hydro Commission says no more load, industry here will stop. However, Mr. Scott pointed out, the Utilities Commission here anticipated an increased need in 1945 and placed an order for a new sub-station. This new station is one-half the capacity as the No. 1 Sub-Station and will feed the three new industries and when it does "we shall be at capacity". If the hydro commission refuses the new load, there would be chaotic conditions here."

Following the address by Mr. Scott and a subsequent question and answer period, the meeting went into other business. It decided that opening and closing hours would be in order, an account of which appears in another story. It also unanimously endorsed a motion expressing appreciation of the efforts of The Ontario Intelligencer and its own committee on the Wollaston Township Tornado Relief Fund.

President Harold Seldon was in the chair.

Allan V. Greenley New Manager Bank of Montreal

Stirling.—The new manager of the Bank of Montreal office in Stirling is Allan V. Greenley for the past eight years in charge of the bank's Little Current Branch on Manitoulin Island. He succeeds Mr. Gerald L. Johnstone who recently took over the management of the Tweed branch, after spending four and a half years as manager of the local branch.

Mr. Greenley brings to his new post a background of 31 years banking experience in both rural and urban communities. Beginning his career at Thorold in 1916, he served at numerous offices in this province including several branches in Toronto. Named accountant in 1928 at the Tara office, where he remained for two years, he was transferred successively in that capacity to Brampton and Galt. In 1939 he received his appointment as manager of the Little Current Branch following four years' service at Galt.

A keen curler Mr. Greenley was vice president of the Little Current Curling Club from 1943 to 1945. For the past three years he has held office as treasurer of the Lions' Club there.

Now at Tweed

A banker of long experience Mr. Johnstone now Bank of Montreal manager at Tweed, has seven years' experience with the Home Bank of Canada before entering the bank's Market Square, London office in 1922, attached to branches in Hamilton, London, Woodstock, Brantford and to the bank's main office in Toronto —during the next six years he was appointed accountant at the East Windsor branch in 1928 —named assistant accountant at the London main branch, the following year. Mr. Johnstone was later accountant in turn at Woodstock and Brockville. In 1938 he received his first managerial appointment when he took charge of the West Lorne office. He remained there until coming to Stirling in March, 1943.

A valued member of the community during his residence here Mr. Johnstone was treasurer of the Red Cross Society's annual canvass for the past four years and served also as an associate director of the Stirling Agricultural Society for the same length of time.

Mrs. Johnstone and Judith will join Mr. Johnstone in Tweed as soon as suitable accommodation is available, while Helen will continue her studies at the University in Toronto.

OBITUARY

LATE FORBES PETER SHERRY
(Thomasburg)

Thomasburg (Special) — The funeral of Forbes Peter Sherry who died on Saturday November 15th., at the Belleville General Hospital after an illness of ten days took place on Monday afternoon Nov. 17th., from the home of his nephew Mr. Harry Sherry with whom he resided. A brief service was conducted by his rector Rev. F. C. Beazer at the home, after which the funeral proceeded to Christ Church Thomasburg of which he was a faithful member, and in church work when health permitted, being a Warden for a considerable number of years. Fraternally he was a member of Thomasburg Independent Order of Oddfellows and of Elliott's Loyal Orange Lodge. During the service Rev. Mr. Beazer sang a solo.

Interment took place in Thomasburg Cemetery with Messrs. Harry Kennedy, Charles Grills, Stanley Webb, Harry Coulter, William Morton and Lorne Carleton acting as bearers.

The late Mr. Sherry was the last member of his family, being a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Sherry. He was in his eighty-eighth year. The greater part of his lifetime was spent in this vicinity except for a few years when he followed the occupation of a blacksmith at West Huntingdon. He was twice married his first wife being the former Miss Grace McInroy who died in 1900 and for a second marriage he was united with Suzanne Morton MacLean who also predeceased him. He is survived by four sons, namely George Sherry, North Tonawanda, N.Y.; Andrew Sherry, Clover Bar, Alberta; Arthur Sherry Lucky Lake, Sask., and Albert Sherry, Tweed.

LATE FREDERICK COOK

The funeral of Frederick Cook, late residence, 284 William Street, was held Saturday afternoon from the Pinkston Funeral Home, Church Street at Victoria Avenue. The service in the chapel and at Belleville Cemetery was conducted by the Rev. H. O. Eastman, minister of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church.

During the service a vocal duet, "Blessed Lights of Home," was rendered by Mrs. Beecher Doolittle and Miss E. Forman.

The last rites of the Masonic Order were conducted at the graveside by Wor. Bro. Harry Bates, Master of The Belleville Lodge No, 123 A. F. & A. M., assisted by Wor. Bro. Kenneth Bird, Wor. Bro. Frank Tulk and Wor. Bro. Gordon Anderson, all Past Masters of the lodge.

The bearers were Frank Cheshier, Joseph Blackburn, George Clarke, Isaac Stephenson, Stanley May and Dorland Houston.

MRS. MARY JACKSON
(Arden, Ontario)
(Contributed)

Mrs. Mary (Potter) Jackson, widow of Wilson Jackson, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. F. Shorts, Arden, on Nov. 11th., after a long illness.

Born at Gunter in 1872, the late Mrs. Jackson was a daughter of the late Sam and Charity Potter. All her life was spent at Gunter until eight years ago when owing to failing health she went to live with her eldest daughter.

Surviving her are Mrs. Frank (Berniece) Shorts, Arden; Everett at Halifax; Mrs. Reuben (Olive) Bush, Gilmour; Mrs. David (Goldie) Veley, Arden. A son, Irwin, was killed in Italy on Dec. 23rd., 1942. Her brothers and sisters are Mrs. Hannah Lemmon, Toronto; Mrs. Cena Wannamaker, Frankford; Mrs. Wallace Grant, Weslemkoon; Mr. Joe Potter, Stirling; Mr. Ben Potter, Gilmour and Mr. Abraham Potter of Trenton.

The funeral was held on Thursday, Nov. 13th., from the home of her daughter, Mrs. F. Shorts. The service there and at Arden cemetery was conducted by the United Church minister, Rev. Esmond, whose text was "I have fought a good fight." The hymns were old favorites, "We'll Never Say Good-bye in Heaven," and "Meet Me There."

The bearers were friends of the deceased.

LATE MRS. ISABELLA N. CARLETON
(Ottawa-Belleville)

The funeral of Mrs. Isabella Nevins (Docter) Carleton, a former resident of this city who died in Ottawa on Wednesday last, and mother of Mrs. W. C. McCutcheon of this city, was held from the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, Campbell Street, on Saturday afternoon. The service in the chapel and at the Docter family plot in Belleville cemetery was conducted by the Rev. Arthur Smith, Rector of St. Thomas' Church.

The bearers were Dr. Ralph Bird, Fred Carscallen, Bertram Docter, Norman Garbutt, Harold Armstrong and Alfred Carleton.

MRS. SARAH GLEDHILL

Mrs. Sarah Gledhill, wife of Mr. George William Gledhill, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. H. Miller, 20 Dunbar Street, early Monday morning, after an illness of two months' duration.

The late Mrs. Gledhill, who was advanced in years, was born in England and was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Heap. For a considerable time she lived in Toronto and for the past fifteen months she made her home with her daughter in this city. She was a member of the Church of England.

Surviving her are her husband; one son, George William Gledhill, Jr., of Grimsby Ontario; three daughters, Mrs. H. Miller, Belleville, and Mrs. A. W. Long, and Mrs. Albert Helliwell, both of Toronto; one sister, Mrs. Lillian Falshaw, England.

Resting at the Thomas C. Thompson Funeral Home, 38 Everett Street; the time of service there will be announced on Tuesday.

DR. FRANK C. ZWICK
(Formerly of Stirling)

Waterloo, Ont., Nov. 24 —(CP) —Dr. Frank C. Zwick, 53, died yesterday at his home here after a long illness. A graduate in medicine from the University of Toronto, he came to Waterloo in 1923 after interning at St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto.

Of United Empire Loyalist stock, he was a veteran of the First World War. His wife and a daughter survive. He is a native of Stirling.

Police Blotter

Two reports of men being seen attempting to break into residences in the East Dundas Street area were received at the police station Sunday evening. In both cases, however, the parties had disappeared by the time police arrived on the scene. Descriptions of the men seen were given to police.

A George Street resident reported that a man had broken the bedroom window at her residence and had stolen a purse containing $5 from a table near the window. Another resident on Bridge Street complained of a topcoat disappearing from a waiting room.

The Public Utilities also reported the disappearance of three red lanterns from a street excavation on Yeomans Street.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Nov. 21 —(CP)— Golds slipped back on losses for most of the better grade juniors as industrials traded irregularly although advances for key issues kept the group up on the stock exchange today. Base metals traded downward on moderate turnover. Feature of the early session was Ashley, secondary gold, which turned over more than 200,000 shares on a narrow gain.

Volume for the first three hours was 834,000 shares, about 305,000 better than yesterday's similar period.

Senior golds held on fractional gains for Bralorne, Hollinger and similar loss for Kerr Addison but heavier losers among juniors included Central Patricia, Donalda, Eldona, God's Lake, Kirkland Lake, Louvicourt, Macassa, Malartic, Upper Canada, Sylvanite, San Antonio and Pioneer. For base metals losers were Chromium, Smelters, East Sullivan, Hudson Bay, Waite Amulet, Sherritt, Quemont and Pend Oreille.

News prints were mixed on a narrow majority of losses despite reports of increased pulp prices while steels eased off fractionally for Algoma, Bertram, Canadian Locomotive, Dominion Steel and Eastern Steel, Bell Telephone dropped almost four points in utilities. Foods, oils and liquors were irregular.

Heavy Snowstorm In United States

Chicago, Nov. 24 — (AP)—The heaviest snowstorm of the season in the United States is blowing out of the Great Lakes and northern midwestern States today, a forerunner of another cold wave for the area.

The snowfall here is expected to measure four inches by mid-morning. The weather bureau said, however, that most of the snow came with the temperature hovering around the freezing mark and that it turned to slush as it fell on the warm ground in eastern Iowa, northern Illinois and northern Indiana.

TRACK DOWN ORGANIZATION

Copenhagen, Nov. 24 — (Reuters) — Danish police have tracked down a large illegal organization for the smuggling of Germans to Argentina, and many arrests are expected shortly, it was reported today.

Arrest of a German with a fake passport at Kastrup airfield led to the discovery of the organization which was said today to have branches in Sweden.

P.U.C. Hopeful Gas Plant Closing Will be Delayed

A regular meeting of the Belleville Utilities Commission was held in the board room on Friday afternoon. Chairman F. R. Wotten, M. P. Duff, and Mayor Follwell were present.

The manager, Mr. Scott, reported that the new lighting regulations and restrictions had been lived up to splendidly by the merchants and others affected in Belleville.

Commissioner Duff, the local representative on the Ontario Municipal Electrical Association Executive, reported that the executive had met with the Ontario Hydro Commission on Thursday last and passed a resolution urging the Commission to lift part of the restriction, if at all possible, for the month of December, so that merchants would be permitted to use at least one light in each show window—The Belleville Commission heartily concurred in the action and urged its adoption

Discuss Closing

The Commission discussed at length the proposed closing of the gas plant on Dec. 31st. It was pointed out that two letters had been sent to the City Council urging their co-operation in keeping the plant open for at least a few months longer, or until many of the users could replace their present gas equipment with some other means of cooking.

Chairman Wotten stated that it was absolutely impossible for a great many of the gas consumers to replace their old stoves with electric stoves by Dec. 31st., so, if the plant is closed, a real hardship will be created. There are also several commercial services who have found they cannot make the change over by that date and would have to close their places of business.

The Commission agreed to cooperated in every way possible with the Council to alleviate this condition.

Commissioner Mayor Follwell was welcomed back to the Board, after several weeks' illness.

Canon Determined To Return North After Treatment

By JACK AVESON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Winnipeg Nov. 24 (CP) —One of the longest and most difficult Arctic rescues ever performed is history today but the object of the hazardous operation, veteran missionary Canon John H. Turner, is determined to return to his polar diocese from a Winnipeg hospital bed once his wound has healed.

That may be some time, because his condition, while reported "very good considering the factors involved," still will require a long convalesence.

He arrived here late Saturday aboard an R.C.A.F. Dakota aircraft after a 1,700-mile flight from desolate Moffet Inlet near the top of the world. The plane spent seven weeks bucking the vagaries of Arctic weather before successfully completing its mission.

It was exactly two months ago today, Sept. 24, that the Church of England clergyman was seriously injured when a rifle he was carrying accidentally discharged, the bullet pursuing an upward course through his nose into a near-inaccessible part of his brain.

Until last Friday he lay in his rude hut on Baffin Island, 400 miles within the Arctic Circle, cared for only by his wife and Capt. Ross Willoughby, an army doctor who was one of four paratroopers dropped to his aid Oct. 4.

The missionary, a shadow of his former 260 pounds, was easily transferred from the plane here to a waiting ambulance and rushed to hospital for further treatment.

"Canon Turner's left side was completely paralyzed when we arrived (at Baffin Island)" said Capt. Willoughby. "But his arm movement now has come back, he can wiggle his left toes and he talks quite normally.

"He wants to go back north and I honestly think he will have a chance, but he won't be able to cover his 1,000-mile territory by dog team in the six or eight weeks he formerly took."

Belleville Boy Pleads Guilty

London, Ont., Nov. 24 —(CP)— Peter Robertson, 17, of Belleville, pleaded guilty today to retaining a stolen $1,500 auto which he bought for $140 here from two other youths. He was remanded to Dec. 2 for sentence.

Lynn Daugherty, 16, of Windsor, and Robert Wood, 19, of London, pleaded guilty last week to stealing the car owned by Gordon Kent of Delhi, Ont. They admitted repainting the machine and selling it to Robertson, claiming the latter knew it was stolen.

R. Russell Fined $100 on Charge Of Obstructing Police Officer

Convicted on a charge of obstructing a police officer in the execution of his duties, Ross Russell, director of organization in Canada for the UE-CIO, was fined $100 and costs in police court today when he appeared before Magistrate J. L. Lloyd.

The charge against Russell was laid by local police on November 5th., when during an incident on the picket line at the Corbin Lock plant, Russell was alleged to have struck Police Inspector J. Clare Hayes in the face as officers were passing a plant engineer through the picket lines into the plant.

Also charged with obstructing police officers in their duty were N. Hamblin, district organizer for the UE-CIO and Jeff Hurley, publicity director for the UE in Canada. The charge against Hurley was withdrawn owing to lack of evidence while Hamblin was convicted and fined $50 and costs.

Original Charge Changed

Mr. Russell was originally charged with common assault and at the opening of court proceedings was arraigned on a charge of assaulting a police officer while in the execution of his duties.

Defence Counsel Charles Dubin of Toronto, who was assisted by J. D. O'Flynn held that the assault charge was void owing to lack of particulars on the information and cited several authorities to this effect. Court was then adjourned to permit the Crown to reword the charge. The assault charge was then withdrawn with the accused being arraigned on the new charge of obstructing a police officer.

Inspector Clare Hayes was the only witness called and told of doing duty on the morning of November 5th. at the picket line at Corbin Lock. With other officers he had been assisting the plant engineer through the picket lines when at the main office door passage had been blocked by pickets headed by Mr. Russell.

Refused to Obey Order

"I asked Russell three times to move away," stated the officer. "He refused to obey the order and pushed me about." The Inspector added that he had been struck in the mouth by Russell's right hand.

Under cross examination by Defence Counsel Dubin the Inspector admitted that this had been the only "incident" arising out of the Corbin strike, while counsel added that this was the first time the accused had been in trouble. No defence was offered.

In assessing the $100 fine, Magistrate J. L. Lloyd pointed out to the accused that the penalty imposed was not to be considered a precedent and warned that any further court appearances would be treated in a different light.

In giving testimony on the Hamblin charge Inspector Hayes stated that when Russell had been arrested Mr. Hamblin had turned to the picketers and had asked if they were going to let the police get away with this and that he had demanded to know the charge on which Russell had been arrested.

"I refused to tell Mr. Hamblin the nature of the charge and told him he could learn the details by coming to the police station," testified the officer.

Had Been No Fighting

Under cross examination by J. D. O'Flynn, assisting Defence Counsel Dubin, the inspector admitted there had been no fighting nor had there been any blows struck. Mr. O'Flynn contended that considering the strike had been going on for several weeks the "incident" had been of a minor nature and suggested that when striking employees are keyed up the police should use discretion in handling of picketers. Definitely, he said, the incident was not as serious as it might have been.

Prior to passing sentence Magistrate Lloyd pointed out to Mr. O'Flynn that there had been no evidence in court that the police had acted in an indiscreet manner in handling the situation. On the other hand the accused, as a union organizer, should be well posted as to what acts would be within a breach of the peace.

Buying Early

Measuring the time from now to Christmas is comparatively easy — it is just a month away.

But this realization must soon resolve itself into action or the midwinter festival will soon be very much closer than a month or four weeks. In fact the year is sweeping to its close after a fine fall in a rather disconcerting manner, for nature is so kindly that few can realize how near the Christmas holidays are, except perhaps the school children. Merchants realize it for their shops are ready for the Christmas buyers.

New York Times, speaking of Christmas shopping, said the other day, that "last year, in November, an inventor who shall be nameless, working with an instrument of his invention belonging to the seismograph family which he called the shoppograph, discovered throughout the United States, a strange murmur was audible. Applying a secret formula (also of his invention), he found out that the phenomenon was due to the fact that, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from the Canadian border to the Gulf of Mexico, millions of persons were saying, 'This year I am going to do my Christmas shopping early.'

"His discovery convinced him that further investigation a bit later in the year would disclose the existence of another nation-wide murmur — a murmer of elation, caused by the fact that millions of persons were saying: 'This year I did my Christmas shopping early.'

"So, every day, between Dec. 18 and Dec. 24, 1946, he wound up the shoppograph, put it on the ground, and listened eagerly to its recordings. Sure enough, he detected another great nation-wide murmur. But in it there was no elation; rather was it a mournful sort of sound, punctuated by heavy jarring noises which almost wrecked the shoppograph. Again applying his secret formula to the new phenomenon, he discovered that it was due to the fact that, throughout the United States, from the Pacific to the Atlantic and from the Gulf of Mexico to the Canadian border, millions of persons were saying: 'If only I had done my Christmas shopping early!' "

It is to be hoped that the shoppograph if used this year will show that more people are buying their presents early and that if there is anything like a shoppograph in Canada it will record not only the decision to buy early but the fact that people are buying early.

But it should not require nor does it need a shoppograph to tell the people that their good intentions should be carried out and that Christmas buying ought to be done now and very soon, at the earliest possible date. It is not too early, rather it is not very early to start.

Time rushes on and it will rush away more swiftly the more the minds of people are occupied with the preparations for the entertainment at Christmas, the greatest of the year's festivals. Planning for Christmas concerts and entertainments will soon add to the interests of the members of the average family and so there will be much to be done before the next four weeks pass.

Factory Laundry

A machine which makes possible a factory laundry service as an additional welfare factor to increase production is now being taken up by industrialists in Britain. At present 78 per cent of all washing is done in the home. If, therefore, the woman worker is able to have her washing done at the factory for a nominal sum, she will not only be relieved of an arduous household drudgery ,but factory absenteeism, due to the wash-day, will be greatly reduced. A Bradford firm of wool manufacturers have already instituted a laundry service in order to eliminate "Monday absenteeism." The employees bring their laundry to work with them, hand it in, and collect it the same evening, washed, dried and ready for ironing.

British Industries Fair

British plans include another great fair. The success of the 1946 fair is well known. Now the second great national postwar fair — known as "B.I.F." (British Industries Fair) will be held from May 3 to 14. Products of more than three thousand manufacturers will represent no fewer than 87 of Britain's trades. As in 1947 the B.I.F. will be held at Castle Bromwich (engineering) and Earls Court and Olympia, London (light industries).

Trees

Although Virgil once wrote that trees do not delight all persons, we prefer the view of that other poet who said, "Today I have grown taller from walking with the trees." Trees do not fare well in New York, but if properly chosen and cared for they will survive. The Municipal Art Society is taking the trouble to try to interest people in planting them along our streets and is telling how to go about it. You call the Park Department in the borough in which the tree is to be set. The cost ranges up to $100; it is a good plan to interest neighbors in having a job done in a whole block at one time. Permits are necessary before planting. The Park Department will take over care of the trees after they are planted.

New York will always be a city largely of stone, concrete and steel. But a few trees in any given block make a tremendous difference, as anybody can see by looking about him and as the Art Society has made vividly clear by a series of contrasting photographs.—New York Times.

Shooting at Moon Pays

The U. S. Army announces it has been sending radar signals to the moon and bouncing them back to regularly that the whole thing is becoming routine, says Chicago News.

Fittingly, the signals will next be directed at Mars, the planet named for the god of war, under whose auspices radar came into being. It is even possible that Mars, which some people have long suspected might be inhabited and trying to bet in touch with us, will answer, not with a mere carom, but with a message of its own. If Mars does, so many other and more distant stars, carrying us beyond a paltry One World into a grandiose One Universe.

But getting back to Earth, the Army's experiments so far are said to have considerable scientific value. If that is true, it is one of the few times on record when shooting at the moon has actually paid off.

The Family Doctor

It is eminently fitting that the "family doctor," the general practitioner, the greatest of all practical humanitarians, should be honored. The American Medical Association is searching the United States for the family doctor "who has rendered exceptional service to his community," and proposes to present to him a gold medal for distinguished service at a ceremony on January 7 next.—Moose Jaw Times-Herald.

Joined and Asunder in U .S.

Cynics might say it was cause and effect: Marriages and divorces in the United States, both hit record heights in 1946. However, the romantically-inclined could find consolation in the fact that while marriages were up 42.6 per cent from 1945, divorces had increased only 24.1. The Public Health Service, which released the statistics in Washington last week — 2,285,539 marriages, 613,000 divorces — wisely let them speak for themselves, says Newsweek.

Split Vacations

Split vacations are growing in popularity, says Niagara Falls Review. Travel officials in the United States report from casual observation that more people than ever before have divided up their annual off-duty periods this year, taking part of their vacation in the summer and part in the fall or some other season. To the holiday industry this means a trend toward a year-round operation.

SARDI

Sardi is a child of three,
Now we must explain,
None of us will ever see,
Though she plays with Jane.
Sardi comes at break of day,
Leaves when bedtime falls,
Enters in the strangest way
Every time she calls.

Sardi talks upon the phone
Time and time again,
By some method of her own,
Calling little Jane.
Sardi's good as good can be,
Pretty as her name,
But when milk is spilled, 'tis she
Who must take the blame.

What of Sardi we would know,
Jane will not reveal.
Still we love her just as though
She were very real.
In imagination she
Brightens childhood's years.
Sad for all the day will be
When Sardi disappears.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

How many independent cities are there in the United States?

In addition to the 3,069 counties and parishes, there are in the United States 26 independent cities.

They are St. Louis, Missouri; Baltimore, Maryland, and 24 cities in Virginia.

These independent cities are in States but not in counties.

They constitute governmental units equivalent to counties and are represented as such in the State legislatures.

Virginia is the only State that adopted the independent city system of State organization on a large scale.

Maryland is divided into 23 counties and Baltimore City, which borders on but is not in Baltimore County.

Missouri has 114 counties and the City of St. Louis, which is adjacent to but not in St. Louis County. The Missouri constitution of 1875 authorized the City to form its own charter and to be independent of and separate from the County. When the population of the City had become large the inhabitants desired to break away from the County form of government because of the duplication of public functions and inequalities in the dual system.

Ordinarily an independent city is affected by State legislation in the same way that the counties are, but the system has the advantage of permitting the State to pass laws affecting independent cities without affecting counties without urban populations.

The City of San Francisco, California, occupies the entire County of the same name, although the two governments have not been completely merged.

SEEMS EVERYBODY'S ON A DIET

Here are some things to remember if you are too bulky, have excessive displacement or body measurements (not just overweight):

1. Instead of going on a diet next week begin right now correcting the error in your way of life that made you put on slacker flesh.

2, As there is no practical way to measure your specific gravity of your displacement, use the tape measure rather than the scales to determine whether you should reduce. Remember, superfluous fat and too much water retained in the tissues—slacker flesh—takes up more room but weighs less than muscle and other tissues not water-logged.

3. Any method of reducing that "takes off" pounds in a few-hours merely withdraws water—and the weight lost in a hurry is inevitably put on again within the next day or so by reaccumulation of water. Don't be an easy mark.

4. From one to two pounds a week is about as much as you should reduce in any circumstance. If reduction is faster than that it is likely to injure your health, vite, efficiency and good looks, if any.

5. A rational, physiological reduction regimen or plan should make you feel, look and be healthier and better in every way than you were before—if not, you may be sure the regimen is faulty and following it is likely to lower your vitality to a dangerous degree. A good many misguided young women now serving time in tuberculosis sanatoriums owe their plight to their credulity about "Hollywood," "steenteen-day" and similar quick reducing diets.

6. It is the refined carbohydrate department that most people do most of the overeating that accounts for slacker flesh—refined white flour and refined white sugar and the innumerable things in which these cheat-foods are the main ingredients. So there is your cue—begin correcting the fault in your nutrition by using less sugar, candy, sweetened beverage, white bread, cake, syrup today, or begin by omitting dessert from your diet from now on.

7. If one or more of your teeth are missing or not functioning have them repaired or replaced with functionally efficient dentures immediately. Proper chewing particularly of the vegetables, fruits, cereals, legumes, greens, and the good digestion associated with proper chewing, is of considerable importance in any reducing regimen.

8. The great majority of us get insufficient vitamins and minerals in our everyday diet, and so if we restrict our diet even moderately as part of a reduction regimen we may lower the vitamin and mineral intake to a level below the minimum requirements of health—which means we would develop manifestations of nutritional deficiency disease.

9. The essential, vitamins and minerals to supplement a low calory diet are

Vitamin A .... 5000 USP Units
Thiamine (B1) ... 2 milligrams
Riboflavin (B2) .... 3 milligrams
Bitamin D .... 500 USP Units
Dicalcium Phosphate .... 7.5 grams.

10. Don't bother your head about eliminating or excluding this or that food because it is more "fattening," more nourishing or more digestible than other foods (in the popular fancy). Consider only the caloric value of the amount of the food you eat—that is how many calaries your portion yields.

If you want the Calories and Figures pamphlet please ask for it in writing, do not use clipping and inclose a stamped envelope bearing your address. It gives several low calorie day's menus, particularly the basic or model health diet on which to pattern your own diet to suit your individual need.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

The Money Loss Does Not Matter

In 1938 I got your booklet on constipation. I was on a regular ration of laxatives, pills and junk. Haven't taken any kind of physic or used any so-called "aid" since. I often wonder how much money I might have spent had I continued taking such stuff for the rest of my life! Thank you, and again, keep up your fine educational work. (Mrs. R. G.)

Answer—Thank you, Ma'am. The money you might have spent is not important. Rather think of what all the physic side effects might have done to your general health . Send twenty-five cents and stamped envelope bearing your address, and ask in writing (no clipping, please) for the booklet The Constipation Habit and Colon Hygiene.

VIOLET SHAMBO
Instructor of Lens Inspectors in the AO Belleville Plant

Many steps are involved in the production of ophthalmic lenses made in the Belleville plant of American Optical Company Canada Limited. To a layman, viewing our manufacturing processes, the time and care spent on the lenses seem incredible. Actually, that's why AO lenses have a world-wide reputation for quality, why professional men prescribe them in the full knowledge that they will provide true eye comfort and visual efficiency for patients.

One of the most important steps in the manufacturing procedure is the final lens inspection. Obviously, defects of any kind must be spotted before the lenses are packaged. Accordingly, the inspectors must be thoroughly trained to detect flaws. Responsibility for training personnel in the final inspection department rests with Violet Shambo who is shown above at the left explaining a detail in the art of lens inspection to Mary Russell.

Employed by AO for the past 12 years, Miss Shambo instructs and advises a group of 42 people. She also assists as an inspector during "rush" periods. When our new plant is completed and additional inspectors are needed, her duties will expand. We know she'll meet them successfully.

Miss Shambo is a member of the AO Service and Social Club and her hobbies include sewing, reading, playing cards and attending the movies. A highly efficient worker, she is representative of AO employees who work together as a team to produce a product that has established Belleville as a lens-manufacturing centre in Canada.

No. 6 in a series to acquaint you with American Optical Company Canada Limited, its people and their activities.

To Our Employees, Their Families and All Other Citizens Of Belleville

Since last October 8th our plant has been closed down due to strike action taken by Local 533, U.E.-C.I.O. This strike was called by the U.E.-C.I.O. as a means to force the company to recognize it as the collective bargaining representative of certain of our employees.

Prior to the strike, no demand had been made by the union for recognition. Despite the fact that the regulations of the Department of Labor provide for an orderly procedure wherein a union may or may not be determined as the collective bargaining representative, this union attempted to force recognition through the medium of strike action which has caused our employees tremendous suffering through loss of wages, and also suffering to the community of Belleville,

This strike could have been averted if the union had followed the normal and peaceable procedure of allowing the Labor Relations Board to determine, either on its own initiative or through the process of an election, whether the union should or should not become the collective bargaining representative of the employees in our employ whom it claims to represent. THE UNION WAS ADVISED OF THIS PROCEDURE BY THE LABOR RELATIONS BOARD IN A LETTER DATED OCTOBER 20, 1947, IN WHICH THE UNION WAS INFORMED THAT NO ACTION ON THE UNION'S PETITION FOR REPRESENTATION WOULD BE TAKEN BY THE BOARD UNLESS AND UNTIL THE UNION HAD CALLED OFF THE STRIKE AND THE EMPLOYEES WENT BACK TO WORK.

This company decided that it would, under no circumstances, succumb to pressure by agreeing to recognize a union which it did not feel represented the majority of the workers and, furthermore, a union which refused to prove its majority status, if such existed, through the normal process provided by the Ontario Government.

Due to the fact that the management of this company has received hundreds of inquiries, not only from employees but from other citizens of Belleville, as to when the plant will resume operations, this statement is issued to indicate the problems which at present are confronting the management in making any decision. We could open the plant, but in doing so certain things must not be overlooked. Based on past acts of violence and the persistent efforts of the U.E.-C.I.O. to prevent personnel from entering the plant who are necessary for safety precautions, it is reasonable to assume that the plant could only be reopened through the joint efforts of the Local and Provincial Police to protect employees, who wish to return to work, from harm Assuming that the plant could resume production under the above conditions, which at best are very unsatisfactory, and under which no management cares to operate, there still remains the added fact that presumably the picket line would be continued which would deter the continued construction of our new plant addition, and also the delivery to and from the plant of materials and finished products.

We have no desire to subject our employees to such a situation nor to burden Local and Provincial Police for an indeterminate period. Accordingly we have come to this conclusion: IF THE U.E.-C.I.O. FEELS THAT IT SHOULD REPRESENT AS THE COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AGENT, EMPLOYEES IN OUR PLANT OTHER THAN THOSE REPRESENTED BY THE A.F. of L. MOLDERS UNION, LET THE UE-CIO PROVE THIS THROUGH ORDERLY AND PEACEFUL PROCESSES UNDER THE JURISDICTION OF THE LABOR RELATIONS BOARD AS THIS COMPANY WILL NOT BE FORCED INTO RECOGNITION OF THE UNION AS THE RESULT OF PRESSURE.

Accordingly, we have decided that, for the present, in any event, THIS PLANT WILL REOPEN WHEN AND ONLY WHEN THE U.E.-C.I.O. CALLS OFF ITS PICKET LINES AND OUR EMPLOYEES ARE ABLE TO RETURN TO WORK WITHOUT FEAR OF COERCION, INTIMIDATION AND VIOLENCE.

WEDDINGS

KNIGHT—MEEKS

At four o'clock on the afternoon of Friday, Nov. 21st., Rev. E. Farnsworth was the officiating clergyman for a quiet marriage in his home on Bleecker Ave., when Bessie Minerva Meeks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Meeks, of Sidney Township, became the bride of Robert Franklin Knight, of Dublane, Sask., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Knight, of Sidney Township.

The bride was very charming in a dress of aqua blue crepe, with black hat and accessories. The couple were unattended.

Mr. and Mrs. Knight will later take up residence in Dublane, Sask.

Women's Activities

HOLLOWAY STREET W.A.

A very pleasant evening was spent by the ladies of Holloway Street W.A. on Thursday evening when they held a pot-luck supper, the occasion being the entertainment of the group having the best attendance through the year by the other W.A. groups. A unique part of the program was the answering of the roll call by each member giving the name of the town or district where she was born, went to school and any other items of interest, also how long she has attended Holloway Street Church.

After supper the ladies adjourned to the church parlor for a business meeting and program. Mrs. L. Buck, the president, conducted the opening exercises and business. The December meeting was planned and is to take the form of a Christmas party. It was decided to elect the officers for 1948 by ballot.

Mrs. M. B. Weese conducted the devotional service; Mrs. A. Hitchon read the Scripture from Matt 25th Chapter, verses 14 to 45. Mrs. C. Perkins offered prayer and "Abide With Me" was sung in memory of Mr. Garnet Mitchell, who passed away very suddenly during the week.

Mrs. E. Shortt contributed a humorous reading and Mrs. S. P. Hagerman two solos; all of which were very much enjoyed. A benediction concluded the meeting.

ROSLIN WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

Roslin.—The November meeting of the Women's Institute was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Fred Gray.

The President, Mrs. H. Chisholm was in the chair and the meeting was opened in the usual way.

The roll call was answered by naming different varieties of Canadian apples.

Plans were made to hold a bazaar and supper on December 2nd.

Conveners of standing committees reporting were Mrs. F. Gray on "Agriculture and Canadian Industries".

Mrs. F. Meeks on "Home Economics" and Mrs. D. Chisholm on "Citizenship".

Mrs. D. Leslie brought a very interesting report of the highlights of the Women's Institute Area Convention held in Belleville on Nov. 4th and 5th. Mrs. C. Chapman, leader for the day, was in charge of the program and gave a paper on the subject "Reading, Music and Games for Home Evenings". The District President, Mrs. Charles Akey, was present and gave a paper on "The Home".

Mrs. F. Meeks gave a reading "Summer Passes".

The topic for the day "The duties, responsibilities and privileges of the different members of the household," was given by Mrs. D. Chisholm.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants and a social half-hour was enjoyed.

TO VISIT ATTLEE

London, Nov. 24 (CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King goes to Downing Street this afternoon for informal conversations with Prime Minister Attlee and other Commonwealth representatives.

The Canadian statesman, who came here for the Royal wedding last week, tonight will dine with G. Heaton Nicholls, South African High Commissioner in London, who is entertaining for Prime Minister Smuts.

Princess' Wedding Ring Made From Same Nugget as Mother's

Bickley, Nov. 24 —(Reuters)— Willie J. L. Bertolle, retired London jeweller, disclosed Saturday that the wedding ring which the Duke of Edinburgh gave Princess Elizabeth was made from the same nugget of Welsh gold and by the same craftsman as the one the King gave the Queen when they were married in 1923.

The 73-year-old jeweller told this story:

"In 1923 the Duke of York (now the King), who was a customer of mine, ordered his engagement ring from me. Then I made the wedding ring for the Duchess of York from a nugget from a Welsh gold mine.

"There was sufficient gold left over from the Welsh nugget for another ring. So when Princess Elizabeth became engaged I wrote to her, offering to make a ring from the same nugget as that used for her mother.

"She wrote and asked me to come and see her at Buckingham Palace. I showed her the gold and told its story. The Princess was delighted with the idea. I took the size of her finger, and gave the gold to the craftsman who made her mother's ring.

"When it was finished I took the ring to Lieut. Mountbatten and he gave me an engraving to go inside."

The jeweller refused to say what the engraving was.

Noted Author, Artist Honored Prior to Leaving for Belleville

Montreal.— Mrs. Howard Graham, (Viva Graham, author, teacher and artist), before leaving with her husband for Belleville, to take up permanent residence there this week, was honored guest at several farewell luncheons and teas, one of which was held at the home of Mrs. J. Willis Jones, Elgin Terrace.

Several original songs, written by Ida Jones, and one written by Anne Vineberg and sung by Margaret Scripture, soprano, were very well received. Several poems were read, written by Miss A. Louis Peacock who attended the tea. A farewell message of tribute which was written by Dorothy Sproule, Montreal's own poetess, was read.

Viva Graham, taught in England, a graduate of Queen's University in Journalism, wrote a play and had it produced at the University of Montreal, plays a violin, has appeared on radio, was on the executive of the Women's Art of Montreal, and has had several of her oils on exhibition.

Instantly Killed at Cobourg

Cobourg, Ont., Nov. 22. (CP) —William Blakely, 71, of Gore's Landing, was instantly killed last night when his automobile collided with a Canadian National Railways train here. Blakely was driving alone and the car was carried along the track for about 70 feet by the locomotive.

St. Thomas Guild Sponsors Successful Bazaar and Tea

An atmosphere of hospitality and "good will" was prevalent at a pre-Christmas bazaar and afternoon tea in St. Thomas' parish house, Friday, sponsored by the Parochial Guild, when guests were cordially welcomed by Mrs. Arthur Smith and Mrs. F. S. Wilson.

The centre of the stage was filled with a tall, attractively decorated tree, which did double duty by taking the place of the usual fish-pond, with dainty parcels strewn around its base, and the following couplet displayed on a nearby poster:

"Here are lovely toys, for little girls and boys,
And home-made sweets, for all who eat."

Members of Group "A" were in charge of an apron and novelty booth, with Mrs. Patterson as convener, assisted by Mrs. Corby and Mrs. Denyer.

Children's wear was emphasized in a booth sponsored by Group "E" with Mrs. Harold Carruthers as convener, and Mesdames J. Clarke, F. Clarke, and McNish assisting.

Mrs. J. N. Garbutt was convening the booth in charge of Group "B" with Mrs. Len Fozard as assistant. Aprons and Fancy work were augmented with beautifully knitted wear for men as well as for children.

All of these booths were decorated in the traditional Christmas colors of red and green.

The home-cooking table with its lovely white cover which had a suitable pattern of gay poinsettias, was centred with a low bowl holding a collection of colorful fruits, and flanked by tall red tapers in crystal cups. Mrs. Wilkinson convened this booth, where Mesdames Tilley and Kelley assisted in disposing of the appetizing canned fruits, delicatessen dishes, and plum puddings, beside the usual display of pies, tarts, cakes, cookies, biscuits and buns.

The children's booth was daintily decorated in pink and turquoise blue and offered a large assortment of intriguing clothes for the darling dollies in all sizes, as well as cuddly toys for the babies and less breakable wooden animals for the more robust "Junior", Mrs. George Smith was the convener, with Mrs. J. W. Howard and Mrs. Alwyn Geen assisting.

An unusual project introduced into the bazaar was the book section in charge of Mrs. A. Smith, as convener and with Mrs. R. McClean as assistant.

Jewellery and small pieces of bric-a-brac were in charge of Mrs. G. M. Davidson and Mrs. J. F. Alford.

Mrs. Allan McDougall convened the tea room where a beautiful lace cloth covered the long table, centred with a low blue pottery bowl filled with a lacey "dried and dyed" bouquet in pastel tones of dusty pink and soft blue. Triple silver candelabra held tall Wedgewood blue tapers and the table appointments were completed by silver tea services and sandwich trays.

Pouring the beverage for the first hour were Mrs. McBrine and Mrs. Feather; for the second hour, Mrs. McFee and Miss Wallbridge; and for the final hour Mrs. Morton and Mrs. Austin Smith.

Assisting by serving the guests were Mesdames James, Fisher, Gibson, Fitsgibbon, Tatley, Scripture, Grant, Walton, Keel, Jeffrey, Hawkins and Miss Danes.

Replenishing plates and tea urns were Mrs. Van Tassel and Mrs. Base.

Treasurer for the afternoon was Mrs. S. J. Gilmore.

Members of the Guild are grateful to all who assisted in making this social venture an outstanding success.

Grace Church W.A. Holds Successful Pre-yuletide Bazaar

Trenton. (Special.)— Scores of ladies from all sections of the town visited the bazaar and attended the pre-Yuletide Tea in the church parlors of Grace United Church on Wednesday afternoon, under the auspices of Group Two of the W.A.

The Church parlors had been made attractive for the occasion with the decorations using the Christmas color theme, with red, silver and white predominating. Mrs. Harold Jeffery was the convener of the decorating committee, with Mrs. R. White and Mrs. D. Sager assisting her.

Receiving the guests were Mrs. Martin Boese, convener, assisted by Mrs. (Rev.) G. Puttenham.

The main tea table was most inviting with its lace cloth and unique centrepiece of evergreen, pine cones and silver poinsettias with red tapers in silver holders on either side. There were small tables effectively decorated where the guests were invited to sit while enjoying sandwiches, dainties, and "the cup that cheers".

The tea hostess was Mrs. J. Pinch and pouring tea were: Mrs. B. Bowen, Mrs. J. Rupert, Mrs. E. Allison and Mrs. A. Lewis. Serving the small tables were Mrs. Parkinson, Mrs. R. White, Mrs. S. Morrice, Mrs. H. Jeffery, Mrs. E. Richter and Mrs. W. Bowen. Mrs. R. Winters replenished the plates, assisted by Mrs. V. Carswell.

The sale tables were arranged around the walls with effective backgrounds of Winter scenes. The sewing table was in charge of Mrs. C. Shaw and Mrs. S. Humphrey. Mrs. S. Bowden and Mrs. C. Waldren were kept busy at the home cooking table as long as the food lasted. The handkerchief and novelty booth was in charge of Mrs. L. Phinney, assisted by Mrs. P. Robertson. Mrs. D. Sager presided at the Baby Wear Booth where the lovely small garments and knitted articles were much admired. The Corner Store was in charge of Mrs. C. Leitch, with Mrs. Anderson assisting. The Young Adult Group of the Church had a Christmas Card and Seal booth in charge of Mrs. G. Ackerman.

Mrs. H. Gibson was treasurer for the afternoon.

Music was supplied by six pupils of Mrs. J. Gould, namely Betty Kinney, Mary Ellen Farr, Annette Pinch, Shirley Scott, Beverley Shaw and June Whaley.

Mrs. H. Sager was in charge of the kitchen, assisted by Mrs. Robertson.

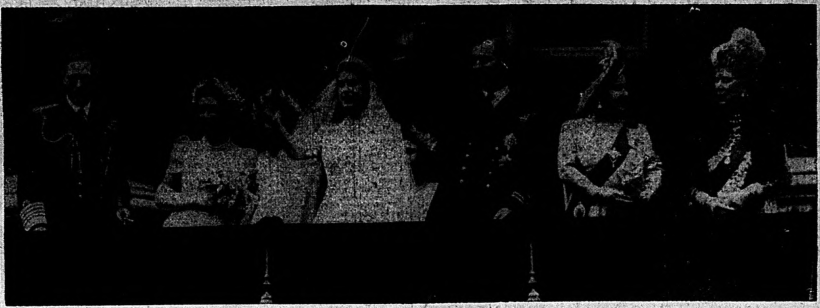
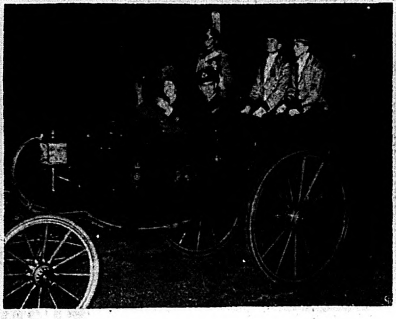
Marriage of Royal Lovers Is Like Fairy Story Come True To Life

Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, kneel to receive the blessing of the Archbishop of Canterbury at the sanctuary steps of Westminster Abbey. His Majesty the King is to the left, the groomsman, the Marquess of Milford Haven, to the right.

This wedding pose of the newlyweds was taken in Buckingham Palace after the ceremony in Westminster Abbey and shows the radiant bride in ivory satin. The groom is in full uniform with sword.



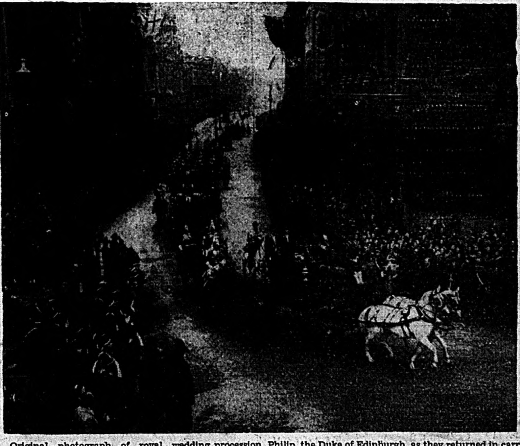
The royal party are photographed waving to cheering crowds from the balcony of Buckingham Palace. From left to right are: King George, Princess Margaret, Princess Elizabeth, the Duke of Edinburgh, Queen Elizabeth and Queen Mother Mary. The cheering was redoubled when the King led the rest inside, leaving Elizabeth and Philip to receive the ovation alone on their wedding day. The newlyweds are leaving for Scotland in a week to stay at Birkhall near the royal castle at Balmoral.



H.R.H. Princess Elizabeth and her husband, the newly created Duke of Edinburgh (Lieut. Philip Mountbatten), drove amidst cheering crowds in a one carriage procession to Waterloo station for their train journey to Winchester, and thence to Broadlands, near Romsey, for the start of their honeymoon. Here they wave good-by to the resounding cheers of the crowd as they leave Buckingham Palace.

The royal lovers, who captured the world's imagination and affection, are shown on the balcony of the Palace as they wave to the crowd below, after the wedding ceremony in Westminster Abbey.

Vast crowds appeared in front of Buckingham Palace when the royal couple appeared on the balcony after the wedding breakfast. Crowds opened up their hearts for the glittering spectacle after years of austerity and observers said there was not even such enthusiasm for the coronation.



Original photograph of royal wedding procession shows crowds jam-packed into the Whitehall, London, to acclaim with best wishes Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip, the Duke of Edinburgh, as they returned in carriage to Buckingham Palace from Westminster Abbey after the ceremony.

Detroit Red Wings' Push Into First Place in N.H.L. With Two Weekend Triumphs

Defeat Hapless Hawks While Canadiens Lose and Draw; Leafs Beat Boston

By HARRY ECCLES
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Detroit Red Wings today rode atop the National Hockey League standings, a point ahead of Toronto Maple Leafs with Boston Bruins another point down in third place.

And the fourth-place Montreal Canadiens, winless in their last five starts, are four points behind the Bruins, with the New York Rangers hot on their heels.

Detroit's surge to the top was largely explained by the fact they met the hapless Chicago Black Hawks in both their weekend fixtures. The Wings smothered the Hawks 8-5 at Detroit Saturday and then walloped them 9-2 at Chicago last night, a total of 17 goals in two games fired past Rookie Doug Jackson who took his stand for the first time in the Chicago goal at Detroit, Saturday night with unhappy memories of the fate suffered by such predecessors as Paul Bibeault and young Emile Francis.

The Toronto Maple Leafs held the League lead briefly after beating the Bruins 4-3 at Toronto in a game in which Joe Klukay, the penalty-killer from Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., blossomed forth as the winning goal-scorer. The Leafs had taken a 3-0 lead early in the first period on goals by Don Metz, Vic Lynn and Syl Apps. Wally Wilson got two of those back in the first period and Babando tied it up at 3-3 in the second. The third period had gone over 15 minutes when Klukay wound up a steaming Toronto attack by firing as he fell in front of the Bruins' nets.

Durnan Injured

The other Saturday night game at Montreal saw Bill Durnan,, Canadiens' great goalie, injured early in the second period and forced to leave the game. His place was taken by Gerry McNeil, goalie for Montreal Royals of the Quebec Senior League, and McNeil also worked the Sunday game in Boston.

At the Forum Richard scored for Canadiens in the first frame and Juzda tied it up in the second. Richard's second game gave Canadiens at 2-1 edge before Rangers swarmed furiously in a speedy whirl of attacks that had Canadiens with their back to the wall. Warwick, O'Connor, Raleigh and Kullman all scored within about 14 minutes before Canadiens got their third goal with Richard once again doing the honors.

At Boston last night Canadiens had to come from behind to gain the tie. Defenceman Jack Crawford of the Bruins suffered a deep skate cut on his right foot in the first period, which was scoreless. Milt Schmidt covered Crawford's post as well as his own for the rest of the game.

Kenny Reardon scored the Habitants first goal in the second period and it wasn't until nine minutes of the final had gone that Boston tied it on Woody Dumart's goal. Then Reardon combined with Joe Carveth, accidentally of course, to put Boston in the lead, the goal scoring off Reardon's' skate on Carveth's shot from back of the Boston net. Richard got the tying goal in the last two minutes.

Rookie Jim McFadden scored three goals for Detroit, Saturday and Horeck, Guidolin and Lindsay each garnered a pair Sunday in the Wings' victories over Hawks.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

The Peterborough Legion hockey squad, which according to OHA forecasts will, with squads from other centres with 10,000 and over be elevated to Senior "B" rating this year, will go into a dress hearsal here come Friday night with the Belleville ANAFS as their opposition in an exhibition tilt. The Legion squad went through a strenuous workout in Memorial Arena over the weekend and according to the railbirds have plenty of strength in all departments.

The game which is scheduled for 8:30 should be another of those traditional Peterborough-Belleville hockey arguments with plenty of everything in the book. The teams are rivals from away back when and although the joust is of the exhibition calibre, both squads will be out there in old-time form. The Petes have had the better of the hockey arguments with the lads from the banks of the Moira during the past two or three seasons, and the Redshirts will be out to settle a few old scores.

• • •

Phil (The Voice) Lawson, who spent a few days recently in St. Louis, wires us to the effect that the National Wrestling Association world crown now rests jauntily on the locks of one, "Wild Bill" Longson it appears, removed from the Longson it appears, removed the bauble from the noggin of Lou Thesz in a bitter brawl down St. Loo way the other night before a packed auditorium. In fact, "The Voice" warbles in his wire that 3,000 pachydermian addicts were unable to get in.

It seems that Wild William who formerly held the title, was give the run-around for quite some time before he could get the champion in the ring. It happened the other night, and Willy secured a toehold on the champion that had his honorable ancestors squirming in their graves. In fact, it was so excruciatingly painful that Thesz to save his forebears more agony finally conceded the fall and the title while thousands howled their approval.

Thesz and Whipper Billy Watson tangled in Toronto a few weeks ago, and the Whip probably paved the way for the Longson victory. For his punishment of one of the Thessian legs was terrific, and the Whip will probably draw an assist for Longson, for the leg that gave way for a new champion was the one that was subjected to the Watsonian wrestling wrath.

• • •

What should be one for the local hockey tome is that jamboree scheduled for Tuesday night when the Belleville Hornets tangle with Point Anne in a District Hockey League tilt. Point Anne which has been outlucked in its first two starts must get into the win column if she wants a playoff berth. On the other hand Hornets who have tasted victory once will be all out to consolidate their position in fourth place in their section.

• • •

In the other half of the bill Campbellford takes on the Trenton Hockey Club and this tilt should have some bearing on a playoff spot. Both squads have won a game worth two points and with three teams in the section tied for third place, the outcome is important. First game between Hornets and Point Anne gets under way at 7:30.

The Ontario Hockey Association shook up its ratings at a sub-committee over the weekend and some interesting disclosures came out of the conclave.

Under the new classifications there would be no limits imposed on the senior "A" and junior "A" series. Senior "B" would be allocated to teams from centres with at least 10,000 population, intermediate "A" for teams from those not lower than 4,000, junior "B" for towns not lower than 10,000, intermediate "B" not lower than towns of 4,000, junior "C" for towns over 4,000 and junior "D" for centres under 4,000. The last is a new series.

All special cases which the above may not include would be classified by the O. H. A. executive.

As for importation of hockey players, it is proposed to allow senior "B" and junior "B" clubs four players, intermediate "A" and junior "C" three players and intermediate "B" and junior "D" two players.

Under present rules it is permissible for senior and junior "A" clubs to exchange players with the idea of strengthening their respective rosters up to Dec. 15. Then they must name their 18 signed players which stands for the season.

• • •

Ray Lundberg, one of the crack bowlers of the Ashley Furs team in the Bowl-O-Drome Men's Commercial League set up something of a kegling record the other day when he sent the maples slithering for the neat high-three string count of 892. Lundberg's first single was 300, the second 361, which is good enough in any man's league, but he slipped a bit in the third for a 231. This is the highest three-string of the season in that loop at least, and is something for the veterans of the game to shoot at. Lundberg, 'tis said, has been bowling consistently all season, and if he maintains his present form he may crack his own record.

Because the Czech team was too rough, the championship Soviet football team has cancelled its last game in Prague, notes the Windsor Star.

It is quite understandable that the Czechs, pushed around by Russia politically, economically and socially, did decide to take it out on the Russians on the playing field.

• • •

Action by the Soviet football team follows the pattern of its diplomatic —team at Lake Success. If they can't win, they veto; if they can't veto, they won't play. Only at Prague they could not apply the veto, or they would have soon "vetoed" the Czech rough stuff.

BLUE BOMBERS PONDER WAYS OF STOPPING KROL

Argonauts Not Extended in Winning East Grid Final From Trojans 22-1

By ROBERT CLARKE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Nov. 24. (CP)—It's easier said than done to stop Joe (King) Krol although Winnipeg Blue Bombers made it plain today they intend to base their strategy on the Canadian football final next Saturday against Toronto Argonauts around holding the big backfield standout.

Coach Jack West of Bombers took a good look as Argos brushed aside Ottawa Trojans 22-1 here Saturday in the Eastern final and then came up with the observation that the scullers could be beaten if Krol and Royal Copeland could be scuttled. Particularly Krol, since west feels that much of Copeland's effectiveness lies in the passes thrown to him by Krol. "If we can stop Krol, or hurry him at any rate, we'll be going a long way toward stopping the Argos," said West. "And that's what we plan to do."

Stopping Krol is a lot simpler to talk about than actually do. Other clubs in the East have tried but with inconspicuous success.

West admitted Argos hadn't been extended in disposing of Trojans, who fought gamely but were far outclassed, but the Winnipeg coach thought Bombers had shown much more improvement than Argos since the start of the season. Argos defeated Bombers twice in Winnipeg in pre-season exhibitions but West is inclined to shrug off those defeats.

Can Strike Suddenly

As West must have realized from watching Argos in action against Trojans, one of the factors that make the Scullers—and Krol—so dangercus is that they can strike so suddenly and with such devastating effect. Krol's forward passing is dynamite even though he might only pitch three or four "strikes" in a game.

That's the way it was against Trojans—three completed passes in nine attempts. But two of the completions, both gathered in by Copeland, led the touchdowns. On the other hand, Trojans tried 23 forwards and completed ten but their passing attack was nowhere near as effective as that of Argonauts.

A Long Boot

Copelands, Byron Karrys and Bill Stukus scored touchdowns against Trojans while Krol piled up seven points on three converts, a field goal from placement and a boot to the deadline. That single point, incidentally, provided one of the games highlights. Aided by the wind Krol boomed the ball 70 yards in the air, way over the Ottawa safety man's head and it rolled another 30 yards over the deadline.

Argos' power was demonstrated best in the drive that ended in the touchdown by Karry's'. They started on their own five-yard line, plowing up the field on a variety of plays until Krol tossed a long pass to Copeland on the Trojans 23-yard line.

Copeland raced all the way the goalline but the officials ruled he had been forced over the sideline by inches at the Ottawa five-yard stripe. The ball was put down there and Karrys had no difficulty in slicing over on the first play for his touchdown.

P.C.I. WINS COSSA TITLE

Toronto, Nov. 24 — (CP)—The power-packed Peterborough Collegiate seniors rang up their 7th straight victory in an many starts this season by defeating St. Catharines Collegiate 16-6 for the Central Ontario secondary schools Association senior football championship here yesterday.

St. Catharines, previously undefeated in 10 games, put on a fighting display but could not halt the powerful ground attacks of the maroon-and-grey.

Hard driving Jack Sissin and Wally Graham supplied the spark for the Peterborough win. Sissin scored two touchdowns which went unconverted while Graham added the other major. Quarterback John Green converted Graham's try to complete the winners' scoring.

Speedy Jerry Fitzgerald counted the only St. Kitts touchdown, Jim Carroll made the convert.

Philadelphia Rockets Defeat New Haven Ramblers Over Weekend 6-4

(By The Canadian Press)

Pittsburgh Hornets and Hershey Bears today continue to hold the spotlight in the American Hockey League after a nine-game weekend schedule. Hornets led the pack in the western division by three points while Bears are two points ahead of their nearest rival — Buffalo Bisons — in the east.

Pittsburgh, in their only appearance, ran riot over St. Louis, whipping the hapless Flyers 12-1 on Saturday. Meanwhile Hershey split two games with Providence, downing the Reds 5-4 on Saturday but losing 8-2 on Sunday.

Indianapolis Capitals lost 7-2 to Springfield Saturday and dropped a 5-2 decision to Buffalo last night.

Washington Lions also dropped two games, losing to Cleveland 6-2 on Saturday and 8-2 to St. Louis last night. New Haven Ramblers edged Springfield 4-3 last night after losing to Philadelphia 6-4 on Saturday.

Stan Kemp, Tod Sloan and Jackie Hamilton with two goals each paced the Hornets as they ran up the top league score of the season. Arman Lemieux, Pete Backor, Syd Smith, Fleming Mackell, Les Costello and Pete Langelle scored the other Hornet goals. Paul Gladu notched the only St. Louis marker.

Frank Mario led Hershey to their win with two goals. Herb Cain, Jud McAtee and Johnny Pierson each scored one. Providence was paced by Ray LaPlante with two goals while Whitey Prokop and Al Stanley each tallied once.

Reds Turn Table

Reds turned the tables on Hershey on Sunday as playing-coach Terry Reardon banged in two goals. Harvey Fraser also notched two for Providence while Whitey Prokop, Harry Taylor Ray LaPlante and Harry Liscombe scored one each. Paul Ronty and Don Lund, were the Hershey marksmen.

Rookie Eric Unger and Bill Summerhill, paced Indians to their triumph over Caps. The other Springfield goals were scored by Eddie Kobussen, Gordon Tottle and Bill Gooden. Indianapolis goals were chalked up by Enio Sclisizzi and Nelson Podolsky.

Tommy Cooper was the big gun for Bisons as they downed Caps, scoring two goals. Freddie Hunt, Joe Bell and Doug Lewis each picked up one marker. Capitals goal - getters were Cliff Simpson and Don Morrison.

Joe Cooper, Fred Thurier, Ab Demarco, Johnny Holota, Dan Sprout and Bob Solinger scored for Cleveland as they downed Washington on Saturday. Lions' goals went to Winfield Mousseau and Dan Porteus.

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, Nov. 24 — (CP) — What with Canadians filling the rosters of major and minor league clubs throughout the United States, and the demand increasing as hockey expands across the border, there comes a new slant to the enticement of young Canadians by American colleges and universities.

The latest bit of persuasive propaganda emanates from Colorado College where Cheddy Thompson is hockey coach.

Thompson, a native of Fielding, Sask., and now a citizen of the United States, undoubtedly knows all the hockey angles and is probably all set to build for dear old Colorada — and himself, to — a fast-clicking club, if, as and when his appeal is heeded.

Elmer (Montreal Herald) Ferguson has dug up the Thompson plan, but refused to become alarmed "when it is employed by only one institution of learning and scoring, but if it spreads, a great many young Canadians are going to be lured across the border to combine study and play.

Fergy found the Thompson lure divided into three reasons why Canadians should attend American instead of Canadian schools.

"Because of so much competition in hockey in Canada, there is a greater chance of Canadians being able to make a better showing on U. S. collegiate hockey teams.

"There is a certain amount of glamor in attending college in the United States.

"The scholarship - aid given to Canadian students at American universities provides means for them to go to school in the United States, when in many cases they could not attend the more expensive Canadian institutions."

On the last point Fergy admits he doesn't know whether Canadian scholastic fees are higher or lower than those in the United States "when 'aid' is figured in."

But he won't agree there is any more glamor in attending American Universities as compared with University of Toronto, McGill, Queens or Western — institutions with "history, background and tradition."

"As to excellence of courses, everybody knows the Canadian universities rank high, in a scholastic way, rank, indeed, with the world's finest. But if Canadian boys can, at medium prices, achieve learning and be hockey idols at the same time, in any college where the learning is adequate and the hockey primitive, why, more power to them. But we imagine the Canadian universities will be able to struggle along in a sports way, too."

What You Should Know about TRAVEL RATIONING

Why?

Canada's supply of U.S. dollars will no longer stretch far enough to permit all the purchases of goods and services or all the travel in the United States that has taken place in the past. It is, therefore, necessary to reduce our expenditures of U.S. dollars in many different ways. As one of these steps, the Government has decided that the use of U.S. dollars for pleasure travel spending must be reduced. To ensure this reduction in a way that is fair to all, an annual "travel sation" has been established. As in the past—a Form H permit is required by anyone taking out of Canada more than $10 U.S. or more than a total of $25 in Canadian and foreign currencies.

Pleasure Travel

Regulations now provide that the maximum amount of U.S. dollars which any Canadian resident may obtain for pleasure travel purposes is $150 per year. In the case of children of eleven years and under, the amount is $100. There is no restriction on the number of trips as long as this annual allotment is not exceeded. Any U.S. dollars obtained for one trip and not used on that trip must be brought back to Canada and exchanged for Canadian dollars at a bank immediately on return. No credit for these funds can be allowed against the annual ration for subsequent trips.

Business Travel

Applications for U.S. dollars for business travel must include a certification by the employer that the travel is required in his business interests. Reasonable amounts of U.S. dollars may be obtained for this purpose.

Travel for Health or Education

Applications for U.S. dollars for travel for health or educational reasons are to be made on special forms available at chartered banks. These applications will be forwarded by banks to the Foreign Exchange Control Board for consideration. Applications for health travel must be accompanied by a medical report on forms which can also be obtained at chartered banks. The Department of National Health and Welfare will act as advisor to the Board in reviewing these medical reports.

Border Travel

A Canadian resident wishing to make visits on which he will not be taking out of Canada more than a total of $25 of which not more than $10 is in U.S. dollars, may purchase from his bank for this purpose up to a total of $10 in any calendar month. This is in addition to the annual travel ration.

Personal Purchases of U.S. Goods

A Canadian tourist should remember that the new restrictions applying to imports from the United States govern his personal purchases there. He may not bring back any merchandise which has now been prohibited or which may now only be imported on a quota basis. The list of goods covered by the new import restrictions is an extensive one. Tourists contemplating any particular purchase in the United States would be wise, before leaving the country, to ask Canadian Customs Officials if this purchase will be admitted.

Travel Requiring Sterling Funds

Applications for sterling funds for travel in sterling area countries are normally approved for any reasonable amounts.

YOUNG RANGERS LOSE THEIR 10TH STRAIGHT GAME

Oshawa Generals and Windsor Spitfires Continue to Set Pace in Junior Race

(By The Canadian Press)

Toronto Marlboros are riding well on top of the senior A Ontario Hockey Association this week but the three Toronto junior teams are having their troubles — especially Young Rangers and the once-powerful St. Michael's.

The Young Rangers lost their 10th straight game, 7-1, to the leading Oshawa Generals in Toronto Saturday, to sink lower into cellar position. St. Michael's College, now in eighth spot, lost their own with five wins and four skating St. Catharines team, 5-2. Marlboro's, the other Toronto junior team who so far have held their own with fice wins and four losses, dropped their game in Windsor to the junior Spitfires.

In the other junior A circuit game during the weekend Guelph Biltmores at Galt Rockets battled to a 3-3 overtime tie.

Only one game was played in the senior 'A' O. H. A. loop. Owen Sound Mercurys took advantage of a tired Brantford team at Brantford to take an easy 8-2 victory.

The Mercury team outskated and outplayed the Brantford team by a fair margin. Gillespie shone for Mercurys pushing three past the overworked Hammer in the Brantford net. Mason clicked for two and Smith, McCreavy and White scored one each to round out the Mercury picture. Marinoff and Wilson scored the two Brantford goals.

In the game with Oshawa Generals the Young Rangers looked weak as Oshawa's big guns, Chuck Blair, Dick Gamble and George Scholes, roared over them practically at will. Gamble and Blair notched two goals each while playmaker Scholes received four assists.

Eric Pogue, Ross Lawe and Dusty Blair rang up the other Oshawa goals.

Billy Ringer, easily the best man on the Young Ranger's roster, scored the single Ranger tally with newcomer Howie Cox receiving the assist.

St. Mikes Outskated

St. Catharines outskated Toronto St. Michael's although neither team showed to advantage on play and but for the outstanding work of Cec Gruhl in the Tee-pee nets the score might have been much closer.

Bill Buschlen shone for the Tee-Pees, as he rapped in two goals while Jim Maxwell was second with a goal and an assist.

St. Michael's played strongly at times but sloppy work around the nets and the brilliance of Gruhl kept them off the score sheet time and again. Ray Barry and Pete Whelan played the best game for the Irish with one goal each.

Windsor Spitfires' victory over Toronto Marlboros shoved them into a first-place tie with Oshawa Generals. Their five goal first period spree was sparked by Jack Taylor, and followed by Wilson, McKay, Busch and Haidy in that order. Uniac and Haidy clicked for one each for the Spits in the third to clinch the victory.

Jim Pernfuss managed to slap one in for the junior Dukes in the second with Hassard adding two more in the third and Bolton one to complete Marlboros' scoring.

In the Guelph-Galt overtime game, Gordon, Martin and Ewing tallied the three Guelph counters with Wylie passing two for the Rockets and Berchan getting the other.

Football Too Rough for Me Says Dizzy Dean

(By The Canadian Press)

Jerone (Dizzy) Dean made his debut as a radio football announcer Sunday and expressed the opinion that he was considerably less than a sensation—in fact, quoth the former big league baseball pitcher who was advertised as "master of the split infinitive" they knocked me plumb out of the box."

"Football is too rough for me,' said Dean after the Dallas, Tex., game. "I was hurt three times durin' the broadcast and the only play I called right was the kick-off."

The Amateur Athletic Union of Canada at the closing sessions of the annual convention in Lethbridge, Alta., Saturday awarded the 1948 Junior Track and Field championships to Sudbury, Ont. Delegates left to the executive a decision on the applications of the Thunder Bay and Southwestern Ontario branches for the 1948 annual meeting.

A new development in Canadian Sports Communications was inaugurated Saturday when a Special 566-mile Canadian Press teletype circuit carried the running descriptive story of the Eastern Canada Football final direct from Toronto's Varsity Stadium into newspaper offices in five cities. It marked the first use of teletype direct from a Canadian football field to newspapers. The circuit will be in operation again next Saturday for the East-West game.

Funeral services will be held at Port Hope, Ont., Tuesday for the late Thomas J. O'Neill, who died Saturday. The 81-year-old sports enthusiast was known extensively for many years for organizing and promoting amateur baseball..

London Kiwanis moved into the Junior Ontario Rugby Union finals Saturday when they easily disposed of Point Edward 33-2, in a sudden-death playoff at London.

Cobourg's galloping ghosts defeated Orillia 15-11 Saturday in the first of a home-and-home playoff for the O.R.F.U. district intermediate title. The second game will be played at Orillia.

Clement Simard, sponsor of the Granby entry in the Quebec Junior Amateur Hockey Association, announced last night the team had suspended operations because of financial difficulties. The club is reported to have lost 1,200 so far after seven games.

Vancouver Blue Bombers may yet meet an Eastern Canada team for the Canadian Junior Football final at Vancouver New Year's Day. Ranji Mattu, coach of the Western Canada Champs, said Sunday that officials of the Hamilton team had contacted him offering to come to Vancouver for a final should they win the Eastern Championship.

Henri Vermette, secretary of the Quebec Provincial Hockey League, announced last night that Verdun Eagles will transfer the remainder of their home games to Granby and change the club's name to Granby Eagles.

Vermette said the team will continue to operate in Granby under the same management and that the league schedule will not be altered.

Houston Huskies Top South Loop

(By The Associated Press)

Houston Huskies today topped the southern division of the United States Hockey League, four points ahead of Fort Worth, as a result of two victories in weekend games coupled with Fort Worth losses.

Houston beat Dallas, 5-3 and 4-1, and Forth Worth bowed to Tulsa 6-2 and to Kansas City 3-2.

Kansas City spotted Fort Worth two goals then pounded in three counters to come from behind in the third period last night. The Plamors had tied Omaha 4-4 in an overtime game Saturday, and last night's triumph moved Kansas City into third place in the northern division, ahead of Omaha.

Meamwhile, Minneapolis rapped St. Prul twice, 7-4 and 7-6, for its fifth victory over the Saints this season. The Millers who won their first eight games, now have five straight in a new winning streak.

No games are scheduled tonight. Tuesday St. Paul will play at Tulsa and Fort Worth at Omaha.

WEEKEND STARS

(By The Canadian Press)

Jimmy McFadden, Detroit, who had a big weekend woith three goals and five assists as the Wings whipped Chicago twice.

Maurice Richard, Montreal, who racked up four of Canadiens' five goals as the Habitants lost and drew.

Ted Lindsay, Detroit, who fired four markers and helped on two others as Wings made it a weekend double.

Buddy O'Connor, New York, who notched the winning goal as Rangers whipped Montreal 5-3 Saturday.

Joe Klukay, Toronto, whose last-period goal broke a 3-3 deadlock and gave Leafs a victory over Boston.

The Big Seven

(By The Canadian Press)

Jimmy McFadden, Detroit Red Wings' sophomore wingman, really went to town in the motor city squad's twin weekend victories over Chicago when he collected three goals and five assists to move into third place in the National Hockey League scoring race, only one point behind the leaders, Syl Apps of Toronto and Montreal's Maurice Richard. His teammate Ted Lindsay did nearly as well with four goals and two assists to take over fourth spot. While Apps had to be content with one goal. Richard notched four markers to move into a tie with the Toronto centre.

Quick Thinking Averts Panic In Windsor Hotel

Windsor, Nov. 24 — (CP) — Quick thinking by hotel employees averted any panic when fire broke out in the basement of the Prince Edward Hotel yesterday, sending smoke billowing through the 10-storey structure.

The two basement rooms, one housing electrical supplies and the other used as a paper baling room, were filled with flames and smoke, when firemen arrived. Bell boys went to each of the 250 rooms advising guests there was no danger and to remain in their rooms.

Firemen extinguished the blaze but not before flames had licked up through a ventilator shaft as far as the main ballroom on the second floor. The hotel's telephone system was put out of order.

Damage was comparatively small, chiefly due to smoke and water. No one was injured.

Grain Champions Honored At Winter Fair

Toronto, Nov. 24 —(CP)— Three new world grain champions — all from Western Canada —today are wearing imaginary crowns, presented at the Royal Winter Fair Saturday night.

They are: 55-year-old Mrs. Amy Grace Kelsey, Erickson, B.C., wheat; William and Creig Brown, Cassils, Alta., whose award for oats was received by their father, Thomas E. Brown, and Albert Robbins, 60-year-old farmer from Laura, Sask., barley.

J. A. Northy, fair president, presented photographic reproductions of trophies won in the three grain classes.

Said Mr. Northy:

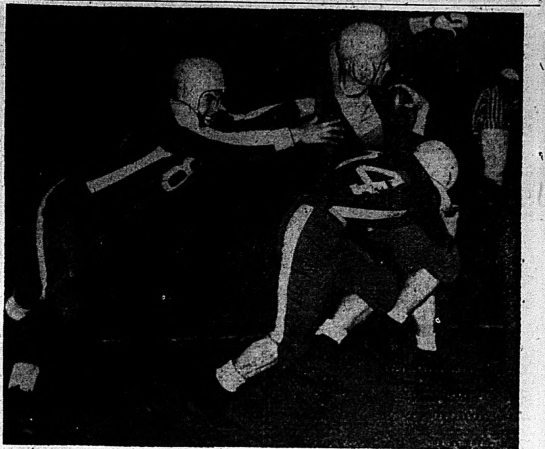
"For years Canada has been recognized as one of the greatest grain growing countries in the world.

"It is fitting that the Royal Wihter Fair should keep pace with our country's achievements and we appreciate the splendid co-operation we have received from the Canadian National Railways, Dominion Brewers Association, Ottawa, and the Quaker Oats Co., Peterborough, in donating $2,000 challenge trophies significant of world grain supremacy.

Meanwhile, two presentations tonight are scheduled to be made by the Governor-General — the King's 50 guineas to the boy or girl exhibitor of the champion baby beef steer and the Governor General's cup for a half-bred mare or gelding.

In Saturday's stiff, gruelling competition some jumping classes were closely contested that all horses except those with clean performances were disqualified. In other jumping events lengthy jump-offs resulted and many of the 10,000 spectator's left before the show ended.

With Clydesdale horses being judged in the morning, and a variety of minor horse features taking place in the afternoon, in addition to the regular evening events, visitors to today's fair will see almost every class of horse competition — including harness tandems for the first time at this year's fair.



Trojan Horse is Saddled — Ted McLarty, who did some fancy running for Ottawa Tropans in the last quarter of the Eastern Canada grid final Saturday at Varsity Stadium, is well trapped on this play. Driving the Ottawan to the ground is Doug Pyzer (74), stocky Argo backfielder, while Eric Fleet drives in hard at the left to give Pyzer some aid. Argos had little trouble winning, 22-1, to qualify for their third Canadian final in a row.

ACCLAMATIONS HOLD LIMELIGHT IN ONT. ELECTIONS

(By The Canadian Press)

Acclamations held the limelight in Ontario municipal elections today as numerous civic officials were handed the reins of office without opposition when the first of a series of municipal qualifications passed Saturday.

A large number of townships returned complete slates by acclamation and one city Woodstock filled all offices without a vote.

A reticence on the part of those nominated last Friday to stand for office was noted by officials in Western Ontario as 69 mayors and reeves and 58 councils were swept into office.

Most of the municipalities whose candidates qualified for election Saturday will vote Dec. 1. Others will nominate today for elections sometime next month. A still smaller number will hold nomination meetings for elections in January.

Of the 18 mayors elected by acclamation Saturday 2 were in cities, James W. Washburn became Kitchener's 1948 mayor by acclamation when there other candidates did not qualify for the post. In Woodstock, D. A. Thomson was elected mayor as were all others who qualified.

Other mayoralty acclamations, shown in a survey by The Canadian Press, were:

Hanover, Mayor A. J. Metzger; Parry Sound, C. C. Johnson; Napanee, George D. Hobson; Penetanguishene, W. D. Hunter; New Liskeard, J. H. Sumbler; Harrow, Edward McDonald; Essex, J. C. Linton; Amherstburg, A. H. Stevenson; Preston, William Skelly.

Marmora

Village Likely To Have Election For Councillors

Marmora — (Special) — At the close of the Marmora Village Council nomination meeting on Friday evening held in the Town Hall, the possibility of an election was left in the minds of the large number of electors present. Clerk E. C. Prentice read out the nominations as follows:

For Reeve — R. E. Neal, Vincent Lynch.

For Council — Warden Chrysler, Ritchie Wells, Leslie R. Bundle, Percy Gray, John Reynolds, Fred S. Johnston, Donald P. Marett.

For School Trustees, 2 years — Donald P. Marett, H. A. Burwash, W. D. Lavender.

For Hydro Commissioner — F. R. Wells (acclamation.)

Reeve Neal in Fight

In the subsequent speech making period Reeve Neal said he would be in the field again. Vincent Lynch had not decided as yet about contesting the reeveship. Warden Chrysler of last year's council said he not wish to seek re-election. Ritchie Wells and Leslie R. Rundle of last year's council were inclined to stand for another year. Through removal to Oshawa, Thomas Dickson, elected a year ago, created a vacancy for the fourth seat. Donald Marett nominated for both council and school board decided to qualify for the latter.

Percy Gray emphatically stated he was in the field for a seat on the council, while John Reynolds and ex-Councillor Fred Johnston would make their decision later.

Acclamation Accorded

Acclamation was accorded the reeve and councillors of Marmora and Lake Township at the nomination meeting held in the Town Hall on Friday afternoon under presidency of Clerk T. J. Bateman. Though not largely attended the meeting was of a humorous nature and the brief speeches made by the candidates after their nomination bore evidence of the goodwill which had existed among members in the discharge of their duties in the past year. The re-elected reeve and council are:

Reeve — John A. Bell

Councillors — Irwin McCoy, George Davidson, Charles Kelly and John Wilkes.

Elected for a two-year term as school trustees were Wilbert Jones, Raymond Bonter and Percy Carman.

B of M Reports Deposits Reach All-Time High

Montreal, November 24.—Again this year, following a practice it originated, the Bank of Montreal has come forward with a well-illustrated, easily understandable bank statement for the benefit of its more than 1,500,000 depositors. Unique among bank statements, the report, which covers the 130th year of the B. of M.'s career, can be read with complete understanding by everyone.

In the explanation of "the facts behind the figures", the bank emphasizes that money deposited does not lie idle, but works constantly for the building of the nation.

"Here is the money that makes the wheels of commerce turn," the report points out. "Here is the money that helps the farmer garner his crops. . . .that helps the lumberman buy equipment and pay his men. Here are the dollars that enable the bank to make more than 500 personal loans every business day of the year to men and women who need money to meet emergencies and take advantage of opportunities."

The statement is also brightened considerably by the addition of little thumbnail sketches throughout, and the use of simple, everyday language in place of the more formal financial terms usually found in bank reports. For example, bank assets are referred to as 'What the B of M has to Meet Its Obligations", while liabilities are simply "What the B of M Owes to Others"'. Likewise, the explanatory notes under each sub-heading are clear and to the point.

Deposits at New High

Deposits of $1,783,000,000 again set an all-time high, showing an increase of $47,000,000 over the previous year, and demonstrating the way in which Canadians are endeavoring to meet the danger of inflation.

This statement of Canada's senior financial institution reflects the general trend of business activity throughout the country. For example, commercial loans increased by 39 per cent, denoting the nation's expanding peacetime production. The financing of this expansion has been accompanied by a reduction of holdings of government and other public securities, which now stand at $957,000,000.

Heightened industrial activity brought about by the increasing production of peacetime goods found the bank participating to a much greater extent in commercial financing, with holdings of industrial bonds and debentures increased from $56,000,000 in 1946 to $96,000,000 for the year ended October 31, 1947.

Enlargement of the bank's facilities through the construction of new branches and the renovation of premises in various parts of Canada is manifested in a substantial rise in the value of its premises which, at $12,000,000, has increased by nearly three million dollars.

All of these factors add up to give the bank record-breaking resources of $1,898,000,000. This figure exceeds its obligations to the public by $81,079,000.

Graphic Earnings Statement

Another innovation in the report is the earnings statement which gives in detail—down to the fraction of the cent—the distribution made of the year's earnings in relation to the shareholders invested dollar.

After paying all overhead expenses, including staff salaries, bonuses, and contributions to the pension fund, and after making provision for contingencies, and for depreciation of bank premises, furniture and equipment, the B of M reports earnings for the year amounting to $9,579,285. To provide for Dominion and Provincial taxes, the bank set aside $4,156,000, leaving net earnings og $5,423,283, compared with $4,487,782 last year. Of this, $3,600,000 was distributed to shareholders, with the balance of $1,823,285 transferred to the profit and loss account.

On each dollar of the shareholders' money invested in the Bank of Montreal, the bank earned 11.81 cents in 1947. Of this, 5.12 cents were paid in taxes, 4.43 cents went to shareholders, and the remaining 2.28 cents went to surplus.

15 Accidental Deaths Recorded During Weekend

(By The Canadian Press)

Four Hydro project workmen who lost their lives when a cable way collapsed late Saturday, plunging the men into the Ottawa River, were among 15 accidental deaths recorded by The Canadian Press during the weekend.

The others died in a variety of mishaps. Four persons died in traffic accidents, two by shooting, two in train accidents, one from burns, one was drowned, and another by suffocation.

The Hydro men, Emile Niemenen, 53, Ivan Aleman, 55, Emile Nurmi all of Montreal, and John Gornich, 41, of Kirkland Lake, were working at the Rapids des Joachim Hydro project, 22 miles west of Pembroke when the cable collapsed. The men were hurled into the churning waters and were drowned.

Milton Fox, 75, of Windsor died in hospital late Sunday from injuries suffered in a car collision on No. 3 Highway in Sandwich West township a few hours earlier. Dimitri Ochochinski, 60, also of Windsor, died in hospital after being struck by a taxicab as he stepped off the curb to the street. The driver said he was unable to stop in time.

Steve Gederdwich, 45, was killed Saturday when he was struck by an automobile as he cycled in Sandwich West township.

Crushed to Death

The fourth traffic victim was Nerton Heise of Thessalon who was crushed to death when a truck in which he was riding upset in a ditch near Sault Ste. Marie.

J. P. Strande, 70, of Riverside, Ont., died in hospital Sunday night from burns suffered in a fire at his home. Riverside police said he was smoking his pipe on a studio couch when he fell asleep Saturday night.

Five-months-old Patricia Munro, of Toronto died of suffocation Saturday shortly after she was found lying on her stomach in her crib.

In Montreal a railway engineer and a fireman were killed when a freight train rammed a locomotive in the north-end yards of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Killed were engineer William Morfee, of Smith's Falls, Ont., and fireman Ernest Gougeon, of Montreal.

Lieut. Lionel Hunter, 32, of Royal Canadian Dragoons, was found shot through the heart in his apartment at Barrie as he cleaned his automatic pistol.

The second shooting victim was Christian Zacharias, 17, of Shawville, Que., who was shot and killed in mistake for a deer.

QUAKE STARTLES RESIDENTS

Helena, Mont., Nov. 24—(AP)—A 68-second earthquake rumbled across Montana yesterday, cracking plaster in two cities, and startling residents of a dozen more.

The quake brought down a main street cafe ceiling in Hamilton, cracked plaster in several Butte homes, and shook buildings in Helena, Harlowton, Malta, Havre, Glasgow, Kalispell and Bozeman.

No reports of injuries or property damage were received.

More than a Million Canadians

WROTE
THIS BILLION-DOLLAR STORY

Everywhere in Canada — in villages, towns, metropolitan centres — you can find them.

They are the people — 1,500,000 strong — in every walk of life who are building their futures and doing their day-to-day financing by saving or borrowing at the Bank of Montreal.

Every member of this B of M family has a hand in building the resources of the Bank while he builds his own future. These resources, which amount to nearly two billion dollars, exist almost entirely because of the balances these people can show you in their B of M passbooks.

This money does not stand idle . . . it works constantly for the building of the nation.

Here is the money that makes the wheels of commerce turn . . . that helps the farmer garner his crops . . . that helps the lumberman buy equipment and pay his men.

Here are the dollars that enable the Bank to make more than 500 personal loans every business day of the year to men and women who need money to meet emergencies and take advantage of opportunities.

Here is the credit that provides thousands of business enterprises — from the largest company to the smallest one-man show — with the ready money they need to buy raw materials for manufacture, to pay wages while awaiting returns from the sale of finished goods, and to carry out plans for expansion.

To citizens on salaries . . . to farmers with seasonal incomes . . . to merchants, manufacturers and businessmen in every worthwhile line of endeavour . . . to municipalities, school boards and governments . . . to churches, hospitals and all types of public institutions . . . hundreds of millions of dollars are being lent by B of M managers at more than 500 branches from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

These millions of transactions add up to a billion-dollar story that makes interesting reading — not so much on account of the figures involved, but because of the human stories behind them.

For 130 years Canadians have put their trust in the B of M. Never in that time has the Bank failed to repay a dollar left in its care . . . never has it failed to open for business on a single banking day.

BANK OF MONTREAL
THE FACTS BEHIND THE FIGURES

WHAT THE B of M HAS TO MEET ITS OBLIGATIONS:

CASH: The B of M has cash in its vaults and money on deposit with the Bank of Canada amounting to .	$ 203,696,837.69
MONEY in the form of notes of, cheques on, and deposits with other banks.	136,768,245.65
INVESTMENTS: The B of M has close to one billion dollars invested in high-grade government bonds and other public securities, which have a ready market. Listed on the Bank's books at a figure not greater than their market value, they amount to . . .	957,888,826.81
The B of M has other bonds, debentures and stocks, representing to some extent the extension of credit to industrial enterprises for reconversion and for expansion of productive facilities in established fields. Valued at no more than the market price, they amount to	96,866,538.42
CALL LOANS: The B of M has call loans which are fully protected by quickly saleable securities. These loans amount to	36,807,209.71
QUICKLY AVAILABLE RESOURCES: The resources listed above, all of which can quickly be turned into cash, cover 78.79% of all that the Bank owes to the public. These "quick assets" amount to	$1,432,027,658.28
LOANS: During the year, many millions of dollars have been lent to business and industrial enterprises for production of every kind, including housing and construction — to farmers, fishermen, lumbermen and ranchers — to citizens in all walks of life, and to Provincial and Municipal Governments and School Districts. These loans now amount to	421,704,063.46
BANK BUILDINGS: In hamlets, villages, towns and large cities from coast to coast the B of M serves its customers at more than 500 offices. The value of the buildings owned by the Bank, together with furniture and equipment, is shown on its books at .	13,276,623.00
OTHER ASSETS: These chiefly represent liabilities of customers for commitments made by the Bank on their behalf, covering foreign and domestic trade transactions.	31,396,960.45
TOTAL RESOURCES WHICH THE B of M HAS TO MEET ITS OBLIGATIONS	$1,898,405,305.19

WHAT THE B of M OWES TO OTHERS:

DEPOSITS: While many business firms, manufacturers, merchants, farmers and people in every type of business have large deposits with the B of M, the bulk of the money on deposit with the Bank is the savings of more than a million private citizens. The total of all deposits is	$1,783,441,647.31
BANK NOTES: B of M bills in circulation, which are payable on presentation, amount to	4,783,548.00
OTHER LIABILITIES: Miscellaneous items, representing mainly commitments undertaken by the Bank on behalf of customers in their foreign and domestic trade transactions.	29,100,538.78
TOTAL OF WHAT THE B of M OWES ITS DEPOSITORS AND OTHERS	$1,817,325,734.09
TO PAY ALL IT OWES, THE B of M HAS TOTAL RESOURCES, AS SHOWN ON THE LEFT SIDE OF THIS STATEMENT, AMOUNTING TO	1,898,405,305.19
WHICH MEANS THAT THE B of M HAS RESOURCES, OVER AND ABOVE WHAT IT OWES, AMOUNTING TO	$ 81,079,571.10

This figure of $81,079,571.10 is made up of money subscribed by the shareholders and, to some extent, of profits which have from time to time been ploughed back into the business to broaden the Bank's services and to give added protection for the depositors.

EARNINGS — After paying all overhead expenses, including staff salaries, bonuses and contributions to the Pension Fund, and after making provision for contingencies, and for depreciation of Bank premises, furniture and equipment, the B of M reports earnings for the twelve months ended October 31st, 1947, of . . .	$ 9,579,285.29
Provision for Dominion Income and Excess Profits Taxes and Provincial Taxes	4,156,000.00
Leaving Net Earnings of	$ 5,423,285.29
This amount was distributed as follows:
Dividends to Shareholders	$ 3,600,000.00
Balance to Profit and Loss Account	1,823,285.29

B of M EARNINGS ON THE SHAREHOLDERS' INVESTMENT

On each dollar of the shareholders' money invested in the Bank of Montreal, the Bank earned 11.81 cents in 1947.

AND HOW THEY WERE DIVIDED
To TAXES	5.12 cents
To SHAREHOLDERS	4.43 cents
To SURPLUS	2.26 cents

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Brony Stoke was crowing about the tricky bids he pulled last night. In one particular deal a stunt of his gave him a high score. He was laughing his head off describing it.

"How did you come out on the night," he was asked. "Oh, I was the only loser," he ruefully complained. "But," he added hastily, "they held all the tickets against me."

Funny thing about stunt triers. They butcher their good hands. They lose more than they should on their poor ones. And always they blame their losses on the premise that others get the best cards.

They cross up their partners with bids that suddenly have new meanings. These meanings are known only to themselves at the time. Consequently, their partners are unable to interpret them correctly.

Because of this their pair stops at game when they should reach a slam. Or goes to game when they should stop at a part score. Or lets an opponent take a cheap sacrifice. And opponent cards are blamed.

Occasionally they put over a gain by their confusing tactics. More often, however, it results in a loss. If not in that one hand, the losses accrue from lack of confidence in too many others.

Brony in south opened with a bid of one heart. As you will notice, he did not have a heart in his hand. North responded with a spade and south hopped to three no-trump. This was his original aim.

Fooled by the phony heart bid, west did not lead that suit. A small club was led. Dummy won with the lone queen. The seven diamonds and club ace in south were the eight other needed tricks.

This tickled him. He went into convulsions over it. But even here his cleverness was a relative loss. Sound bids would land them in a small slam of six diamonds. Which no lead will defeat.

A single gain can ill afford the loss of partnership accord.

CUSTOMERS KEEP FIRMER CLUTCH ON BANKROLLS

Ottawa, Nov. 24 (CP) —Race-track customers kept a firmer clutch on their bankrolls in Canada's 1947 turf season, feeding into the pari-mutuel machines almost $148,000 less than last year.

Pari-mutuel betting on the horses dropped to $48,519,909, the Department of Agriculture reported today, as compared with $48,667,704 in 1946.

The drop represented a greater tightening of the rubber around the bankroll than is apparent from the totals, for this year saw considerably more racing than last. There were 36 meets totalling 329 days at the tracks, against 33 meets and 305 days in 1946.

Despite the sliding intake, purse money went up this year. It rose from $1,815,090 to $2,323,675.

More than half the money that went into the machines was wagered in Ontario. In that Province's 126 racing days, the clients sent $29,034,232 through the windows, more than $1,500,000 down from last year. These were Quebec, where it rose by about $700,000 to $2,491,286 and British Columbia where patrons tossed in $1,200,000 more for a total of $8,895,929.

Hamilton — Associations 1 (1), days 14 (14), amount wagered $3,274,154 ($3,429,455), prize money $135,200 ($101,800).

Fort Erie — Associations 2 (2), days 24 (25), amount wagered $4,611,062 ($4,673,984), prize money $204,300 ($166,600).

Niagara Falls — Associations 1 (2) days 14 (14) amount wagered $2,307,534 ($2,435,325), prize money $122,600 (82,000).

Seaforth — Association 1 (10), days 1 (5), amount wagered $130 (0), prize money $250 (10).

CBC Board of Governors Will Hold Number of Open Meetings This Week

(By The Ottawa Staff of The Canadian Press)

Ottawa, Nov. 24 — (CP)—The 56th meeting of the Board of Governors of the CBC will be held here next week and for the second time since the Board was formed in 1936, some of the discussions will be public.

The first Board meeting in public was held in Calgary last September after the radio committee of the Commons recommended that open meetings be held at least on matters of general interest to the public.

One of the things the Board may decide next week is whether or not to lift the ceiling of 5,000 watts on private stations. The Commons Committee recommended removal of the ceiling, but so far no action has been taken although some private stations have applied for power increases.

The board may aso fix hours of operation for frequency modulation stations now being established. The frequency modulation stations differ from the usual standard band stations by their inherent noiseless high quality reproduction.

It is felt unlikely that the board will deal at its current meeting with a recommendation that the period of private station licences be extended from one to three years and that the fees for such licences be increased considerably. This question likely will not be dealt with until the Transport Department has discussed it with private radio station operators.

Nine seats in the Senate now are vacant, but political observers feel it is unlikely they will be filled before the next session of parliament which opens Dec. 5.

The practice, according to veteran observers, has been to allow Senate vacancies to pile up until shortly before a general election. To support their argument they point to the fact that in 1945 Prime Minister Mackenzie King filled 19 vacancies in one swoop. In 1935 when the late Viscount Bennett was Conservative prime minister he appointed 18 of his supporters to the Upper House.

The latest Senate vacancy was caused by the recent death of Senator W. E. Foster from Saint John, N. B.

There are two vacancies each in British Columbia, Alberta, Ontario and Nova Scotia.

The standing now in the 96 Upper House is 65 Liberals, 22 Progressive Conservative and 9 vacancies.

Churchill Sends Message To Howden Candidate

Howden, Yorkshire, England, Nov. 24 — (Reuters) — Winston Churchill, leader of the opposition, in a message to the Conservative candidate in Howden, where one of the five pending parliamentary by-elections is being fought, said:

"Every housewife in every queue knows that something is rotten in the state of Britain, for never before in peace or war have the shops been so empty of goods of every description.

"Difficulties and dangers which might be wise statecraft and courageous leadership have been surmounted, have instead been aggravated by incompetence and faction."

CHAPTER 7.

Well—it would be a grievous disappointment to Cora if Henn wanted to break the engagement, but luckily, she was the type of woman who held her chin up under all circumstances. She had always said this was a far better policy than to allow your troubles to be put under the devastating microscope of friends.

Kay sighed deeply and often over this latest calamity which had befallen her. It had been foolish to go haywire—dash madly about the country, trying to lose herself in wild motion. She realized it now when she was forced to lie here and pay for all her impulsiveness.

The weeks dragged along with Kay's hospital room a bower of brilliant-hued cut flowers and blooming plants, gifts of fruit and candy which she divided generously with the nurses and patients. She still tried to find excuses for Chuck Nourse's exasperating silence. She had at least expected a telephone inquiry from him in all this time. She had carefully checked all calls with the nurses, but there was no word from the one man who could have eased her pain by his mere interest.

When Kay was allowed to see visitors outside her own family circle—Hennington unfortunately being considered by Cora as already within that circle—Adele Sanders was one of her first callers.

"You poor dear!" exclaimed the effervescent Adele. "I've thought of you—pitied you lying here these hot days—but they wouldn't let me in before."

"I'm sorry," came listlessly from Kay. "Thank you for the roses—and the sweet peas. They were lovely."

"I only wanted you to know I was thinking of you. But lucky you! This room looks like a florist's shop!"

Kay's little mouth protuding from the bandages grew straight.

"Lucky?" she asked, wondering why Adele so often was purposely tactless.

"Oh—not so lucky in some ways. You've been missing scads of parties," Adele rambled on. "So many in your honor had to be canceled, of course. It will be hectic getting them all in—if you plan to be married in September."

Kay smiled to herself. It was apparent that Adele wished to learn the exact date of the wedding.

"I'll have to get mended up first," sighed Kay, intentionally leaving her wedding plans dangling.

"Yes—darling. But from now on things will be stupid in town. You can lie here and rest. I'm having a house party at our new summer place. It's the keenest island—one of the Thousand Islands I've a yacht that's a dream—trimmed with copper—and a crew of four handsome men. I helped design their uniforms—white and gold. It's a shame you can't be with us."

"It sounds alluring," responded Kay Guardedly.

"I'm terribly disappointed not to have you, darling. So many people are already out of reach. It's cut my party down to small and exclusive."

She gave that brittle little laugh that Kay knew so well. It was too triumphant this time to be comforting. Kay was filled with apprehension.

"Who are in this small, exclusive crowd?" she asked a little breathlessly.

"Oh—Jerry Clark and Ann Sledge. They're so keen about each other, it's a regular show. Then there'll be Joe Cinders, Art Blanders, Hitch Smith, and Beatrice and Hettie, the Comer twins, for them to quarrel over. And," she added, with a self-conscious air, "of course, my cousin Chuck."

Of course her cousin Chuck! "Oh," said Kay, her eyes wavering, "how very nice."

It was plain to her now why Chuck was withholding his sympathy—in case he had any sympathy for her—and apparently he had none. She had been a little goose to expect it.

Adele jumped up. "I've a luncheon engagement—with Chuck. Heavens! I nearly forgot it! I'll see you again soon, poor dear!"

She laid a cool hand lightly on Kay's hot forehead, her smile a challenge.

Kay moved her head to watch the departure of this darkly beautiful girl who called herself a friend and struck when her rival was down and out. It was certain that Adele assidiously had worked to get Chuck in tow. But if Chuck had allowed it, didn't it prove the quality of his affection for her? If a man really cared for you, could another woman suddenly swerve his affection?

"Well—enjoy yourself," was Kay's incensed remark, when Adele was out of sight.

Adele! She was clever because of her long flirtatious experience with men. She had studied the reactions of the male of the species since her pigtail days, the reactions to her beauty and charm. She had capitalized on these gifts for years.

Hot tears of self-pity welled in Kay's eyes. She choked back a sob with an effort as Dr. Gardner, head surgeon, entered the room with Hennington Blare.

"Well, well, Kay," was Hennington Blare's staccato greeting, "and how are you today?"

"Much better than I look, I hope." Kay responded, with a trace of sarcasm.

Dr. Gardner began removing a bandage. With a chuckle, he said. "If she keeps up her fighting spirit, she'll pull through in fine shape."

Hennington lowered his well-knit, shortist figure to the edge of a chair, looking as if he fervently wished himself anywhere else.

"That's a splendid quality of Kay's—her spirit," he agreed precisely. But his cold little gray eyes were intent on the surgeon's clever fingers.

Dr. Gardner leaned over Kay, minutely examining the skin that the bandage had concealed. "There now," he said, "she's coming along beautifully. Might not be a scar on her face."

"That would be marvelous," beamed Hennington, and relaxed in his seat.

Then abruptly, he bounced upright. "But—but her leg, doctor—how about that?"

Dr. Gardner favored him with a look which meant Blare had spoken out of turn. His manner was brisk. But Hennington Blare was a persistent man.

"Any—any—stiffness or shortening of the leg—would be unfortunate," he blurted out.

"Hump," was Dr. Gardner's reply.

Kay was staring at him with great, pitiful eyes, her fingers nervously folding and unfolding the sheet hem.

"Then there is a possibility of my being permanently lame, doctor?"

Dr. Gardner stifled a sigh, laid a hand tenderly on her soft blond curls. "Ask me that in a couple of weeks," he evaded. "You've been pretty brave up to now—keep it up."

Then with a curt nod to Hennington Blare, he hastily left the room.

Kay glanced briefly at her uncomfortable looking fiance. Her weak smile was filled with something difficult to analyse. There was a little tremor of effort in her voice when she asked, "You wouldn't mind if you had a wife with one leg shorter than the other—and a few scars on her face, would you, Henn?"

He stared at her in amazement, quickly stood up. He stroked his smooth, square chin meditatively, looking beyond her questioning eyes. "What a—what a question, my dear. We would still be engaged, of course. It would be an unfortunate state of affairs, I grant you, but we'd make the best of it. We'd still—plan to be married."

If rage hadn't mastered her, she could have laughed at him. Not a merry laugh, but a hateful one. But she was quivering so violently she could make no vocal utterance.

She nodded mutely and continued to observe him. He certainly had a slight pouch, decidedly unbeautiful. He looked powerful, his grooming was elegant, but he was far from lovable. She wondered if finally she might come to enjoy his discomfort over her.

"I wanted to have Lester house done over—but—" he hesitated.

"He's waiting to see how I turn out," she thought. "If my good looks are gone, if I have a game leg, he'll not care to marry me."

"You're a very level-headed man, Henn," she told him rather bleakly. "You've pridded yourself on it so long that you couldn't be any other way, could you?"

Instantly, he was on the defensive. "What—what do you mean by that?" he almost stammered.

"Oh ,it was really nothing. If you don't mind—Id' rather you went now. I'm—very tired.

He jumped at this suggestion almost eagerly.

"Just as you like, my dear—just as you like," he got up mussily.

He laid a cold hand on her perspiring brow but made no move to kiss her.

WOULD BE DECOY

Toronto, Nov. 22 — (CP) — Mayor Robert Saunders said last night an attractive blonde young woman offered to act as a decoy to lure sex perverts into the hands of police.

He said she volunteered because of sincere desire to help track down sex criminals, one of whom recently murdered 13-year-old Arlene Anderson. The mayor is considering the young woman's suggestion.

GAMBLED AGAIN AND LOST

Hollidaysburg, Pa., Nov. 22 — (AP) — Cornelius Lusardi, who won a coin toss in 1943 for a council position after his opponent tied him with 123 votes, gambled for his office again yesterday — and lost. Lusardi and Jesse Hartman each received 123 and Hartman won the post.

Property Owners - Attention

Question:—What is landscaping?

Answer:—Landscaping a home, a public building or an industrial property is simply that of taking into consideration such factors as driveways, walks, service area, property lines, shades and sun, then planting suitable trees, shrubs and flowers in the right place.

The result of good landscaping is a dignified, pleasing picture — restful and inviting. No cluttered, gaudy appearance. Good plantings become the pride of the owner and the community. They enhance the value of a property as nothing else will do.

Our Mr. William Hogle will be in BELLEVILLE shortly. His years of experience in landscape survey, design and construction will mean much to you, should you have a genuine planting problem, whether large or small. Write us at once, without obligation, asking him to call and discuss modern design, treatment and development of your property. Plan now.

Red Runs the River

Mightiest of all the world's oceans, the vast Pacific stretches from North America westward five thousand miles.

Fathoms below its surface is a strange shadowy world, its hidden life still baffling fishermen and scientists. And of all the creatures who move through the depths of the sea, none have ways more mysterious than the salmon.

But, through spring and summer, on the flood-tides, the Cohoe, Pink and Chum, Spring and Sockeye salmon come in to the coast, driven by an inborn urge toward the rivers where they came to life. Across their path wait the hundreds of fishing-boats. In open seasons, purse-seiners haul in their giant nets, heavy with sea-harvest. In the river-mouths, gill-netters trap the salmon with a method old as civilization.

Close to the fishing - grounds of British Columbia and the Western United States are the sprawling canneries, dotting the coast—at Prince Rupert, Ketchikan, Rivers Inlet, Vancouver, Steveston, New Westminster.

Streamlined Methods

So efficient are today's streamlined canning methods, that the salmon are brought into the canneries — sealed and cleaned one every second — put in cans, sealed — and send to the cooking retorts all in two minutes!

With people in many countries desperate for food, the British Columbia salmon pack takes on a vital importance.

And of great importance to Canadian citizens, also, is the continuance of this industry — for many thousands depend for their livelihood on the salmon—now going out to feed a hungry world.

But up the dark rivers behind the coast towns great hordes of salmon are moving inland. Hundreds of thousands of sockeye drive up the Fraser — each group unerringly headed for the spawning-grounds from which it came.

But a hundred dangers wait for them. Indian fishermen, using their ancient rights, still get their catch with primitive spears. By the light of crude torches, they fish night as well as day. The salmon run to them means feed for another winter.

Now the water becomes an enemy fighting the salmon every foot of the way. The current runs faster — an omen of what lies ahead.

Weaker Fish Die

Already the weaker fish are battered to death as falls and log-booms block the channels. Landslides twist the river's course.

A rushing gorge became a raging torrent when tons of rock thundered down to the river here at Hell's Gate — and for millions of sockeye the Fraser became a death-trap.

To save the salmon from perishing, at the Universities of British Columbia and the State of Washington, scientists and fisheries experts came together.

They made comprehensive plans — one, the tagging of salmon, to check on their progress upstream. In experimental hatcheries, every stage of development from egg to fingerling to adult fish became familiar.

An International Commission was set up to study the problem of Hell's Gate itself — for the fate of the Fraser sockeye was vital to people on both sides of the border.

Engineers designed a scale model of the gorge — Hell's Gate in miniature. They studied water flows and rock formations; then they planned fishways which will save enough salmon lives to increase the Fraser run from five to forty million dollars.

A fish ladder, each side of the Hell's Gate gorge now takes the salmon through by a series of easy leaps.

Fish Elevator Used

But meanwhile the sockeye run was being beaten to death in the canyon. The fish ladders would take years to build. A temporary salmon elevator — a huge brailer — lifted the struggling salmon across the torrent.

Some of them were tagged so that later the fisheries experts could locate their spawning-grounds. And then long flumes rushed them forward — around Hell's Gate and into the river ahead.

The still reaches of the upper river are bright with fish. This would be an angler's paradise—if the fish would take a lure. But once the huge migration inland begins, the salmon never feed again.

From bank to bank the water turns red with salmon. By some strange chemical process, as it comes near time to spawn, the sockeye's ocean silver has changed to brilliant crimson.

Over shallows — boulders — sharp stones — their relentless urge forces them on toward the end of their inexorable journey.

The salmon nest is as strange as all its story — a trough in the gravelly river-bed, scooped out by the female salmon, rolling from side to side.

The salmon's life is a battle to its final moment. Other salmon intrude while the pair is spawning — trying to steal a mate. With a last effort the female drives away females — the male other males.

Die After Spawning

And now — the climax of the sockeye's fated existence. At the end of the mighty fight for life—they die. The fragile eggs are all that is left.

But spring comes again to the mountains and valleys. The streams and rivers run freely once more. The young salmon who hatched in the up-river pools become strangely restless. They will grow no more in fresh water — and downstream they go toward the vast ocean. There they live and wander by ways no man can trace. But three or four years later the floodtides will again be silver with fish. And the salmon in their turn will come back.

Held by Soviet Guards — Capt. A. W. Claborn of Victoria and J. D. M. Weld of Ottawa, who have been detained by the Russian authorities in Pravdinsk, charging they entered U.S.S.R. illegally. Both are members of the Canadian Military Mission in Berlin.

Charges Hurled At Cornwall Township Meeting

Cornwall, Nov. 24—(CP)—An election fight seemed probable in Cornwall township today, after a stormy nomination meeting yesterday at which charges of bribery and other illegal practices were hurled and one man's nomination papers disappeared.

Former township police chief, Robert H. Hawkshaw, made the charges. A nominee for the reeveship, Mr. Hawkshaw claimed that he knew of cases where charges had been "fixed" and contracts illegally awarded. He also claimed that Emile Menard, a present councillor, was sitting illegally. Mr. Hawkshaw claimed Mr. Menard had been convicted of an irregularity under the Election Act in 1945, and this should have barred him from holding office.

Mr. Hawkshaw was asked to resign as police chief several months ago, because council said it wanted a bilingual chief.

The missing nomination papers were those of Albert Lavigne, who had been nominated for a seat on council by the present reeve, J. E. Rouleau. Later in the day Mr. Rouleau filed a sworn declaration of the nomination, and Mr. Lavigne's name was allowed to stand.

$40,000 FIRE LOSS

Winnipeg, Nov. 22 — (CP) — Damage was placed at more than $40,000 in a fire which yesterday destroyed the Red River Dairies barn in Winnipeg's Fort Garry district. Fifty-four head of purebred registered Holstein cattle, believed to be Manitoba's second best dairy herd, were destroyed in the blaze. The fire was believed to have been caused by defective wiring.

SHIPPED TO NETHERLANDS

Frankfurt, Nov. 22 — (AP) — Nazi-looted gold worth $33,000,000 was shipped back to The Netherlands from Germany today. The gold, stripped by the Germans during the Nazi occupation, represented a "preliminary distribution" to The Netherlands government by the Tripartite Gold Commission.

Col. W. R. Sawyer Vice Commandant Of RMC Kingston

Ottawa, Nov. 24 (CP)—Defence Minister Claxton announced today the appointment of Col. W. R. Sawyer of Kingston as vice-commandant and director of studies at the Royal Military College, Kingston and scientific consultant to the chief of general staff.

Col. Sawyer, 46, is a graduate of Queen's University, R.M.C. and McGill. He has held posts as scientific adviser to the Atomic Energy Control Board and on the staff of R.M.C.

While R.M.C. will not reopen until next year, staff appointments are being completed now.

Col. Sawyer will move to his new post from the position of director of weapons and development at defence headquarters. No appointment has yet been made to fill this job.

An honor graduate of Queen's University from which he obtained the degrees of Bachelor of Science in 1926 and Master of Science in 1927, Col. Sawyer has the degree of Ph.D. in physical chemistry from McGill University and from 1931 to 1933 attended Harvard University where he undertook research and became a teaching assistant in chemistry.

Between 1935 and 1939 he was associate professor in physics and chemistry at the Royal Military College.

Col. Sawyers wife, Dr. Margaret Sawyer, is on the staff of Queen's University.

New World Grain Kings, One Queen To Be Honored

Toronto, Nov. 24 (CP)—Crowning of the new world grain kings—and one queen—tonight at the Royal Winter Fair will climax events of this fifth day of Canada's big agricultural show.

The grain queen is Mrs. Amy Grace Kelsey, 55, of Erickson, B.C., who won the world wheat championship with 15 pounds of hand-picked kernels of Reward hard spring wheat grown between fruit trees in British Columbia's Kootenay Valley.

The other new world champions are Bill and Craig Brown of Cassils, Alta., who jointly won the barley title and Albert Robbins of Laura, Sask., acclaimed top oat man. They will receive replicas of their $2,000 trophies during a parade of champions at the coliseum tonight.

Meantime the fair's horse show ring was arranged for tonight's events which will include "knock down and out" jumping stake and children's jumping and saddle pony competitions.

All day long farm-wise visitors and city folk are expected to surge past the long lines of exhibits of top quality livestock, flowers, fruit, vegetables, fancy work and-cooking. More than half the stock has been judged and further results are to be announced through the day.

One feature of the fair will be missing tonight, the outdoor display signs and twinkling decorations, but interior exhibits still are moderately bright. The outdoor decorative and advertising signs have been blacked out in keeping with Ontario's power-conservation regulations and exhibitors and concession operators have been asked to save electricity inside the buildings.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP is a lot of little things

MAIL EARLY FOR CHRISTMAS

Are you forever intending to send your Christmas mail early . . . but always leaving it until the last possible minute? Remember that Post Offices are always busy places—but that Christmas mail is an especially taxing burden to over-worked staffs. Why not start a little earlier and make sure that your mail arrives in time for Christmas? Your help will speed up handling and lessen the extra load placed on the delivery system. Your consideration for others will prove your own "Good Citizenship."

You can help this public service effort. Make a note of some of the little things which, in your opinion, contribute to Good Citizenship.

Short Vegetable Supply State Local Gardeners

Householders in the Belleville district will go short of vegetables this year if they depend entirely upon produce grown in the local area, according to market gardeners attending the local market.

Asked about the possibility of higher prices following the recent ban on further imports of vegetables from the United States, one market gardener replied, "What's the use of higher prices if you haven't got the goods to sell?"

Illustrating his point the vendor pointed to his almost empty stall stating that this was his last Saturday on the market for this season. One other market gardener who regularly attends the market was absent on Saturday. Ordinarily gardeners attend the market throughout the winter.

"The stuff just would not grow last summer," said the vendor by way of explanation of his short vegetable supply. "As far as we are concerned local householders will just have to look to other sources for their vegetables this winter."

PACKAGES CONTAIN HEROIN

Los Angeles, Nov. 24 — (AP)— Four packages of yellowish powder found in the luggage of an airplane passenger who died aloft turned out to be pure heroin, Federal narcotics agents said today.

Thirty-two ounces of the drug in four half-pound packages would be worth several hundred thousand dollars at retail prices after it was cut 20 times or so in the process of wholesaling and distributing, police said.

The passenger was stricken, apparently with heart disease, as the United Airlines plane from New York approached Los Angeles.

Papers on the body gave the name of Ralph Masey or Maccy with various addresses in New York and Brooklyn.

COURT SUMS UP CASE

Nuernberg, Nov. 24 — (AP)— United States prosecutors summed up their case today in the war crimes trial of Friedrich Flick, German coal and steel magnate, and five associates.

They were accused of the capital offences of exploiting slave labor and expanding their huge combine through plunder. Bernhard Weiss one of the defendants, was taken during the seven-month trial to a tubercular hospital.

The others were Otto Steinbrinck, Odilo Burkhart, Konrad Kaletsch and Hermann Terberger.

Brig. Gen. Telford Taylor, chief prosecutor, estimated Flick used 40,000 impressed foreign laborers and "utilized the anti-Semitic laws" to acquire extensive properties.

The Chinese invented gunpowder as a means of enjoyment to celebrate holidays and not as a weapon.

SCHUMAN FORMS

In political complexion the new government does not differ radically from that of Schuman's predecessor, Socialist Paul Ramadier, who resigned last Wednesday. The previous government also was composed of Socialists, Radical Socialists, the M.R.P. and Independents, with Socialists predominating.

One new angle was added, however, with the inclusion of a minister who openly supports De Gaulle—Economic Affairs Minister Rene Mayer. Socialists leaders were reported to have been strongly opposed to Mayer because of his sympathy with the De Gaullists, who were highly critical of the Ramadier government.

Subways Crowded.

Despite a Communist appeal, subway stations were as crowded as ever during the morning rush hour, though there was some grumbling as passengers paid the five franc (about four cents) fare. Bus fares also went up simultaneously, but there appeared to be no drop in traffic.

The situation in other industries:

Automobile—The big Renault works still were closed down by a strike. At one Citroen plant in Paris officials estimated that about 70 per cent of the strikers had returned to work and the situation was described as "normal" at two others.

Miners, metal workers and building workers — strikers were spreading from Paris and north to other provinces. There was some back to work movement following secret ballots among the workers, sponsored by government authorities, but this was not general.

Teachers and civil servants — Civil employees were voting today on whether to join striking Paris teachers. Mail deliveries from the Paris central post office were halted.

Halt Demonstration.

Police quickly halted an attempted demonstration at a subway station on The Champs Elysees. Police said a group began shouting in protest against the increased fares. Several were arrested and the remaining demonstrators were dispersed. Police had been posted at every subway station in Paris for just such incidents.

An indication of the trouble in store for the new cabinet came from Cherbourg where, in a secret ballot, 80 per cent of the longshoremen voted to strike.

From industrial Lille in Northern France came reports of a further spread of the strike. Flour mill workers voted yesterday to strike tomorrow, but postponed the walkout a day to finish milling on hand. A strike was threatened in the steel and textile mills tomorrow.

Three Survivors Sighted After Ship Breaks in Two

Army Transport Hits Reef Off Alaska Coast

Ketchikan, Alaska, Nov. 25.—(AP)—A coast guard plane reported today that the Army Transport Clarksdale Victory had broken in half on a reef off Graham Island and that three rsuvivors were sighted on the beach. There were 49 crew members aboard.

The 10,850-ton Transport hit the reef about 140 miles southwest of Ketchikan last night. It was on a southbound cargo trip.

The coast guard plane reported the ship was broken in half, with only the bow showing on the beach of the rugged island.

Coast guard headquarters said the Steamship Denali of the Alaska Steamship Company advised by radio from the scene:

"It is impossible to land in lifeboat. Breakers are 50 feet high outside wreckage.

"We are thinking of getting party to row around island to see if any survivors. Will let you know further developments. Ship broken at No. 3 hatch. Oil on water."

The Denali was the first rescue ship to reach the stricken Transport after it sent an urgent S.O.S. last night.

69 CONVICTS SURRENDER AFTER 15-HOUR SIEGE

150 Heavily-Armed Guards Blockade Dangerous Criminals in Laundry

Waupun, Wis., Nov. 25—(AP)—Sixty-nine striking convicts tossed away their makeshift weapons and filed peacefully out of their state prison barricade today after a 15-hour siege by more than 150 heavily - armed officers and guards. The four guards they had held as hostages were not harmed.

Ten minutes after a surrender ultimatum was given, the last of the prisoners had left the second floor of the laundry they seized yesterday afternoon. The prison is about 70 miles north of Milwaukee.

Deputies searched the room in which the prisoners had holed up and said they found weapons such as wooden clubs, sharpened bits of metal and lengths of pipe.

The surrender came suddenly and dramatically after the all-night siege. Despite the tense situation, there was no violence.

A public address system was set up and an order was given for the first 20 men to come out. They emerged almost immediately. A second order brought out 20 more convicts and the third emptied the laundry room.

Inspector Finds $250 Secreted In Woman's Shoe

Windsor, Nov. 25 (CP)—Customs Inspectors at the Ambassador Bridge here Saturday found $250 in Canadian funds concealed between the sole of a woman's foot and her stocking. She was en route from Oshawa, to a point in the United States.

The woman was relieved of the money and permitted to go on her way. Her case is in the hands of the Foreign Exchange Control Board and it may be several weeks before formal action by the board is taken.

"On the whole," explained Harold Beardmore, collector of customs at Windsor, "Canadians are co-operating very well following the application of the new government orders. There are some exceptions and we are making every effort to discover them."

Asked if inspectors generally remove the shoes of suspected persons, Mr. Beardmore said, "Not usually, but we have been discovering some unique methods of concealment and our procedure is generally dictated by the result of our interrogation of those under examination," he explained.

BABE TRAVELS HALF WAY AROUND GLOBE TO MOTHER

Minneapolis, Nov. 25 — (AP)—Christine Klimiades, 14 months old, was reunited with her mother last night after a journey half way around the world by ship and plane. She was put aboard a ship in Greece for delivery to her mother and flown from New York to Minneapolis.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, Nov. 25—(CP)—Synopsis: Intermittent light snow is falling over most of Ontario this morning. A weak disturbance west of Lake Michigan will pass south of the lower lakes this afternoon and evening. Strong winds have caused storm warnings to remain hoisted over lakes Erie and Ontario.

French Railway Workers Called Out on Strike

Paris, Nov. 25 —(AP)— A general strike of French railway men was called tonight by the National Federation of Railroad Workers.

The council of the federation, affiliated with the Communist-led General Confederation of Labor, issued the call as the new Centrist Government wrestled with France's critical labor situation.

Informants close to the French government hinted Premier Robert Schuman might order conscription of workers in key jobs as one means of fighting the wave of Communist-led strikes now threatening France's whole economy.

These informants said Schuman might make one last offer of increased wages before cracking down on the strikers, now estimated to number more than 1,000,000.

Says Soviet Has Huge Gold Hoard To be Used to Combat Marshall Plan

New York, Nov. 25. (AP)—The Soviet Union has a huge hoard of gold, to combat the Marshall plan, Economist Charles Prince writes in the December issue of the United Nations World.

Prince, former specialist on Soviet economic problems for the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, predicts in the magazine, an unofficial publication, that "it is probable by 1967 the Soviet Union's gold reserve will equal or surpass that of the U.S."

"Exactly how big the Soviet gold hoard is," Prince states, "nobody outside the Soviet Union knows. Beyond the statement that it is the world's second largest gold reserve, official sources in Washington, New York, London, Paris and Zurich are unwilling to go.

"The best informed opinion is that it is certainly worth more than $3,000,000,000, and probably not more than $17,000,000,000. The U.S. reserve is $22,000,000,000."

Prince says that behind a screen of intense secrecy gold production in the Soviet Union has increased rapidly.

"In 1926, the Soviet Union ranked 15th among the gold-producing countries of the world. In 1936, she moved up to second place, and in 1940 claimed to occupy first place. . .

"If, as the Russians insist," Prince continues, "they have surpassed the gold production of the Transvaal, they would be producing today well in excess of 10,000,000 ounces a year, or more than $350,000,000. This compares with current U. S. production of 6,003,000 ounces and the Canadian output of 5,311,000 ounces in 1940. . ."

Prince outlines the following as possible:

Russia could establish a ruble area and with her currency pegged to gold could effectively compete with the dollar and "certainly displaces the pound sterling in crucial trade areas."

Russia could offer large quantities of gold rubles or gold itself, purchase needed goods and materials, and force prices up in terms of dollars and sterling. Countries selling goods to the Soviets could use this gold to buy commodities freely in the world market, a prospect not envisaged by the Marshall plan. The result, Prince claims, would be cheap Soviet purchases of needed merchandise "since it does not reckon costs in its own gold production," and to weaken the U.S. economic position.

YUGOSLAV TROOPS RELEASE SIX U.S. SOLDIERS

Details Will be Given Within 48 Hours

Trieste, Nov. 25 (AP) — The United States Army Public Relations office said six American soldiers taken into custody yesterday morning by Yugoslav troops were released to American authorities today.

Names of the six men and details of the manner in which they were taken into custody, held and released will be made public in 48 hours, under the terms of a new regulation, public relations said.

(In Belgrade it was reported that Premier Marshal Tito had issued an order to his troops on the Austrian and Trieste Free Territory borders that all military personnel who stray over the line in an "obviously accidental" manner are to be released immediately.

(Capture of the Americans came a short time after it was learned that two Canadian members of the Dominion's military mission in Berlin, captured 12 days previously by Russian military police after they presumably lost their way, had been released.

(The Canadians, James Weld, 26 of Ottawa and Capt. A. W. Clabon, 37, of Edmonton, were detained for "violation" of the Russian frontier by Soviet authorities who alleged they were engaged in "special business" in Soviet East Prussia. John Holmes Canadian Charge D'Affairs in Moscow, is investigating.)

United States Army Headquarters announced earlier that the six soldiers comprising an entire border patrol, were taken prisoner yesterday by Yugoslav troops when they "evidently got out of bounds" in Venezia Giulia about 15 miles from here.

Capture of the patrol brought to 18 the number of American soldiers taken into custody by the Yugoslavs in this area since August. All have been released. During the same period five British soldiers and sailors were made prisoner also, and later released.

The Trieste Free Territory was created by the Italian Peace Treaty and troops have patrolled both sides of the border since it it became effective Sept. 15.

Thus far all the Americans returned from Yugoslav territory and captivity have reported they were questioned closely but not molested.

22 HEAD CATTLE BURN

Ingersoll, Nov. 25 — (CP) — Twenty-two head of pure bred Holstein cattle and three calves were lost Monday as fire destroyed a large barn on the farm of Charles Nancekivell, three miles south of here. Farm equipment, the season's hay crop and quantities of grain were also destroyed.

No estimate of damage was available but it was partly insured.

Britons Cheered by News Housing Production Up, Sustained Coal Output

By WILLIAM T. CHASE

London, Nov. 25 —(AP)— The people of economically-harried Britain faced such a variety of both good and bad news on the home front today that the opening of the Big Four Foreign Ministers Conference was relegated to a secondary place in many leading newspapers.

The good news included an increase in housing production, the continuing high coal output, a reduction in the rate of drafting young men for the armed forces, favorable House of Commons action on new social security legislation and the volunteer unloading of 66,336 freight cars of badly-needed goods.

The bad news was found in a statement by Food Minister Strachey that he was unable to "guarantee" that the potato ration would be maintained at three pounds a person a week, and in the announcement that half a shipload of bananas had spoiled en route from Jamaica.

Strachey told the Commons that enough potatoes were available to meet the current allowance, but "it is impossible to say what the final distribution will be until we can take an actual census of stocks in hand."

Hugh Gaitskell, fuel minister, said that coal production last week was 4,246,700 tons, nearly 400,000 tons more than for the corresponding period last year. It was the third successive week that the coal output has been approximately 4,250,000 tons.

The government announced that 15,398 permanent houses had been completed during October, 1,195 more than in September and the highest figure since the program began in January, 1946.

The unloading of freight cars by voluntary help during the weekend was adopted as a means of speeding the production drive. The chancellor of the exchequer, Sir Stafford Cripps, thanked all "who sacrificed their leisure to help solve a national problem."

The ministry of Labor announced that young men due to register for the armed forces next March would be given three months respite in order to help industry and speed demobilization by reducing the number of non-commissioned officers customarily used to train recruits.

In the House of Commons the National Assistance Bill was passed without opposition on the vital second reading and Health Minister Bevan said the action would mark the end of the old so-called "poor law."

The measure is designed to provide a new basis for the care of persons not covered by other social security services and includes plans for "hotels" for old folks.

Young Thug Forces Trucker To Drive Through General Area Where Margeson Was Slain

Toronto, Nov. 25 — (CP) — Morris Pennie, 35-year-old truck driver, last night told police he was forced at gunpoint to drive his panel delivery truck from Toronto to Hamilton over a route which took him through the general area where taxi-driver Ralph Margeson of Toronto was murdered a few weeks ago.

Pennie said he was slugged over the head with a butt of an automatic revolver as he started his truck yesterday afternoon after coming out of a restaurant. Then, in a dazed condition, he was forced by a young thug to drive first about the city and then out the Dundas highway, down Brown's Line and along the Queen Elizabeth way to Hamilton.

Interviewed last night after treatment at hospital, Pennie described his assailant as between 25 and 30 years of age.

"A couple of times as we drove through the city, I crossed intersections against the red light in an attempt to draw some attention. But every time I did the fellow would give me an extra nudge with the pistol."

After going up and down back streets in Hamilton, Pennie heard the rear door slam and when he looked back the thug had gone.

Lack of Feed Still Serious

Toronto, Nov. 25 — (CP) — Lack of feed grains on Ontario farms is still serious, causing "drastic reduction of hogs and poultry stocks," the Weekly crop report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture said today.

Halton county reported the feed situation resulted in reduction of sow breeding while in Carleton county "farmers are liquidating hogs and poultry." Serious feed problems existed in Simcoe, North Haldimand, Grenville, Prescott, Russell and Stormont counties and Algoma and Sudbury districts.

Feed is reported more plentiful in Lincoln and Middlesex.

The report stated that many farmers planned to increase spring grain acreage next year. Fall wheat was reported in good condition.

Wentworth county reported that a large number of single men working on farms during the summer now are unemployed and are "gradually being lost to agriculture."

TIME TO PLAN CAMPAIGN AGAINST POLIO IN 1948

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 25 — (CP) — Now is the time to plan the 1948 campaign against poliomyelitis, Provincial Health Minister Kelley said in an address to the windup session of the Ontario Society for Crippled Children 25th anniversary conference.

The polio death toll in Ontario this year was 18, he said, compared with 21 in 1946.

There is no reason to think the cause of infantile paralysis will not be found Health Minister Kelley said. "It is one of our government's problems, and we are trying to find the solution."

Expected Storm Fails to Appear

(By The Canadian Press)

A storm expected to heap snow and trouble on Ontario today got lost on its way from Winnipeg and fine weather prevailed over Quebec and Ontario except in a few snowbound regions.

A weather bureau spokesman in Toronto said there was "no accounting" for the disappearance of the storm. But few mourned the loss, which gave Monday's transportation tie-ups in Ontario a chance to straighten themselves out.

Trans-Canada Air Lines dispatchers reported all services normal. Several flights were cancelled yesterday because of heavy wet snow and rain that fell in many parts of Eastern Canada. A British Overseas Airways Trans-Atlantic aircraft, reaching Montreal yesterday in a blinding snowstorm, had to return to Moncton, N.B.

Several areas remained hard hit from yesterday's snows, particularly the Georgian Bay region in Ontario and Quebec's Gaspe region. Seven inches of snow fell in parts of Georgian Bay, with more to come, and it was still falling heavily in Gaspe.

Many minor traffic accidents were reported after yesterday's storm, which spread six inches of snow around Cornwall, five inches at Kitchener and four in Ottawa.

Snow was still forecast for Ontario's Lake Huron and Georgian Bay regions and for Quebec Baie Comeau and Lake St. John regions. But for the remainder of both provinces, the official forecaster promised there would be snowflurries at most by Wednesday.

Strong winds have caused storm warnings to remain hoisted over Lakes Erie and Ontario.

RETAIL PRICE OF MILK BOOSTED TWO CENTS QUART

Effective in Ontario Dec. 1st Board States

Toronto, Nov. 25. (CP)—The third jump in the retail price of milk in 18 months, a boost of two cents a quart will be effective in Ontario Dec. 1 except in the Windsor, Hamilton and Hearst areas, the Ontario Milk Control Board announced yesterday.

The increase which means 53 cents more a hundredweight for farmers, also means a cost to the consumer of 16 to 19 cents a quart, depending on the areas in which he lives. Agreement must be reached on prices in the three unaffected areas before changes will be made, the announcement said.

Provision for this price-fixing by agreement was made in legislation adopted at the resumed session of the provincial legislature last month. Thus the latest change results from agreement between the Ontario Milk Producers Association and the Ontario Milk Distributors Association on the minimum price to be paid for milk in 78 of the milk markets in the province.

Provincial Secretary Michener told a meeting here last night that housewives who interviewed him last Friday had agreed farmers should have more money for raw milk but thought the price increase should not be passed along to the consumer. But Mr. Michener said this would compel the distributors to operate at a loss or discontinue business.

11 Months Agreement

The only alternative was to increase the ceiling price for retail sale proportionately to the increase to the farmer.

Dairies would then be free to endeavor to increase their sales by effecting economies in method and thus reduce prices below the established ceilings. Some such temporary expedient would have to be adopted if the farmer was to get a price which would keep him in production.

Three Churchmen To Get Degrees

Toronto, Nov. 25 (CP)—Three leading Canadian churchmen will be given the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws by the University of Toronto, university officials announced today.

The three to be honored are Most Rev. George Frederick Kingston, Archbishop of Nova Scotia and Primate of the Church of England in Canada; James Cardinal McGuigan, Archbishop of Toronto, and Dr. George C. Pidgeon, minister of the Bloor Street United Church of Toronto and one of the leading advocates of the union of three denominations which in 1925 produced the United Church of Canada.

FACES MURDER CHARGE

Calgary, Nov. 25 —(CP)—Lloyd William Smith, 28, wanted by Calgary police to face a charge of murder in connection with the death of his wife, Pauline, here Sunday was arrested by R.C.M.P. at Banff last night. Smith disappeared a few hours before the body of his wife, her skull smashed in, was found in a bloodstained bed in their downtown bed-sitting room.

Toronto Woman Dies of Poisoning After She Returns Home From Work

Toronto, Nov. 25 (CP)—Police are investigating the death Monday night of Mrs. Florence May Murphy, 48. An autopsy revealed that the woman, formerly of Stratford, Ont., of non-corrosive poisoning.

Ralph Murphy, husband of the dead woman, said the wallet was missing from her purse. Murphy said his wife complained of violent stomach pains shortly after returning from work and died before a doctor could be summoned.

Mrs. Murphy was the daughter of the late Dr. R. T. Rutherford and Mrs. Rutherford of Stratford. Her funeral will be held here Thursday.

Police today attempted to trace Mrs. Murphy's movements from the time she left her downtown place of employment until she arrived at her Aberdeen Avenue home in east-central Toronto. Neighbors said she came home no later than usual and fellow-workers said she was in good spirits when she left.

The foreman at the manufacturing concern where she worked said Mrs. Murphy ate lunch with other employees in the shop She usually brought sandwiches from home.

Mr. Murphy said his wifes shopping bag contained a loaf of bread which she had apparently bought on the way home. The wallet missing from her purse usually contained shopping money and car tickets but he was able to find only a few coppers in the bottom of the purse.

Assailant Kills Self by Shooting Through Heart

Pensions Office in Ottawa Scene of Double Tragedy

By GEORGE KITCHEN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Nov. 25 — (CP) — Dr. Murray R. Bowie, 37, pensions examiner, was shot to death today in the Canadian Pensions Commission offices here by a disgruntled First World War veteran who then killed himself with a bullet through the heart.

Veterans Department officials identified the veteran as Henry Page, 59, who came to Ottawa from Vancouver two months ago.

Both the doctor and his assailant died instantly in Dr. Bowie's little fourth-floor office in the uptown Aylmer building, at Slater and Elgin Sreets and just off the capital's main business district.

Page, whose wife is believed to live in Toronto, apparently had brooded over a notification received yesterday of a reduction of $20 a month in his First war pension.

Eye-witnesses said he walked into Dr. Bowie's office at 9:55 this morning and asked:—

"Are you Dr. Bowie?"

"Yes," replied the doctor, and Page whipped out a pistol and opened fire.

Dr. Bowie Slumps Over Desk

Dr. Bowie slumped over his desk and on to the floor with two bullets in his chest.

Page then swung the smoking pistol around and shot himself through the heart.

Dr. R. F. Flegg, another examiner whose office adjourned, rushed into the room and saw Dr. Bowie on the floor.

Col. W. B. Megloughlin, Ottawa District Pensions Administrator, said Page had undergone a periodic medical examination a month ago before Dr. Bowie who found that an arthritic condition from which he suffered chronically had improved.

Pension Reduced

The Commission then reduced Page's pension, advising him by letter dated Friday and apparently received yesterday at the rooming house where he lived alone.

The letter made no mention of Dr. Bowie's diagnosis but Page presumably recalled that he had been the examining physician and went directly to his office this morning.

Col. Meglaughlin said Page apparently did not inquire upon entering the building or wait in the customary sitting room.

"He went right up to Murray's office—the door was open—and said 'Are you Dr. Bowie?' Bowie said 'yes' and Page whipped out the gun and gave him the works."

The pistol, which was turned ovre to police was believed to be a 38 calibre revolver.

Dr. Bowie was born at Essex, Ont., in 1910 and graduated in medicine from Queen's University at Kingston. He interned in hospitals at Brooklyn, N.Y., and Ottawa before returning to Essex

PARTITION PLAN WILL BE ADOPTED DESPITE THREATS

Arabs Declare Bloody Racial War Will Start When Decision Given

By ROSS MUNRO
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Lake Success, Nov. 25 CP)—In face of Arab threats of a bloody racial war in Palestine, the United Nations Palestine Committee today will adopt the Holy Land partition plan.

Even before the vote is cast, it is taken for granted that the scheme will win acceptance in the 57-member committee by a simple majority which is all that is required.

But there is wide division of opinion and considerable pessimism that the scheme for partioning Palestine into Jewish and Arab states will obtain the necessary two-thirds majority when it passes on from the committee to the General Assembly for final action.

The Canadian delegation, which supports parition, said, however, there was an "even chance" of it gaining this two-thirds support in the assembly.

The committee late last night disposed of the opposing Arab proposal for the creation of an independent Arab state in Palestine, rejecting it by 29 to 14, with 14 abstentions and two members absent.

It also voted down another Arab proposal to ask the International Court of Justice to give a decision on the competency of the U.N. to implement a Palestine settlement.

Canada joined the majority in voting against both proposals.

Action on partition will be the last act of the 1947 U.N. session and it is expected to adjourn for the year, within possibly 48 hours.

The Arab higher committee for Palestine late yesterday declared there would be a bloody-bath in Palestine if the partition plan was adopted.

Egypt said ominously that such action by the U.N. would kindle the flames of racial war and lead to an anti-Jewish outbreak throughout the Middle East, with lives of 1,000,000 Jews imperilled.

The Jewish agency for Palestine also predicted clashes in Palestine, whether paritition is adopted or not. But the agency warned that if U.N. failed to act the trouble would be much worse than if it took the decision for partition.

Justice Minister Ilsley will make a final statement for Canada on Palestine in the assembly. It is expected to be the most forthright declaration the delegation has delivered on the question.

ORDINATION SERVICE AT KINGSTON DEC. 5

Ordination as deacons of the Church of England of William Ernest Tilley, F.R.S.A., F.R.G.S., Newfoundland, now of Oxford Mills; John B. Hall, Maynooth, and Alan N. Brandon, graduate of Bradfield College, England, will take place in St. George's Cathedral, Kingston, on Friday evening, Dec. 5

The Rt. Rev. John Lyons, Bishop of the Diocese of Ontario, will conduct the service of ordination with the Rev. William J. Robinson, rector of Tweed, and rural dean of Hastings County, preaching the sermon.

Deer Plentiful Near Venacher, 22 Obtain Quota

It was either a convention of the Royal Antedeluvian Order of Antlered Bucks; unerring marksmanship of the nimrods in question, or a plenitude of venison in the district.

For this hunting party, or parties, came home with stirring tales of deer hobnobbing in duos, trios and quartets and literally posing while the hunters drew careless beads on them.

It could not have been any better hunting. At least so it would seem when twenty-two hunters came home with the same number of venison steaks on the hoof, the greater majority of them, the antlered variety. And for good measure a 250-pound black bear got careless and strayed in the sights of a rifle and immediately received a one-way ticket to Bruin heaven, or wherever bears go.

Mr. Louis Harvey, Herchimer Avenue is the authority for the above hunting facts. Mr. Harvey with a party of friends, fourteen all told spent the first week of the hunting season in a camp at Venacher, Ont., near Denbigh, and fourteen deer fell to their marksmanship in that period of time.

The next week eight other hunters stayed in the same camp and by the time the official whistle blew to end the season, these doughty seekers of venison had eight handsome deer in the bag.

Scouting the district the first day out, Mr. Harvey came almost face to face with the bear. There was little argument and a well-placed bullet put a speedy end to the Bruin's career. Harvey said the deer were exceptionally plentiful in the district.

Lengthy Discussions Arise At Council Meeting Over Payment of Certain Accounts

Little New Business is Transacted at Short Session

The legality of authorizing payment of public works accounts when that department had overdrawn the monies provided for in the year's estimates came up for discussion at city council when it was disclosed that as of the end of September this department had only $286 in its account.

According to figures given to council later by Alderman Clarke, chairman of finance, the appropriation for the public works general account had been $62,640, there being a current overdraft of $13,234. Accounts receivable in this department include $3,000 from an outside account and approximately $13,000 to be returned to the city by the department of highways for highway maintenance through the city.

Alderman Allin in bringing up the subject stated that he did not mean the public works accounts should not be paid but he contended that the department chairman should come to council for a supplementary budget. This was also the belief of Alderman Chamberlain who stated a department could not legally overdraw its account unless a supplementary budget had been granted.

Have to Pay Accounts

As chairman of public works Alderman Harvey pointed out that the work had been done and the accounts had to be paid. Heavy snow removal costs had put his department over its budget, stated the alderman.

Alderman Tice pointed out that the department budget was only an estimate of the year's expenditure and snow removal cost more than was budgeted for, while Alderman Armstrong stated that although the public works account many times had been overdrawn this was the first time there had been any mention of a supplementary budget. Usually the overdraft was carried over to the next year's account, he said.

"I'd like to know what the object is of bringing all this up," asked Alderman Harvey. "Certainly the city is not bankrupt."

Allin Only Dissenter

"If the public works account has been overdrawn in other years why has not this objection been raised before?" asked Alderman Lazenby who was acting as chairman of the committee as a whole.

"We did not know that the account was overdrawn," stated Alderman Chamberlain.

"Yes you did," replied Alderman Harvey. "It has been mentioned several times in this council that the public works account was overdrawn. But certain aldermen were just waiting for a good election platform."

When the vote was asked for passing of the public works account, the account was carried with Alderman Allin being the only alderman to voice objection.

Very little new business was conducted at the council meeting as only a very few recommendations and by-laws were tabled. A recommendation of Thursday night asking for a full investigation into the accident in which Fireman Jack Grills was injured during Old Home Week celebration, caused a bit of discussion before it was ratified.

Will Attend Meeting

According to the recommendation the city comptroller and the fire chief were to make the investigation and report to council but Mr. Grills was in attendance at council to give full details of the accident. Council pointed out that the correct procedure would be to hear the report of the fire chief and the comptroller and then if Mr. Grills was not satisfied he could address council.

"I would like to know who asked Mr. Grills to attend council this evening before the report asked for in the recommendation was heard," stated Alderman Wilbur, chairman of fire. Fireman Grills will attend the council meeting at which the report asked for is given.

Purchase New Typewriters

A stop sign at the eastern vehicular entrance to the hospital was recommended as was a sump pump for use in the basement of the city hall. Two new typewriters were recommended purchased for use in the city clerk's office.

A resolution from the city of Niagara Falls asking concurrence in a resolution calling for the establishment of state medicine in Ontario was referred back to committee for consideration, while a communication from the Parks Board asking early notification as to whether their request for monies to carry out their improvement program at the fair ground would be acted upon, was also referred to committee.

Permission was granted to two missionaries of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints to canvass in the city. The two men have recently been working in Picton.

Under inquiries Alderman Chamberlain asked regarding the one time laneway running north off Victoria Ave. In reply Alderman Butler stated the laneway was not shown on any city map.

Debenture Sold

Alderman Allin asked regarding the $25,000 provided for the purchase of the industrial site at the eastern limits of the city. Alderman Clarke stated the debenture for provision of the money had been sold but as the deed had not been completed the money had been turned over to the general account and had been spent. However, the money would be forthcoming immediately the deed was completed.

To another question by Alderman Allin the executive chairman stated that $10,000 of the unallotted surplus held in the sinking fund had been transferred to the general account. The city's bank balance was currently under $5,000 but there was $65,000 in uncollected taxes.

Hard to Procure

The request of the public utilities commission for council to set back the date of the closing of the local gas plant came up for discussion when Alderman Armstrong pointed out that electrical equipment was difficult to procure.

Alderman Butler was opposed to any extension of time regarding the closing of the gas plant stating that this had been "kicked around" since 1939. He suggested that the city assist gas users to procure propane gas, stating that the cost would be less than that of keeping the gas plant going. "The gas plant should be closed as the majority of ratepayers voted," stated the alderman. "If the time is extended it will be kept going for another year."

Alderman Armstrong felt however that a committee from council should meet with the utilities to investigate the seriousness of the equipment shortage and to learn how many gas users would be affected.

Propane Gas Not Answer

Alderman Allin felt that propane gas was not the answer where a large amount of gas was used. In this case electrical equipment was needed but there was no equipment and the increased wattage used would be tremendous.

Alderman Duffy wanted to know exactly how many gas users would be affected and how much electricity would be saved by continuing operation of the gas plant. "By continuing operation of the gas plant we are again asking the taxpayers to bear the burden," he said.

Under motions council voted to appoint a committee to meet with utility commission to discuss the seriousness of the situation and to find out how many gas users would be affected by the closing of the gas plant. Alderman Hyde introduced the original motion to extend the closing time of the plant but the amendment for appointing an investigating committee carried. Alderman Butler and Duffy opposed, while in favor of the amendment were Aldermen Allin, Armstrong, Chamberlain, Clarke, Follwell, Harvey, Hyde, Lazenby, Vanner and Wilbur.

Accounts Certified

Alderman Wilbur wanted to know under whose authorization city funds were used for the payment of certain accounts of the Old Home Week. He was told that no accounts had been paid without certification by Mayor Frank Follwell, while Veterans' Day accounts had been certified by either Alderman Lazenby or Alderman Duffy. Alderman Wilbur stated that $1,500 of city funds had been used to pay Old Home Week accounts.

"Mayor Follwell or no one else had authority to pay out city funds without sanction of council," stated Alderman Wilbur.

Alderman Duffy was of the same opinion and stated that whether payment of the fund has been legal or not he was opposed to city funds being paid without sanction of council.

Following the request of Alderman Allin at a previous council meeting, Chairman of Finance Alderman Clarke gave figures pertaining to the financial standing of each of the city departments The report gave the amount of appropriation, the balance as of September 30th, and the current balance or overdraft.

Expect Holland Farmers in Canada Next Year

A. O. Dalrymple, Agricultural Representative of Hastings County has announced that it is expected that a number of experienced farmers will immigrate to Canada from Holland early in the new year. There will be both married and single men coming to this country and it is expected that the wages will be minimum of $50 for a single man and $75, along with a free house, for married men. It is suggested that farmers interested in this type of help either contact their local agricultural representative or Mr. John Vellinga, who is in charge of The Netherlands Immigration Foundation, Box 7, Chatham.

It is of interest to know that one family that recently arrived in this country was in the German occupied zone. The immigrant was a farmer who did not wish to co-operate with the Germans and as a result all of his livestock was taken and all of his buildings burned by the enemy during the last war.

Will Present Awards

The Hastings County Junior Farmers' Association is holding its second annual get-together in the Armouries, Madoc, on Friday, November 28th, at 8 p.m.

The objects of this get-together are to present the awards to those who have taken part in all phases of junior work during the year and at the same time acquaint the parents and friends of the juniors with just what is being done by the Junior Farmers, Junior Institute members and club boys and girls.

The guest speaker for the evening will be Mr. A. H. Martin, who has in the past done much to bring the standards of the Ontario Junior Farmers' Association up to the present standing and who is at present secretary of the Association as well as being associate director of the Agricultural Representative Branch, Toronto.

Arrangements have been made to have a variety of musical numbers as well as other entertainment, and a light lunch will be served by the Cooper Girls' Club following the presentation.

There will be an admission fee of 35c to cover any incidental expenses.

POLICE COURT

Terrance Maguire, of this city, was sentenced to concurrent sentences of one month in jail on two charges of false pretences when this morning in magistrate's court he was convicted on two charges of passing worthless cheques. The cheques were passed by the accused on two local merchants.

Joseph Bourette, Moira Street, was sentenced to seven days in jail on a charge of drunk driving, while a further charge of driving without a permit was enlarged for one week.

Arthur Way of Carrying Place was fined $25 and costs when found guilty on a highway traffic charge of being drunk in charge of a tractor. The charge against Way was laid by city police following an accident on Bridge Street when Way in charge of a farm tractor bumped two automobiles.

OBITUARY

GEORGE A. WELCH
(Formerly of Picton)

Picton (Special) — A former Mayor of this town, George A. Welch died suddenly Sunday in Toronto. He was stricken while driving his car near his home on Sherwood Ave., in that city. He died en route to hospital.

Mr. Welch was one of the province's best known seed men. For 43 years he was with Hogg and Lytle Ltd., and served as a director of that company. He began his career at Port Hope and served with the company at Oshawa, Port Huron, Mich., and at Okotoks, Alberta for 24 years. In 1926 he came to Picton as manager of the local branch, retiring last year.

Mr. Welch took an active part in municipal and community work at Okotoks and in Picton. He served a number of years on council and for two years as Mayor. He was a charter member of the local Rotary Club and had attended the meeting here last week. He was a member of the Anglican Church and active in the Chamber of Commerce. A member of Prince Edward Lodge No. 18, A.F. & A.M., he was a Past Master of the Okotoks lodge. He was an enthusiastic supporter of local sports and one of the town's most highly respected residents.

Mr. Welch is survived by his wife, to whom he was married last March; by two children by a previous marriage, Mrs. Clayton Young, of High River, Alberta, and Cyril Welch, Picton; a brother, James in Reno, Nevada; two sisters, Mrs. Harry Garner and Mrs. Macklin, Toronto.

The funeral is being held in the Church of St. Mary Magdalene here with Rev. W. H. Swayne officiating, and interment in Glenwood cemetery.

LATE GARNET ARNOLD MITCHELL
(Thurlow Township)
(Contributed)

The funeral of Garnet Arnold Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Mitchell, was held on Friday afternoon last from his parents' home, second Thurlow and was very largely attended.

A very impressive service was conducted by the Rev. C. A. Perkins, minister of Holloway Street United Church in the presence of a large concourse of sorrowing relatives and friends.

Mrs. E. Vivian and Mrs. H. Shetler contributed greatly to the service by singing a beautiful duet "Some Day We'll Understand."

The mass of floral tributes and the long cortege which followed the body to his last resting place silently testified to the sorrow caused by the death of the deceased and the sympathy felt for the bereaved parents.

The deceased's bright and sunny disposition had won for him the love and esteem of the young and old. His early and sudden passing has cast a gloom over the neighborhood.

The bearers were Donald Mitchell, Earl Grills, Donald Jackson, Lloyd Greatrix, Douglas Thompson, Lawrence Dent.

Honorary bearers were Elmer Hogg, Manley Mitchell, Chas. Leavens, Jas. Hogg, Bert Grills and Douglas Leavens.

JOHN J. BURKE
(Formerly of Belleville)

John J. Burke, a former well known resident of this city, died on Monday in Toronto where he had resided for some years. He was born here and was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Richard (Dick) Burke. The early years of his life were passed here and he was popular with many friends to whom the announcement of his death will bring much regret. When living here he was a valued member of the hockey team. In Toronto he was employed with the Canada Steamship lines for some years and of late years he lived retired.

Surviving him are two brothers, William E. Burke, of Montreal and Raymond R. Burke of Toronto; three sisters, Mrs. E. S. Henderson, Mrs. P. J. Lamphier and Miss Lottie Burke, all of Toronto.

Interment in Mount Hope cemetery, Toronto, on Wednesday.

Hydro Break Disrupts Service For Three Hours

Picton — Heavy wet snow clinging to the wires, caused a break in hydro service from three until six o'clock yesterday afternoon. Most of Prince Edward County was affected. Local stores closed their doors when darkness fell. All industries were forced to conclude operations in the middle of the day. The heavy snow also disrupted telephone service in the majority of districts in Picton area. Snow fell most of the day, with a mingling of rain, which left ten inches of slush on the road. Driving was extremely hazardous and though several cars were ditched police were not informed of any serious accidents.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Nov. 25 —(CP)— Early session prices on the stock exchange continued the downward drift today with golds leading and industrials and base metals trailing closely behind. Volume eased off moderately but brisk activity in a handful of secondary golds kept the turnover relatively high.

Volume for the first three hours was 754,000 shares, about 30,000 below yesterday's similar period.

Newsprints were irregular on a majority of fractional losses, Abitibi pfd., Minnesota and Ontario up fractions. Steels mixed gains and losses with Algoma up. Bell Telephone regained 2. Foods were quiet and about even, oils slow, liquors mixed.

Hollinger lost 1-8, Wright-Hargreaves 5 and Sigma 10 for senior golds with heavier junior losers Anglo-Rouyn, Central Porcupine, Donalda, East Malartic, Eldona, Giant, Louvicourt, Macassa, MacLeod, Madsen, Malartic and Negus. Base metals were down for Smelters 7-8, East Sullivan, Eureka, Falconbridge, Nickel 1-2, Labrador 25, Silver Miller 5, Sherritt 5 and Quemont 1-4.

HOGS

Toronto, Nov. 25 —(CP)— Grade A hog prices remained unchanged at Stratford, $22.75 delivered to farmers and $22.90 to truckers, and at Hull unchanged, $22.75 delivered while unquoted off truck, in markets reporting this morning.

Maj.-Gen. Meyers Loses Medal, Legion of Merit

Washington, Nov. 25 (AP)—The United States Justice Department carried the case of Maj.-Gen. Bennett E. Meyers to a Federal Grand Jury today as the wartime money dealings of the retired air force officer began to explode like a chain of delayed-action bombs.

Shaken from top to bottom by the charges against its one-time deputy purchasing chief, the two-months-old Independent Air Force stripped the 52-year-old Meyers of his $549 monthly pension, took away the Distinguished Service Medal and Legion of Merit awarded after his retirement, and announced that he will face a court martial.

W. Stuart, secretary of the air force, described as "one of the most shocking scandals ever exposed in hte history of our government" the testimony before a Senate War Investigating Sub-Committee that Meyers took $150,000 in profits out of Dayton, O., Aircraft Parts Factory while others in military aviation concentrated on winning the war.

Meyers, who has denied profiting personally from the operations of the firm involved—the Aviation Electric Company—declined to comment on the latest moves against him.

The Justice Department did not disclose in advance what charges it would level against the retired officer before the Grand Jury here.

Symington told reporters that nothing which turned up in the Senate investigation lays "even the finger of suspicion on any other officer in the air force or the army."

Cards' Are Sold To Syndicate

St. Louis, Nov. 25—(AP)—Sale of St. Louis Cardinals to a syndicate including Postmaster-General Robert E. Hannegan and Fred Saigh, St. Louis business man, was announced today by Presiden Sam Breadon.

At the same time it was announced in Washington that Hannegan has resigned his federal post, effective Dec. 1.

Breadon said Hannegan would be president of the new organization.

The 72-year-old Breadon, longtime head of the Cardinals in the National Baseball League, said he could not disclose the purchase price.

Among the properties in the far-flung St. Louis baseball chain is the franchise of the Hamilton club in the Pony League.

At one time St. Louis was considered to have the most widespread farm system in baseball.

PRINCE OF SAUDI ARABIA IN U.S. FOR MEDICAL TREATMENT

New York, Nov. 25 — (AP) — Eight-year-old Prince Mahmoud, youngest son of King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia, arrived Sunday on a trip to undergo medical treatment in the United States. The nature of his ailment was not disclosed.

Rev. E.N. Grant Appointed Rector Augusta Parish

The Rev. Edmund N. Grant, rector of the parish of Wellington, Ont., and Rural Dean for Prince Edward County, has been appointed rector of the parish of Augusta, it has been announced by the Rt. Rev. John Lyons, Bishop of the Diocese of Ontario.

Mr. Grant succeeds the Rev. Robert Booth, recently appointed rector of the parish of Lansdowne Rear, with residence in Lyndhurst. The status of Augusta has been changed from a mission to a self-supporting charge. Mr. Grant takes over his new duties on December 15. Announcement of Mr. Grant's successor in Wellington will be made in the near future.

Mr. Grant enjoyed a well-deserved popularity among not only his parishioners but the residents of the district as a whole. He was an indefatigable worker in the restoration of the new church at Hillier, Ont., which replaced the 100-year-old structure destroyed by fire two years ago.

He is well known in Hastings County as well as Prince Edward for he served in his capacity in the northern section of the county prior to his going to Wellington a number of years ago.

Hunter Rescued By Flying Doctor

Orillia, Nov. 25 — It was a lucky thing for a Toronto hunter that Orillia's flying doctor, Dr. Walter H. Woodrow, had his Piper Cub plane over Crochet Lake. The doctor saw from the air William Stolarsky, 30, of Toronto, chasing a large buck deer in a canoe.

"I thought I would circle around and watch the fun. Being a hunter myself I wanted to see the fellow in action," Dr. Woodrow said. "Suddenly I saw the canoe tip over and the hunter go under.

"I put my plane into a sideslip and dropped from 800 feet to about 20 feet above the water and in a few seconds my pontoons touched the toppled canoe only an arm's length from the hunter, who was hanging on for life.

"I called to him to grab the pontoon and climb on, but he couldn't make it with all his bulky hunting clothes. He had gone under once and was afraid to let go of the canoe. I got out of the plane cabin and helped him onto the pontoon and then taxied to shore.

"His pal had a fire going by this time. The hunter was so cold it was a long time before he could talk. I got some liquor from my emergency kit and brought him around.

"They only had one canoe between them and in such a remote place that I'm afraid the fellow would have been drowned if my curiosity hadn't made me hang around to see him get the deer. I had been doing some hunting myself and was just going home."

AID FOR ABORIGINES

Adelaide, Australia —(CP)— Pastor Albrecht of the Hermannsburg Mission, in an effort to establish aborigines, gave selected, trained stockmen of the Arunta tribe £300 ($1,200) worth of cattle each from the mission herds to breed with their own. The natives will pay back the mission with proceeds from their better quality cattle.

Cattle, Horses Hold Spotlight At Winter Fair

Toronto, Nov. 25 (CP) — Cattle and horses held the spotlight at the Royal Winter Fair last night as Governor-General Alexander, patron of the horse show, attended its evening performance and presented prizes.

The Governor-General's Cup went to Mrs. George Watson of London, Ont., for Lady McDoon, best Canadian-bred and owned three-year-old able to become a hunter.

Viscount Alexander, whose black limousine drove directly into the arena at the Coliseum, also presented the King's 50 guineas to Kenneth McKinnon of Hillsburg, Ont., whose baby beef steer earlier won the championship Aberdeen-Angus award in its class. The King's guineas was established by King Edward VII to encourage Ontario agriculture.

One top award in the horse show — the $1,500 five-gaited saddle horse stake — went to Pirate Princess, owned by Frank Kupfer, Brooklyn, N.Y. The stake is sponsored by Co. R.S. McLaughlin of Oshawa.

Within half an hour after the presentation of the guineas, the prize-winning steer, Lucy, was auctioned off at $10.50 a pound, a total of $9,775. Bought by the T. Eaton Company of Toronto, it will be donated to Christie St. Military Hospital. Last year's price was $13 a pound for the fair's grand champion steer.

Record Price Paid

However, an 88-pound Grand Champion wether lamb, exhibited by Silver Stream Farms, Richmond Hill, Ont., set a record for all types of meat auctions when it brought $19 a pound at auction. Elizabeth (Arden) Graham, of New York City, who bought it for $1,672, planned to donate it to Toronto's Hospital for Sick Children.

Farmers had a big day at the fair yesterday as prize-winning beef, butter and cheese was auctioned off, bringing the best prices in the fair's history. Beef prices ranged from 27 to 31 cents a pound and Frank Leslie of Woodstock, producer-manager of the Oxford County Farmers Co-operative, paid the top price of 35 1-2 cents for Canadian Stilton Cheese.

In cattle judging, Col. Victor Spencer's Herefords from the Earlscourt Farms at Lytton, B.C., made a clean sweep, taknig Senior, Junior and Grand Champion Bull awards.

Edward Brothers of Watford, Ont., cleaned up in Aberdeen Angus awards, winning the uunior and Senior Championships and the Grand Championship for bulls as well as reserve ribbons. In Shorthorns, S. C. Bennett of Georgetown, Ont., won the Grand Championship and the Junior title. George L. Lasby of Guelph won the reserve title after his entry copped the Senior Champion Bull award.

Want Law Enforced Against Parents Who Permit Offences

Toronto, Nov. 25 — (CP)—City council last night asked judicial officers to enforce the law fully against parents of juvenile delinquents in cases where the law provides a penalty for parents who permit children to commit offences.

The motion carried by a 20 to 2 majority. Alderman W. H. Butt, who sponsored it, held that parents are responsible for many delinquent actions of children.

OBITUARY

ROBERT THOMAS BONTER

Marmora (Special) — A prominent resident of Marmora township passed away at his home on Sunday in the person of Robert Thomas Bonter. He was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Bonter, and was seventy-six years of age. He was born in this district, where practically all his life was spent. He was one of the best known agriculturists in the district and his friendly nature made many friends, who sincerely regret his passing.

He was a member of the Marmora Village band in the various years in which it functioned. He was a member of St. Andrew's United Church and a Conservative in politics. He is survived by his widow; one son, William, Marmora township; and four daughters, Mrs. Charles Bailey, (Gladys), Marmora township; Mrs. A. Smith (Ila) Niagara Falls; Mrs. Dougald Sanderson (Bernice) Marmora; and Vera at home. Also surviving are five brothers and three sisters, namely Fred and Richard, Marmora; John, Marmora township; George Malone, and Arthur, Fenwood, Sask.; Mrs. Jane Airhart, Marmora; Mrs. Susan Meehan, Niagara Falls, N.Y.; and Mrs. C. A. Lummiss (Lillian), Marmora.

The funeral will take place on Wednesday leaving his late residence at 2 p.m. for service in St. Andrew's United Church. Interment will follow in Marmora Protestant Cemetery.

WILLIAM HÉRBERT WHITE
(Roslin)

William Herbert White died at his home in the 9th, concession of Tyendinaga township, near Roslin, on Monday evening after a lengthy illness.

The late Mr. White was in his 74th. year, and all his life was passed on the farm on which he was born. His parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. John White. In addition to farming Mr. White was interested in the cheese industry and was President and Secretary-treasurer of the Roslin Cheese Company. He was widely known and was held in high esteem by many friends and acquaintances. In religion he was a member of the Roslin Presbyterian Church and up to the time of his death he held the office of an Elder and also discharged the duties of secretary-treasurer of the church.

Surviving him are his wife, the former Jennie Masson; three sons John M. White and Norman H. White, both of Roslin, and Stuart W. White of Demorestville; two sisters, Mrs. James (Matilda) Elliott of Vancouver, B.C., and Mrs. John (Esther) McKinnon of Chesley, Ontario.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, Campbell Street until Tuesday evening, then at his late residence; the funeral announcement is made in this edition.

ASSAILANT KILLS

to open private practice in 1938. He enlisted in the Canadian Army Medical Corps in 1941 and served overseas with the rank of captain.

He was appointed to the pensions commission upon his discharge in 1945 and his appointment was made permanent only a week ago.

herself a graduate of Queen's and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Kidd of Gananoque, Ont., and a three-year-old son.

Page, who served overseas in the First World War as a private in the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, came to Ottawa from Vancouver. His widow is believed to be living in Toronto.

Examination Was Routine

Page's recent medical examination, it was stressed, was routine, as provided in the Pensions Act, and Dr. Bowie made no recommendation as to his pension, merely reporting that the arthritic condition which carried with a 40-per cent disability had improved. The department reduced the disability to 20 per cent.

Page also had a 20-per-cent disability for gunshot wounds suffered in the chest and shoulder in the First World War.

Dr. Bowie was described by his office superiors as a mild-spoken physician who had a reputation for "leaning backwards" when there was a question of making a diagnosis which might reduce a man's pension.

Number of Shots Fired

There was some confusion as to how many shots were fired. One occupant of a nearby office reported hearing four shots while another said there were only three.

However, Jack Robertson, a veteran who had been sitting in a waiting room directly across from Dr. Bowie's office, indicated there were five shots.

"A few minutes before the shooting he (Dr. Bowie) had been in and talked to me. He had my file and went across the hall. I was just waiting until he called my name when he was ready to deal with me," Robertson said.

"Suddenly I saw a man in a dark suit come along the hall and enter the office. I did not pay much attention. Then I heard a shot.

"I looked across the hall and I saw the man in the dark suit pump three more shots directly into the doctor's chest. I saw the revolver in his hand. It was not more than a foot or two from the doctor's chest.

"I thought this fellow is crazy and he is liable to shoot all witnesses when he comes out. So I leaped behind a chesterfield in the waiting room. Another fellow who was waiting jumped in alongside of me. There was a pause of a minute and then another shot. That must have been when he shot himself . . .

Heard No Word Spoken by Assailant

"As far as I could hear the big fellow never said a word to the doctor. Later I heard that he had been causing trouble about the building for some time . . .

"When I next saw the office both men were lying on the floor. The doctor was out of his chair and lying behind the desk and the man was slumped down in front of the desk. He seemed to have died instantly.

"The doctor never had a chance. And he was a fine fellow too."

Rescue Operation

One of the plots or motives long familiar to story tellers or playwrights is that of rescue of man or woman or child from a place or danger to a place of security. On this theme countless stories have been told in fairy story or in novel and on the stage. One of the great classics of this type of appeal is the matchless story of the wanderings of Odysseus and his arrival at home after a long period of time and after facing great odds.

In modern life that appeal to the attention of the reader of newspapers, plays and novels is always to be found. It never wears old. Man loves to see the hero overcoming trials and temptation and winning the fight. This appeal is rooted in the heart of man and however long the race endures this appeal will be found in human hearts.

There has just been performed a feat of modern science and aeronautics, the bringing back to civilization and the attention which a modern hospital can give, Canon John H. Turner who was accidentally injured by the discharge of a rifle weeks ago.

The story is enriched by the record of service given by the Canon's wife and by the Eskimos to whom he had ministered on his missionary duties.

Into the scene came the Canadian Army-Air Force rescue service which has among its uses service in the time of a natural calamity or such an instance as that of the injured clergyman. It was absolutely necessary that he be brought back to civilization for treatment. The rescue work was held up by weather conditions but it has at last succeeded in bringing the injured man to Winnipeg.

The story of the effort to rescue the sick man makes one of the happiest chapters in modern reading. It is an augury of a greatly amplified service by the Canadian Army and Air Force rescue operations.

In a world of unrest and unsettlement here is a happy intrelude, the use of modern discoveries and inventions to render service to man.

The airplane occupies the centre of interest as a means of a rescue of this kind, indicating that it has found a large place in serving mankind. Today radio transmission has been able to render service whose extent man could not have foretold a few years ago. Other inventions and discoveries have taken their place in rendering aid to man. Discoveries which await to be made may perhaps in an ever greater degree than yet achieved by inventions be able to widen the sphere in which they can be employed.

In it all the human personality is what counts, both in the rescuer and in the rescued. It is in human nature to be the heroic rescuer. Like Canon Turner he may be the servant of his community in the Arctic wastes. Canon Turner has played a sacrificial role to bring the blessings of faith to the natives and dwellers in the North.

There will always be the heroic type of men. They are seen in the men who fought for freedom in two world wars, they will be found everywhere. They give the proof of the nobility of the human spirit in its yearning to save humanity, and in seeking truth.

The deeds of the missionary and the story of his rescue are an inspiration especially to the youth of the land now growing up to occupy a place among those who advance civilization and become benefactors of the race.

The nobility of motive which inspires the men who serve on mission fields and who take their place in the latest services which science can render is one of the truest foundations of hope for the world.

S. A. Food for Britain

Britain is to import $48 million worth of food annually from South Africa during the next three years. This was announced recently by the Minister of Food when giving details of the arrangements made between the two countries under the loan agreement recently concluded. The commodities which South Africa will be sending next year include eggs, canned fish, fruit, wine and potatoes. The biggest item will be consignments of fresh fruit worth $24.8 million, consisting of grapefruit, oranges, lemons, pears, plums, nectarines, peaches, apricots and grapes.

Royal Wedding

The royal wedding, objected to by only those who for varying reasons hate royalty, has been cement poured on the bonds that bind Britishers and their friends the earth over. Too, as far as the United Kingdom, the Commonwealth and the Empire go, it has provided the last burst of flame to cook the goose of Communism, or any ism that would trample the benevolent monarchial system under foot.

Since the wedding morning we have been regaled with descriptions of the fervor and adulation of Britons in all stages of the existing austerity. The landed gentry (if any land is left) rubbed elbows with the bricklayer and the costermonger in the throng assembled to cheer our future Sovereign and her consort. The outpouring of public sentiment was mutual, unanimous and a magnificent guarantee that we, of this persuasion, are sticking strictly together. — R. M. Harrison in Windsor Star.

Strange Things

Strange things have been going on in this country as anyone can see who looks for something more in the papers than the crime news.

A bullfrog in Quebec swallowed two ducklings. A hen in Nova Scotia returned after a week's absence, accompanied by a flock of nine sturdy wild ducks. A deer in Prince Albert National Park chews tobacco. A bear with four playful cubs meets trains at Jasper.

The latest report is from Waterton Lakes National Park in Alberta, where a cutthroat trout taken by an angler from North Lineham Lake during September, contained, among other items of food, a dusky mountain shrew. The shrew is a tiny, furry gray mammal, 4½ inches long that lives chiefly on insects. The trout weighed one pound, six ounces, was 114½ inches long and was approximately seven years old. It was quite fat and in excellent condition.

This is the first record, so far as known, of a cutthroat trout in a national park having been found to feed on a mammal, since the usual diet of this species consists of insects., other invertebrates and small fish. It is also the first record in a national park of a shrew of this species occurring in an altitude of 7,100 feet above sea level. The shrew is a terrestrial species and how it became available to the trout is not known. —Port Arthur News Chronicle.

Reminders

We do not need to look for new standards, new values. They have been with us for two thousand years, if we only recognize them. The New York Times recently commented: "We need recurrent reminders that social solidarity cannot be erected except upon the moral bases of goodwill and respect for the rights of others." There must must be a chastening awareness that the world will continue its drift into darkness unless we can anchor to the firm rock of religion. — Woodstock Sentinel Review.

Slang Grows Up

Francis Grose, in his "Classical Dictionary of the Vulgar Tongue," published in 1785 ,seems to have been the first authority to recognize the term "slang" itself, says Manchester Guardian. He applied it to a list of words — including bay-window, bedizened, bet, bluster, budget, churl, coax, cobbler, cur, domineer, eye-sore, flabby, flog, flout, fuss, gag, malinger, messmate, slump, saunter, rascal, trip and yelp — few of which even the most rigid purist might now care to challenge.

People do not have dictators merely because they choose to have dictators, and yet the people are to blame when they come into power. When the public, through indifference or ignorance, neglect to maintain its democratic privileges, the dictator sees his chance and embraces it, says Chatham News.

GUESSING GAME

Oh, my temples may be gray
And I may be past my prime,
But I'm not too old to play
Guessing games at dinner time.
And a form of fun I love
Is to look about and say:
"There's a thing I'm thinking of.
Who can guess it right away

"Is it in the room?" they cry.
"Is it black or white or green?
And I chuckle as they try
To discover what I mean.
"Is it mineral or plate?
Is it silver? Is it glass?
Here is fun, I dare to state,
Life holds nothing to surpass.

Little girl and little boy,
With the evening coming on,
Who knows any better joy
For the day that's almost gone
Than such guessing games as these?
There is nothing, I reply,
Nothing better me to please.
I would play them till I die.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS.

20 YEARS AGO

Nov. 25th., 1927

Jack Marshall, well known local athlete, has been elected President of the Track and Field Club at the University of Toronto. This honor was conferred on him at a recent banquet at Hart House. Both the Harrier Club and the Track and Field team were intercollegiate champions last year. Jack Marshall was one of the leading members of the track team and was prominent in several meets held during the autumn months. As well as taking a prominent part in active athletics he was head cheer leader at the college. Jack is a graduate of the Belleville High School and is a son of Dr. and Mrs. O. A. Marshall, Bridge Street east.

Capt. W. A. Spriggs, formerly of the local office of the Bell Telephone Company, was in town today.

Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Ashley of this city are visiting their son, Mr. Leslie Ashley, in Madoc.

Miss C. McCann has returned to her home in Stirling after visiting friends here.

Hereafter no citizen will be allowed to store more than two months' supply of coal in his bins, nor will the coal dealers be allowed to sell coal to any citizen, who has already that supply in his bins. This is the result of a regulation issued by the Fuel Controller at Ottawa. Every coal dealer must take out a license in order that the Controller's office may have a check on his sales and deliveries.

40 YEARS AGO

Nov. 25th., 1907

The Convent School, the property of St. Michael's Parish, was destroyed by fire last evening. The building, a large brick structure was situated on John Street, north of Victoria Avenue. It was better known as the Loretta Convent building as for years the Convent occupied the building. For the past few years the Convent has occupied the brick building directly north of the old building. The building destroyed has been used of late entirely as a school; it was built over forty years ago, but was in a good state of repair. The caretaker, M. Donohue, reported that all was well when he made a tour of the building about five o'clock p. m., which was an hour before the fire was discovered by William Lazier. The Rev. Father Twomey said today that the loss will be heavy as the building and equipment could not be replaced for $25,000.00.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

The Puritans of Massachusetts Bay established a virtual theocracy, modelled after that of ancient Israel, and adopted many harsh rules to enforce Sunday observance and to regular personal life.

As late as 1850 any person who rode on a railway train on Sunday in Massachusetts except to go to church was subject to a $10 fine, and a railroad that permitted passengers to ride on Sunday for any purpose other than to go to church was liable to having their Sunday trains suspended for two successive Sundays.

Even 10 years later a Massachusetts law provided: "Whoever travels on the Lord's day, except from necessity or charity, shall be punished by fine not exceeding $10 for each offense."

In 1942 the Governor of Massachusetts vetoled a bill seeking to repeal the State's old blue laws.

Vermont repealed its blue laws in 1939 and gave local communities the privilege of deciding for themselves whether they desired movies, sports and other public amusements on Sunday.

In 1740 a law was enacted in Delaware penalizing "whoever shall perform any worldly employment, labor or business on the Sabbath day (works of necessity and charity excepted); whoever shall be guilty of fighting, fowling, horse racing, cock fighting or hunting game; any carrier, peddler or driver of any stage . . . any retailer of goods who shall expose to sale," etc.

In 1941 the Delaware Senate passed but the House of Representatives rejected a bill to repeal this 201-year-old blue law, which had become virtually a dead letter. The State attorney-general then undertook to enforce the law to determine whether the public really wanted to retain it. Several hundred arrests were made on the first Sunday. The result was that the State quickly repealed the old law and adopted a more liberal substitute.

When Benjamin Franklin was in Europe before the Revolution he wrote to Jared Ingersoll in Connecticut: "When I travelled in Flanders, I thought of your excessively strict observance of Sunday; and that a man could hardly travel on that day among you upon his lawful occasion without hazard of punishment."

While making his tour through the Eastern States in 1789 President Washington ran afoul of the Connecticut blue laws. Under date of Sunday, November 8, 1789, he wrote in his diary:

"It being contrary to law and disagreeable to the People of this State (Connecticut) to travel on the Sabbath day—and my horses, after passing through such intolerable roads, wanting rest, I stayed at Perkins' travern (which by the bye, is not a good one,) all day — and a meeting-house being within a few rods of the door, I attended morning and evening services, and heard very lame discourses from a Mr. Pond."

HORSE VS. EAGLE

Stockholm — (CP) — A battle between an eagle and a horse occurred on the Swedish island of Oland in the Baltic Sea — and the horse won. The eagle, with a seven-foot wingspan, attacked the horse and tried to hack at its chest. The horse beat off the bird with its hoofs and killed it with

Many Foodstuffs Up 30 to 100 P.C. Prior to Ceilings

(By The Canadian Press)

Prices of many foodstuffs in Canadian stores had gone up 30 to 100 per cent prior to the government announcement that price ceilings would be imposed on the more important varieties of canned fruits and vegetables and possibly on fresh fruits, vegetables and canned fruit juices, a Canadian Press survey showed.

Winnipeg reported last night that in the last week turnips jumped $1 a bushel to sell at $2.75 and cabbages climbed $1.50 a hundredweight. Ontario celery which had sold previously at $2.75-$3.00 a crate went on sale on the big markets at $4.50-$4.75. The advance on 50-pound bags of washed carrots in Montreal was from $1.15-$1.25 to $2.15-$2.50.

Toronto merchants offered Ontario potatoes, $1.85 a 75-pound bag a week ago, at $2.75-$3.25 a bag and marked up carrots and onions an average of 30 per cent. Ontario-grown cabbage advanced five to six cents a pound. Pepper and squash and Hubbard squash handled at $1.25 a bushel a short time ago took a neat 100-per cent jump to $2.50.

A Toronto survey showed that prices of general canned goods stood an average of 100 per cent higher than a year ago. Canned tomatoes, for instance, are selling this week at 27 cents a can as against 14 cents a year ago and certain brands of canned peas which sold a year ago at 18 cents now go on the shelves at 23 cents. Canned corn has gone from 14 cents to 21.

RETAIL PRICES

At Oshawa last night Roy Lick, secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Whole Milk Producers' League and the Distributors' Association, said the new agreement is for 11 months and it is unlikely there will be any change in that period. He said that 55 cents won't cover the increased cost in Winter feeding, but what the farmers lose they hope to make up when their cattle go back on grass in the Spring. The League originally asked an increase of 85 cents per hundredweight.

Picton Market Lowest

In the majority of the Ontario milk markets the price will be 17 cents a quart for standard milk, the Board said. In one market, Timmins, the maximum will be 19 cents a quart, in eight—including the Toronto area—18 cents a quart, in six 17 1-2 cents. Sixty-two of the 78 markets will pay 17 cents. The Picton market will pay least of all, 16 cents.

The 18-cent markets, in addition to Toronto are: Dryden, Fort Frances, Fort William, Port Arthur, Kirkland Lake, North Bay, Sault Ste. Marie and Sudbury, all in Northern Ontario.

In Niagara Falls, Oakville, Port Colborne, St. Catharines, Thorold, Merritton and Welland, the price will be 17½ cents.

The 17-cent markets are: Acton, Aylmer, Barrie, Belleville, Blenhein, Bowmanville, Bracebridge, Brampton, Brantford, Brighton, Brockville, Campbellford, Chatham, Cobourg, Collingwood, Cornwall, Delhi, Durham, Elmira, Galt, Gananoque, Georgetown, Gravenhurst, Guelph, Hanover, Huntsville, Ingersoll, Kingston, Kitchener, and Waterloo, Lindsay, London, Meaford, Midland and Penetanguishere, Orillia, Oshawa, Ottawa, Owen Sound, Pembroke, Paris, Peterborough, Pickering, Port Elgin, Port Hope, Prescott, Renfrew, Ridgetown, St. Marys, St. Thomas, Sarnia, Simcoe, Waterford, Smiths Falls, Southampton, Stratford, Sutton, Tillsonburg, Trenton, Wallaceburg, Whitby, Wiarton, Woodstock.

Officers Brought In

Law enforcement officers came from a dozen communities in a 70-mile radius to aid prison officials under Warden John C. Burke. Units of the National Guard (militia) also stood by.

The prisoners seized the 60-by 120-foot laundry room about four p.m. yesterday and Burke said they refused to tell why they were striking.

They declared they would talk only to A. W. Bayley, director of the Department of Public Welfare. He arrived and said Burke was in complete charge and refused to talk to them until they returned to their cells.

Burke blamed the trouble on three men. He said they persuaded 26 others to stop working and moved on to the laundry. There 40 others joined the strike. Some apparently were forced tp join in the insurrection.

A total of 854 men are prisoners at Waupun and Burke said all except the strikers had been locked in their cells.

ALCOHOL DOES NOT STIMULATE

Any sophomore medical student knows that alcohol is not a stimulant but a depressant from first to last and under any and all circumstances where stimulation might be required or desirable.

Alcoholic beverage or liquor benumbs, depresses, inhibits or suspends control, higher consciousness, will power, conscience, so that the individual under its influence is for the time being less capable of realizing what is right or wrong than he would be when not under the influence of alcohol. Just as he is less capable of controlling his muscles in performing some precise or skilful work or even walking a chalkline if he is under the influence of alcohol.

When I say "under the influence of alcohol" I mean any amount of alcohol, even the smallest quantity of beverage or liquor that has any measurable effect at all — and I do not mean drunkenness in any of the various senses the alcoholic beverage and liquor interests contrive to have their paid "experts," medical and legal, place on the phrase.

Lest any reader still cherish the belief or fancy that alcohol enables a person to think or to act better or faster or to work out a problem or to perform more skilfully or to put forth a greater effort in any circumstance, I quote from an authoritative textbook of thereapeutics, the scientific facts:

Alcohol never acts as a true stimulant to the brain, the spinal cord, or the nerves. On the contrary, its dominant influence is depressant. The increased activity of thought and speech after its use is not due to stimulation, but to depression of the inhibitary nervous apparatus.

(Inhibitary means checking, holding back, steadying, controlling.)

The activity is therefore that caused by lack of control, and is not a real increase in energy. It does not increase the vigor of thought nor its depth, nor does it enable a man to work out a problem which is difficult. On the contrary, it rather benumbs mental processes. . . .

If the dose (of alcohol) is large enough to cause any appreciable change in the circulation, it is in the nature of depression rather than stimulation. It causes a flushing of the capillaries of the skin. . . .

This flushing of the surface gives the individual a sense of warmth — but at the expense of internal organs. Every one today—except simple folk who like the fairy tales about the kegs of brandy carried by the St. Bernard dogs to Alpine climbers caught in a crevasse — knows that alcohol makes a victim of exposure to cold more likely to freeze to death.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Champion Champer

Each eight-hour working day I chew twelve sticks of gum. Will this make me nervous, increase my appetite, decay my teeth or harm my health otherwise?

(R. A.)

Answer — No. If the gum is sweetened with sugar many dentists believe presence of particles of sugar favors the activity of Acidophilus bacilli and production of lastic acid which may erode the enamel and so produce cavities.

Thumb Sucking

Two year old daughter constantly sucks her thumb. I have tried everything to break the habit but . . .

Answer — Send a stamped envelope bearing your address and ask in writing for pamphlet on Thumb Sucking.

Giant Hives

I maintain angioneurotic edema is due to lack of some essential constituent of the body. My friend maintains it is an allergic condition.

(J. B.)

Answer — Otherwise known as giant hives, it is probably allergic though this is only my opinion. For pamphlet on hives and angioneurotic edema send stamped envelope bearing your address. If you want also the pamphlet on allergy inclose ten cents for both.

Old Country Letter:

Royal Wedding Still Main Topic Of Interest in British Newspapers

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Britain's royal wedding is over, the band parades and cheering are echoes of yesterday and the central figures in the Westminster Abbey drama have retired to the English countryside. . . .

Yet no new sensation, no fresh topic has been found to replace it.

From all parts of Britain crowds are still going to London to view the marriage register in the Abbey where the bridal couple signed their names, newsreel theatres are still packed to the doors, children are still collecting wedding souvenirs and newspapers are still reminiscing.

Indeed the Sunday newspapers published title — even in the way of music and drama — that was not colored by it.

Page two of the Labor Sunday newspaper, The People, was devoted to a story of the royal romance headed "Their love began with walks in the park." The Sunday Pictorial, also Labor-minded, was lyrical over the honeymoon retreat at Romsey. The staid Observer published an autobiography of the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, "The man who married them."

Much in Evidence

The manfestation of romantic and patriotic feeling evoked by the wedding dies hard. Wherever they go in Britain, men and women cannot escape evidence of it. Most towns and cities retain decorative remnants of a day when the country, shedding for a moment its load of worry, perplexity and austerity, made itself a holiday out of slender means.

The main topic in pubs and clubs as well as in private homes is how Philip is likely to "shake down" to his new position, how the wedding came over the radio and television and how it looked on the movie screen.

London continues to give hospitality to kings, queens and princes extending their stay at Buckingham Palace or West End hotels. Much interest centres around young King Michael of Rumania who is said to be undecided whether to return to his uneasy throne or join his cousin, King Peter of Yugoslavia, in exile.

It will be many weeks yet before the royal wedding passes into history.

NAVY DEEP SEA DIVER DIES

Verona, N. J., Nov. 25—(AP)—Frank W. Crilley who won worldwide fame and the Congressional Medal of Honor during his 30 years as a United States Navy deep sea diver, died Sunday night at the age of 63. Crilley earned the highest military decoration of the United States for his work in the salvage operations of the submarine S-4 off Waikiki Beach in 1915. He made a then record dive of 306 feet to raise the trapped body of a fellow diver.

British Love for Gambling Shown In All Manner of Freak Bets

By MICHAEL O'MARA
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Nov. 25 —(CP)— If you're tired of wagering on the outcome of horse races, football matches and election returns, come to bet-happy Britain, where you can get a bet on anything from the weather to how fast a cockroach can crawl along a bar.

Non-gamblers were a bit startled to hear of a champion chrysanthemum-grower alleging gamblers had "got at" a number of his best blooms, poisoning them in order to prevent his showing them in a forthcoming horticultural contest in which he loomed as a hot favorite. They hadn't heard anything.

Bet on Headline Letters

Factory workers in the Midlands are known to bet on the first letter in the headline of tomorrow's newspaper . . . At a public house in suburban Peckham there are regular cockroach contest with anything from half a pint of beer to £10 ($40) riding on the result.

"Sheer boredom is the cause of it all," says Dr. F. T. Lawton, secretary of the National Anti-Gambling League.

"Monetary gains are really a secondary consideration in much of the gambling which takes place in this country. The real kick comes from the prospect of winning something — just anything. It all boils down to boredom."

Dr. Lawton's argument covers probably 95 per cent of Britain's regular gamblers. Certainly the hundreds of thousands who invest weekly in the country-wide football "pools" don't really expect to win — although there's always a chance of being the man in a million who hits the £10,000 jackpot. But a little flyer in the pools gives a man something to plan during the week and an exciting five minutes reading the results Saturday night.

Sweepstakes Popular

Similarly thousands of pounds cross St. George's Channel every time the Eire government stages a sweepstake on a big horse race. Nobody figures to win — but it's fun. Perhaps the greyhound and racetrack "regulars" are Britain's only gamblers who actually hope to win oftener than they lose.

Britain is a paradise for those who enjoy freak bets. The bet-a-million boys remember the time cotton magnate James K. Tasker came all the way from Alabama to win a bet that he could spend £1,000 a day in London for a week, without contributing to charity.

Like your bets dangerous? Stanley Stenson bet Horace Myhill he'd enter the lions' cage at Whipsnade Zoo and retrieve Horace's hat if Horace threw it into the enclosure.

Horace threw it in.

Horace related the terms of the bet to the coroner at the inquest on Stanley.

Veterans Pay For Their Lands On Crop Yield

Ottawa, Nov. 25 (CP)—Veterans living in the spring wheat area of the Prairie Provinces who are settled as full-time farmers under the Veterans Land Act will have the option of paying for their farms on the basis of their crop yield, under a new Order-in-Council announced Monday by Veterans Minister Mackenzie.

Under the new arrangements, the veteran may elect to pay the director of the V.L.A. half of his crop "in excess of six bushels per acre per year," instead of the usual cash payments. Should his crop exceed 18 bushels an acre, the veteran will have the right to keep his payments at a maximum of six bushels an acre per year, but also may exceed this amount if the crop is sufficiently good.

"The agreement for payment on the basis of crop yield does not wipe out the original agreement which remains in effect with the fixed annual payment being replaced by the crop payment plan," a statement said. "It is really an agreement in the original form with crop payments substituted for fixed annual payments."

Royal Couple Attends Church In Hampshire

Romsey, Hants, England, Nov 25 (AP)—Princess Elizabeth and her prince charming retired again into the privacy of their honeymoon retreat at beautiful Broadlands Mon., after emerging briefly into the limelight yesterday to attend Sunday services in 1,000-year-old Romsey Abbey.

A crowd of country folk, clad in their Sunday best, cheered the royal couple as they entered the ancient Abbey and again as they left.

The happy Princess wore her mist-blue going away suit for her first public appearance since her wedding last Thursday, while Prince Philip abandoned his customary naval uniform for a dark civilian suit and polka-dot tie.

They were welcomed at the door of the Abbey by Rev. Canon W. B. Corban, the vicar, but otherwise there was no special note taken of their attendance at the services, which were conducted just as they might have been on any other Sunday.

The royal honeymooners occupied cane-bottomed chairs in the first row in the nave in preference to sitting in the more conspicuous pew of Prince Philip's uncle, Earl Mountbatten, at whose estate they are residing.

Philip occupied the aisle seat, then came Princess Elizabeth and then an empty chair. The next seat was occupied by a uniformed officer and the rest of the row was vacant.

Approximately 1,500 persons attended the services, after which the couple returned immediately to Broadlands where they met press photographers and posed for the first formal pictures since they left London.

Liberals Name Provincial Organizer

Toronto, Nov. 25 — (CP)—The Ontario Liberal Association executive announced after a meeting here Saturday night that W. C. Woods of Preston has been appointed provincial organizer of the party.

Norman Hipel, president of the Ontario Liberal party, said "there are good indications that Premier Drew will call an election early next summer. In any case the Liberal party intends to be ready for an election whether it is called or not."

Premier Drew's Progressive Conservative party was elected to power in June, 1945, and its normal term would run until 1950.

The Liberal party is starting an organizational drive Monday with a Liberal nominating convention at Dryden. On Wednesday Port Arthur Liberals will meet to select a candidate. Both these ridings are at present represented by C.C.F. members. Other riding conventions will be held early in the New Year, said Mr. Hipel.

Mr. Woods lived in Paris, Ont., before the war and was riding organizer for former Premier Harry Nixon in Brant county. He served in the army during the war, being discharged with the rank of captain, since when he has lived in Preston. He will start work immediately at provincial Liberal headquarters here.

Farquhar Oliver, the provincial party leader, left by plane Saturday night to attend the Kenora and Port Arthur conventions.

Crop Production Down This Year

Toronto, Nov. 25 —(CP)—Field crop production in Ontario totalled 104,900,000 bushels, compared with 166,603,000 bushels in 1946, it was shown yesterday in the monthly crop report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Average production over the last 10 years was 152,963,000 bushels.

The report also shows turnips and mangolds are in short supply with 19,875,000 bushels as compared with 25,092,000 bushels in 1946.

Corn for ensilage yielded much better than expected early in the season but the feeding quality was reduced by heavy frosts during the last week of September. Total production is now estimated at 2,973,000 tons against 3,050,000 tons last year. Hay and clover are in good supply, although the report states feeding quality was reduced by excessive rainfall during early harvesting.

Milk flow is reported to have declined rapidly in early November because pastures were not high in feed value and supplementary feeding was reduced due to scarcity and high grain prices. Pastures were in best condition in Eastern Ontario where the grain shortage is most acute, the report shows.

Valuable Bracelet Held by Police

Montreal, Nov. 25 —(CP)— Royal Canadian Mounted Police yesterday held for safekeeping the $15,000 diamond and aquamarine bracelet, set in platinum, recovered by police last week at nearby Farnham, Que., but mystery still surrounds reports the bracelet may have been part of the jewels stolen a year ago from the Duchess of Windsor.

Montreal police at first said the bracelet was found in a Montreal taxicab by a Farnham couple but R.C.M.P. yesterday said it was found in a New York taxi near the Astor Hotel.

The Farnham couple brought the bracelet into Canada without reporting it at the border and placed it in a safety-deposit box.

Police said they received a tip a valuable bracelet was in the couple's possession and investigated.

The bracelet contains 46 aquamarines and 24 diamonds. Inside is the stamped name "Cartier," the famous London jewellers.

Screen Writer, Maltz, Cited for Contempt

Washington, Nov. 25 —(AP)— The House of Representatives overwhelmingly voted a contempt citation against screen writer Albert Maltz yesterday.

Maltz, author of the movies "Destination Tokyo" and "Cloak and Dagger," was one of 10 witnesses cited by the Committee on Un-American Activities during its recent investigation of Communism in Hollywood.

The House voted to turn the Maltz case over to the United States Attorney for prosecution.

This case was the first brought to the House floor, but the other nine were to be called up immediately, one at a time.

Earlier Representative Parnell Thomas (Rep. N. J.), told the House that the Un-American Activities Committee, which he heads, has staged "only the beginning" of what he termed its drive to force Communists out of the motion picture industry.

Junior Farmer Wins Coveted Award

Toronto, Nov. 25—(CP)—Kenneth McKinnen, 18-year-old Junior Farmer from Hillsburgh, Ont., has been awarded one of the most coveted prizes in the Royal Winter Fair's cattle competitions — the King's Guineas, worth $250, on his Aberdeen Angus calf.

The event was open to Ontario boys and girls farm clubs and was staged on the basis of all entries being club champions preceding the Royal. Reserve champion ribbon went to Lloyd Campbell, Northwood, Ont., also on an Aberdeen Angus.

Misener Skiff Found on Beach

Kincardine, Nov. 25 (CP) — The skiff in which James R. Misener, 40-year-old Stratford business man, was last seen drifting out in heavy seas on Lake Huron a week ago was found washed up at Poplar Beach near here. There was no trace of the missing man for whom powerboats and planes made a wide search before he was given up for lost.

Miss McGee, who is a guest of Rev. and Mrs. J. Grant Sparling at the rectory on Everett Street, is returning to Toronto today.

WEDDINGS

ALFORD—COLDEN

Roslin. (Special.) — A pretty wedding took place in St. Paul's Rectory, Roslin, at six o'clock, on Friday evening, Nov. 21, when Mrs. Ida Colden, of Roslin, was united in marriage with Mr. William John Alford, also of Roslin.

The ceremony was performed by the rector, Rev. F. C. Beazer.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Geo. Goodfellow, entered the living room wearing a street length dress of poudre blue with sequin trim, and black accessories.

Mrs. Albert Alford, niece of the bride, was her only attendant, in a suit of navy blue with matching turban.

Mr. Albert Alford ably performed the duties of groomsman.

Mrs. Geo. Goodfellow played the wedding music and during the signing of the register, the hymn 'The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden", was sung.

The bride's gifts to her attendant and pianist, were gold chain bracelets; the groom's gift to the groomsman, was a gold tie set.

Following the ceremony the guests were entertained for dinner at the Quinte Hotel in Belleville, when the toast to the bride was proposed by Rev. F. C. Beazer. Later Mr. and Mrs. Alford left by motor for Toronto, Hamilton and other western cities.

On their return they will reside at Roslin.

PEELOW—DUNHAM

Pink and white was the color scheme for an arch, banked with potted plants and white 'mums, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dunham, Wellman's Corners, when their daughter, Hazel Maxine, became the bride of Gordon Allan Peelow son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira. Peelow, of Hybla, Ont., with Rev. N. Cole as the officiating clergyman.

Wedding music was provided by Mrs. Frederick Beckett, and during the signing of the register the soloist, Miss Mina Dracup, sang "O Promise Me".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of the traditional white satin, with lace inserts, and long sleeves pointed over the wrists. Her fingertip veil fell from a headdress of lilies-of-the-valley, and she carried an arm bouquet of red roses.

Miss Thelma Peelow, of Peterborough, a sister of the groom, was the bridesmaid, gowned in a floor length model of teal blue net over satin, with pink accessories. She carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Mr. Jack Dunham, brother of the bride, ably supported the groom.

Following the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served to approximately twenty-five guests, with Misses Ruth Mercier, of Peterborough, Mabel Sharp, of Wellman's Corners and May Fleming, of Wellman's, serving the refreshments.

For travelling to Toronto, the bride chose a two-piece dress of pale blue wool, with black top coat, matching hat and accessories.

Out-of-town guests were from Belleville, Peterborough and Hybla.

SERVED THE ROYAL BRIDE

Four of Princess Elizabeth's eight bridesmaids are seen outside Westminster Abbey following the marriage of the heiress-presumptive to the Throne of England to Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh.

Longer Skirt Bringing Back Closed Toe, Heel

Montreal, Nov. 25 (CP) —Even in the rains of next spring there's going to be glamor for Canadian girls.

That was the theme today as Montreal's fashion week went into its second day with a showing of raincoats and shoes. Tipoff on the latter is that for spring the longer skirt has brought back the closed toe and heel.

The raincoats belied their utilitarian purposes. Taffetas, brightly checked, corduroy, and satins, self-striped or plain, fashioned coats that can be worn on the bright days as well as bad ones.

Purple, fuchsia and black in a large check was the crisp fabric in a loose box coat, the checks matched to perfection. Detachable hoods were on almost all coats shown.

Shoes displayed were mostly in a casual mood but the "baby dolls" with their rounded toes, narrow straps or jewelled trim were fit for dance time. One pale grey pair had a heart and chain in silver on the flap of each shoe. Metal initials gleamed on the instep of black suede shoes.

Miss Audra Brickman, District President, Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Brickman, Mrs. Kenneth Green, Mrs. Earl Fox and Mrs. Ray Fox attended the pot-luck supper held by Wellington W.I. at Wellington on Tuesday evening where Miss Brickman was guest speaker.

Mrs. Arza Pulver and Margaret returned home on Thursday from Peterborough where she has been visiting her mother and sister for several weeks.

Concert Ensemble Delights Audience At Tabernacle Ch.

Music appreciation to the "nth" degree was exemplified last evening in Tabernacle United Church during a program presented by Canada's Celebrated Concert Ensemble, "The Davies". Music-loving folk composing the very attentive audience were privileged to hear a program both delightful and unusual; while any who remained away missed a rare musical treat.

The numbers announced by Mrs. Vera Henderson Davie, director and able accompanist, were uniquely varied, including arias by the great masters Handel, Bach and Wagner; selections from the operas "The Barber of Seville" by Rossini, and "Figaro" by Mozart, augmented by some of the best from our more modern composers, as "The Indian Love Call", "River, Stay 'Way from My Door", "My Hero", "O, Promise Me" and "Strange Music".

The artists included Miss Frances Davie, mezzo-soprano; Mr. Nobel Davie, baritone; and Mr. Nelles Davie, basso; their voices featured in solos, where range and depth of tone were necessarily effective, and duly appreciated, as evidenced by the rapt attention of the listeners; also in duets and trios where the beauty of real harmony was developed through accurate co-ordination, which in no way detracted from the value of the individual voices.

"The Davies" are remarkably outstanding as a group of talented musical artists, and the entire concert was one of high quality, presented with graciousness and dignity.

Rev. F. R. Harback introduced Mrs. Davie before the opening number, the National Anthem; and following the finale, a trio arrangement of "Brother James' Air" used with the words of "The Shepherd Psalm", — appreciation was expressed by Mr. J. McClelland, president of the Men's Club of the church, whose members were the sponsors of this very excellent entertainment.

Women's Activities

PHILLIPSTON—ZION W.I.

Members of Phillipston-Zion Women's Institute spent a pleasant and profitable afternoon when they met for their November meeting at the home of Mrs. Roscoe Robson, with the president Mrs. Delbert Rowe, in charge.

Mrs. Percy Ray presented the financial statement, showing that $96.09 has been raised so far this year.

Letters were read from a sister organization in England, to whom gifts of food were recently sent. Plans were made to forward 100 pound cheese to the same Institute for the Christmas season.

A short course in the furnishing of a living room will be held in Bethel School on Nov. 24 and 25th., to which all ladies will be welcomed. Mrs. W. Phillips was appointed librarian.

Mrs. Murney Simmons read a paper on the motto, which had been prepared by Mrs. Ralph Sills. This included many worth while thoughts on the subject, "We will never have "V" for Victory, until we have "U" for Union". "Nations are composed of communities, and the community is but an extended shadow of the home. Let the pattern of our homes be such that it might be used as an ideal, and the community will then be a safe place in which to live. In the word, community, we fine another word, 'unity', and in 'unity', we find the letters 'U" and 'I'. We must rise above prejudice, for in the ideal community the unity of people is very important, and in this unity both you and I must take our place. The "V" for victory is first within ourselves, and the unity of individuals will make a lasting peace."

Rev. A. C. Campbell of Plainfield, in an inspiring address urged a broader outlook on life, an interest in education and its present day reforms, and an ability to sift the wheat from the chaff in modern literature and the periodicals of our time. He made an urgent plea that race prejudice be forgotten. Mrs. Campbell, with Mr. Campbell as accompanist, sang the solo, "My Task", which was much enjoyed.

Highlights from the Area Convention were brought by twelve members and a very interesting "quiz", conducted by Mrs. Harry Ketcheson, pertained to the story of Institute work through the past fifty years.

The roll call was answered with a quotation containing the word "peace" with 18 members responding.

Mrs. Robson served afternoon tea and dainty refreshments.

MADOC W.I.

Madoc.—Madoc Branch of W.I. held its November meeting at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Nicol on Friday afternoon. Following the singing of several songs and the Institute Ode the president, Mrs. Beatty, asked for the roll call "Things we should be thankful for". Words of welcome were extended to several visitors present. Business arising from correspondence and the minutes of the last meeting was discussed. Letters of thanks for gifts of flowers and cards during illness were read. A unanimous vote by the members that a gift of $10 be donated to the Christmas Fund of the Salvation Army in Tweed. The treasurer reported that over $19 was realized from the lunch provided for the Legion Dance recently. Arrangements were made for the holding of a lecture on "Personality and Dress" by Miss Eleanor Kidd, Department of Agriculture, Toronto, to be held in the community hall early in December. Mrs. George Hill gave a report from the Rest Room Committee. A motion that a letter of sympathy be sent to Mrs. Arnold Mitchell, Federation Rep. of the Area, in her recent bereavement.

A very pleasing duet "On My Way to Old Carolina" was given by Mrs. Leslie Ashley and Mrs. Hulin.

Reports of the Area Convention held in Belleville were given by Miss Vankleek and Mrs. K. Nicol. the delegates.

Miss Vankleek gave a very interesting talk on the United Nations Educational, Scientific, Cultural Organization (Unesco) dealing only with the Educational. It is to be hoped this talk will be continued. With a vote of thanks extended to the hostess and the speaker, the National Anthem closed a very interesting meeting. Afternoon tea was served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Ed. Phillips, Mrs. Hatfield and Mrs. White.

CATHOLIC WOMEN'S LEAGUE

Tweed.—The November meeting of the Catholic Women's League was held in St. Carthagh's auditorium recently with a large number of members present. The President, Mrs. Norman Champagne was in the chair.

The meeting opened in the usual manner with prayer led by Rev. Dean Garvin. Mrs. Oscar LaVallee read the treasurer's report, owing to the absence of Mrs. Fred Rivers.

Rev. Dean Garvin then addressed the ladies. He gave a very interesting account of his visit to Belleville and Marmora to see the statue of Fatima.

A cheque was given to Rev. Dean Garvin towards the cost of the improvements to the tower of the Church.

The meeting adjourned to meet again in December.

WHITE'S W.A.

Mrs. Cecil Jeffery was hostess to the members of White's Church Woman's Association on Thursday afternoon. The meeting was in charge of the President, Mrs. Walter Jones.

Mrs. Glenn Meyers presented the program and conducted a contest of which Mrs. May was the lucky winner.

The December meeting will be held at the home of the President, Mrs. Jones, with a dinner served at noon.

The hostess served refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

CENTRE W.A. ACTIVE

Gore.—Centre W.A. held a pot luck supper in the church hall on Friday evening to entertain the church choir, the members being seated at a head table where covers were designated by place cards. Following the supper the evening was spent playing crockinole, prizes being awarded the winners. High score prize was won by Miss Rhea Powers for the ladies, and by Leo Fox for the gentlemen. Consolation prizes went to Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Giles.

Proceeds are to be used in the purchase of new music for the choir.

Centre W.A. was entertained Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Burton Redner, when the time was spent in quilting.

NORTHPORT W.A.

Northport. — The November meeting of the W.A. was held at the home of Mrs. M. Lindsay on Wednesday. Mrs. M. White took charge of the worship service. Mrs. Kotchepaw gave an interesting reading on the hymn "Abide With Me" and the hymn was sung.

Mrs. W. Robinson read a humorous poem on "Good Financing".

A Scripture lesson was read in unison. Mrs. Cavinder closed the worship service with prayer.

Mrs. H. German then conducted the business session. It being the annual birthday meeting, each member gave one cent for each year of her life and a good sum was realized. The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction. Delicious refreshments were served.

3rd Hillier

3rd Hillier — Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Thompson attended the Winter Fair at Toronto during the past week.

The Hillier Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Chas. Benway on Thursday with a good attendance. Mrs. Collier, Hillier, and Mrs. Arthur Wannamaker, of Rose Hall, gave their reports on the convention held in Belleville recently when two new members joined.

Miss Joy Benway, of Albury, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Benway.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Preston spent Sunday with Mrs. Preston's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Forysthe.

Miss Ila Pritchard, of Belleville, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Pritchard.

Miss Greta Benway and friend, Miss K. Rashotte of Belleville, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Will Benway and Gordon.

The snow on Monday morning made things out-of-doors look like winter. Several of the farmers are finishing their ploughing this week although most of the plowing in this district is finished for the year.

Friends of Mrs. King Terry are pleased to hear of her return to health after being ill all summer.

3,500 JEWISH CHILDREN TO ENTER

Jerusalem, Nov. 25 — (AP) — Jewish agency sources said today that the Palestine government had agreed to grant Palestine admission certificates to 3,500 Jewish children, their parents and orphans under 18 now in detention camps in Cyprus. The certificates will be subtracted from the monthly admission quota of 1,500 over a period of months, the agency said.

Complexion Powders for Blonds

Many Different Types of Girls Are Classified as Blonds

Many different types of girls are classified as blonds. We visualize a pretty one with fair skin, golden hair and blue eyes. Yet complexions range from cream to gold and sallow tones. The eyes may be blue, brown, violet, grey or green. Hair shades range from the color of corn silk through varying shades to light brown shot with copper threads.

There is the true golden halo and there are amber tints. You will find the platinum crest that is almost white and the dead, hay-straw mop that is the result of overbleaching.

In the application of powder, rouge and lipstick, the color of the hair must be considered to a certain extent. Brunettes don't have to think of their hair; they seek powders that give a velvety fresh appearance to the facial coating and other make-up fixings that prove becoming.

The blond assumes a hard and brittle look when synthetic aids are strong or vivid, because they offer too great a contrast to her fair skin. No matter what type she may be, she must seek pigments that are delicate. She must apply them sparingly, especially cheek coloring. If she doesn't she will look a mess.

The true blond has a fine textured skin that is almost transparent. If she has natural coloring in the cheeks, a flesh-tinted powder is the happy choice. As she accumulates birthdays, the complexion may take on a creamier, more golden cast, in which event she will have to switch to a powder of ochre or cream tone and resort to factory blushes of faintest rose.

When it happens that eyelashes are light and skin is of medium tone, a girl may find it desirable to use an orchid powder, a delicate color that is not used as much as it should be. A burgundy lipstick will prove more becoming than a true red. For the lashes she will find help in a touch of mascara. Only a touch. It should be dark brown, never black.

It is so easy for the light-headed lady to make herself appear lithographic. We just aren't doing that these days. The exotic type is not in tune with the times. Women are busier than they ever were, striving to be capable. The baby-doll cutie belongs to a remote period.

The redhead has real make-up problems. Like the blond, she must soft pedal with beauty props. No synthetic coloring on cheeks or lips should detract from her flaming thatch, her greatest beauty asset.

Pleasant, Proper Gesture to Send Christmas Cards to Their Customers

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My wife and I would appreciate your advice about our sending Christmas cards. We together own a small grocery store and we both wait on customers. Therefore we know most of our customers personally and we are proud of the fact that they often speak of our friendliness and friendly service to them. Would it, under these circumstances, be correct for us to send Christmas cards to them? We don't want to do anything that will look as if we were being "commercial" in our greetings to them. We'd prefer not to send them any greetings if this would be a possibility.

J. and S.

Indeed it would be proper for you and your wife to send Christmas cards to your customers with whom you have such a friendly relationship. Since these people are already your customers, they would welcome your cordial greetings, I'm sure. And I'm sure too that they could not and would not misinterpret your greeting cards as "soliciting" customers, or as commercializing the spirit of Christmas.

Rehearsal Dinner May be Given by Bride's Godmother

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My godchild, whom I love very dearly, is to be married in several months, and I would like to make some special entertainment gesture as part of the wedding festivities. My husband has suggested that we be hosts for the dinner to be given before the wedding rehearsal in our own home or in our club, depending on the number of guests there would be. Would it be proper for me to suggest this to the bride-to-be and her mother, or must this party be given by the bride's parents or by the groom's parents?

M. C. T.

The dinner party given before the wedding rehearsal (or the supper party given after the rehearsal, if this is decided to be more convenient) is quite often given either by a relative or friend, and it would be a fine gesture for you and your husband to make to this beloved godchild of yours. I'm sure she'll be delighted at your thought!

Groom's Mother Should be Informed About Costume of Bride's Mother

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My son is to be married soon in the bride's church in a state quite a distance from here. The reception is to be at the home of the bride. If I am supposed to help receive the guests at the reception, should I wear a dress of formal length or a street-length dress?

C. M.

The bride's mother is the one who can answer this question, and a very important question it is. The point is that the groom's mother, who is the woman guest of honor, should wear a dress similar to that worn by the bride's mother, who is the hostess of the wedding. So you should get in touch at once with the bride's mother, and find out from her what type of dress she is to wear and thus the type of dress you should wear. Also, there should be a definite color-harmony in the two costumes. Remember that you, the groom's mother, are seated (by an usher) in the first pew on the right of the aisle just before the bride's mother is seated in the first pew on the left of the aisle; and that, at the reception, you and the bride's mother stand together in the receiving-line. Therefore it is important that your costumes should be of the same type, and in harmony with each other.

Fashion Flashes

MOSTLY it's feather trimming for the newest hats, so a flower-trimmed model is double welcome. Cocoa-brown fur felt is used for an off-the-face hat, with upstanding brim which is divided at the centre and filled in with tulips in ashes of roses and beige velvet.

ELEGANCE marks some of the new fur-trimmed cloth coats. Deep green broadcloth is used for a front-belted model that has a skirt flared in back. Mink for waist-length revers that wing out and for the softly rippled collar.

NO WORRY about winter winds with a hooded coat or a coat with a separate scarf-hood. Nice for youngsters, fashioned in colorful woolen — purple for the scarf, bands of pinky beige and dark green on the long scarf ends.

TOPPING OFF a fur-trimmed suit with a matching fur-trimmed glove is very smart, when the suit isn't over-trimmed. Gloves with mink tails forming a draped petal cuff flare, or with a triangular inset of leopard, or a cuff edging of ermine are cited as big sellers at a smart shop.

COLOR makes news in some of the best of the new frocks. Heavy silk crepe is used for a good afternoon dress — copper for the bodice, brown for the skirt, black for the midrif girdle that helps give a bolero illusion to the design. The bodice has a high, rounded neckline with a triangular tab of shirring; the skirt is slim with tucks for a peg line.

CAMPUS PET is a double breasted corduroy topper with a matching, plaid-lined hood and a skirt in plaided woolen to match the hood lining.

Four Women Inspectors Added To Customs Staff

Cornwall, Nov. 25 (CP)—Four women have been added to the staff of the customs offices here, it was announced today. They will begin their duties next week as examiners at the customs office on Roosevelt International bridge.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Everybody is Out of Step But This Girl

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 16 and like a boy of 19, but my parents have forbidden me to go out with him because he has a disposition that no one likes. I can't notice his faults, either, as I like him very much. He has asked me to be his girl, but I have refused because of my parents' attitude.

Now I find that I can't go out with other boys because he is always on my mind. Do you think I am right in not going with him because my parents do not like him?

"Undecided"

Dear "Undecided":

If nobody likes the disposition that this boy has, don't you think there must be good reason for his having won such universal unpopularity? Your parents undoubtedly can see the things in this boy that other people dislike and to which you are blind because of the fancy you have taken to him.

Yours seem to be a case of everybody being out of step but you. I suggest that you give some reasonable thought to the objections people have to this chap and then make a sensible decision about whether or not they are night.

A Sensible 13-Year-Old

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 13 and a freshman in high school. There are two boys who like me very much and I like both of them. My problem is that these boys want me to say which one I like best and then to go steady with that one.

I have tried to explain that I am too young to go steady and I don't want to. They think this is silly. The whole thing is making me miserable. Please tell me how I can make them understand that I like them both and would like to go with both of them, but don't want to be tied down to going steady with anyone.

"Right in The Middle"

Dear "Right in The Middle":

You are very sensible indeed to feel as you do about this matter, and I am glad that, at 13, you have such a wise head on your shoulders. Don't let any foolish boys turn it. Keep right on telling them what you know to be the truth—that you are too young for going steady.

If they can see your point, and both of them have good times with you, then I would not worry about them, but just let them go their way.

Making a Mountain Out of a Molehill

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have being going with a boy for seven months and he recently enlisted in the Army. On his first leave he came up to my house every day, but, five days before he had to go away again, he took my girl friend to the movies. I felt pretty badly, as he and I had been going steady.

When I mentioned it to him, he told me I had no reason to be jealous as it was me he loved, and that it wouldn't happen again and asked me to forgive him. He seemed so sincere that I told him I would forget the matter.

Now he is gone and I am wondering if I did the right thing. I have received affectionate letters from him but don't know whether to answer them or not. Should I go on believing him, or should I correspond with him, or should I give him up?

"Anxious"

Dear "Anxious":

Don't you think you are making a large mountain out of a little molehill? It seems foolish to me for young people to try to tie each other down so securely that they are unwilling for each other to have occasional good times with other girls and boys

If you don't know yet, you would be wise to learn as soon as possible that one of the best ways to hold a man is to let him feel that he is free to go if he wishes to do so. The more possessive women are toward men, the more likely they are to lose them. You will make a great mistake if you continue to brood over this trifling incident and if you break off with your friend because of it. You are likely to be the only one who will be really hurt.

An Alphabetical Problem

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Last May M. and I started going with E. and J. I knew them and we double-dated several times. Then M. wouldn't go with E. anymore. She had no reason to stop going with E. I still date J. and now M. wants me to try to get E. back with her.

I would like to know if I should try to get M. back with E. through J. Some people think I am too young to go with J. I do not go steady. I am 16 and J. is 19. My parents approve of me going with J.

Do you think I should stop going with J.? Do you think I should try to get M. and E. back together again? M. is 16 and E. is 18. I will appreciate your help.

"M. M."

Dear "M. M.":

I don't wonder you are confused. I am, too. And I am not at all sure that I can unscramble your alphabetical problem sufficiently to help you very much.

In any event, it doesn't seem to me like such a critical situation, and if I were you I would not waste any time worrying about "M" and "E." What they do is their own affair, and it is usually best to keep out of other people's business. If you like "I" and want to be friends with him, what any of your other friends do should have nothing to do with the matter.

Toronto, Nov. 25 — (CP) — Wider across the shoulders and with more curves where it counts, Winnipeg Blue Bombers will have the "new look" for the Dominion football final Saturday, coach Jack West promised today. That, he added, wasn't just the perennial optimism of the west talking.

For one thing, there'll be 13 different faces lined up against Toronto Argonauts this time than on the squad that lost to Argos, 28-6, in last season's Grey Cup final. Some of these are players from last season's team who did not make the trip in 1946 but the remainder, including four United States imports, are newcomers.

"We'll be bigger and faster and sharper than last time," said West, putting his 25-man squad through their second practice session at Hamilton, where they arrived from Winnipeg yesterday. "I think we have enough deception in our attack to throw a few curves too."

The handful of railbirds who watched the Bombers go through an outdoor scrimmage at Hamilton Athletic Association grounds yesterday, despite rain and snow, agreed that the team looked huskier than last season's light team. But they had to take West's word for it being faster, what with several inches of mud bogging things down.

West, who wasn't too impressed with the vaunted Argo line when he scouted their eastern final with Ottawa Trojans Saturday, conceded that Argo insides Bill Zock and Frank Morris "will outweigh our guards some 35 pounds." But his tackles would match Argo middles Steve Levantis and Les Ascott in poundage.

He figured that Johnny Westrum, a 215-pound end from the University of Minnesota, would top anything in size and match anything in speed that Argos could offer at outside.

Western is one of the four new U. S. imports that West counts on to make the big difference in Bombers. The others are backfielder Bob Sandberg, also from the University of Minnesota; Bob Smith, a 235-pound Negro tackle from Alabama, and Johnny Reagan, slender Negro half from Montana with a fine burst of speed.

In addition Bombers have a fifth U. S. import in Don Hiney, quarterback from last year's team.

JIMMY MCFADDEN AND TED LINDSAY DETROIT, MOVE UP

Young Players of Wings Only One Point Behind Scoring Leaders

Montreal, Nov. 25 —(CP) — Jimmy McFadden and Ted Lindsay, two prize examples of Detroit's youth movement, went to town in a scoring way last week as they collected nine points apiece as the Red Wings drove to the top of the National Hockey League standing.

Officials statistics released today showed McFadden and Lindsay with 19 points, one one behind the co-leaders, Montreal's Maurice Richard and Syl Apps of Toronto who each have 20 points.

Richard made his critics eat their words the past week when he almost single-handedly held the faltering Canadiens together while scoring four of the Habitant's five goals in their two-weekend contests. Although right near the top of the scoring parade so far this season, Richard had been criticized for "lackadaisical" play in recent games that Montreal lost.

Apps, last week's pace-setter with a five-point lead over Richard, could only pick one goal for his efforts in Leafs' last three games.

Tied for fifth spot are Elmer Lach of Montreal and George Gee of Chicago with 16 points, while Milt Schmidt of Boston, and Toe Blake of Canadiens come next with 15 points.

Lindsay and Apps lead the goalgetters with 11, and five players are tied for the leadership of the assists column with 10 each, Richard, McFadden, Schmidt, Blake and Don Gallinger of the Bruins.

A glance further down the list will show why Dick Irvin's defending champion Canadiens are currently wallowing in fourth place. After the punch line, Lach, Blake and Richard, defenceman Kenny Reardon is next highest Montreal scorer, in 47th place with five points.

Bucking Bill Barilko of Toronto is still the circuit's bad boy. The robust rookie has spent 51 minutes in the penalty box.

Boston's Frank Brimsek has the best record among the goaltenders. In 14 games Brimsek has allowed 28 goals for a goals against average of 2.00. Canadiens' Bill Durnan heads the shutout department with two.

Prayer is Better Than Honking Horn

New York, Nov. 24 — (AP) — Prayer is better than horn-honking in traffic tieups, Rev. Dr. Norman Vincent Peale said in his sermon yesterday at the Marble Collegiate Reformed Church.

Speaking on the general subject "How to rest in a restless age," Dr. Peale advised:

"The New York traffic problem would be solved if every taxi driver, bus driver and motorist would stop for a moment of prayer when the light changes at an intersection, instead of nervously honking their horns."

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

It was one of those cold raw November days, and the shabby little fellow shivered and drew his upturned jacket collar closer to his neck as he jumped off the slowly-moving freight. He jerked a worn grey cap down over his eyes, as he moved to the shelter of the coal chutes at the east end of the city.

• • •

Huddled in the shelter of a friendly pile, he pulled a cigarette from a crushed package and lit it with a shaking hand. He wore the unmistakable trademarks of the beak-busting fraternity. His nose was almost flattened close to his cheek bones. An ear was partly bulbous and of the cauliflower type.

• • •

There Harry Robinson, a friendly railroader discovered the little chap, and being more than passing wise in the realm of fistiana, drew the small hobo into conversation.

• • •

And thereby unfolded a tale that is all too common in the ranks of the once fistic great. It was the story of too much money; the inability to handle it and the lure of the bright lights and life.

• • •

For the shabby little hobo, was none other than the once great Patsy Wallace, always a "bridesmaid" but never a "bride" in the ranks of the world's best flyweights.

• • •

As he sat there in the shadow of the chutes, squatting on his haunches, huddling close to the piles for warmth, his more or less glamorous past in the ring passed before him in panoramic parade.

He told of his memorable fights with the late Pancho Villa who knocked out the famous Jimmy Wilde in New York in seven rounds in June, 1923, after losing the title the year previous to Frankie Genaro.

• • •

Wallace ground the cigarette butt into the ground. "Yeah," he said, "and I fought Wilde in Albert Hall in London. But my fight with Pancho Villa in Los Angeles was one of my best. I got three thousand for that scrap and had Villa down for the long count."

• • •

Wallace rubbed what was left of his nose. His face stretched into a friendly grin. "I'll never forget Villa as long as I live. He broke my nose—and it will never change". ....

• • •

Wallace relived in those few minutes of conversation, his fights with Bobby Ebber in Buffalo. He knew many of the fistic names of the United States and Canada mentioning Frenchy Belanger, Teddy Joyce George Fifield, Soldier Jones and others.

He saw the fight between the Soldier and the late Harry Greb. "That was a battle", he smiled, "but it was all over quickly when Jones made the mistake of calling Greb a dirty so-and-so. A minute later the Soldier was out colder than a mackerel."

• • •

The best fight Wallace saw in his life, he claimed, was the street brawl between Mickey Walker and Harry Greb. "Brother, how those boys went at it. It was one of the best slugfests I ever laid eyes on."

• • •

And there as the dusk fell over the scene, this worn-out little exfighter once more relived the scenes of the ring he loved so well. Now he is bald, with sparse grey hair fringing his pate. He claimed he had money "in the sock" if he could get down town. He refused an offer of financial help, for the Wallace pride though beaten, was not yet dead.

• • •

Wistfully, he mentioned the name of Jimmy McLarnin. "There was a real guy," he said. "Jimmy saved his money and is sitting pretty. As for me?", and he slowly rose to his feet and brushed a fleck of dirt from his well-worn coat. He was on his way 'over the hump' as he put it, and wanted to catch a west-bound freight.

• • •

He slowly walked into the gathering darkness, a slightly bent figure, stripped of the glamor and glory that once was his. Once a near world's champion, the toast of many cities, he has little left but the memories of the things that used to be.

• • •

Tonight, the Belleville Hornets and Point Anne will supply the first half of a prime set of hockey highlights when they clash in the first game of a District League double-header at Memorial Arena. Hornets will be at full strength but the Pointers are hard put to get a goal-keeper. They are bending very effort to secure the loan of one from another squad and if their efforts are successful, then they should give the saucy Hornets the battle of their lives. In the second half the Trenton squad meets Campbellford and this should be a ding-dong battle. Most of the boys have returned from deer hunting expeditions and from now in all teams should be at full strength.

The Belleville Intermediates will go through a stiff workout at the Arena on Wednesday evening from seven to eight in preparation for their battle with the Peterborough Legion led by none other than fiery little Nick Viterelli, once a thorn in the side of Belleville hockey teams. However, be that as it may, the Redshirts are requested to turn out at full strength tomorrow night.

It seems that a horse-player was giving a bookie a steady beating and finally the bookie collared the gent and said.

"Hey, you're doin' pretty good. Where you bettin' the information?"

The bettor insisted he wasn't getting any dope. "I'm just lucky," he said. "Why, you know how I bet? Just fold 'em up, and stick a pin through the entries, that's all."

"Yah, I now," grunted the bookie. "I suppose that accounts for those four-horse parlays you keep putting over.

The guy shook his head, "Oh no," he said, "for the four-horse parlays I use a fork!"

It was during World War II that this story of Midwestern football tradition came about. There were a lot of Japs on Iwo who had been educated in the United States, and they had a habit of yelling in true American accents at the Marines, thus fooling the Yanks into believing that they were friends and not foes. One Jap, fully armed, went running into a line of Marines yelling "Don't shoot. I'm from Ohio State." A Marine calmly drilled the Jap between the eyes. "And I'm," said the Leatherneck, "from Michigan."

In the clampdown on gamblers at Madison Square Garden several years ago, cops kept the lobby free of idlers and loungers. Ned Irish, the famous basketball impressario, wandered around the lobby checking up on the job the police were doing. A gendarme stopped him, and ordered him to get along.

"That's all right, officer," said Ned by way of explanation, "I'm Irish." "So am I, me bucko" said the cop. "But it don't matter nohow. Move along wid ye." Ned moved along.

LOU BOUDREAU STILL MANAGER OF THE INDIANS

Shortstop Signs Two-Year Contract at Substantially Increased Salary

Cleveland, Nov. 25 — (AP) — Cleveland Indians of the American League have retained shortstop Lou Boudreau as manager, which is what the fans of this baseball-minded city wanted.

Boudreau signed a two-year contract at a "substantially increased" salary during a conference with Tribe president Bill Veeck yesterday.

Neither Veeck nor Boudreau who at 24 succeeded Roger Peckinpaugh as Cleveland manager in 1941, would discuss the terms. Veeck did, however, tell questioners it "amounts virtually to a two-year contract" and explained if Boudreau were traded to another team which wanted him only as a player, the Indians would be obligated to pay Lou the equivalent of his managerial salary thru 1949.

Boudreau had sought a two-year contract from Veeck at the end of last season, when the tribe finished fourth in the American League. But Veeck refused, and the shortstop-manager left for home.

Veeck emphasized that he rated Boudreau at the top of the major league shortstops and that his only purpose in suggesting trading him to St. Louis Browns was to get pennant-winning talent for the tribe.

The fans' wishes, he promised, would receive the consideration deserved by supporters who pushed home attendance here to a record 1,521,978 last season.

Letters and interviews showed the fans wanted Boudreau to stay, and wanted him by a whopping majority.

New York, Nov. 25 (AP) — Seems the late Judge Landis started something he wasn't expecting when he gave Bill Cox the heave-ho as head of the Phillies in 1943 ... that started a string of club sales that will reach eight when and if the deal to sell the Cardinals to the Skouras Brothers goes through ... Bob Carpenter bought the Phils; then Branch Rickey and Co., started buying Dodger stock and since then the Braves, Yankees, Browns, Indians and Pirates have been sold. Anybody want a ball club?

LIVING HAPPILY

The business of living happily is synonymous with moderation—moderation in our attitudes, moderation in our spending, moderation in our personal habits.
And, when an occasion calls for the use of whisky, moderation in drinking.
For, as the House of Seagram has so frequently pointed out, along the path of moderation lies peace of mind,
the respect of our neighbours,
the confidence of our business associates,
security and happiness.

Men who Think of Tomorrow Practice Moderation Today!

Goalies Chosen ForRCAFOlympic Hockey Squad

(By The Canadian Press)

A corporal from Whitehorse in the Yukon who has been playing hockey since 1936 and a flying officer from Ottawa, have been chosen as the two goal tenders for the R.C.A.F. hockey team which will represent Canada at the Olympics next year.

One is Cpl. Ross King, 28, 155-pound former Portage La Prairie, Man., junior, and the other is Fo. Trev Williams, 28, 155-pounder who has been playing hockey in the Ottawa Valley since 1937.

Britain has named 55 swimmers and divers as potential representatives in next year's Olympics. The amateur swimming associations, which selected the candidates, have gone solidly for youth. Among those chosen are two 16-year-olds and two 1-year-olds.

Contracts for a world's welterweight title bout between champion Ray (Sugar) Robinson of New York and Chuck Taylor of Coalville, Pa., were signed yesterday. The 15-round match will be in Detroit Dec. 19.

Cliff Simpson of Indianapolis still leads American Hockey League scorers but Providence's Ed Prokop is closing in. Simpson, leader for the last few weeks, has 3. points, only one more than Prokop.

Toronto and District Football Association, in accordance with wishes of the controlling Dominion body, plans to absorb all territory west of the boundaries of London, east to include Peterborough and to take in North Bay, officials announced yesterday. All clubs in the proposed set-up will be asked to approve the extension of a meeting in Toronto Dec. 15.

Provincial Hockey League records showed today that Tony Demers of Sherbrooke Sa. Francois is setting the pace in the loop's scoring race with 23 goals and 18 assists for 41 points in 14 games. Team-mate Herbie Carnegie holds the runner-up spot with 33 points.

George Agar of Houston Huskies with nine goals and 23 assists for 32 points, is the United States Hockey League's leading scorer, the loop announced today. In second place is Paul Mundrick, also of Houston, with one point less.

Canada's hope in the Ladies' Olympic figure skating games, Barbara Ann Scott of Ottawa, will probably fly to Davos, Switzerland, about the middle of December to accustom herself to the altitude and open-air rinks before the trials in January, it was learned yesterday.

Charles E. Chown, 65, native of Kingston and a former president of the Canadian Rugby Union, died in Winnipeg Saturday. He had come to Winnipeg [illegible] years ago and for many years operated a manufacturer's agency there.

Livio Minelli, a speedy whirling dervish from Milan, Italy, blasted former lightweight champion Bob Montgomery's return to the ring at Philadelphia last night with a popular 10-round decision. It was his 103rd conservative victory as an amateur and pro.

Montreal, Nov. 25 —(CP)— It was news a few days ago when Conn Smythe, that energetic, unpredictable man of hockey, took over the presidency of Toronto Maple Leaf Gardens.

It goes without saying that Smythe, who saw active service in two world wars and has carried on scores of hockey feuds between them and since, is one of the outstanding figures in hockey today.

And those who seriously or with tongue in cheek have often delighted in lambasting in print the dynamic Smythe in the heat of the never-ending Montreal-Toronto National Hockey League rivalry are the first to acclaim him in his success.

Take Baz (Montreal Star) O'Meara, who recalls the days Smythe was "scrambling around seeking financial backing for his dream building" and writes in sincere praise:

"Connie never lost faith in hockey. What is more to the point, he never lost faith in himself. He knew where he was going at all times and he drove toward his goal in fierce, relentless fashion . . .

"One thing about him, he is a fierce competitor and hockey can't have too many of them. He may be tough, he may be even ruthless, but nobody can say he was ever dull or uninteresting . . . "

Elmer (Montreal Herald) Ferguson writes of his chat with Frank Selke, who for many years was associated with Smythe and the Leafs and now is general manager of Montreal Canadiens and their forum home.

Selke said the Gardens project looked too big for almost anybody except Smythe, who by his own sincerity talked many people into investing in it.

Selke told, too, of Smythe's luck, "which every man must have in some degree to be successful." There was the time Smythe desperately wanted a left winger named Watson of the old Varsity "Grads." Watson's family was determinedly opposed to him turning professional. Smythe piled $5,000 in $10 bills on his desk and let Watson feast his eyes on this "bonus for signing."

Watson, remembering his family, sighed and turned it down. But he offered to play with the amateur Marlboros and did so. It turned out he had lost his stuff "and quickly faded from the picture."

HAMILTON PATS DEFEAT REDMEN BY 8-4 COUNT

Brantford Has Failed to Register a Win Since the Season Started

(By The Canadian Press)

Brantford Redmen, intermediate A champions in last season's Ontario Hockey Association warfare, moved into senior ranks this year with most of their championship team intact. To date, however, they have failed to live up to pre-season expectations.

They lost their eighth game 8-4, to Hamilton Pats last night and their best effort in nine starts has been a tie. The records show them with 25 goals scored and 72 scored against them. And occupying the cellar position with one point, 14 behind the leading Toronto Marlboros.

The victory moved Hamilton Pats into fourth spot over the idle Owen Sound Mercurys and Stratford Indians who were previously tied in fourth place with seven points. It leaves five teams closely bunched for league titles with Marlie riding the top of the pack leading Hamilton Tigers by three points. Waterloo Flying Dutchmen are in third place with 10 points.

In the only game last night the Pats showed some of the power they were reputed to have at the beginning of the season, when veteran Doug Runions, for many years a Tiger, took over the Patricias as playing coach. A three-goal splurge in the third period was sparked by the Gaudette-Robinson-Clouthier line. Phillips starred for Hamilton with three goals. Gaudette scored two and Robinson, Long and comfort each netted one.

Zuk scored twice for the Redmen and Luckman and Hann clicked for the other two.

Alan McFater Wins From Mike Ambedean

Toronto, Nov. 25 (CP)— Alan McFater, showing complete disregard for the victory string chalked up by Windsor's Mike Ambedean, punched out a decision in a five-round co-feature boxing card at Maple Leaf Gardens here last night.

McFater was the aggressor throughout the five and Ambedean showed little desire to mix it with the classy McFater. He spent most of his time in reverse only opening up briefly in the fourth round. He ran into a flurry of lefts and rights, however, and quickly got back on his bicycle.

Davey Mitchell, of Toronto found a 10-pound weight disadvantage too great a handicap in the main bout and dropped a five-round decision to Don St. Louis of Cornwall.

Mitchell gave a good account of himself until the fourth round when he was rocked by a series of rights and lefts to the head. Though he made a game comeback in the final round, he couldn't build up a winning margin.

129 — Don St. Louis, Cornwall, won decision over Davey Mitchell, Toronto, five rounds.

147 pounds — Gus Rubicini, Toronto won decision over Nick O'Neil, Cornwall, five rounds.

145 — Billy Egan, Toronto won decision over Mike Zaduk, Guelph, five rounds.

160 — Steve Janicek, Toronto, won decision over Harry Ramies, three rounds.

Rome, Nov. 25 — (AP)—Two left-of-centre parties — hitherto cool toward the government of Premier de Gasperi — signified today that they might join forces with the Christian Democrat leader's Communist-beset regime in an effort to meet the "grave situation" confronting Italy.

This was the first time that the parties — Randolfo Pacciardi's Republicans and Giuseppe Saragat's Socialist workers — had indicated willingness to join a De Gasperi government which lacked Communists.

Pacciardi told reporters that "we are ready to commence negotiations for an arrangement for the formation of a government which can confront, under the best conditions, today's grave situation."

He said his party's aims were to "add our forces to that which the government already has" and also "to recall the Christian Democrats to their function of the defence of republican democracy."

Pacciardi offered conditional "collaboration on an emergency program until the elections" next March "to save the Christian Democrats from anti-Republican alliances and desperate positions."

Meanwhile the radical element whom the government has blamed for much of Italy's recent rioting continued to level attacks against De Gasperi.

Communist Leader Palmiro Togliatti, in an editorial in L'Unita, likened the Italian premier to Benito Mussolini in the early stages of his career.

Santa's Reindeer Killed by Hunters, Lament of Tot

Boston, Nov. 25 (AP)—A four-year-old wondered for a time Sunday how Santa Claus could make the rounds on Christmas Eve, now that his reindeer had been killed. Charles Crandell went into the woods last week and with several other men bagged six deer.

As they prepared to dress them, a little girl stopped, looked, and burst into tears.

"Now Santa Claus can't come," wailed the youngster, "you've killed his reindeer."

Woman Dies of Shock, Overcome by Smoke

Galt, Nov. 25 — (CP)— Mrs. Lyle Hunter, elderly Beverly farm wife, who was overcome by smoke when she went into the burning home of her son on a neighboring farm Sunday died Monday in hospital here.

Knowing her son and daughter-in-law were absent, Mrs. Hunter and her husband raced over to the burning house. The woman went in to see if she could save anything but dense smoke forced her out and when she got outside of the door she collapsed, apparently from shock.

The home, with all its contents, was destroyed.

The Kibitzer

To the wise who know, my strictest rules are a positive obsession. When I deviate they look at me with an oh-begone expression.

What you will read here today may disagree with your digestion of my rules. It comes from the way I bid the hand you see here:

♠ A Q J 10 9 6 4
♥ A 9 8 6 4
♦ None

This hand came to me on my deal and it looked mighty good. See the string of seven black pearls in spades, flanked are they by five ruby red hearts and a lone clover in clubs.

An opening of one shows five tricks, four high cards, two sure. With only three high, it is no one bid. You need a strong constitution and courage of your convictions to stand up under objections to this.

An opening of two in a suit shows nine tricks. With only eight, this is not a two bid. Muffle the desire to reach game with a force that will insist on getting there.

An opening of three in a major shows a seven carder or longer that can lose only one trump trick. With it must be a sure outside trick in a hand containing eight tricks.

All of which you find here. So, the correct opening is three spades. Almost always the correct responses thereto will produce the best final results.

However, with this particular holding, few responses to three spades will say a slam is safe. And until partner is heard from there is not even assurance of a game.

On the other hand, slam is almost certain if partner can open the bidding. Or freak distribution like mine may find somebody else with an opening. This hand could then back in profitably.

Despite these observations, any player who would not open this hand should have his head examined. I passed. Which is only part of my story.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Nov. 25 —(AP)— Film audiences are too critical, says Cary Grant . . . "They spend 64 cents," he said between takes of "Blandings," "and they expect perfection. If they bought a gadget for 65 cents they wouldn't expect as much from it. And it's the little things that upset people. For example, if there's a scene in which an article is mentioned having been manufactured in 1904, there's sure to be some guy in the audience who'll say: 'Heck, that wasn't until 1908.' After that, the picture is ruined for him."

Cary notes that people lately seem to think that English films are truer to life than the Hollywood product. But he scoffs at that idea.

"They think the characters are real," he said, "because they are new faces. If they saw those same actors as much as English audiences, they'd also have them typed.

"And so far as English scenes and wardrobe having that 'lived in' look. Well they are lived in. English producers can't afford to use new things for every picture."

Things I've Enjoyed Lately

Watching Jimmy Durante unveil his plaque in the Grauman's Egyptian Hall of Fame. Afterwards Jimmy went in to see the show, something called "This Time for Keeps." . . . The Olivia DeHavilland reception for Mrs. Elizabeth Gray Vining, tutor to Japan's crown prince. Mrs. Vining, a Quaker, discussed conditions in Japan and it was refreshing to see a Hollywood party dedicated to serious matters. . . Attending the Screen Publicist Guild's Panhandle Dinner at which Red Skelton, Bob Alda and others ribbed Hollywood's columnists. Also, Dore Schary delivered a serious talk which proposed that Hollywood can be publicized by other means than pictures of leggy chorus girls. . . . Listening to the Palladium's new band wit leader Elliot Lawrence, who is attracting a lot of interest . . . Hearing these listenable records: "Pass That Peace Pipe" by Beryl Advis or Margaret Whiting: "I'll Dance at Your Wedding" with Peggy Lee; Jo Stafford's "The Gentleman is a Dope;" Tommy Dorsey's "Whistler Song;" Tony Martin's "Begin the Beguine;" the Bugs Bunny album; "Things Money Can't Buy" by the King Cole Trio; and Perry Como's "Two Loves Have I."

Marmora Expects Spirited Election

Marmora (Special) — Through more than the necessary number of nominees qualifying on Saturday, electors of Marmora Village will go to the polls on Monday, December 1st., to decide who shall represent the village as Reeve and councillors for 1948.

Reeve R.E. Neal who has served in that capacity for two years was returned unopposed last year. Vincent Lynch who was defeated by Reeve Neal two years ago is opposing him again, with some years of experience as a former councillor like the present reeve, the fight will-be a stiff one, with no one feeling safe in forecasting the result. Of last year's councillors, Warden Chrysler withdrew from the contest. Ritchie Wells and Leslie Rundle are again candidates but a new councillor will be found to replace Thomas Dickson who moved to Oshawa some months ago. Three new aspirants are Fred S. Johnston, a councillor of several years standing of years gone by; John R. Reynolds and Major Percy Gray. The three public school trustees for two years were given acclamation, namely Donald P. Marett, H. A. Burwash and W. D. Lavender. Fred R. Wells was also given acclamation as Hydro Commissioner.

CHAPTER 7.

Kay was relieved. She knew how repugnant she must be to him in her present condition. It made a slight wave of release seethe through her.

In the next instant, however, she was again tightly bound to him, for he said, "Too bad to waste all these beautiful summer days in bed. Just as soon as you're able, we'll be married quietly—take a long trip. You lie here, dear, and think of places you'd like to visit. It shall be your trip.

Then he was gone.

Her trip! Her trip—with Hennington! The bondage of her heart, her life, had seized her again. He actually was planning to marry her in spite of everything. Oh well—perhaps it would all be for the best. If she didn't come out perfectly whole, who else would marry or even pretend to love her again?

Within a few days, Adele Sanders began intensive work on Chuck Nourse. He had joined the house party at the Thousand Islands, believing that Kay was to convalesce there. Adele had intimated as much. When a week passed and Kay had not appeared, he asked Adele point-blank, "What about Kay Millstrom? Didn't you say she was coming?"

They were sitting in a rowboat, which Adele had nosed into a cove hugging a quiet island's shore. If only Kay were here with him! Perhaps he'd been foolish not to attempt seeing her at the hospital, but when a girl was engaged to another man, insisted upon it, he hated thought it wasn't his place to interfere.

Adele slipped from her seat to sit close beside him. She gave a forlorn sigh, then her two hands went up and pulled his face down to hers. The boat tipped dangerously, and his arms instinctively went around her. The sickishly sweet taste of tangerine lipstick was on his lips as he disengaged himself from her embrace.

She sat beside him strangely silent for a long moment and nothing further happened. She smiled grimly to herself in the half moonlight and then slid back again to the oars. He would remember her kiss. She could bide her time.

"Oh—you asked about Kay!" she said softly, feigning embarrassment. "Good grief! She's so wrapted up in Henn Blare, she can't think of any one else! Her letters are full of him. It's the big love of her life. And love—"she added dreamily," is such—such a wonderful thing."

"It's a damned nuisance, if you ask me!" Chuck exploded.

Adele's musical laughter echoed across the darkly mysterious water.

"You sound as if you could tear love from limb to limb. As a matter of fact, if you loved a girl—oh, how you could love!"

"I repeat—love is a nuisance."

"Not—not your love," she said faintly, and reached out her hands to him.

As any gentleman should, he took them, found them pleasantly warm and soft. Immediately, she was beside him again, her head on his shoulder, her hand caressing his cheek.

"After that capital joke Kay and Webb played on you at the Junior League party, you'd better put her out of your mind, [illegible] cousin—I have your best interests at heart, you know."

"I can't believe Kay meant to be so—so unkind—but perhaps she did. It's certain I'm not her pattern of a man."

Adele laughed throatily. "Kay's too smart to love a poor man. Forgive me, darling for putting it so bluntly. But I grew up with her—I know her so well. All she wants is some one with a great fortune—like Henn."

"Possibly you're right. Anyway, Adele, you've been a great little pal to me. I thank you for that."

"And why have I tried to be—please ask me that."

"I—I hadn't specially thought of your reason. It came from your sweet, generous heart, I presume."

"Darling—why are you so blind? Cousins do fall in love—they even marry, you know." Her soft hair blew gently against his cheek.

"I—I hadn't thought of that," he said helplessly.

"If you like—you can think of it—from now on."

With that deep thrust at his inner consciousness, she slid abruptly from his arms and back to her seat at the oars. She had insisted upon rowing the boat tonight, bound to have her way with him in this secluded spot.

"Gad!" he thought, as the boat moved slowly back toward the Sanders' elaborately appointed camp. "Adele is sweet—but in a different way from Kay. I wonder if a man could be content—married to a woman he didn't love? Could constant association with her make him love her, in time'?'

On a day when Kay was feeling low-spirited, Cora came breezily into her daughter's hospital room accompanied by a tall, dark, good-looking stranger. Kay noticed that the warm dark gaze of this middle-aged man rested with fond approval on Cora, as if she were nothing short of his ideal.

"Kay, darling!" exclaimed Cora, in her most affected, high-pitched voice. "This is Horace Peek from Buenos Aires. You've heard me speak of him. We met three years ago on the Riviera."

Kay, now nearly free from bandages, looked straight into the blackest eyes she had ever seen. She immediately liked the owner of them.

He came beside her bed, took her hand in his firm one. In a deep, cultured voice, he said, "So glad to meet you, Kay. Knowing your mother has been one of the most delightful experiences of my life. Now, to know her lovely daughter gives be double pleasure."

"I can return that compliment, Mr. Peek," Kay said, with a short laugh. "Cora has made you out a superman. I was rather afraid you couldn't measure up to it—but now I'm inclined to share her opinion."

"Fine! Then we shall be friends. You must visit my home in Buenos Aires. You would enjoy the country."

"Yes, darling." Her mother was standing on the other side of Kay's bed now. She began smoothing back a few golden locks from Kay's forehead. "Horace and I—" she flushed becomingly, "We're going to be married."

"Your mother," he added soberly, bowing gallantly from the hips, "has done me that honor."

Kay's eyes filled with happy tears. Her beautiful mother would have security for her latter years, the devotion of a husband. "I'm so glad for you both," she said unsteadily.

Cora turned to Mr. Peek with, "Please Horace—let me have a word alone with Kay. If you won't mind waiting in the corridor—I'll join you presently."

"Certainly, my dear," he agreed instantly.

He gently lifted Kay's white hand to his lips, then left the room.

"It's too good to be true, isn't it!" gushed Cora. "I'm really very fond of him. Besides, now you won't be obliged to marry any man you can't tolerate. Hennington's such a bore. You'll never know, dear, how I've worried over you. I've been frantic because you were literally being forced into marrying him. Aren't you happy, my love?"

She leaned down and kissed Kay's flushed cheek.

A little line came between Kay's narrowed eyes.

"But Cora—All we owe Henn—makes it awkward. I can't go back on my word now—it wouldn't be sporting, would it? If we could only manage to pay what we owe him, it would be different."

"Listen, Kay—I have the whole business figured out. Horace is to give me a generous allowance. I'll send Hennington a little on account, now and then. Before you know it, the debt will be settled."

Kay looked doubtful. This beautiful, slightly frivilous mother of hers loved fine raiment too well to be able to pay any obligations from an allowance.

"Cora—you know you've never saved money—it hasn't been expected of you. You haven't the faintest notion of how to go about it."

Tears began abruptly to roll down Cora Millstrom's creamy cheeks, threatening to ruin her make-up. "I will save—I will from now on," she declared, "For your—your sake. I can't have you marrying Hennington, my darling. Can't you see—I can't have it on my conscience?"

"All right, dear—all right. Hennington Blare is out. Now—dry your tears and don't keep that fine man waiting. You're lucky, darling."

Kay's words had instant effect. Cora sniffed back further tears, opened her handbag, took out a lace-edged handkerchief, and dried her eyes. She found her compact, powdered and roughed her now radiant face. Financial perplexity, no matter how serious, never rested too heavily on Cora. For many years she had been such a petted, privileged wife that it took very little now to convince her all would go on as before.

A feeling of thankfulness encompassed Kay. She discovered that she had been far more concerned over her mother's future than her own. Suddenly she was filled with new courage. Clouds, which had only recently been grimly black, might now be lifting.

"I'm going to talk to Hennington at once—because Horace has to go home next week. Of course, I'll go with him, if you won't mind, dear."

"I'll be all right," Kay assured her cheerfully. "And please don't bother about Henn. I'll explain that you will reinburse him as quickly as possible. I'm sure he'll understand."

After her mother left, Kay began to do some intensive thinking.

"Mother's South American!" she exclaimed to herself. "I'm glad! I'm glad, too, that in her heart she regrets having forced me into an engagement with Henn. But poor Mummie need not have worried. I doubt if Henn is specially interesting in marrying me now. I'll be limping about, more or less, for weeks. Even though my face looks nearly normal, he'll be afraid my legs never will match.

"No—I won't be obliged to marry him. I wonder if I ever could earn enough to settle that."

Even after her mother's marriage to Horace Peek and their departure for South America, Kay found it difficult to break her engagement to Hennington Blare. He seemed to expect, now that her beauty was unmarried, that they should be married soon. He was continually urging her to see an interior decorator so that alterations could begin on the Lester house.

Kay put him off for the present, but agreed to go into the matter as soon as she was home again. There being no other place to go, she decided to return there and remain until she was physically able to see some kind of employment. What it would be, she had yet to decide. Yet she hoped she would be able to make good, but she was sceptical.

7 Trudge Barefoot In Falling Snow To Nearest Farm

Toronto, Nov. 25 — (CP) — Seven persons including two small boys trudged barefoot 700 yards amid falling snow to the nearest farm early Monday when fire extensively damaged their farm home at nearby King.

Roy Haines fought his way from the smoke-filled house with his sons Roy and Bruce, aged five and four respectively, who had been sleeping without pyjamas. Mr. and Mrs. Bill Beckett, living downstairs, also escaped.

"While my wife reached our baby, Doreen, I tried to shelter Roy and Bruce under my own pyjamas," said Haines. "Then we all walked barefoot to A. A. Emmett's farm."

$1,587,562 Left By Publisher Ottawa Citizen

Ottawa, Nov. 25 —(CP) — An estate of $1,587,562 was left by the late Wilson Mills Southam, former publisher of the Ottawa Citizen, it was disclosed yesterday when his will was filed for probate in Surrogate Court.

A legacy of $50,000 was left to Carleton College, Ottawa, while the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Ottawa, will receive the income from $30,000 for 10 years and the income from $12,000 for another five years.

A number of minor legacies, ranging from $1,800 down to $240, went to almost 30 institutions and agencies, mostly in Ottawa, but including $240 each to the Social Service Council of Canada, the Student Christian Movement of Canada, and the Ontario Temperance Federation, all of Toronto.

After a life interest to his widow, $50,000 is to be added to each of the trusts previously set up for the children of his two daughters with life interest for the two daughters, Mrs. Margaret Brinckman and Lady Brinckman. One-third of the residue is to be divided among his three sons, John D. Southam, D. Cargill Southam and G. Hamilton Southam and the remaining two-thirds of the residue is to be held in trust for the children of his three sons with part life interest to the three sons.

Ship's Steward Changes Story

Southampton, Nov. 25 — (Reuters) — James Camb, 30-year-old steward aboard the Union Castle liner Durban Castle, was committed for trial yesterday at the Hampshire Assizes at Winchester, charged with the murder on the high seas of a 21-year-old actress, Eileen (Gay) Gibson.

Camb told the court: "I am not guilty of this charge. I did not kill Miss Gibson. She died in the way I have described. My mistake was in trying to conceal what happened."

Detective Constable M. Plumbly previously stated Camb told him: "I cannot understand why the officer on watch did not hear something. It was a hell of a splash when she hit the water. She struggled. I had my hands around her neck and when I was trying to pull them away she scratched me. I panicked and threw her out of the porthole."

Last week Camb was alleged in court to have stated that after having been intimate with her in her cabin on the Durban Castle the girl "suddenly clutched me, foaming at the mouth." He tried to revive her by artificial respiration but threw her limp body into the sea after a watchman had startled him.

Miss Gibson, who had been appearing in a stage show in Johannesburg, was on her way back to Britain.

Tweed O.E.S. Instals Officers

Tweed (Special) — The installation ceremonies of Tweed Chapter O.E.S. was held at the Oddfellows Hall recently, when the new officers were installed for the ensuing year. The hall was beautifully decorated for the occasion. A large basket of mums and several large potted ferns, softly lighted by two large floor lamps made a perfect picture.

Visitors were present from Belleville, Madoc, Dryden, Toronto, and from all parts of the district.

The new officers installed were as follows: Worthy Matron, Sis. Mae Snare; Worthy Patron, Bro. A. Hounslow; Assoc. Matron, Sis. E. Fisher; Assoc. Patron, Bro. S. Dafoe; Sec. Sis. I. Coulter; Treas. Sis. H. Maynes; Conductress, Sis. E. Bowers; Assoc. Conductress, Sis. M. Graham; Marshal Sis. Emerson; Chaplain, Sis. M. Newton; Organist, Sis. M. Morton; Adah Sis. J. Snyder; Ruth, Sis. M. Kennedy; Esther, Sis. E. Credicott; Martha, Sis. A. Cotton; Electa, Sis. M. Edwards; Warden, Sis. B. Parks; Sentinel, Sis. J. Edwards.

Installing Officers

The installing officers were Mrs. E. Jordan and Mr. A. J. Snare, mother and husband of the Worthy Matron, who were assisted by Sisters E. Naylor, Hazel Wilson, Thelma Liddle, Elsie Harrison, Barbara Reed, Ross Fred Wilson and Everett Liddle.

Honorary Officers were Sisters M. Elliott, H. Barrager, E. Holst, L. Law, D. McGlashon, G. McEwen, W. Stirland, G. Baker, N. Clark, E. Stewart, I. Brown, B. Grills and Bro. C. Barrager, all of Belleville and Bro. A. Mouck, of Tweed.

Before her installation, Sis. Snare was presented with a beautiful bouquet of Red Roses from her mother, and Sis. Irene Brown very appropriately sang "Love Sends a Little Gift of Roses."

After the officers were installed, Sis. Snare and Bro. Hounslow thanked the installing board for their part, and the members of Tweed Chapter, who helped to make the evening such a success. Refreshments were served and the evening concluded with dancing.

Music was supplied by Miss Betty Snare, Alfred Hounslow and Arthur Snare. A chartered bus brought the large number of visitors from Belleville.

Police Demonstrate Christmas Spirit With Aged Shoplifter

Kalamazoo, Mich., Nov. 24.—(CP)— Police here have the Christmas spirit. Summoned to a store to arrest a shoplifter, they discovered the culprit was an 80-year-old woman. She admitted taking several Christmas cards and some face cream.

Questioned further, she said her only income was an Old Age Assistance Grant which could not be stretched to provide such things as greeting cards for friends. She yielded to the temptation of the face cream she said, in hope that it would "make me beautiful again".

While she waited forlornly for the law to do its worst, the officers conferred. They took her home and left some money—enough to buy all the Christmas cards she needs and plenty of face cream too.

Stirling

Mr., Mrs. G. Johnstone Honored by Stirling Friends

Stirling. (Special.)—Mr. and Mrs F. G. Pepperall entertained the staff of the local branch of the Bank of Montreal, at a dinner, last Friday evening, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Johnstone, who are leaving shortly to reside in Tweed, where the former has been transferred to be manager. The evening was spent in games, and the presentation of a pipe and lighter was made to Mr. Johnstone by Mr. Pepperall on behalf of the staff.

On Tuesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Johnstone were guests at a social gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Whitehead with Mrs. H. R. Tompkins and Mrs. Whitehead as co-hostess.

During the evening Mr. H. R. Tompkins expressed the regret of those assembled at the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Johnston, and family from Stirling and Mrs. J. S. Whitehead made the presentation of an electric table lamp.

Mr. Johnstone thanked the donors for their gift and extended a cordial invitation to their new home in Tweed.

"Miracle" of Material-Handling Equipment Described to Rotary

Some of the "miracles" of modern material-handling equipment were revealed in interesting detail to the Rotary Club on Monday by Rotarian A. Gus Freeman, manager of the Stephens-Adamson Manufacturing Company here, which specializes in the manufacture of this type of industrial machinery.

Reviewing the strides made by the industry since the turn of the century, Rotarian Freeman told the clubmen how his company undertook a "miracle" of material handling equipment installation along the Monongahela River in the United States.

The H. C. Frick Coal Company, a subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation owned substantial coal deposits along the banks of the river.

Adopting a novel method of mining, the company instead of sinking the shafts vertically as in the general custom, dug them horizontally into the banks of the river.

Nineteen huge endless belts were installed into the shafts which now extend into the banks some five and one-third miles. The coal was conveyed by these large belts to tremendous bunkers over the river. The actual elapsed time from the furthest working to the bunkers was 38 minutes.

Huge Quantity Handled

Up to the end of 1946, Rotarian Freeman said, these conveyors had handled 80 million tons of coal, the equivalent of 1,650,000 mining cars or a train sixteen miles long.

In Canada the Canadian Gypsum Company, a subsidiary of the United States Gypsum Company had its principal quarries near Windsor and Wentworth in Nova Scotia. Prior to the war, the quarried rock was loaded into small barges and transported to seaboard cities where processing was done. The amount hauled was meagre, due to the tides.

Later the company contemplated the usage of 11,000-ton boats but the problem was one of loading in two hours due a rise and fall of the tide. Solution was to have sufficient material on hand and the proper loading equipment.

The quarried rock was piled in huge heaps under which had been placed two belt conveyors 16 feet wide and 700 feet long. These conveyed the rock to radial stackers which had two booms, also belt conveyors.

This loading system, Rotarian Freeman told the company was originally designed to load 11,000 tons in two hours, but later the conveyors were so constructed as to load 7,000 tons an hour or two tons per second.

Two or three months ago, under exceptionally favorable conditions, 12,000 tons of gypsum were loaded in a boat in one hour and 45 minutes.

Profit for Customer

The policy of his company has been never to try to sell to a customer unless there is a profit to him as well, the speaker said. This policy has added to the good living enjoyed here and North America has the highest standard of living in the world.

"With all due respect to our magnificent fighting men, had Hitler used the production methods we had, he would not have permitted our boys to land overseas," the speaker said. "An investigating committee looking into German methods, discovered that although the German precision and other manufacturing systems were of the highest, material-handling methods were antiquated. They were using ideas which we, in North America, had discarded long ago."

As far as that much-maligned and abused word "profit" is concerned, Rotarian Freeman said that "we try to work for profit for those to whom we sell as well as ourselves." He decried the fact that people make conveyors to do a laboring man out of a job. "This is definitely not true," he concluded.

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Pinkston with club appreciation expressed by Rotarian Fred Chamberlain. President Alex Nathan was in the chair.

TRINITY SERVICES HELD

Marmora — The close of the Trinity season was marked with special services at St. Paul's Anglican Church on Sunday. The rector, Rev. J. M. Brownlie, officiated at both services. In the morning the choir rendered the anthem "Thine Forever, God of Love," by Bert Coupar. The rector gave a sermon on the opening words of the collect for the day, "Stir up, we beseech thee, O Lord, the wills of thy faithful servants." At the close of the evening service Rev. J. M. Brownlie motored to Belleville to conduct the Sunday Sanctuary service on the local radio station. Next Sunday, being St. Andrew's Day, there will be a corporate communion for the W. A. at the morning service.

Life Insurance Can Provide Most Effective Security Says LUA Speaker

"The present high cost of living, coupled with high taxes and low interest rates, forces us to only one conclusion," stated Mr. Harold Neville, field supervisor, Manufacturers Life Insurance Co., Toronto, speaking to the members of the Quinte Life Underwriters Association at their monthly dinner meeting held at the Chez Henri.

"Our money must be used in the most effective way and it is only by using life insurance dollars that we can guarantee an income for our families if we die too soon, and at the same time provide savings for our old age if we live too long. Life insurance is cheaper today than ever before," stated the speaker, "as the $50 premium which formerly could be paid by fifty bushels of wheat at one dollar, can now be paid by twenty-five bushels of two dollar wheat. In the same way, the laborer who had to work for two weeks at $25 a week can now pay his premium with one week's work."

Mr. Neville analyzed future business prospects for life insurance under the three major categories used by life underwriters—has he a need? can he pay? can he pass?

Many factors are contributing to an increasing field for life underwriting such as more Canadian families, birth of more children, growing rate of dependency due to longer life expectancy which means survival of more people for longer periods. There are now 2½ times more people over age 65 than there were 30 years ago and by 1980 this number will be doubled. Another factor is the increased number of urban dwellers who do not have the same security as the farmer who has his sons to carry on the farm.

Income All-Time High

Statistics show that the national income is at an all time high with a very definite trend to a better division of income. In 1929 there was 80% of families with an income under $2,000 a year. In 1946 this figure was down to 35%. There are more people who can afford life insurance than ever before.

Referring to the strides made in medical underwriting, Mr. Neville stated that great progress has been made and there are now thousands who are underwritten for insurance, either on standard or sub-standard plans, who previously had been unable to qualify because of medical reasons. Adding these factors up, a clear cut picture is given of a most favorable market which should be broadening over future years.

"However, we are far too complacent, as the forces of socialism and communism have their eyes on the nationalization of the life insurance companies and are waging an aggressive and skillful attack on this great state in the free enterprise system," said the speaker.

Freedom of Choice

In Canada today there is freedom of choice — the life underwriter may choose the company he would work for and he can choose the prospects he cares to call upon. The public has the same freedom and may choose to do business with any one of over 45 licensed companies operating in Canada. Quoting from the results of a recent Gallup Poll, the speaker showed that a large percentage of voters appear to vote for immediate selfish gain and do not realize that the C.C.F. party stands for nationalization of business enterprise.

"We have a tremendous responsibility in this matter," said Mr. Neville in conclusion, "the free enterprise system must be maintained and it's got to be sold to our people. Who can do it better than we can?"

P. C. McGuire, C.L.U., expressed the appreciation of the Association to Mr. Neville for his most informative address. A. A. Simmie was chairman of the meeting which brought together twenty of the local members and also three members of the Kingston L.U.A., headed by their president Mr. Ken Kennedy, C.L.U.

Milch Cows on Slowdown Strike Says Official

Toronto, Nov. 25. (CP)—The "biggest slowdown strike in history" is going on in Ontario and Quebec at the present time. J. A. Ballantyne, president of The Ontario Cheese Producers, yesterday told a directors' meeting.

"The strikers are not to blame," said Mr. Ballantyne. "They're all milk cows. They have begun no picketing, peaceful or otherwise. The farmers can't feed them as they should be fed and they can't produce the milk —they're drying up, that's all."

He said that "because the cost of feed has gone up from 50 to 100 per cent, the cows must go without oil cake and grains—they must exist on hay."

"You may be sure that if this keeps up every cow will give 1,000 pounds of milk less this year. That means about 2.35 billion pounds less milk for Ontario and Quebec and 2.35 million pounds less cheese.

"The cheese production for Canada will not be more than 140,000,000 pounds this year. Back in 1943 it was around 186,000,000 pounds."

The meeting passed a resolution which in effect asked Agriculture Minister Gardiner to grant cheese producers a share in the Federal government's $200,000,000 fair prices stabilization fund.

8-Inch Snowfall In Montreal Impedes Traffic

Montreal, Nov. 25 — (CP)—An eight-inch snowfall, the first one of the season, played havoc with traffic, caused at least two deaths, hampered fighting of several serious fires and resulted in general inconveniences for Montrealers last night and today as tramways moved at snail's pace while autos stalled on scores of hills.

Early this morning, a soft snow still was falling over the metropolis while the Dominion Weather Bureau reported that it would continue throughout most of today.

At the peak hour of 5 p.m. yesterday, some hills, like the vital Cote Des Neiges Road which cuts across the mountain, were impassable and traffic had to be re-routed around Mount Royal. Several cars were abandoned at twisted angles on steep slopes.

Workers were as much as two hours late in getting to their homes in remote parts of the metropolis.

About 15 miles from Montreal, on the St. Johns Highway, two persons, including Msgr. Armand Chausse, 62, Superior of the St. Johns' College, were killed in an auto collision caused by the slippery pavement.

Planes at Montreal airport were grounded after one p. m. and no airplanes were allowed to land. No planes were expected to take off or land before noon today.

Scores of fires were reported during the night, including three of serious proportions, one at the village of St. Vincent De Paul, 15 miles from Montreal.

One house was destroyed there and another one damaged before Montreal firemen and apparatus, called by the mayor of the village, arrived to give a hand to the local bucket brigade.

In Montreal, the two - storey building of Realty Supply Company, in the north-end was destroyed by fire while a similar building on downtown St. Peter Street, the property of Montreal Tinning and Retinning Limited, was heavily damaged by a blaze.

Japs on Trial For War Crimes

Hong Kong, Nov. 25—(Reuters) — The first Australian war crimes court opened Monday when Rear Admiral Tamura Ryukichi and five other men of the Japanese navy were charged with causing the massacre by "ju-jutsu strangulation" of about 23 Australian civil internees at Kavieng, New Guinea, in March, 1942.

The prosecutor said the crime was "diabolically planned, efficiently executed and thoroughly and deliberately concealed for a period of 18 months after the end of hostilities."

Hart, Clayton Clemenger; Sick Committee, Robert J. Scott and Cecil Holland; Auditors, Cecil Holland and R. Smith.

The appointment of Tyler will be made by the Master Elect and the installation of officers will take place at the December meeting.

Would Limit Visas

Washington, Nov. 25 — (AP) — A ban on admitting residents of Russia or Russian - dominated countries to the United States was proposed Monday by Representative Thomas Jenkins (Rep. O.).

Jenkins introduced a bill to prohibit the issuance of immigration or visitor visas to residents of Russia, Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria, Albania, the Ukraine and Byelo-Russia and to restrict issuance of non-immigration visas to Soviet officials.

The non-immigration visas would be limited to the same number issued by Russia or its satellites to United States officials.

ROMANIA REJECTS NOTE

Bucharest, Nov. 25 — (AP) — The government of Romania has rejected a United States note protesting charges made during the recent treason trial of former Premier Juliu Maniu that U. S. officials plotted to overthrow the Bucharest government. The American note said the charges were based upon "political motivation and insincerity."

Wallbridge

Wallbridge — Church service here Sunday morning had a fair attendance and those who were present heard a good address on the subject, "Counting the Cost." Things that are really worth while in life are not gained easily. A musical education takes many hours of training and a good character is not gained quickly.

The teacher and pupils had a holiday, Princess Elizabeth's wedding day.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Harris were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pound, Cannifton.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Millar and family, Centralia, are visiting the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Sine.

W. A. Bazaar

On Wednesday evening Wallbridge W. A. sponsored a successful tea and bazaar at the school house. A good program of vocal and instrumental music was given, following which lunch was served in cafeteria style. A large assortment of useful articles were offered for sale and were nearly all disposed of. Proceeds were quite gratifying to the society.

Mrs. M. Reid, Belleville, visited her daughter, Mrs. Mac Clare on Wednesday.

Canada Voting For Partitioning Of Palestine

Ilsley Declares It Best Of Four 'Alternatives'

By ROSS MUNRO
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, Nov. 26 —(CP)— Justice Minister Ilsley declared today that Canada is voting for the Palestine partitions because it is the best of four "unattractive and difficult" alternatives but does so with "heavy hearts and many misgivings."

Addressing the General Assembly of the United Nations, Ilsley said: "No responsible delegation could do otherwise after listening to the threat of reprisal and all the talk of fire and sword which we have heard from both sides to this controversy."

The head of the Canadian delegation said it would be "folly" to assume that "there would be any less likelihood of disorder if any of the other alternatives to the Palestine partition were adopted."

The alternatives were first for the Assembly to do nothing, second to establish an independent Arab state, third to create a Federal state and finally, partition.

In the judgment of the Canadian delegation, this likelihood of disorder in the case of the alternative settlements to partition "would be not less, but greater."

"The fact that after 25 years of international action in relation to Palestine, culminating with months of consideration by the General Assembly of the U.N., we should find ourselves in this atmosphere of acrimonious recrimination is a melancholy one . . ."

25 to 13 Vote

The 57-member Palestine committee yesterday at Lake Success aproved the partition of the Holy Land into independent Jewish and Arab states by a vote of 25 to 13, with 17 states abstaining and two absent. Canada voted for partition.

But this was only a curtain-raiser to the showdown decision in the Assembly, which requires a two-thirds majority of members present and voting, while the committee only needed a simple majority.

The decisive vote on partition may be taken during the day by the Assembly sitting at Flushing Meadow, with meetings called for morning, afternoon and evening.

But there might be a last-ditch fillibuster by the Arab states, which fiercely oppose partition and threaten a racial war in the Middle East if it is approved.

This fillibuster could delay the partition ballot until Friday or Saturday — end of the 11th week of this U. N. session — for there will be no meetings on United States Thanksgiving Day, tomorrow.

Will be Accepted

Canada's L. B. Pearson, the architect of the compromise which brought the United States and Russia together on the partition plan, cautiously forecast before he left for Ottawa last night, to resume his duties as under-secretary of state for external affairs, that he believed partition would be accepted with a margin of a few votes.

Other backers of partition, welcomed by the Jews who want their own state in Palestine, agreed with Pearson that there probably will be several members who abstained in the committee vote who will vote for partition in the Assembly.

POLICE SEARCH FOR OTTAWA MAN IN LOVE MURDER

Letter Found Admits Slaying of 34-Year-Old Divorcee in Montreal

Montreal, Nov. 26 — (CP)—Police here and in Ottawa today pressed their search for a 34-year-old Ottawa man who they said admitted in a letter that he strangled a 34-year old divorcee "because nobody will have her if I can't."

The body of the victim, Mrs. Tillie Deprato, was found last night in her lover's room by detectives alerted by a letter sent to her sister in which the man, identified by police as Sylvio Albert of Ottawa, told her of the slaying.

The detectives had to smash through a door to get into Albert's room in a Chambord Street home where they found Mrs. Deprato's body fully-clothed and wrapped in a blanket.

There were two more letters in the room as well as several notes scribbled on the back of photos and on scraps of paper in which Albert, writing in poor English, spoke of his great love for her and said that he was too jealous to stand by while she went out with other men.

Police said that one note signed by Albert indicated that he also planned his own death. The note, apparently meant for police, simply said: "You will find us here together."

It was Montreal's third love strangling since last February and in both other cases the murderers identified themselves in notes to police left near their dead sweethearts. Each was found guilty of manslaughter.

Mrs. Deprato, estranged mother of a 16-year-old boy, was killed sometime before 9 p. m. Monday, police said, and her body was found nearly 24 hours later.

The body might not have been discovered yesterday if her sister had not provided detectives with the letter she had found in the doorway of her home. The letter was addressed to the sister with whom Mrs. Deprato lived.

Prime Minister King Sees Signs U.K. Improving

London, Nov. 26 (CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King bade farewell to Prime Minister Attlee and other British government officials in Waterloo Station today as he set out on his return journey to Canada and told The Canadian Press in an interview that "I could go home with a glad heart if there were no clouds of instability over Europe.

"I hope and pray for the success of the foreign ministers meeting which opened here yesterday."

This has been a happy visit, the Canadian leader added. He arrived in Britain Nov. 7 to attend the Royal wedding and visit France, Belgium and Holland. Today he went by train to Southampton to board the liner Nieuw Amsterdam.

"I think things here are improving. The people are showing a great spirit of determination. The British people have displayed the warmest friendship towards Canada and on leaving I would like them to know that that feeling is fully reciprocated in Canada."

The two prime ministers, both wearing black homburgs, chatted on the chilly station platform beside the train. Both posed for photographers as they parted and the Canadian leader thanked Attlee for courtesies during his visit when the two held frequent talks.

After he drove into a filling station and voiced this complaint an attendant found a Persian cat huddled on a shock absorber.

Girls Who Type Bosses' Letters Now Pound Out News for Papers

Chicago, Nov. 26 (AP) —The girls, who ordinarily type their bosses' private letters now are pounding out the news for the Chicago area's millions of newspaper readers.

Typists gained an unprecedented importance on the city's six big dailies when the papers' 1,500 printers went on strike.

All the papers were prepared for a possible work stoppage and were ready with a substitute photo-engraving process for printing the news.

Ordinarily, when copy is written and edited in the editorial room of a newspaper, it is sent to the composing room to be set up into type. Under the photo-engraving process it is sent to a battery of typists equipped with ordinary or electronic typewriters.

They copy the stories on a piece of white paper ruled to 1 or 2 columns wide. Columns of copied news then are sent to the art department and pasted on a dummy page. The headings are of a thin photostat type of cardboard base set by hand and held in place on the dummy page by transparent tape. Prints of photographs are placed in their assigned spots on the dummy page.

Then the entire dummy page is reproduced by photo-engraving and sent to a stereotyper who makes the mats and then the semi-circular leaden plates for the printing presses.

Most of the newspapers said they expected to meet circulation schedules, but that the number of editions or replates of editions would be held down.

In a front page box, the Chicago Herald-American announced:

"We who are engaged in producing this new kind of newspaper find it a fascinating experiment. We will keep changing it as we learn and we will keep improving it.

"It interests us and it interests you, because you may be looking now at the newspaper of the future."

STEEL CONTROLS MAY BE EXTENDED BEYOND MARCH 31

Ottawa, Nov. 26 (CP). — The government's program for saving United States dollars through expansion of Canadian industrial facilities will probably include extension of steel controls beyond their expiration date March 31, it was learned today.

Controls on steel and a number of other materials are authorized under the Transitional Powers Act but it is expected that when parliament opens next month Reconstruction Minister Howe will place before the Commons a new bill which will continue steel and certain other controls, such as domestic rents, under new authorization. Details of this plan are still being worked out through consultation with industry.

Canadian steel production now is being kept at a peak by controls which require various plants to handle the particular production jobs for which they are best suited. Should they be permitted to revert to their own programs, it is estimated steel production, a basic factor in Canada's dollar saving program, would drop 25 per cent, necessitating larger imports from the U.S.

Timber control also is being mentioned as one of the restrictions likely to stay. At present hardwood is not under control, but softwood is controlled.

Gouzenko Story Told in Court At Boyer's Trial

Montreal, Nov. 26 (CP) —The third trial of Dr. Raymond Boyer, charged with conspiracy to violate the Official Secrets Act, continued today with Igor Gouzenko, 28-year-old former Russian cypher clerk who warned the Canadian government of the existence of a Soviet spy ring, expected to take the stand again probably for the last time.

The short, square-shouldered Russian appeared in court yesterday flanked by R.C.M.P. plainclothesmen, and he told once more the now-famous "Gouzenko Story."

Boyer is the last of those charges as the result of the Royal Commission investigation of Russian espionage, to undergo trial. His first trial ended when the jury disagreed while the second came to an end when one of the jurors became ill.

Step by step, Gouzenko wove before Mr. Justice Wilfrid Lazure, who is presiding at the trial and the French speaking jury, the fabric of a plot which turned out to be one of the most sensational international spy exposes of the post-war era.

He explained the cover names of persons mentioned in one of the documents he took away with him when he fled the Russian embassy to report to Canadian authorities.

One of the cover names "Debouz" referred to Fred Rose, former Member of Parliament for Montreal Cartier who now is serving a penitentiary term for his part in the spy ring.

Another of the cover names referred to Dr. Boyer he told the court before the hearing was adjourned until today.

Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, and Princess Elizabeth wave to admirers as they stroll in the gardens of Broadlands, near Romsey, Eng., where they are spending part of their honeymoon.

Film Industry to Purge Ranks of Disloyal Groups

New York, Nov. 26 — (AP)— Top executives of the United States film industry voted yesterday to purge their payrolls of any known members of subversive groups and simultaneously ordered suspension of 10 Hollywood figures recently cited for contempt of Congress for their refusal to state whether they were communists. One of the 10 is Canadian-born.

The action, announced by Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, brought immediate protests from the 10 under citation who accused the producers of "rushing into this action before the issue . . . has been heard by the courts."

The producers' action, decided by unanimous vote, was announced at the close of a two-day session attended by 50 representatives of major and independent studios. They also called on Congress to enact legislation to help all American industry "rid itself of subversive, disloyal elements."

The 10 suspended are Edward Dmytryk, a native of Grand Forks, B. C., and a Hollywood director; Robert Adrian Scott, writer and producer; Herbert Biberman, director-producer; and Albert Maltz, Dalton Trumbo, Samuel Ornitz, John Howard Lawson, Ring Lardner, Jr., Lester Cole and Alvah Bessie, Writers.

Four Survivors, Three Dead Found On Wrecked Ship

Ketchikan, Alaska, Nov. 26 — (AP)— The Coast Guard reported today it had found four men alive and three dead on the bow of the army transport Clarksdale Victory, which was smashed on the rocky beach of Hippa Island.

Capt. Niels Haugen, commandant, said the searching party did not report finding any trace of the other 44 crew members of the ship and prospects of their survival "don't look very good."

He said combing of the beach and the wooded section of the rugged little island had failed to disclose any trace of survivors ashore despite aerial observers reports that they sighted three men on the beach yesterday.

Two coast guard planes sighted what appeared to be three survivors from the battered ship early in the day yesterday, and dropped medical and other supplies. Only the bow section of the battered 10,850-ton ship which went aground Monday night remained on the beach.

A radio message from Capt. Ben Aspen, master of the steamship Denali, first vessel to reach the wreck, said he could hardly see "how it would be possible for any living person to survive." The Clarksdale Victory had been broken in two at the No. 3 hatch, and no part of the bridge, amidships or aft end could be seen.

A coast guard plane will also join the search efforts at daybreak today, flying from the base here, Haughen said. R.C.A.F. planes also have participated in the search.

The searching planes yesterday reported they saw the men below seize the medical supplies dropped and run into nearby woods, as though taking them to other survivors.

12 Polish Veterans Being Sought

Ottawa, Nov. 26 (CP).—Arthur MacNamara, Deputy Minister of Labor, announced today that the government's national employment service is attempting to trace 12 Polish veterans now missing from their places of employment.

The men were among the former members of the Polish army brought to Canada to work on farms.

"The 12 men have left their places of employment without making application to the Employment Service and it is believed that their purpose is to seek non-agricultural work," said Mr. MacNamara. "Employers are being asked to report any cases of the 12 missing men applying for non-agricultural work."

Monarch, Movie Comedian Engage In Banter

London, Nov. 26 —(AP)— The King watched speculatively last night while comedian Bob Hope ran through the pages of an autograph book which was Hollywood's wedding gift to Princess Elizabeth.

"He's looking for his own picture," the Monarch quipped.

The King traded wisecracks with the British-born comedian at the Royal Command Performance of "The Bishop's Wife."

Their exchange — and the personalities in attendance — stole the spotlight from the film itself.

The picture, exempt from the new 75-per-cent British tax on American films because it was shown for the benefit of the Cinematograph Trade Benevolent Fund, raised £25,000 ($100,000) or more from the 2,000 persons who paid up to $210 for seats. It will be shown tonight at a Liverpool benefit, but the British public in general will not get to see it because of the tax situation.

The press commented sparsely on the picture. Commentators were more interested in the fact that 17-year-old Princess Margaret appeared in public with young King Michael of Romania for the first time at the performance, and in the King's exchange with Hope, Hope handed the album of signed photographs to Princess Margaret, to be delivered to her elder sister. The King asked whether Bing Crosby's autograph was in it.

"Yes," Hope replied. "He put three crosses. You see, he can't write."

Queen Elizabeth smiled.

Among those featured in the stage show at the Command Performance were screen stars Robert Montgomeryy, Loretta Young, Alexis Smith and her husband, Craig Stevens, Carole Landis and David Niven. The theme was British-American fellowship.

Police restrained a crowd of 4,000 Londoners who delayed the Royal Party briefly en route to the theatre.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, Nov. 26 (CP)—Synopsis: Air of polar origin continues to flow southward over all of Ontario. Snowflurries persist over all of Southern Ontario. A storm centred in Northern Saskatchewan is moving southeastward and is expected to cause snow to fall over the southern sections of the province late Thursday afternoon and evening. The weather map this morning gives no indication of warmer air over Ontario for the next few days.

FRANCE EXPELS 19 RUSSIANS FOR INTERFERENCE

Identified as Members Soviet Patriotic Union

Paris, Nov. 26. (AP)—The Interior Ministry announced today the expulsion from France of 19 Russians for "interference in French affairs" during the current labor crisis, which erupted in new violence as police and strikers battled in the streets of Lyon.

The announcement identified the Russians as members of the "Soviet Patriotic Union" and said they included the president, the treasurer and two secretaries-general of the organization.

The 19 were taken by bus to an unstated frontier, and put across the border, the Ministry said.

National Security Police inspectors swooped down on the homes of the Russians Tuesday morning and a few hours later drove them by bus to an unannounced destination, believed to be the Soviet Zone of Germany.

Strive to End Strike

The action came as the new government strove to end the spreading strikes in France.

The Interior Ministry said the four expelled officers of the Soviet Patriotic Union were President Katchva, Treasurer Krivochine and Secretaries General Dmitri Kobalev and Alexander Palevov. The announcement said most of the group formerly were White Russians who became Soviet citizens after France was liberated.

C. of E. Synod Office Damaged At Kingston

Kingston, Nov. 26 — (CP) — Fire of unknown origin did extensive damage early today to an office building occupied by Anglican Synod Diocese of Ontario here. Office of T. J. Rigney, Frontenac Crown Attorney, and Hugh Gibson, solicitor, directly over the Synod office, suffered considerable smoke damage. All documents and records were saved.

The fire which originated in the basement, was brought under control in about one hour. Fire Chief V. C. Brightman said the fire had been burning for some time before being discovered.

Rt. Rev. John Lyons, Bishop of the Diocese of Ontario, and Canon L. E. Davis, who were quickly at the scene of the fire, praised the work of firemen.

FORMER WARDEN REEVE

Kingston, Nov. 26 (CP).—J. P. O'Shea, former Warden of Frontenac County, was elected Reeve of Wolfe Island by acclamation last night when three other nominees, including Reeve Craig Russell, did not qualify.

D. MacGregor of Harlowe was acclaimed as Reeve of Barrie Township while Lionel Scott and Donald Kirk will contest the Reeveship of Kennebec Township.

Century-Old Picton Church Gutted by Fire, Loss $75,000

St. Andrew's Church Records, Vestments Saved

Picton, Nov. 26 (Special) — Flame-scarred walls enclosing smouldering ruins marked the spot here today where once stood proud 105-year-old St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

The honored landmark of this Prince Edward County town was gutted by fire early this morning with a resulting damage estimated at between $50,000 and $75,000.

Nearly everything within the edifice was destroyed or ruined by the flames with the exception of the vestments and church records which were saved when the Rev. Peter B. Reid, minister of the church, dashed into the blazing building and groped his way through dense smoke to the place where the church documents were kept. Members of the congregation succeeded in extricating a few pieces of furniture. The electric pipe organ was ruined.

Faulty Wiring Thought Cause

The fire, believed to have originated from faulty electric wiring, started in the front of the church, according to reports from the scene. Apparently fanned by a draft from the entrance the flames swept rapidly into the balcony and from there to the turreted belfry.

From there they raced along the roof and within a short time the entire top of the church was a blazing mass.

Crowds of residents rushed to the scene in the wake of the Picton Fire Department. Augmented by members of the Royal Canadian Artillery unit stationed here, the volunteer firefighters made heroic efforts to reduce the blaze, but this proving futile, directed their attention to the successful saving of the nearby manse and other structures.

Had Made Inspection

David Sayers, caretaker of the church, stated that, as had been his custom of the past few weeks, he had inspected the structure shortly after one a.m. and found everything in order.

Extensive redecoration of the entire auditorium of the church had just been completed, with members of the congregation assisting craftsmen with the job. Pews had just been replaced in position, in preparation for the official re-opening of the church next Sunday.

Previous to the fire, services had been held in the basement of the church. Members of the Anglican congregation of the town have offered St. Andrew's congregation the use of the parish hall of the Church of St. Mary Magdalene until a new church is erected.

Built 105 Years Ago

The ill-fated edifice was built 105 years ago and was of solid brick structure. St. Andrew's officials believe that the sturdy brick walls were largely instrumental in the prevention of the spread of the flames to nearby buildings. The church replaced a frame structure built nine years previous, or 114 years ago.

St. Andrew's officials and members of the congregation will hold a special meeting on Friday night to discuss plans for the rebuilding of the church.

W.E.N. SINCLAIR, FORMER LIBERAL LEADER, DIES

Served as Oshawa Mayor and Has Been Member for Ontario Riding

Oshawa, Nov. 26 (CP).—W. E. N. Sinclair, K.C., former leader of the Ontario Liberal party and member of parliament for Ontario riding, died at his home today after a lengthy illness.

William Edmund Newton Sinclair, 74, was mayor of Oshawa in 1910, 1911 and 1915 and was first elected to the Ontario Legislature in 1911, becoming Liberal party leader 12 years later.

Succeeded by Mitchell F. Hepburn in 1930, he retained House leadership for four years as Mr. Hepburn, a member of the House of Commons, had no seat in the Legislature.

Mr. Sinclair retained his seat in the 1934 election which returned Mr. Hepburn as premier but was not named to a cabinet post and did not stand for re-election in 1937.

He returned to politics in 1945 and was elected to the House of Commons, for which he had been an unsuccessful candidate in 1917.

As Ontario Liberal leader, Mr. Sinclair was prominent in the fight to sustain the Ontario Temperance Act, virtually a prohibitive liquor law, which was backed by a plebiscite in 1919. Over Liberal opposition, a second plebiscite was held a few years later in which the act was sustained by a reduced majority.

Conservatives Returned

Pressure mounted for repeal of the act and the Conservative government of Hon. G. Howard Ferguson fought the 1926 election on a platform of government control and sale of liquor. Despite disagreement in his own party, Mr. Sinclair opposed the Ferguson policy. However, the Conservatives were returned with loss of only three seats.

Born in Whitby Township of pioneer Canadian stock, he graduated from the University of Toronto in 1896.

On completion of his law course Mr. Sinclair began practising in Oshawa, where he received his appointment as King's Counsel in 1922.

He was married in 1907 to Miss Ella M. Montgomery, who died the same year. In 1918 he married Miss Edna Morton, who survives. Other survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Allen G. Talbot of Brownsburg, Que., and a brother, Rev. N. R. D. Sinclair of Barrie, Ont.

The funeral will be held Friday with interment in Oshawa Cemetery.

Newest Penal Institution Unfolds Many New Angles in Penology

Monteith, Ont., Nov. 26 (CP) —A unique experiment in penology is taking shape at Monteith jail farm, Ontario's newest penal institution in the heart of Northern Ontario's timber and mining country.

Experts believe the experiment here may lead to the reform of every penal institution in Ontario. Based on the philosophy that no man is entirely bad, it is founded on the theory that with just and humane treatment all but the most hardened criminals can be returned to society as useful, honest citizens.

Here are some of the features here which make the jail unique:

1. Guards are unarmed. In fact, there is not a firearm on the premises. There are no billies for the use of guards.

2. There is no fence around the jail.

3. Many prisoners wander about the grounds virtually at will. Unescorted and free to escape any time he pleases, one prisoner runs a tractor half-a-mile from the nearest guard. Jail trucks manned by prisoners run up and down the road without a guard accompanying them.

4. The food is good, living quarters are cleaner and more comfortable than in most jails.

"I'll admit things seem a little unusual here," said Superintendent D. R. Whyte, a former sergeant of guards at Burwash reformatory near Sudbury, who inaugurated the present system.

"We have already established at least one record in Canadian penal history. Not one man has been charged or penalized for any reason during the period the jail has been operating."

The jail, 40 miles from Timmins, opened last May.

"Repeaters in crime are often bred right in our jails," said Mr. Whyte. "When a man gets harsh and inhuman treatment when in confinement, he is prone to turn against the entire world . . . he winds up in trouble again in short order."

Sunlight floods through big windows at the jail, walls are a cheerful light green and floors are highly polished. Prisoners work a standard eight-hour day. There are radio loudspeakers in each dormitory and these stay on until 10 p.m. However, on hockey nights, the radio remains on until the game is over.

COUNTY COUNCIL CONVENES TUESDAY

With important business on the agenda the Hastings County Council will convene for its annual December session in Shire Hall on Tuesday, Dec. 2. The session will mark the final sitting of Warden A. A. Harvie in the chair.

SHANNONVILLE MAN SUFFERS INJURIES

William Stratton, Shannonville, suffered a nasty cut on his head Tuesday evening when stepping off the curb at the corner of Dundas and Burnham streets he walked into the side of a passing truck and was knocked to the pavement. He was later admitted to hospital for observation.

Williard Pierson, driver for Keyes Supply, was driving on Dundas Street when it is reported Stratton stepped from the curb and walked into the side of the vehicle.

Three other minor accidents were reported to police during the day, all resulting in only minor damage and caused through slippery streets.

PARENTS HONOR MARRIAGE OF SON

Tuesday evening the home of Mr. and Mrs. Newton Wilson, 8th. concession of Tyendinaga was the setting for a gala event, when they were "at home" to approximately forty-five guests at a banquet in honor of the marriage of their son, Mr. Rodney Wilson, and Miss Luella Anderson, of Winnipeg.

Entertainment during the later evening was provided by games of euchre, and the guests departed wishing for Mr. and Mrs. R. Wilson many years of wedded happiness.

Police Blotter

Report of a hotel room being broken into and a radio, articles of clothing and a club bag being stolen was received today by local police. Herbert Sherwin, Toronto, stated he had a room at a local hotel and returned to find the room ransacked and the above articles stolen.

The Conger Coal Company reported their yard office entered and a number of wrenches stolen. Entrance was gained through a window, it was stated.

Harold Baird, no given address, was arrested by police when observed to be panhandling on Front Street. He was formally charged with the offence and remanded to appear in court.

Two Are Sentenced. One Waits Sentence

London, Ont., Nov. 26 (CP)—Lynn Daugharty, 16, of Windsor, and Robert Wood, 19, of London, who went on an auto-stealing spree in the Windsor and London districts, today were sentenced to terms of 12 months definite and 18 months indefinite. They pleaded guilty last week.

The sentences will run concurrently with 12-month terms imposed in Windsor recently.

One of the two cars stolen in this area was repainted and sold for $140 though it was valued at $1,500. Peter Robertson, 17, of Belleville, who bought the auto pleaded guilty Monday to retaining stolen goods and is awaiting sentence.

Ratepayers, Members Chamber Of Commerce Hear Candidates For Various Civic Offices

More Than 350 in B.C.I. Auditorium Listen to Affairs of City Being Discussed

A rejuvenated interest by the tax payer in civic affairs was shown at the Belleville Collegiate auditorium Tuesday night when approximately 350 local residents attended the public meeting at which Mayor Frank Follwell, aldermen, and P.U.C. candidates gave accounts of their stewardship for the past year while aspirants to the various civic offices outlined the platform which they will support if elected.

Held under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce, and the rate payers' association, the meeting was presided over by Jamieson Bone who expressed pleasure at the attendance which he said showed a renewed interest in civic affairs.

Various phases of city administration were briefly mentioned by Mr. Bone before calling on the various candidates. The meeting had been called, he said, because the public was in the dark as to what is being done in the city.

Tribute Paid

Mayor Frank S. Follwell paid tribute to members of council and to members of other city boards for their co-operation, particularly in the city's industrial expansion. "Belleville is going ahead, Belleville is on the march," he said. "New industries will mean gainful employment. There will be more jobs and more homes."

The mayor went thoroughly into the matter of tax rate, referring to the current rate of 47.5 mills which he said had been justified in the light of increased costs of city administration.

He broke the ten mill tax rate down and showed where each mill went during the past year. Increased wages to city employees and the purchase of new equipment had cost 4.2 mills; two mills had gone for the Memorial Arena and 3.7 mills for increased educational costs. The balance of the increase had gone to pay indigent hospital accounts and increased costs of garbage collection.

Tax Rate May be Lower

For next year he had instructed department heads to pare their budgets all possible and make them at least no higher than this year. This with a substantial increase in assessment shown should give the city a lower tax rate next year.

"Belleville is now in the midst of an expansion era," said the Mayor, "and experienced men will be needed in council to conduct the city's business. The expansion is making new homes necessary and building projects are planned both at the east and west and at the north of the city."

In conclusion Mayor Follwell urged all to exercise their franchise on Monday. "Vote as you will, but vote," he said.

D. L. Storey, aspirant for the mayoralty, appreciated the honor of nomination for the mayor's office and stated that he also appreciated the responsibility which went with the office of mayor.

Here he put in a plug for the Hastings County Tuberculosis Christmas Seal drive stating that the money was needed to help stamp out tuberculosis in the county. He was chairman of the drive, he told the audience.

Claims Qualification

As a business man of 35 years' experience he felt that he was qualified to administer the business of the city during the era of industrial expansion which was ahead. During this era problems would need immediate solving, not immediate shelving, he said.

With expansion ahead an overall plan was needed and in this the opinions of the taxpayers were needed. "They are the ones who pay the shot," he said.

Referring to the city's tax rate Mr. Storey asserted the city had spent a lot of money and had not received much in return. He charged city council with no action in regard to the incinerator for which taxpayers had voted $90,000, and felt that the taxpayer should have a voice in various city projects.

Had No Say is Claim

"Council purchased the Memorial Arena, bought additional fire equipment, arranged for town planning and took part in Old Home Week but the taxpayer had no say in the matter."

The city's present financial condition with its one million dollars in debentures was mentioned by the speaker who also pointed to the possibility of $60,000 being made available for the Old People's Home next year and to the expected increase in the amount which would be taken to operate the fire department.

Mr. Storey felt that the Industrial Commission should be directly responsible to city council and in this manner their expenditure could be controlled.

The speaker went on to enumerate the added costs which industrial expansion would mean, mentioning new sewers and roadways. "And I hate to say what will happen when we have to go into new schools.

"I believe that economy is the best revenue," stated Mr. Storey in conclusion.

Defends Actions

In rebuttal Mayor Follwell defended his many out-of-town trips, stating that these had proven of value to the city. He now held an official capacity both with the Ontario Mayors' Association and with the Dominion Mayors' Association, while at one of their conventions mayors had been able to secure for their municipalities a one mill rebate on gasoline tax.

Russell Wotten as member of the public utilities commission pointed to the previous policy of the utilities in rebating to the consumer a portion of the utility profits.

Then with the expansion of the city new services and equipment were needed and the commission had had sufficient foresight to build up a reserve for this and thus provide the new services at no cost to the city.

The new sub-station at Reid Street was mentioned; new lights were planned for various sections of the city and would be soon installed at no cost to the taxpayer, while a new water main was planned for across the Moira River to provide better pressure in the east end of the city.

Power at Low Rate

Through efficient management the local commission was able to provide power at one of the lowest rates in the province despite the fact that the cost of power was greater. At a time when other costs were constantly increasing, Belleville consumers were now paying 8 per cent less for power than four years ago, Mr. Wotten stated. Average cost of power in Belleville today was .74 per kilowatt hour.

"There is only one answer to this and that is sound, efficient and aggressive management," he concluded.

Harry Rollins as aspirant for the Public Utilities Commission stated that as ex-mayor he knew well the responsibility of a commissioner. If elected he would go with an open mind and endeavor to solve problems with sound judgment.

Continuing Mr. Rollins charged that although the city presumably owned the hydro utility, actually it was managed according to the dictates of the Ontario Hydro Commission. If elected to the commission he would not allow himself to be "handled" he promised.

"I do not like the closed corporation idea of the commission," he said. "We were supposed to buy the hydro utility but the provincial Hydro says not to touch it. If I am elected I will make my voice heard in the matter."

Should Have More Say

Mr. Rollins contended that local commissioners should have more say in the operation of the utility and stated the constitution of the Hydro should be changed

Four Retired Engineers Honored by Associates At Banquet Held at 'Y'

Four former locomotive engineers with the Canadian National Railways who retired during the past year were honored Tuesday evening by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers when at their annual presentation banquet held at the Y.M.C.A. they were tendered presentations. Three of the retired engineers received club bags, while the fourth was the recipient of a handsome pen and pencil set.

The auditorium of the "Y" was decorated for the occasion with a festive and realistic touch. Memories of former years on the road were recalled by the appearance of locomotive paintings as a background while tables were tastily decorated adding to the general effect.

The presentation banquet was arranged by the Belleville Engineers' Entertainment Club and sponsored by Division 189 of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. Guests were welcomed by Chief Engineer W. G. McGee, while Percy Kerr acted as master of ceremonies.

Seated at Head Table

Guests of honor for the occasion were the four retired engineers, Dave Fisher, James Cooper, Patrick Lynch and Albert Stirland who, with their wives, were seated at the head table. The engineers' wives were not forgotten on their husbands' big night and each received a hand painted cup and saucer on behalf of the Brotherhood.

Approximately 115 persons enjoyed the tastily prepared banquet prepared by the ladies' auxiliary of the "Y", the entertainment program including toasts to the guests, to the city, to the C.N.R. and to the Grand International Auxiliary. The Bruce Sills Orchestra provided the music for the dance following the banquet.

Incidents Recalled

Incidents in their many years' service with the railroad were recalled by the retired engineers as the presentations were made by Larry Grey on behalf of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. Each of the former engineers boasted of more than 40 years' service with one or two claiming nearly half a century of service with various railroads.

Toast to the honored guests was proposed by Henry Drury, while the toast to pensioners of other years was made by George Wade and responded to by W. B. Fairbairn. Toast to the city of Belleville was made by Neil Robb with response by Mayor Frank S. Follwell who recalled service as a brakeman with the C.N.R. The toast to the Grand International Auxiliary was proposed by R. P. Orne with response by Mrs. Winslow of Toronto, Canadian representative, while the toast to the C.N.R. was proposed by Robert Muirhead with response by A. R. Wilson, superintendent of the Belleville Division.

Representatives of other railroad employees' organizations also spoke briefly expressing wishes of good luck to the retiring engineers.

STOLE DEER, FINED $25

Mimico, Nov. 26 —(CP)— Stealing a deer someone else shot is hardly in keeping with sporting traditions. John Beal, 27, of Toronto, was fined $25 and costs or 10 days yesterday for removing the deer carcass from the side of Dillon Francis' car parked outside a hotel.

Ald. Angus Duffy Re-elected Pres. Canadian Legion

Ald. Angus Duffy, former sergeant-major of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment and last year president of the Canadian Legion, branch 99, was re-elected to that high office on Tuesday evening, when members assembled for the nomination meeting. Due to the fact that the ratepayers' meeting was being held at the Collegiate and as some of the members wished to attend the election of the remainder of the slate was postponed until Tuesday, Dec. 9. Comrade Jeffs gave a report of the nominating committee, while the president requested that every member of the Legion turn out at the polls on Monday and elect the men of their choice.

"If you do not exercise your franchise you have no right to criticize," said Mr. Duffy. Comrade Jack Yanover made a presentation of sweaters to the bowling team that is performing at the Bowl-O-Drome and this gift was heartily acknowledged by the members present. The members were asked to push the dance on Dec. 11 at the Armouries, the proceeds of which will be donated to the band fund for the purchase of new uniforms. At the conclusion of the meeting refreshments were served by Comrade Dainard.

HEAVY SNOWFALL AT OWEN SOUND

Owen Sound, Nov. 26 — (CP) — A heavy snowfall, some 10 to 12 inches, has blanketed this area with snow still falling today. However, there has been no drifting and there is little prospect of another snow blockade such as cut off this district for days at a time last winter.

Highway plows are out this morning, but even before they went to work most roads although heavy, were passable.

OBITUARY

LATE JAS. STEWART TOUGH

The funeral of James Stewart Tough, late residence, 214 Church Street, was held from the Martin Funeral Home, Church Street, on Tuesday afternoon. The service in the chapel and at Belleville Cemetery was conducted by the Rev. Arthur Smith, rector of St. Thomas' Church.

The bearers were James Tough, John Cook, John Wickson, William Wickson, all nephews of the deceased, and Bert Martin and William Belch.

LATE ROBERT ALLEN SAGER
(Queensboro)

The funeral of Robert Allen Sager, who died suddenly on Friday, November 14th., was held from his late residence to Queensboro United Church on Monday, November 17th.

The pastor, Rev. G. Patton, conducted the service and Mrs. Calvin Tanner sang "Goodnight and Goodmorning."

Interment took place in Greenwood Cemetery and the service at the grave was conducted by members of the Royal Black Preceptory 167 and Loyal Orange Lodge 437.

The bearers were all members of the Royal Black Preceptory 167, and were Messrs. H. Sexsmith, H. Declair, F. Henry, Geo. Glover, A. Parks and Chas. Keene.

The many beautiful flowers were evidence of the esteem in which Mr. Sager was held.

SENTENCED ON ARMED ROBBERY CONVICTIONS

St. Catharines, Nov. 26 (CP)—Anthony Mego, 17-year-old Caistor township farm youth, was sentenced today to two years less a day in Ontario reformatory on charges of armed robbery.

Mego pleaded guilty to the armed robbery Nov. 11 of John Holynsky, north Grimsby, when he appeared last Friday.

On a charge of theft of a motorcycle, which he used in the robbery, he was sentenced to one year, concurrent with his armed robbery sentence and on a third charge of having unregistered revolvers he was fined $25 and costs or 30 days concurrent with the other terms.

IN MEMORIAM

NEWELL—In loving memory of our dear niece, Patricia Newell, who passed away, on the 26th., of November, 1946.

One year has passed since that sad day,
When one we loved was called away,
God took her home, it was His will;
Within our hearts she liveth still.

Ever remembered by Elma, Jack, and Shirley. N26

NEWELL—In loving memory of my dear granddaughter, Patricia Newell, who passed away on November 26th., 1946.

Just when your life was brightest,
Just when your years were best,
You were called from this world of sorrow,
To a home of eternal rest.

Ever remembered by Grandmother Haley. N26

NEWELL—In loving memory of my dear sister, Patricia Newell who passed away one year ago today.

You are not forgotten sister,
Nor ever will you be,
As long as life and memory last,
We will remember thee.

Ever remember by Donald. N26

NEWELL—In loving memory of our dear daughter and niece, Patricia W. Newell, who passed away November 26th., 1946.

Two little hands are resting,
A loving heart is still,
A little daughter we loved is waiting
For us just over the hill.
She bade no one a last farewell,
She said goodbye to none,
The heavenly gates were opened wide
A loving voice said "Come!"

Sadly missed by mother, aunt Marguerite, uncle Wilfred, cousin Gladys. N26

NEWELL—In loving memory of our dear daughter and sister, Patricia W. Newell, who passed away November 26th., 1946.

Without a farewell she fell asleep,
Leaving fond memories for us to keep.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Nov. 26 — (CP) — Golds accelerated their retreat in the early session on the stock exchange today as sizeable losses for key issues became numerous. Base metals, however, maintained moderate firmness in slow turnover but industrials were narrowly off.

Volume for the first three hours was 604,000 shares, about 150,000 less than yesterday's similar period.

Newsprints showed mild resiliency after two days of losses as fractional advances were in majority. Utilities were soft on losses in fractions. Ahead in steels were Algoma 1 7/9, Toronto Iron 1 3/8 and Dominion Bridge 3/4. Foods were mixed and slightly off while liquors were up for Distillers Walkers and oils for International Petroleum.

There was no evidence of selling pressure on golds but prices sagged for many issues. Base metals held on minor gains.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Nov. 26 (CP) — Cattle prices were steady and unchanged in the livestock market up to mid-session here today. Calves, hogs sheep and lambs also remained steady. Receipts: Cattle 700, calves 600, hogs 600, sheep and lambs 900.

Butcher steers brought $10.25-$13.50 a hundreweight with heifers at $10-$13. Fed yearlings sold for $12.50-$15.50. Butcher cows were $7.50-$10 cwt. with canners mostly at $5.50-$6. Bulls sold for $7.50-$9.50 with plain to medium stockers going at $9-$11.75.

PRODUCE MARKET

Churning cream unchanged, No. 1 lb., 67 fob, 71 delivered.

Butter prints unchanged, 1st grade 66, 2nd grade 63, 3rd grade 61.

Eggs: Market steady with ample supplies of large and medium grades, other grades short; wholesale to retail, A large 52-53, A medium 50-51, A pullet 44-45, B 44-45, C 33-34; country shippers quoted graded eggs, cases free, A large 49, A medium 45-47, A pullet 41-42 1-2, B 41, C 30.

Butter solids, market firm with offerings extremely light, 1st grade 64, 2nd grade 60-61 1-2.

HOGS

Toronto, Nov. 26 —(CP)— Grade A hog prices remained unchanged at Stratford, $22.75 delivered to farmers, $22.90 to truckers, and at Hull unchanged at $22.75 delivered and unquoted off truck, in markets reporting this morning.

OBITUARY

GEORGE W. WOODHOUSE
(Tweed)

Tweed, Nov. 26 (Special)—The funeral of George Wellesly Woodhouse, who died at his home here after two weeks' illness, on Friday last, was held from his late residence on Monday. The service in the home and at St. James' cemetery was conducted by the Rev. F. C. Beazer of the Roslin Anglican Church.

The bearers were John Brown, P. C. Barnett, William McCaw, S. B. McGee, George Clarke and C. R. Porritt.

The late Mr. Woodhouse was born at Port Whitby, Ontario and had reached the advanced age of 85 years and seven months. He was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Woodhouse. He and his wife, who survives him, celebrated their golden wedding on Oct. 27th last. In his early years he was employed by the T. Eaton Company in Toronto, and later was engaged as a telegraph operator with the C.P.R. at various points. Eventually he entered the service of the Canada Cement Company and was employed by the company at Port Colborne, Marlbank and Lakefield. For the past eleven years he made his home in Tweed and was highly esteemed in the community. He was a member of the Church of England and when age and health permitted he took an active part in church work. Fraternally he was a life member of Masonic Lodge No. 239.

Surviving him are his wife, the former Jane Rath; two daughters, Mrs. P. W. (Elsie) Willis, Moosomin, Sask., and Miss Elizabeth Woodhouse at home; two sons, C. M. Woodhouse, Halifax, N.S., and John D. A. Woodhouse, Kingston; one sister, Mrs. S. A. Batson, Toronto; two brothers, J. Dudley Woodhouse, Niagara Falls, Ontario, and Herbert A. Woodhouse, Port Whitby, Ontario; also seven grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Toronto, Nov. 26 —(CP)— Two men held for questioning in connection with the armed robbery of Harry Baker, 37-year-old radio company employee of Spring Valley, Ancaster, Ont., were released by police today. Baker said a man armed with two revolvers forced him to drive from Hamilton to Toronto and robbed him of $12.

HEAVY BALLOTING

Guelph, Nov. 26 —(CP)— Citizens of the town of Drayton voted today on a plebiscite to decide whether that community is to remain dry or whether its two hotels are to receive licenses to dispense beer and wine.

Drayton has been without a licensed house for the past seven years and the last move to repeal the dry law was defeated four years ago. Rival factions fought a spirited campaign on the beverage room issue.

The vote polled before noon indicated heavy balloting.

SUNSPOT ACTIVITY ROOT CAUSE

London, Nov. 26 (Reuters) — Severe distortions dismaying London owners of television sets by flickering across the screen in "herring-bone and Harris tweed" patterns have been traced to a source 3,000 miles across the Atlantic.

The interference is due to United States Police radio car broadcasts and to the Chicago frequency modulation station WEFM.

Television and radio engineers have assured anxious set owners however, that intense sunspot activity is the root cause of the trouble.

Municipal Elections

This is the week of preparation for the annual municipal elections in Belleville on Monday, December 1.

Particularly of interest is the large number of candidates who are offering themselves as candidates for the seven aldermanic seats, eighteen remaining in the field. There is a contest for each of the organizations which will represent the people next year, contests for mayoralty, for aldermanic office, for the public utilities and for the Board of Education.

With contests for every office, the enthusiasm of the candidates will be doubtless reflected in unusual interest by the voters.

With the development of the city in evidence before everyone's eyes there will be a greatly increased interest in the city and its future and in those who will fill the offices.

There is evidence of a keen interest in municipal affairs both by those who have long been residents, by those who have taken up residence here in recent years and by those who are still being added to the city's population.

Voters must be pleased that so many citizens have volunteered themselves for office. That fact in itself is a healthy sign. It signifies faith in the future of this city and faith is the essential of progress.

Electors this year should make an effort to set a new record in the number of votes polled and in the interest the civic contests arouse. It has been said at election time in many comunities that too few people exercise the franchise in municipal affairs. Belleville's voting public has been growing, in keeping with the growth of the opinion that municipal elections are the elections which touch the community dwellers most closely. Therefore the elections on Monday will have much to do with the inspiration that is given the candidates who have come forward to serve. A heavy vote will be the city's best tribute.

Britain's Effort

Britain is impressing upon her people the necessity of production to lift that country out of the economic worries and it is good news that output of coal is continuing high and that the construction of houses, over fifteen thousand permanent dwellings having been completed during October, is at a new high level.

Never was there a people who, having placed their shoulders to the wheel, can accomplish more than the people of the British Isles. Backing up the program of production is the will of the people to give their utmost to their country's benefit.

When Winter Comes

Winter of 1947-48 has evidently begun, though long delayed. Even the first real snowstorm, though it brought down over nine inches of moisture-laden snow, did not press its advantage by sending a cold wave. The moderate temperature since the heavy snowfall has been welcomed because it has removed any possibility of great damage should the wet snow have frozen on the trees as it did one winter in the middle thirties when much havoc was caused in orchards in these parts of Ontario. In that cold winter of the thirties trees and transmission lines suffered heavy but the absence of cold and wind on Monday prevented repetition of that severe blow. Tuesday further helped to remove any threat to orchards as the weather was mild.

Wretchedness of Dictator

A British traveller to Oslo has returned with an interesting glimpse into the mentality of dictators. He visited the huge Gothic mansion which Quisling, the Norwegian puppet of Hitler, had constructed and occupied. And in it he saw evidence of the megalomania of dictatorship. The building was so vast that the Norwegian government will have great difficulty in deciding what to do with it. And it is named Gimle, which means heaven, or, more strictly, a later or pagan Valhalla. In the library was a globe which was the largest the English visitor had ever seen — a gift from Hitler.

But there was, too, a very revealing evidence of the pitiful sense of inadequacy which lay at the heart of the man who occupied this vast house named heaven, with an immense globe at his fingertips. For in the same library, in which Quisling held his interviews, the desk was placed as far away from the door as possible, so that any one entering would have a long way to walk. This long walk, it was apparently hoped, would disconcert the caller, as well as make him feel that he had (in a literal as well as a metaphorical sense) to walk a long way to see the important man behind the far desk.

It is very striking to note that Mussolini followed just the same practice. He, too, had his desk placed at the end of a long room, at which he would sit and do his best to disconcert his approaching guest.

It is these evidences of personal inadequacy, and the resulting need to embarrass others, all in the midst of weird but hollow splendor, that reveal the essential wretchedness of the dictator's mind. It is the wretchedness that lies at the heart of those who are eager to dominate other people, but are doubtful of their ability to face them. — Montreal Gazette.

Britain's State Regalia

Britain's Crown Jewels are on show again, and Richard Dimbleby went to see them and told the BBC's "Radio News Reel" listeners what he saw. "The Crown Jewels, that glittering, scintillating collection of state regalia that were so carefully hidden away during the war years, are back on show at the Tower of London. They lie in their glass case within a few feet of you —so casual in their array that you feel you could stretch out your hand and take a crown or a sceptre or perhaps just an enormous gleaming diamond — wouldn't be quite as easy as that, of course: one finger in the wrong place would set alarm bells ringing and lower an automatic steel grille round the display case and bring at least a platoon of the British Army fully armed, into the Jewel Chamber at the double.

"I think I am right in saying that Captain Blood was the last man who tried to steal them nearly three hundred years ago. He failed, of course — and after being pardoned by the King was given a pension. I doubt if they'd give you a pension for trying now.

"One of the new exhibits in the £20,000,000 collection is the tiny light-weight crown that was worn by Queen Victoria in her old age — sitting there as sedately today as it did in those sedate years of her reign. That in fact is what the return of the Crown Jewels to the Tower makes me think of — how, in an era of change and rapid development, we in this island so jealously guard the precious fragments of history."

How Old is Earth

We note that Professor Holmes of the University of Edinburgh has concluded, after much scientific study of the radioactive minerals and data available, that the age of the Earth is 3,350 million years. He believes that his estimate is unlikely to be seriously wrong. His findings appear in the magazine "Endeavor," a quarterly review designed to record the progress of sciences in the service of mankind. The oldest mineral so far investigated by the scientists is uraninite from Manitoba, the age of which is calculated to be 1,985 millions of years.

It is important to have established this fact and to know that the minerals which man within recent years has adapted to his use were created that far back. Probably we do too much worrying about how long the Earth has been in formation and how long it is likely to last. If man becomes too careless with the secrets which he has wrested from the Earth, it won't make much difference how long it lasts. Scientists 3,350 million years from now will likely have as difficult a task establishing that our civilization ever existed as our scientists have had in trying to find out when we started. — Moose Jaw Times-Herald.

INTRODUCTORY SPEECHES

My son, this life has dangers dire.
The signs of sin are always clear,
There is the poison of desire,
But there's a greater one to fear.
Though praise is sweet when it is due,
The warning that I write to teach is
(And heed it all your lifetime through)
Beware of introductory speeches!

All chairmen are a flattering lot.
Not always it is truth they tell.
Be grateful, but believe them not.
Such poison starts the head to swell.
They'll praise because they think they should.
They'll speak of heights no mortal reaches.
No one is ever quite that good.
Beware of introductory speeches!

Praise is the deadliest virus known.
'Tis subtle stuff that dulls the brain.
Remember when the night has flown
You'll have to rise to work again.
'Tis nice to be acclaimed before
Your funeral sermon someone preaches,
But let me warn you just once more:
Beware of introductory speeches!

HAS LEADING ROLE

In meditative mood is Luigi Longo, who is photographed at his desk in Rome. He represented Italy's Communist party at the "information conference" in Poland last September. Demanding that "the proletariat" be given an active role in running Italian government business, he insists on the creation of a workmen's committee which will participate in business management. He received the lapel decoration as a partisan chief.

FRANCE EXPELS

A Paris newspaper reported that inquiries at offices of the Patriotic Union elicited this reply. "Our president is away on a trip. We know nothing about any arrests."

The order came a few days after police raided a Russian repatriation camp outside Paris, seized a small quantity of arms and removed a woman and her three children.

In Lyon police used tear gas to break up a strikers' march on the prefecture after a mass labor rally called by the Communist-dominated general confederation of labor.

Several persons were reported injured in fighting which broke out between police and the demonstrators. Eye-witnesses estimated the number of strikers participating in the demonstration at approximately 20,000.

The trouble began when strikers attending the labor rally decided to march to the prefecture and present their grievances. They found approaches to the prefecture blocked by police barricades and attempted to charge police with communist banners flying in the van, Lyon dispatches said.

The strikers retired when police used the tear gas, but a second melee broke out 20 minutes later when a score of policemen going off duty tried to march through the centre of the demonstrators.

Several policemen were reported beaten up in this struggle.

Agrees to See Strikers

The prefect finally agreed to see a delegation of the strikers this afternoon.

In Paris, meanwhile, additional mobile guards and police were thrown around railway stations as trains continued to move on some lines in defiance of a general strike called by the National Federation of Railroad Workers.

This would be the second general rail strike call in five months by the Federation of Railroad Workers, which has some 600,000 members. The order was designed to halt even the intermittent service that has been operating on some lines since individual locals walked out last week to enforce demands that the present minimum wage of $58 a month be increased to $90 (at current exchange rates).

At the same time France's new secretary of state for communications, Eugene Thomas, issued a communique declaring that "communist elements" were using "intimidation and menace and trying to create an atmosphere of terror" to overthrow an anti-strike decision yesterday by the majority of the postal workers' union.

Thomas charged that postmen on their rounds had been made "victims of aggression."

It was reported that Premier Robert Schuman's inner cabinet had agreed on a double-barrelled policy calling for general wage increases and stern law enforcement measures to combat the wave of strikes and disorders sweeping France.

Informed sources said that the program would be presented to the full cabinet for consideration later in the day and that if approved the wage increases would then be offered to union leaders.

HOOP SKIRTS ARE HERE

A reader says I may as well give up my fight to educate people concerning the common cold (cri to me). It's hopeless. The reader used to think I was only a few decades ahead of my time and that some day people would ... see but his recent experience causes him to doubt that people will give up their absurd notions ... The reader went to a university hospital clinic for some cough syrup.

(May I, Brady, interrupt to say, first that the reader's first sentence discourages me —he knows, but will not use the term he ascribes to me. And second, perhaps I may as well give up my fight to educate people to keep away from impersonal institutions or "clinics" and consult physicians when they need medical advice.) The reader continues:

I was asked whether I slept with my windows open—and after my indignant affirmative I was told that the colds going round were damp colds and the best procedure for such colds was to keep the bedroom windows closed at night so as to exclude dampness! ... when a university ... still believes that night air is harmful, a fallacy that I thought was discarded with the hoop skirt, I give up. And so should you. (C.J.O.)

At this critical juncture an old friend comes to bat with a quotation from "The Selected Works of Benjamin Franklin." Ben said:

"I shall not attempt to explain colds, rather than wet ones because I doubt the fact: I imagine that neither the one nor the other contributes to this effect and that the causes of wet, and even of cold. I purpose writing a short paper on this subject the first moment of leisure I have at my disposal.

"In the meantime I can only say that, having some suspicions that the common notion which attributes to cold the property of stopping the pores and obstructing the perspiration was ill-founded...."

Stopping the pores? Shades of B. Franklin, they're still getting away with murder about that in the year of our Lord 1947. It is a physical or physiological impossibility for anything to enter the body through the alleged "pores," of course, and in any circumstance practically nothing but salt and water is excreted, eliminated, "thrown off" or expelled through the sweat glands or the sebaceous (oil) glands of the skin, whose openings on the surface are mistaken for "pores" (a pore as I understand it, being an opening through which something is absorbed). And now Ben again:

..."I engaged a young physician, who is making some experiments with Sanctorius's balance, to estimate the different proportions of his perspiration when remaining one hour quite naked and another warmly clothed. He pursued the experiment in this alternate manner for eight hours successively, and found his perspiration almost double during those hours in which he was naked."

Sanctorius, in the early part of the seventeenth century, demonstrated that the insensible perspiration—the sweat constantly given off but invisible—exceeds all other bodily excretions combined. The determinations made by this physician's delicate balance indicated that approximately one fluidounce of water per hours is given off from the body of a resting person as insensible sweat—and present day measurements give the same results.

Come up and see me some time, C. J. O., and I'll show you a stack of fin letters from people who testify how much more they enjoy life since they got rid of all the depressing old delusions about dampness, chilling and drafts. In fact, my weak one, I get so many of these cheerful testimonials nowadays that report like yours leaves me pretty happy about the whole thing.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Who composed "John Brown's Body"?

The authorship of the refrain known as "John Brown's Body" is uncertain: It runs:

John Brown's body lies a mouldering in the grave,
But his soul goes marching on.

Apparently it was merely a popular parody on a hymn composed in 1858 by Thomas Brigham Bishop (1835-1905), American song-writer. Bishop composed both the words and the music for this hymn for his brother-in-law, Andrew J. Johnson, of Portland, Maine.

The composer himself wrote that he composed the hymn upon his return from St. Louis "when I had learned of his having been converted to religion." A few after its composition Johnson introduced the hymn at a prayer meeting and it immediately became popular. The words are:

I am bound to be a soldier in the army of the Lord,
While my soul goes marching on.
Glory, glory Hallelujah.

With my knapsack strapped upon my back,
My canteen by my side . . .

While the ashes of my body lie amoulding in the ground, . . .
Then my soul goes marching on Glory, glory, Hallelujah.

This hymn was a popular favorite when John Brown was hanged at Charlestown, Virginia, December 2, 1859, for his raid on Harper's Ferry in the preceding October. This event made a profound impression on the whole country, particularly in New England, and John Brown became a martyr in the eyes of millions of Northerners. John A. Andrew, who was with Julia Ward Howe when she conceived "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," presided over a John Brown mass meeting and was elected governor of Massachusetts in 1860.

Many songs and poems about John Brown were composed at the time. There is no documentary evidence to support the contention that the words of "John Brown's Body" were composed by the quartet of the Webster Regiment of Massachusetts in 1861 and that they originally referred to a John Brown who was a private in the regiment, although it may be that the words originated with the Massachusetts troops.

John Brown told the Virginia court that tried him: "I am fully persuaded that I am worth inconceivably more to hang than for any other purpose." History proved him a true prophet.

Frankford

Boys of Frankford Visit S.S. Pal in Belleville Hospital

Frankford— Last Wednesday night was the date set for a party for Mr. S. Martin's Class of the United Sunday School. However, on Monday, the boys were deeply saddened by the word that one of their buddies, Ed. Tomack, had lost the fingers of his left hand, while working at the shoe factory.

The boys decided that instead of the party, they would all go down to Belleville Hospital and call on Ed. Wednesday was Ed's 18th birthday and the boys thought it would be a splendid idea to have a little birthday party for him in the ward. It was quite a surprise to Ed. when Mr. Martin and eleven boys of the class gathered around his bed with ice cream, gingerale, and a large birthday cake with 18 lighted candles. The cake was donated by Mrs. Claude Davis. The class then presented Ed with a pair of slippers and some chocolates.

Ed is a plucky lad, liked by everyone who has the good fortune to know him. He is taking his misfortune in a spirit that is certain to bring him success and admiration wherever he goes. The folks around Frankford are all with you Ed, and will be looking forward to seeing you home again.

Girls' Auxiliary Of St. Thomas W.A. Entertains Parents

Members of the Girls' Auxiliary of St. Thomas' Church were hostesses to their parents for a pot luck supper, Tuesday evening, in the parish house, when covers were laid for forty-two.

Guests were received by members of the excutive, Dianne Gibson, Dianne Lewis, Joan Allen and Patricia Smith.

The table was made attractive with decorative Christmas motifs, red and green runners and tall red tapers. The centrepiece was a green pottery bowl filled with large red apples. Other appointments included Christmas serviettes to contrast with the snowy linen cloth.

An inspiring address by Rev Arthur F. Smith in which he briefly outlined the purpose and work of the Girls' Auxiliary, (which is the junior branch of the W.A. sponsoring Missions of the Church of England) was much enjoyed.

Parents were the proud spectators of the regular weekly activities of the members of the Girls' Auxiliary.

Fashion Flashes

NO MATTER the season or style, the beret goes on its successful way. Nice for after-five wear is a beret that is smartly draped and pulled down to one side. It is of frost-white felt with all-over embroidery in confetti sequins, coils of wool yarn and gilt braid.

AGE-OLD is the color scheme of black and white, and it is used to particularly good advantage in a new fur jacket. Black Persian broadtail is the luxury fur used for a below hip-length model, and it is laced up the front with double bandings of snowy ermine, ending in wide loops at the throat.

CHARM FOR BEAUTY

Beauteous Helen of Troy, "the face that launched a thousand ships," wore among other jewelry a ring decorated with the figure of a fish—for luck.

Belts for a Trim Torso

By ALICE ALDEN

BELTS ARE ALL things to all girls this season, ranging from broad, midriff-hugging affairs of heavy leather for wear with a separate skirt and blouse, to straight and narrow ones that do torso tricks with a figure-hugging dress. Criterion is responsible for these many-go-rounds and you may circle your midriff with as many as you think it can take! They are in gay shades for the campus and in subtle tones for they are the big college fad of the moment.

Fall Dinners Feature Fowl

When the weather turns cool, the menu-planner thinks more of the main course of more substantial meals.

Roast turkey or chicken are always worth a cheer from the family but a good chicken pie or pot pie is enjoyed with equal satisfaction and is almost an economy meal if made with fowl and if it has plenty of rich gravy.

Small fowl, weighing from 3 to 3 1-2 pounds are plentiful just now and yield as much meat in proportion to size as the bigger ones of 5 to 6 pounds. As an added attraction the smaller birds have a slightly higher percentage of white meat for those who prefer it.

The small fowl is an excellent buy for the family of two or three and when the group is larger, two of these small birds may be better than one of the larger size.

Fowl require long slow cooking in moist heat in order to make them completely tender. Modern methods of cooking include the use of pressure saucepans and where time is a consideration cut up fowl may be cooked in 25 to 30 minutes instead of the usual 2 to 3 hours of simmering.

Fowl is sometimes roasted by a combination of steaming and baking. In this case the stuffed bird is placed in a covered pan with a small amount of water and slowly cooked until tender. To brown the bird, during the last half hour the cover is removed

Fricasseed Chicken With Sour Cream

1 fowl (3 1-2 to 4 lbs.) cut into serving portions
3 tablespoons vinegar
1-2 cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
1-8 teaspoon pepper
1-4 cup fat
1-3 cup chopped onion
1-4 cup chopped parsley or celery leaves
1 1-2 cups sour cream

Rub fowl with vinegar and roll in mixture of flour, salt and pepper. Melt fat and brown meat on all sides in hot fat. Place browned chicken in large casserole, add onions, parsley or celery leaves and cover with sour cream. Cook covered in a moderately slow oven 325 degrees F., until tender 2 1-2 to 3 hours. six servings.

Chicken Johnny Cake

2 tablespoons chicken fat or other fat
2 cups diced cooked chicken
3-4 cup corn meal
1 1-4 cups sifted pastry flour
1 tablespoon sugar
1-2 teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon celery seed or celery salt
1 beaten egg
3-4 cup milk
1 tablespoon minced parsley
1-4 cup melted chicken fat or other fat

Melt the two tablespoons fat in a 7x11 inch baking dish. Spread the chicken evenly over the bottom of this pan. Sift dry ingredients into bowl. Add egg, milk and parsley, stirring lightly; quickly fold in the 1-4 cup melted fat. Pour batter over chicken, spreading evenly Bake in a very hot oven, (425 degrees F.) for 20 to 25 minutes. Unmold, inverted on platter or serve from baking dish. Garnish with parsley, and pimento. Serve immediately with chicken or giblet gravy or seasoned cream sauce made with part chicken stock.

Royal Couple End Honeymoon Stay in Hants

Romsey, Hants, England, Nov. 26. (AP)—Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip ended their honeymoon stay at nearby Broadlands today and left for London on their way to Birkhall to complete their wedding trip to the Scottish Hills.

A single policeman accompanied them as they left the estate of Philip's uncle, Earl Mountbatten, where they had passed the last six days. Only a handful of people watched at the gate as the royal couple drove out, waving goodbye.

The Princess said today she and the Prince wished to spend the rest of their honeymoon "absolutely to themselves".

Her secretray wrote Lord Aberdeen, Lord Lieutenant of Aberdeenshire where the honeymoon house at Birkhall is situated, that the royal couple "are very anxious that the whole time they are in Aberdeenshire . . . shall be observed as an entirely private visit.

"They do not desire any formalities, and do not wish to be received on arrival in Aberdeen or anywhere else in the county. They do wish to be absolutely by themselves and hope there will be no crowds of sightseers."

L.D.S. Missionaries To Conduct Work Here

In the Monday evening meeting of the city council two missionaries, representatives of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, received permission to labor in this city. They are Elder Kenneth Twede of Payson Utah, and Elder William D. Butler of Phoenix Arizona. Previous to their coming here, these young men were in Picton, where their work consisted of going from door to door visiting each family, explaining the beliefs of the church which they represent.

During the past year they and their predecessors have completed this work, having gone several times to each home in that vicinity. For that reason it was necessary they transfer from Picton to another field of labor. Their work while here in Belleville will be of the same nature but each Sunday they will travel to Picton to conduct services for friends and members of the Church.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Spend Your Thank-You's, Lady—Why Hoard Words of Appreciation?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a girl in my late teens, and I would very much like to have you answer this question which puzzles me: When a man telephones to ask me for a date and I accept, am I supposed to thank him?

Marjorie

Certainly this would be a natural and gracious thing to do: for example, to say, "Yes, Bob, I'd love to go to the dance with you . . . thank you so much for asking me," or 'Yes, Bob I'd love to go to see that movie. . . I've been so eager to see it, and thank you for asking me to go with you.

It's true, true, true, that you show you're a mannerly and appreciative person when you thank another person for an invitation or for any other gesture of hospitality. To omit the thank-you gives the impression that (1) your manners are unsure or (2) that your sense of appreciation is not active, or (3) your personality is on the stuffy side. The magic of a thank-you can cut through these uninteresting qualities and can make your beau-of-the-evening delighted that he asked you for a date! And this way lies popularity.

First Engagement Broken How To Announce New Engagement

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please clear up these points about announcing an engagement?

1. If the girl was engaged once before and that engagement was announced three years ago but was broken two years ago, is it now proper to announce her new engagement? If so, how soon after the girl has received her ring should the announcement be made?

2. Is it proper for the girl's mother to give a tea (or luncheon) in her home to announce the engagement? If so, who would be invited—only the girl's friends or her friends and her mother's friends also?

3. In the newspaper announcement is it correct to give the name of the college from which each graduated, the years in the service, the places of present employment, and so forth?

hal

1. Yes, it is proper to announce this engagement, of course making no reference to the previous engagement. The announcement may be made as soon as the couple and the girl's family wish to announce it. The announcement may be made immediately after the girl has received her engagement ring, but actually it is not necessary for her to have the ring. The important fact to be announced is that the couple are engaged, not that the girl has received her engagement ring.

2. If an engagement-announcement party is to be given (it is not, of course, necessary), it may be a luncheon (usually with only the girl's intimate friends invited), a dinner, or a late-afternoon party.

3. Yes, all of this information is generally given in the newspaper announcement of the engagement.

Her Sisters and Their Ideas About Bridal Showers

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be married next month, and my two sisters are planning to give showers in my honor. The sister who is to be my matron of honor wants to give me a Greenback shower. The other sister wants to give me what she says is a "Stag Party". I have never heard of a Stag Party given for the bride-to-be. What do you think of these two showers?

Viola

You yourself will have to decide if you approve of your sisters giving showers for you. It is not considered good form or good taste for a member of the family of the bride-to-be (or of the bridegroom-to-be) to give a bridal shower. And this suggestion would, I should say, apply particularly to the giving of a Greenback Shower, for it would not seem appropriate for the bride's sister to request that guests bring gifts of money to her sister.

Your other sister is certainly confused about the name of the shower she is planning! A "Stag Party" is one at which only men are present. . . for example, a Stag Dinner. If she means to say that she is inviting only girls to the shower, she may refer to the party merely as a "shower", or a "hen party", or a "dove party".

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Is Common Background Necessary for Happy Marriage?

"My problem," writes a girl of 27, "goes something like this:

"I have been dating a fellow about my own age fairly regularly for the past eight months. We have had some good times together and have a good deal in common. Recently he told me of his deep affection for me, which I know to be true, not only because he has declared it but by his actions. I am very fond of him, only I am not sure whether or not it is love. Somehow I seem to be fighting myself over making a decision.

"As my mother has pointed out, and I well realize, this boy does not have a very good education. He did not even graduate from high school. He has his own trade however, and a fairly good job, although he is not financially ready for marriage at present.

"Mother also has pointed out that he acts much younger than I, which I admit is probably true, for I have usually acted older than my years. He is a little less well off than we are and is a person who asks very little of life—just a good home, a job, and a happy family.

"We are fairly well-to-do, middle class family and I have very rarely been in want of anything. Yet I still know the value of money. I believe in a good education and have enjoyed travelling.

"This man would like us to become engaged soon, and then, as soon as he gets some money together, for us to be married. I know he is sincere and would be a good and faithful husband, yet I am not sure whether or not I could be satisfied with what he could offer me. I have put off my answer to him as best I could without hurting him, hoping I could make up my mind. Could you give me some advice on this?"

Now, as a general rule, I believe the success and happiness of any marriage depends to a large extent on a man and a girl having the same type of background. If they do not, they must either do a great deal of difficult adjusting and be very intelligent about it, or else they find themselves so greatly at odds about so many things that sooner or later a true crisis usually develops. Thus, when a girl is confronted by the type of situation described in this letter, she should ask herself as honestly as possible whether she loves the man enough to put the great amount of effort that would be necessary into making her marriage a success, and also whether or not the man in the case is one who would do the same.

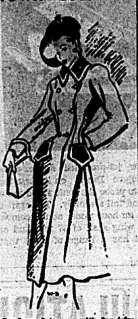
Any kind of marital adjustment is a co-operative matter; neither one can do the job alone. Each must be willing to accept many things about the other that he may not like, and each must also be willing to make reasonable changes. In other words, the two will have to agree between themselves on essentials and non-essentials, the non-essentials being the things to let alone and accept in each other, and the essentials being those in which changes should be made.

If it is purely a matter of the difference of background that is making my correspondent hesitate to accept this young man, and if she admires and respects him in all other ways, then some thoughtful talks between them might enable them to plan a basis for their marriage that would give it a good start and help keep it going smoothly.

There is one thing in the letter, however, that I think she should consider as even more important, perhaps than the matter of the different backgrounds. That is what she says about the young man acting "much younger" than herself. If his whole point of view is less mature than her own, it might make it more difficult for them to get together on an agreement of the sort I have just been talking about.

In any event, she should tell this chap exactly how she feels about the matter, tactfully of course, and then let herself be guided by his reaction.

The Trim Town Coat



Sand wool topper with fur trim.

By VERA WINSTON

THE BULKY back-flared coat is at its best for utilitarian or travel purposes. For town wear the trim coat still reigns triumphant, using the safe formula of the snug bodice and full, flared skirt. Sand colored wool is used for this nicely detailed coat which is double-breasted with self-covered buttons. It has a full skirt below a slim waist, with most of the flare concentrated in the back. The collar and pocket flaps of black Persian offer just enough fur for a dressup touch.

Fashion Flashes

ALL OR NOTHING seems to be the formula for the fashion line. Either the silhouette is as slim as a reed, or it is very bouffant. Either an evening gown is very decollete and, of course, strapless, or else it is made with a high neck and long sleeves. But all skirts are longer, no doubt about that.

PERFECT to wear with an all-black costume is a hat made entirely of white processed lamb. Beautifully draped, the brim is softly curved and contoured. With it, a matching ascot of the fur.

UNADORNED dresses are scoring heavily, relying for their smart success upon fine lines and good handling of good fabrics. Black silk faille crepe is used for a handsome frock, cut on very slim lines with bodice and sleeve fullness caught into narrow self-banding at the armhole. The folds are repeated across the skirt, where they merge into a centre-seamed, inverted, V-shaped panel.

A BIG HIT with the college and career girl is the fur coat with its own detachable fur hood. A mink blended muskrat coat—with full rippled back and parachute sleeves above bracelet cuffs—has a generous fur hood tied with brown satin ribbons.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

For a Clear Complexion, Drink Plenty of Water

Be a water baby! Down your six glasses of water every day. A famous beautician says that half the ills to which the skin and hair succumb are due to lack of water in the system.

Water is oil to the human machine. It moistens tissues, dilutes various fluids produced in the body, regulates temperature, aids in the formation of digestive juices, helps the blood to carry groceries to every little cell, assists the organs of elimination.

A large part of the human mechanism is composed of water. Just as a bath is refreshing to the body, so is water taken internally refreshing to the inner organs. But that is not the whole story. Water has a decided and favorable effect upon the complexion. Many a dry skin that drives a woman half frantic because powder goes on in patches and rouge blows away with the first breeze, will find that her trouble vanishes when she laps up plenty of water each day.

As water helps the blood streams to distribute nourishment, the thin sweetie, who would put on curves where they do the most good, should consider this suggestion.

The soft tissues of the face, like those all over the body, consist largely of fluids. They need water if they are to remain firm. The skin needs it if it is to function normally. Premature wrinkles may appear because tissues and skin have become arid.

Those whose tissues lack water look dried up," writes Dr. Charlotte C. West, in her interesting book, Ageless Youth. And they are dried up, for the various functions of the system are but feebly performed. The face is usually thin, shriveled or wrinkled. Those people lack the sparkle and transparency of clear water."

Stamp those words on your memory tablet. Don't fancy that that tea, coffee or ice cream sodas will take the place of water. Have them too, if you like, but down your five or six glasses a day—one upon arising, one between meals, one at bedtime and a couple of others for good beauty measure.

Victims of acne will benefit by the water-drinking habit because it helps to rid the system of waste products and keeps the tissues in a condition to offer resistance to invading germs.

We realize that, instead of following the rules of health and hygiene, the average young woman pins her faith to cosmetics. Cosmetics are all right, in their way, but they will accomplish little if the skin is not in a healthy condition.

The average young woman pins her faith to cosmetics.

Sells Meat On Fee Basis

Philadelphia, Nov. 26 (AP)—George Rookstool, 32 years old, a North Philadelphia butcher, guarantees to sell top-grade meat, poultry and eggs "at wholesale prices only" — and still stay in business. He is going to run his shop on a "service fee" basis.

The butcher said he would sign up 300 customers, sell them meat at wholesale—"that includes the best stakes at 50 cents pound," he says—and charge a blanket fee of $1.25 weekly per family.

If he gets 500 customers, he said the weekly fee would be cut to 75 cents.

Mr. Rookstool said the average butcher's markup was 35 per cent so "my plan assures a saving of 25 per cent monthly for each customer."

"The fees will pay my weekly costs of $225 and give me a reasonable salary," he explained.

Up to today 185 customers had signed up.

WOMAN ADMITS SLAYING

Grand Rapids, Minn., Nov. 26 — (AP). — Sheriff Marvin Mitchell said Monday a 2½-year-old Keewatin, Minn., girl had been slain with an ax and that a 31-year-old woman told him, "I'm sorry I did it."

VEL works magic!
CUTS DISHWASHING TIME 3 WAYS
VEL penetrates, cuts grease, loosens dirt faster.
VEL eliminates wiping... dishes, glasses gleam no streaky film to wipe away.
No dishpan ring with VEL ...no soap scum to scour away.

HERE'S ALL YOU DO...

Just put a few teaspoonfuls of VEL in your dishpan (about half as much as soap). Add water. VEL gives the water amazing new cleaning power that lasts long after suds dissolve. VEL removes grease faster, more completely than soap—in hardest water. Dishes, glasses sparkle without the touch of a towel. And VEL is milder to hands, free from soapy alkalis!

Makes hard water act soft
Cleans long after suds dissolve
Economical—try using half as much
Better even in cool water
Milder to hands

VEL makes water WETTER to clean all things BETTER

VEL keeps stockings sheerer, lovelier!

Says Claire Honeyford, Toronto. "My nylons stay lovelier longer now I wash them with gentle VEL. I put just a teaspoonful of VEL in the basin, add lukewarm water . . . dip and squeeze a few times, and VEL washes nylons and undies fresh and sheer as new . . . no dulling soap film".

Bandit Wounds Druggist While Staging Holdup

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 26 — (CP) — Police in the Windsor - Riverside district today searched for a masked, gun-carrying bandit who shot and robbed 32-year-old Arthur Charlton in his drug store here last night.

Charlton, an R. C. A. F. veteran who has operated the store for the last two years, is in hospital recovering from the shot which entered his chest just an inch above the heart, came out the right side and lodged in his right arm.

The bullet was removed last night and Charlton's condition was described today as fairly good.

The shooting occurred when Charlton apparently scoffed as the bandit pointed the gun at him and demanded his money. The bullet was fired from close range and its proximity to Charlton's heart suggested the bandit meant to kill.

Exact amount taken from the till of the store is not known although Charlton's wife, Daisy, who was in their apartment at the rear when the shooting occurred, said it was small.

Mrs. Charlton said she didn't give much thought to the loud bang she heard from the store. She thought it was a balloon exploding.

"Then I heard my husband say 'Don't do that again.' I ran out into the store and saw my husband bent over the counter beside the cash register and the masked man standing in front of him with a revolver in his hand.

"He looked at me then slowly turned around, walked to the door and disappeared into the street."

NEW JET FIGHTER PLANE IN FLIGHT

The U. S. air force's new jet-propelled fighter plane XP-86 is shown over the Mojave Desert on its first test flight. The plane, designed to probe the sonic speed realm features swept-back wings and tail assembly. The craft is expected to exceed 600 miles an hour under actual combat conditions. The XP-86 has wing span of 37 feet and an identical over-all-length. It has a range of more than 1,000 miles.

Strike Deadline Moved Ahead

Montreal, Nov. 26 —(CP)— Threat of a strike by seamen on Canada's ocean-going ships was postponed temporarily today as representatives of the Shipping Federation of Canada and the Canadian Seamen's Union (T.L.C.) continued negotiations in an attempt to settle the dispute in which the union demands shorter hours and a general wage increase.

C.S.U. President Harry Davis announced last night that the deadline for strike action by union men on 125 deep-sea ships has been postponed until Friday "in view of the fact that we have reached agreement with the shipowners on certain important matters."

The original strike deadline was set for midnight last night.

Beyond the union statement there was no further indication of progress made on the union's demands for shorter working hours in port and afloat and an overall wage boost of 15 cents an hour for all officers and men.

Mr. Justice D. A. McNiven of the Saskatchewan Supreme Court is presiding at the meetings.

In announcing the postponement, Davis said the additional extension of the 1947 contract had been made at the request of Mr. Justice McNiven.

Besides the crew members of all ocean-going ships, seamen on all government lighthouse and buoy tenders, as well as officers and radio operators, are asking the same concessions.

Salesman Takes Measurements and Police Take Him

Toronto, Nov. 26 —(CP)— Police took measures after the salesman took measurements and yesterday the salesman was arrested on a charge of indecent assault.

Police said a 32-year-old furniture salesman allegedly represented himself as an executive for an exclusive lingerie shop, advertised for a receptionist and then told the young lady who replied that he would have to take her measurements because she would wear exclusive gowns.

After the measuring the girl telephoned the lingerie shop and learned the man was unknown there. Yesterday the man asked for a new appointment and was arrested when Detective-Sergeant Fred Storm popped out of a closet in which he had hidden.

to make this possible.

In reference to the gas plant Mr. Rollins stated the utility commission should have acted on the recommendation of Mr. Storrie, of Gore and Storrie consulting engineers, who stated in a report of the plant in 1942 that the commission should go to the provincial department for relief.

In conclusion Mr. Rollins pointed to his long record as alderman and as mayor and urged voters to support good government throughout the entire slate.

A detailed picture of the city's financial condition was given by Alderman H. J. Clarke, who told of the reduction in the debenture debt which had been brought about mainly through sale of city owned lots and the resulting increased assessment. These lots had been sold with a one year building covenant and the assessment in five years had been increased one and a half millions.

Doubts Lower Rate

Referring to the mayor's statement that the tax rate could possibly be lowered next year Mr. Clarke doubted this could be done and pointed to certain increased expenditures in several departments. Then too, the operating loss of the gas plant would have to be levied for and this would serve to raise the tax rate.

Alderman Lazenby stated that he had gained considerable experience in his one year's term in council. He felt certain the tax rate would be increased next year and pointed to the three platoon system for the fire department which if adopted would cost another $25,000. Educational costs would be more while city employees would ask for more money. He claimed the gas plant should be closed as it was the wish of the ratepayers.

Fears Higher Rate

Alderman Jack Allin in asking for the support of the electors in Monday's election felt sure the tax rate next year would be increased as the city would be faced with what appeared to be an overdraft of from $35,000 to $40,000 on the current year's business.

Mr. Allin spoke of the hiring of Meadows and Critoph town planning engineers as being unnecessary expense and also referred to the Old Home Week deficit.

The speaker took exception to action of council in purchasing American made parking meters when Canadian made machines could have been purchased at $5,000 less money. Mr. Allin also charged that city council was composed of a clique which he termed "The Big Nine." These aldermen voted each other into chairmanships and otherwise supported each other. "Only three or four aldermen had the intestinal fortitude to vote against them," he said.

Strict Economy Needed

Alderman Fred Chamberlain stated he would support a program of strict economy cutting out all unnecessary expenditure during the coming year. During the industrial expansion the city would be going through a critical period which would call for expert guidance. Expenditure could easily be double or tripled when new sewers, sewage disposal and new schools were considered. A new fire hall, one for each side of the river, and new fire fighting equipment would be needed.

The alderman warned against mushroom growth and declared that expansion plans must be closely watched and budgets controlled thus cutting all unnecessary expense.

Points to Long Service

Alderman Harvey pointed to his long service record in city council. As chairman of public works he agreed that his budget had been overdrawn but declared that this had resulted from heavy snow removal costs which were uncontrollable. "City snowplows were doing a good job," he said.

Work of his department was outlined, he stated that four new main sewers were planned for next year while the weekly wage of his department was $1,000. He appreciated the co-operation he had received during the past year and assured that he had served honestly.

Alderman Charles Hyde stated he had tried to do city business in as careful a manner as he would conduct business of his own. If re-elected he would continue to do so.

The alderman spoke of his five years in council and of his previous experience on the Board of Education. He had served as chairman of market and city property and as chairman of public works and this year was chairman of the Children's Aid Society.

Alderman E. E. Follwell stated it was a pleasure to see the interest in the meeting shown by the public. "It was the best attended pre-election meeting that he had ever attended," he said. As chairman of tourist and publicity he had tried to spread the name of Belleville and felt certain that this city was favorably known throughout Canada and other parts of the world.

Arena in Sound Position

Alderman Claude D. Tice in seeking the support of the electors stated he was a member of the Arena committee and of the industrial commission. Both these bodies had served the city well.

As member of the Arena committee Mr. Tice stated the arena was proving a financial success as a city-owned and operated project. Since the arena had been taken over it had shown a net revenue of $5,000 as of September 30th, while the ice plant would cost the city no capital expenditure. The Industrial Commission had shown its value in bringing new industries to the city and was well worth while. The alderman claimed responsibility for the reopening of the Armouries laneway and stated also that he had started the school guard system which was now paying dividends in protection for school children in crossing intersections to and from schools.

Seeks Support

Alderman Newton Wilbur assured that he had given the city his best. He admitted he may have made a few mistakes but asserted this was only human. "If my stewardship during the past year has warranted your confidence then I solicit your support in Monday's election," he concluded.

Douglas Bews expressed his appreciation of the support afforded him by organized labor. He agreed with Mr. Storey that the city needed planning. The industrial commission should be directly under the control of council. He referred to the current industrial expansion of the city but doubted if the industrial commission had been greatly responsible. He intimated that the industrial expansion was possibly "just nature taking its course."

George Brown offered no criticism of council activity. He believed the city was in an era of progressive development and felt that the interest shown in the pre-election meeting by the ratepayers was a healthy sign.

"Belleville has great possibilities," he said. It had water, highway, rail and air transportation available.

Town Planning Needed

Town planning was needed and he felt that citizens should be made acquainted with what plans had been prepared by the town planning engineers. They should know what they are paying for. New industries mean that boys and girls would not have to go further afield to obtain gainful employment.

Arthur Cole stated his platform was one of decent low rental homes for veterans. "There has been opposition to subsidized homes for the veterans, but just who subsidized who?" he asked. He said the boys who served overseas should be honored and provided with decent low cost homes for their wives and families. "If you want people in decent homes, then elect me," he promised.

WILL SUE MEYERS

This photograph of Bleriot H. Lamarre, head of the Aviation Electric Company of Dayton, Ohio, embracing his pretty wife, Mildred, was made at their Dayton, Ohio, home. Mr. Lamarre appeared before the U. S. Senate Committee questioning General Bennett Meyers last week. As a result of testimony Meyers gave before the commitee concerning her, Mrs. Lamarre plans slander suit against the General although she did not disclose the amount of damages she would ask in her suit, sources set the figure at $500,000.

Two-Year Term Opposed

Arthur Keegan declared a town plan was needed. First the city should know where it was going and then go there. He felt that the city hall engineering staff could draw up a satisfactory plan providing they had the time available.

The speaker did not favor the two-year term of office for council, and stated the setup should be changed to provide for a board of control with two members from each ward in the city. Speaking of the industrial expansion he referred to what this meant in new sewers. He supported low rental housing.

Harry Knott offered a platform of sound business administration declaring that the city taxes should be spent just as wisely as in private business with every cent accounted for. "The city is big business and should be run as such," he stated.

The housing question demanded action not words, he went on. No one man could say he would do this or that. If elected he would do the best he could for the citizens.

Speaks of Work

Everett Liddle spoke of his work as veterans' officer in the city and stated he was making no rash promises but if elected would approve of measure which would benefit the city. He felt the travelling expenses of out-of-town city delegations should be pared to the minimum. He congratulated city officials on the industrial expansion stating this would mean added population and more houses.

He would support a square deal in low rental housing for the veteran and stated to bring this about would require full co-operation of both provincial and Dominion governments.

Orliff "Boiler" Lloyd stated he had always taken a keen interest in civic affairs although this was the first time he had offered himself for public office. If elected he promised to serve to the best of his ability.

Promises Support

Uriah "Sandy" Lummiss promised his wholehearted support for all measures which would benefit the city and its residents. He urged all to exercise their franchise at the civic elections on Monday.

Thomas Rees, chairman of the local Trades and Labor Council outlined a platform calling for re-assessment of the city. "Present assessment was unfair to many ratepayers," he stated. If elected he would also work for a guaranteed minimum pay for all civic employees which would afford them a decent standard of living as well as provision for a retirement fund.

Frank "Duke" Smith stated he had been a ratepayer for many years and as a businessman solicited the support of the taxpayers. He spoke of the current housing shortage but stated that talk alone would not alleviate this problem, it was action which was needed. He cited Trenton as an example of what could be done in obtaining housing. This centre had underway 210 Wartime Housing units. Belleville, he declared, needed a similar project. "If such a project is good enough for other centres, then it is good enough for Belleville," he said.

BETTY IN LONDON

Betty White, 16-year-old Winnipeg schoolgirl who sent Princess Elizabeth a pair of nylons when they were scarce, is shown in London as she gets directions before starting out on a sight-seeing tour. Betty, invited to a reception at St. James' Palace, arrived there too late but makes up her disappointment by seeing as much of London as possible.

"Now was the time to prepare for industrial expansion," he said. If elected he would work for additional housing accommodation and satisfactory labor conditions in the city.

Two aspirants for aldermanic honors, Mr. Jeuel Bentley and Isaac Stephenson, were not present at the meeting. Following addresses by the various candidates the meeting was thrown open for a brief question and answer period at which time several questions pertaining to the city's financial standing were asked from the audience.

Trenton

Trenton (Special) — Winter, a bit later than usual this year, put in an appearance on Monday and the appearance of the Trenton Golf Course, which a short time ago was looking its best in the bright Autumn sunshine, has changed considerably. Today the slopes are covered with snow and flecks of grey and white clouds are moving sedately across a winter sky towards the Murray Hills in the distance. Snow and slush on the streets and highways is making traffic hazardous.

Dr. B. M. Woods, has purchased the Jack Rogers residence in Frankford, Ontario, through Frank Barry, Realtor of Trenton. This home was formerly owned by Jack's grandfather, Dr. J. U. Simmons. Dr. Woods has seen service in the Navy and for the past two years has been assisting Dr. Donald H. Stewart in Hamilton. Doctor and Mrs. Woods will take up residence in Frankford on Dec. 1st.

Nominations for mayor, councillors, public school trustees and members of the Public Utilities Commission will be held in the town Hall on Friday, November 28th.

Santa Claus will visit Trenton on December 20th. This has been announced by the Trenton Kinsmen Club under whose auspices the visit has been arranged. There will be a parade of floats, distribution of treats to little folks of Trenton and district at a free show in a local theatre and Santa will be officially welcomed by Mayor Ken Couch at the Post Office.

New Symphony By Young Artist To be Broadcast

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, Nov. 26 (CP)— Music lovers will hear tonight the world premiere of "From Sea to Sea," a symphonic suite descriptive of Canada by Montreal's youthful composer, Alexander Brott.

The broadcast, at 9 p.m. over the National Network of the CBC will be transmitted to South America by the CBC International Service, which commissioned the work.

The composer will conduct the CBC Montreal orchestra of 65 musicians and commentaries will be heard in English French and Spanish. "Esquisse for Orchestra" by Jean Morel, 20-year-old student of the Quebec Conservatory of Music in Montreal, will complete the program.

The performance will be recorded and transmitted separately to Mexico as a Canadian tribute to the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, now in session. Later, it will be used for overseas broadcasts.

Composed in Four Months

The 45-minute work was composed in four months, mostly while Mr. Brott was vacationing in the Laurentians. His inspirations were published and unpublished folklore researches, documentary films, Canadian paintings, and the geographical sights of Canada.

"In writing a symphonic suite about the five main regions of Canada, I have taken into account the ethnic, geographic and spiritual factors predominate in each territory," said the composer. It explained his use of a large variety of instruments in producing sound effects "descriptive of our polyglot country."

"My aim was to make this music represent as closely as possible the particular contribution made by each area to this grand Canadian panorama," he explained. "The suite employs no special compositional technique, but depends almost entirely on its direct emotional appeal."

„From Sea to Sea is a five-movement suite descriptive of the Maritimes, Quebec, Ontario, the Prairies and British Columbia, respectively.

Mr. Brott described the Maritimes movement as "the impression of a people completely conditioned by their seaside environment, struggling against the elements which forever dominate their lives."

The Quebec movement "attempts to picture the fundamentally devout French-speaking Canadian, resolute in his Catholicisms, identified with his land, yet withal a carefree, fun-loving individual."

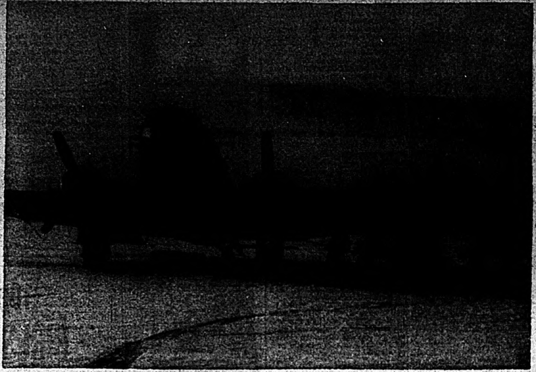
The popular song "Alouette" is used during the second theme, as background music for the bass instruments.

"Aggressive" For Ontario

Ontario, Mr. Brott said, is "pleasantly aggressive" and reminiscent of a "quiet, rural English countryside." But it also takes an industrialized, mechanical air" becoming "pushing, boisterous and slowly rugged as though it journeyed northward into the mining and bush lands."

Because the Prairies has been described as the "bread basket of the world," the composer said he attempted to describe the cycle of planting and harvesting. The wind, the sun and the rain are the contrasting elements used to create a climax.

Mountains and the sea inspired British Columbia, the concluding movement. Mr. Brott said the main theme echoed "an alpine statement as though the very peaks of the Rockies were shouting and replying to each other." The movement also uses a Haida war dance derived from the Indian tom-tom.



The crew of the big RCAF Dakota that brought the gravely wounded missionary out to Winnipeg is seen manhandling the aircraft on the bleak ice of Moffet Inlet. The successful flight to civilization ended one of the most dramatic rescues in the annals of the Arctic. Wounded by the accidental discharge of a .22-calibre rifle, the missionary was brought out Saturday after seven weeks of effort on the part of a combined RCAF-Army team. Paratroopers, including an army doctor, were dropped to the isolated mission post on Oct. 4 last, but the plane could not land until Saturday because of ice conditions.

Pensioner Slays Doctor, Self

Dr. Murray R. Bowie, medical examiner for the Canadian Pensions Commission, seen above with his wife, was shot and killed in his Ottawa office yesterday by a First Great War pensioner, who then killed himself.

The wounded missionary is seen aboard the aircraft during the 1,700-mile flight from Moffet Inlet to Winnipeg. Although still seriously ill, Canon Turner is waging a strong fight for recovery in a Winnipeg hospital.

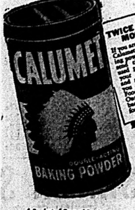
"So Tender, So Delicious-- That's Calumet's Double Action"

TENDER cakes, little cakes and cookies . . . light, even-textured muffins and batter puddings — that's the story when you use Calumet Baking Powder! And consistently fine results with Calumet will make you join the thousands of Canadian women who, once trying Calumet, will use no other baking powder.

Calumet protects baking from start to finish. In the mixing bowl, myriads of little bubbles form when liquid is added. In the oven, thousands more tiny, even-sized bubbles are released to continue raising the mixture, holding it high, light and even. Follow directions on the tin for any recipe.



TWICE YOUR MONEY BACK
If you are not satisfied that Calumet is the finest baking powder you ever used, send tin containing unused portion, along with your name and address and a note of the price you paid — to General Foods, Limited, Cobourg, Ontario. You will receive back twice what you paid for Calumet.

SO FRUITY, SO DELICIOUS—
DATE BARS
- 1 cup sifted flour
- 1 teaspoon Calumet Baking Powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 eggs, well beaten
- 1 tablespoon melted butter
- 2 cups finely cut dates
- ½ cup broken nutmeats
- 1 tablespoon hot water

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt; sift again. Add sugar gradually to eggs, beating well. Add butter; then dates and nuts. Mix thoroughly. Add flour, alternately with water, mixing well. Bake in two greased pans, 8 x 8 x 2 inches, in slow oven (325°F.) 30 to 35 minutes. Cool. Cut in bars. Makes 48.

Premier Drew Asks Co-operation From Ottawa

Ottawa, Nov. 26 — (CP) — A call for establishment of a co-ordinating committee of all governments to provide a constant exchange of views of ideas on matters of common concern between the provinces and the dominion and thus avoid "chaotic conditions," was reiterated here last night by Premier Drew.

In an address to a dinner meeting of the Carleton County Federation of Agriculture, Mr. Drew said his government held the view that in dealing with agricultural and other problems there should be joint co-operation between the Dominion and all the provincial governments and close association with all farm organizations in the country.

The chief difficulty confronting agriculture in Ontario today was the uncertainty of the immediate and distant future as to farm products. Ontario farmers were liquidating their livestock because of this uncertainty which was partly due to removal of price ceilings on feed grains and retention of ceilings on finished farm products.

In an interview prior to his address, the premier indicated his belief that Ontario eventually would reach agreement with the Dominion, saying he did not think "the veto will persist forever either at Ottawa or Lake Success."

Mr. Drew also brushed aside talk of an early provincial election or that he might succeed John Bracken as national leader of the Progressive Conservative party. But he had a lot to say about the Dominion's new dollar-saving program, terming it "economic insanity."

"What has happened (in Ottawa) during the past week should remove any doubt that we had the best reasons for refusing to submit to the arbitrary terms put forward by the Dominion and by so doing, place Ontario's economy in the hands of an irresponsible 'brain trust.'

"We are now seeing the disastrous results of plain economic lunacy."

Truman Commutes Curley's Sentence

Washington, Nov. 26 — (AP)— President Truman today commuted the federal mail fraud sentence of Mayor James M. Curley of Boston, providing for his release today from the Federal Correctional Institution at Danbury, Conn.

The commutation provides that Curley's sentence has been completed with the five months he has served of a six- to 18-month sentence on a mail fraud conviction.

Truman also commuted the sentence of Donald Smith, a former member of the National Labor Relations Board, convicted on the same charge. Smith had been sentenced to a term of from four months to one year and a day.

Curley and Smith began their sentences last June 26. Curley would have been eligible for parole Dec. 26. Smith became eligible last Oct. 26.

Ross said medical officers informed the Department of Justice that the 73-year-old Curley is suffering from an acute heart condition and has diabetes.

City of Oshawa Returns Slate Without Contest

(By The Canadian Press)

Public utilities commissioners went into office by acclamation in every instance as 23 Western Ontario municipalities last night qualified candidates for civic elections early in December.

Wholesale acclamations were the rule in more than 100 centres. Two mayors and two deputy reeves went into office without a vote and half the councils were acclaimed. The city of Oshawa for the first time in history, returned a full slate without a contest for any office.

In Goderich, George MacEwan took over the mayoralty without a fight and Duncan Kennedy started his first term in Wingham.

Question Suspect In Armed Robbery

Toronto, Nov. 26 (CP) —Police today held a suspect for questioning in the armed robbery of Harry Baker, 37, radio company employee of Spring Valley, Ancaster, Ont., who said that a man armed with two rervolvers forced him to drive from Hamilton to Toronto and robbed him of $12.

Baker told police that the young bandit, blonde and about 28 boasted to him during the drive that he had ridden 1,000 miles by automobile across Canada, holding up the drivers and forcing them to transport him to various destinations. Throughout the 42-mile journey from Hamilton the bandit held a revolver to Baker's side.

Santa Claus Parade Saturday

Picton, Nov. 26 — (Special) — When Santa Claus comes to Picton on Saturday, he will travel by plane, jeep and truck if there is not sufficient snow for a sleigh. He will arrive by plane at Picton Air Station and be transported in a jeep to the village of Bloomfield where the parade will form at one o'clock. For the trip to Picton, and to the armouries where he will meet and treat the kiddies, he will ride in either sleigh or on a truck converted into a colorful float.

The parade is expected to exceed that of last year when a record crowd of 15,000 jammed the town to witness a parade two miles long. This year it is hoped to have the parade three miles long with more than one hundred persons in imported costumes, as well as two bands, many floats, ponies, decorated bicycles, and other attractions.

The parade is sponsored by the Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce and is under the chairmanship of Philip Dodds with Don Thomas as assistant.

Hall Is Project

With a memorial hall as a project for the coming year, Post 178 of the Canadian Legion here held an enthusiastic annual meeting. It was decided to investigate a plan for securing a hall in a building now being erected here. D. P. Pyke was elected as president to succeed Col. Gerald Allison. Mayor Lance Nethery and Barton Reid were named vice-presidents with Bernard Hogan as recording secretary and Howard Seeley, financial secretary. Executive members are Sheriff H. J. Colliver, Douglas Caley, Vincent Gentile, Arthur Miller, Dr. G. Allison and Woodrow Blakely. George Hepburn is sergeant-at-arms,; W. Jones, standard bearer and C. Martin, flag bearer.

Activities planned for the winter months include a minstrel show, a Christmas party for veterans and their families and other entertainment.

Driver Escapes Injury

A new Ford sedan was badly wrecked when it went over a ten-foot embankment, ten miles east of Picton, on Monday. Driver of the car was Mac MacDonald who escaped injury. Miss Barbara Wensley suffered a cracked rib and bruises. George Hepburn was severely bruised but an X-ray revealed that no bones had been broken. The accident occurred on a sharp turn in the road.

Gnr. Torbey, a member of the R.C.A. here suffered nine broken ribs when crushed between two trucks. He had jumped to the ground from an army vehicle before it had stopped. The vehicle made a turn to the right in order to park and Torbey was pinned between it and another parked truck. He was removed with difficulty. After treatment at the local hospital he was taken to Kingston for attention.

Morley Ackerman escaped injury during the snow storm on Monday, when his taxi left the road west of Bloomfield. It struck a tree.

Police Arrest Two Suspects

Riverside, Ont., Nov. 26—(CP) — Two men, whom police declined to name, are being held today for investigation following a search for a masked, gun-carrying bandit who shot and robbed 32-year-old Arthur Charlton of $40 in his drug store here last night.

Police said both men generally fit the meagre description given by Charlton and his wife, who saw the gunman strole nonchalantly from the store after firing the shot.

Automobile Blasted By Dynamite Under Front Seat

Detroit, Nov. 26 (CP). — An automobile owned by Ray Dooe, business agent for striking C.I.O. garage mechanics, was blasted today by a charge of dynamite apparently placed under the front seat. The car was empty at the time.

The explosion occurred in the same lot where Dooe reported he found a stick of dynamite and a charred fuse in his car Sept. 15. Dooe also had reported his car was riddled by a shotgun blast as he parked it Oct. 7.

Dooe is representative of workers who have been striking for higher wages at Detroit auto dealers for more than three months.

ARRIVES FOR BIG FOUR MINISTERS CONFAB

U. S. Secretary of State George C. Marshall is grim-faced as he walks away from the plane after alighting at Northolt airport. He is being followed by reporters who seem to be getting a big silence from the American representative to the Big Four foreign ministers conference which opened in London yesterday. At the extreme right, with head down, is Lewis Douglas, American ambassador to the court of St. James. The conference is called to obtain a sound basis for agreement with Russia on the Austrian and German problems. Marshall is said to be determined not to permit this conference to develop into a verbal diplomatic cockpit for the benefit of Soviet propaganda.

Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotof is shown leaving the plane that carried him from Moscow to Berlin and then London. Molotov is in the British capital for the Big Four conference on Germany and Austria. He stopped in Berlin to confer with Marshall Sokolovsky, Russian commander in Germany.

Nominations

Picton (Special) — When time for qualifying closed last night, it was revealed that there will be 3 municipal election contests in Prince Edward County next Monday. This is the smallest number in many years. In Hallowell township Reeve Sherman McQuaid is opposed by Deputy Reeve D. O. Reynolds. Councillor Donald Hefferman and Lee Allison seek the deputy reeveship. Councillors, by acclamation, are William Armstrong, Arthur Hyatt and Clifford Wilkes.

In Hillier township, Reeve Jack Taylor and William H. Morton are contesting the reeveship. There is also a contest for the reeveship of Sophiasburgh township between Reeve Clarence Allison and a former Warden Jack K. Welsh. Councillors, by acclamation, are Blake Richards, Ernest Edwards, Arthur McDermald and Roy Covert.

Other acclamations include the following:

Wellington — Reeve James A. Clemismon; Councillors W.D. Wilson, Clare Platt, Leonard McLennan and J. P. Johnson. J. H. Rutter is Utilities Commissioner.

North Marysburgh township — Reeve, Calvin Hughes; councillors Harry Hicks, George Andres, Arthur Holland, Roy Storms.

WILL USE DETECTORS TO TRY TO FIND BODY

Sault Ste. Marie, Nov. 26 — (CP) —Provincial Police today decided to use wartime mine detectors in an effort to locate the body of Rod Masson, Korah township hunter who has been missing in the Trout Lake area since November 7. No hope is held that he will be found alive.

In the hope that the detectors might locate Masson's rifle, watch or some other metal article, police appealed through the Canadian Legion for war veterans with mine detector experience to operate the equipment.

The modern windmill and the tall drilling derrick now share the skyline in the Leduc oil field in rich farming area 18 miles south of Edmonton. A royalty of one barrel in eight or 12½% is paid to owners of mineral rights. In many cases in Alberta, farmers do not own mineral rights, because the Alberta Government, the Hudson's Bay Co., the railways and other owners normally sell surface rights only. A few farmers, where land was homesteaded early in the West's development, own both. Drilling (right) is hard, fast, precise work.

Canon Turner Puts Up Strong Fight to Recover

Winnipeg, Nov. 26 — (CP) — Canon John H. Turner — now a shadow of his former 234 pounds — is waging a strong fight towards recovery today despite a doctors' report that the Arctic ill."

The report also showed the canmissionary was "very seriously on — now weighing 169 pounds — had developed a meningitis infection through the nose as a result of an accidental bullet wound in his head, received in September at his isolated mission post 400 miles within the Arctic Circle and 1,700 miles north of Winnipeg.

The surgeon attending Canon Turner said that Capt. Ross Willoughby, army paratroop doctor who treated the canon for seven weeks before he was flown to Winnipeg Saturday, earlier diagnosed the possibility of the presence of meningitis and had taken steps to prevent it with sulfa drugs and penicillin.

"It is amazing he has lasted as long as he has," said Dr. S. Waugh of Winnipeg, following the canon's arrival in hospital here.

The bullet, which entered through the missionary's nose, caused a compound fracture at the base of the skull, allowing germs from the nose and air passages to get at the base of the skull and brain. Doctors expressed surprise that meningitis had not developed sooner.

They said no operation would be made to take out the bullet, shattered in "so many small fragments that it would be like trying to find needles in a haystack."

Trestle Blown Down Kills N. S. Miner

Sydney Mines, N. S., Nov. 26—(CP) — One miner was killed Tuesday and three others seriously injured when a 65-mile-an-hour gale screaming across Cape Breton Island tore down the trestle of the Florence colliery bankhead near here.

Dead is George Carey, 39. Names of the three injured were not immediately available. They were brought to hospital here.

Lashing rain accompanied the gale winds and all vessels took shelter. Trees were ripped up in and telegraph communications were disrupted.

Must Build Church With One Hand, Fight Its Foes With Other

London, Ont., Nov. 26 — (CP) — Archbishop George Frederick Kingston, Primate of the Church of England in Canada, said here Monday night that "men are suggesting all sorts of foundations for human society, but only the Church of God stands for the presentation of the truth."

"We must build that foundation with one hand and fight off its enemies with the other," he added at a ceremony re-dedicating St. Paul's Cathedral following its of an accidental bullet would in

He warned some 60 clergy from all sections of the Diocese of Huron and an overflow congregation that the Church of England was beset by enemies against whom they must fight.

At an informal reception in Bishop Cronyn Hall, Archbishop Kingston received the freedom of the city of London.

Sentenced for Escape From Penitentiary

Kingston, Nov. 26 — (CP) — William Russell, 21-year-old Collins Bay penitentiary prisoner who escaped Oct. 7 and was at large for almost 24 hours before being spotted at Napanee, Monday in county magistrate's court pleaded guilty to charges of escaping and being unlawfully at large. He was sentenced on each count to four months concurrent in Kingston penitentiary at expiration of his six-year armed robbery term.

"There was no violence used in this escape," said Magistrate J.B. Garvin on passing sentence, "but the punishment must be such as to act as a deterrent to others and at the same time such that will not harden you against society or the institution in which you are confined . . ."

Foreign Secretary Bevin Visits Prime Minister

London, Nov. 26 — (CP)—Foreign Secretary Bevin, carrying a leather brief case stuffed with papers, visited Canada's Prime Minister Mackenzie King in his hotel suite Tuesday to continue talks on international questions following Monday's meeting between cabinet members, the Canadian leader and the South African premier, Gen. Smuts.

Bevin, Molotov In 'Very Friendly' Meeting

London, Nov. 26 — (AP)—An official British source said Tuesday that Foreign-Secretary Bevin and American Foreign Minister Molotov had a "very friendly" meeting last night and agreed that unanimity in the Big Four meeting today is of "the very highest importance" to the future of the world.

They are seeking, with State Secretary Marshall of the United States and French Foreign Minister Bidault, to settle the future of Germany and Austria.

The informant said Bevin's line in the conference "can be expected to be more moderate" than Marshall's. Bevin and Marshall also met Monday night.

British security officers surrounded Lancaster House, where the council of foreign ministers will sit. Every visitor and passerby was watched closely or questioned.

Molotov called formally on Bevin. The informant said "the two foreign ministers agreed in their feeling that the council of foreign ministers was of the very highest importance not only to the future of Austria and Germany, but also to Europe and the world."

Point Anne Edges Hornets; Trenton Takes Campbellford In Wide-Open Hockey Games

Ox Pointers Surprise Wasps With 9-8 Win While Campbellford Fades in Third Period to Lose by 7-4 Count

Wide-open hockey with all four teams going all out for goals featured the Belleville District Hockey Association twin bill at Memorial Arena last night when the Point Anne squad surprised the Belleville Hornets and their supporters with a 9-8 victory, while Trenton Hockey Club bested the Campbellford team with a four-goal third period splurge to cop an otherwise close contest by a 7-4 count.

Point Anne 9, Hornets 8

Pat Maracle's goal with but thirty seconds to go in the third period gave a fighting Point Anne squad its first victory of the season after the Hornets had pulled up to an even keel after being down three goals at the beginning of the heat.

Maracle's goal climaxed one of the best games of the loop season, a battle that saw the score tied five times with the Pointers taking the lead four times and the Hornets twice. The Point secured the services og goalkeeper Berry at the last minute and he turned in a good job with Plumley, Hornets' goalie, standing out with spectacular saves from the speedy Point forwards.

It was a ding-dong battle from start to finish with Hornets driving hard in the third period to successfully cut down an 8-5 score only to have the final Point dash culminate successfully and give the Green gang the nod.

Hornets Open Scoring

Hornets opened the scoring at the three-minute mark in the first period but the Pointers came back with two to give them the lead. Doug. Day and Huck Reeves slammed home two more to give the Wasps a one-goal lead at the end of the heat.

Everett tied the count at the beginning of the second period but Greatrix got that one back a minute later. The Point grabbed a one goal lead when Horwood scored twice in succession and Huck Reeves scored his second goal of the night to even the score at 5-all. The Green boys took over at this point and dunked the rubber three times to give them an 8-5 lead going into the final period.

Hornets fought back desperately going into the last frame and Huck Reeves scored his third and fourth goals of the night, and assisting in the third Hornet goal, of the chukker with Wardhaugh scoring to knot the count at eight-all. With thirty seconds to go Pat Maracle broke loose with Art Genereaux and drove the biscuit home for the money-goal.

Horwood led the Point scorers with three goals and an assist. Clare Williamson, one of the best men on the ice got a goal and two helpings. Other Point standouts were Everett, Green, T. Gilmour, Houle and Lorne Maracle. Berry played a bang-up game in the net.

"Huck" Reeves established a league record with four goals and two assists with Doug Day getting one and two. Johnny Semark stood out with some good work while Jerry Moher, Greatrix, Yorke and Longhurst did a fine job in a close hard-checking game. Plumley, in the nets kicked out a lot of rubber, and deserved a better fate.
